

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. NEKROPOLIS.

BY W. HARVEY MCNAIRN, Toronto, '99.

(Written in Hamilton College burial-ground.)

Here on the hill
Are gathered side by side the honored dead,
Who in past years had championed truth, until Their day had sped.

After the years,
When day by day their toil had ever been
To search for truth and finding, seek the ears
Of Clinton's men:

After the toil,
The endless toil; and, as their heads grew white,
The weariness; beneath the dewy soil
They face the night.

On every hand,
The venerable halls they loved so well
Amid their elms and soft deep grasses stand,
And that same bell,

Which as of old,
Still marks the ceaseless flight of hours that sped,
To add their sum to all that now have rolled Across their bed;

And far away,
Are those green hills, that at the break of morn,
Thus touched with gold, reflect the earliest ray
Of day new-born.

And so here lies
The dust of those great teachers, silently
Awaiting the first gold of that sunrise
Which ushers day.

THE HAMILTON CONVENTION.

By BYRON REED, Union, '06.

ENJOY the convention? Well, rather. I'd rather have been there than "to have held Teddy Roosevelt's hat for five minutes in fever-stricken New Orleans the other day," as our toastmaster put it. What left the strongest impression on you? The banquet? The theatre? Not so here. I'll forget them in time. Two figures form the prominent features in Delta Upsilon's Seventy-first Convention, Ridgway and KK's representative, Corrigan. Do you agree?

Well, to begin, Wednesday evening we were warmly welcomed at the station by Hamilton representatives and registered at the Bagg's hotel, where we began at once to get acquainted with men from all over. After a welcome supper, an informal smoker was held in the dining room, where everyone met everybody else and said the same thing over with variations, while the double quartette did their level best to get our wandering attention. However, we did applaud conscientiously, whether we'd listened or not. After a while Brother Goldsmith mounted a chair, and stooping to avoid the ceiling, announced in a really serious tone that the business session would begin at nine sharp, not ten minutes past.

After a good sleep and a breakfast which tasted good when we got it—for if anticipation is the truest pleasure, our most pleasurable hours were spent in Bagg's dining-room—we hastened up Genesee street to the hall, in order to be in time for the nine o'clock session. The Executive Council arrived at about a quarter of ten, and the first business session was opened. Don't let's dwell on the details, other than to mention the exceptionally good address of welcome, and the fine report of the Executive Council, which showed a vast amount of work done during the past year. Of course we forgot to bring our credentials. Did you?

After adjournment, luncheon was in order at the hotel and we began to feel really acquainted with each other and almost able to tell where most of the men came from. The second business session was more exciting. Most of the amendments were railroaded through in short order, but when it was argued that because we could not adequately pay the Secretary of the Executive Council, we ought to reduce his present salary by two-thirds, we kicked. Then Brothers Penfield and Crossett had an interesting little tilt over an unimportant amendment, and as a result, it was tabled. When the amendments were attended to, the Columbia senior delegate started the ball rolling by suggesting something, which he was "certain would be put through," in the shape of a fraternity hat-band. I've forgotten the exact design, but, at any rate, Rutgers began the opposition by considering it "too trivial a matter" to be discussed. Columbia wondered whether a hat-band was any more trivial than the whistle, considered last year. Alas! It received the same treatment as the sweet little whistle. Cheer up, Columbia. It ought to be mentioned that Minnesota Alumni's representative was instructed to vote "no" to everything, willy-nilly. He was faithful unto death.

After supper we went to the Majestic and occupied the entire front half of the house. Williams, from a lofty box, seemed to enjoy the performance as well as the rabble below. Marie! Marie! Marie Marie! Decked out with gold and blue ribbons, the sweet-voiced, unaffected little star left a good impression. Her songs, catchy and cute, were taken up and sung with a will by the fellows. During the intermission we had a house-warming of our own—sang and yelled, finally hunting up a delegate to pound the box, rising to a man, and making the welkin ring with the Fraternity Ode. The rest of the audience clapped enthusiastically. After the theatre, we went home to bed, of course.

At about ten-thirty Friday morning, the last business session opened. The delegates from KK of Illinois were brought in. Corrigan, in a plain, able, honorable speech, with no attempt at "frills," took the convention off its feet, and precipitated a tempest of applause. After they had retired, Michigan, Wisconsin and others endorsed them. The delegates of one chapter asked for an informal ballot; it was one long "Aye." Amidst a terrific uproar they disregarded instructions and made the formal ballot unanimous. What a reception there was when Corrigan and his two companions came in. With a few simple words he expressed their thanks and a ripple of laughter greeted the inspiration of Brother Harris, who furnished the new pledge buttons which were put on the Illinois men by Brother Norton. Another incident to be remembered was Minnesota's suggestion that the pin be worn only on the vest. Someone asked plaintively, "Sposin' I hain't got no vest on?" Minnesota rejoined that out there they usually wear something, and the matter was tabled. Brother Goldsmith, thinking that his amendment in regard to alumni subscribing to the "Quarterly" had been passed too hastily, moved to reconsider it. Everybody except Harvard thought that it was O. K., and ought to stand, so we turned down his motion in order to uphold his amendment. By the way, you didn't second any motions, did you, Northwestern or Lehigh, or California?

After this session we congregated on the Post Office steps and were taken by "the man behind the tripod." Chicago led the singing and Michigan Junior the mashing. After the suspense was over, we hurried to the hotel, fed, and took the trolley to Clinton.

The time on the way up was spent in singing and listening. When we reached Clinton, we were transferred to hacks and conveyed to Hamilton's beautiful campus. After wandering about the grounds, we gathered in the Chapel to hear the Literary Exercises. The history was really exciting, and when the dear old white-headed, snowy-bearded first President of the Hamilton Chapter, Waldo, of 1848, was brought forward, there were misty eyes in the audience.

And then, Ridgway. After declaring himself a plain business man, and no orator, he held the whole crowd spell-bound for twenty-five minutes in what was the truest type of "oration" ever heard at a convention. Original thought of high order, fearlessly, clearly, and grandly expressed, such was Ridgway's speech. Weren't you glad you were a Delta U. after hearing him?

After the exercises we went down to Hamilton's fine chapter house and regaled ourselves on doughnuts and cider. Yum, yum! And then, back to Utica. Something was the matter with the "juice" on the way back but with such a forcible, magnetic crowd, the cars couldn't entirely stop, and we used personal magnetism, and hot air to help us on.

"Presto chango!" and we were in dress suits, seated around beautifully decorated tables at the banquet. Songs, and yells, and yells and songs, filled in between mouthfuls and courses. After finishing the feeding process we hurried around, getting autographs. Wonder if I got yours?

Wasn't the toastmaster a corker? Seems to me it's a crime to wait until a man's filled up and then make him laugh until he's sore. Just one bit of repartee ought to be recalled. Brother Blair, Toastmaster, referred to Methusaleh and the other ancients, who, despite their long lives, seemed worthy of record chiefly because they begat someone else. "How much we might accomplish if we could but live a few hundred years," he said. In his speech a little later President Stryker of Hamilton referred to "Toastmaster Blair lamenting that he had not as many children as Methusaleh."

Toastmaster Blair (interrupting): "I shall invest in an incubator at once."

President Stryker: "Well, you've been laying for me all the evening."

Brother Ridgway closed the toast list with a short and able speech, and after the report of the Committee on Resolutions had been adopted, we adjourned and "Goodbyes" were in order.

VALE.

The banquet's o'er, the play is done,
The faces fade, the voices gone;
The days of mirth, so loth to last
Have joined the dreamland of the past.
But Inspiration cannot die,
And graven deep in Mem'ry lie
The stalwart forms, the ringing cheer;
The songs, still faintly sweet, we hear;

The hand with hand-clasp still a-tingle,
The clean-cut faces still commingle,
Reminders dear of God-sent food;
A taste of glorious brotherhood.

THE TROLLEY TRIP.

THAT was a great scheme to corral us for the Literary Exercises. No one wanted to miss the trolley ride to Clinton, and after we had heard that interesting history by Brother Powell, touching on the early days of the Hamilton chapter, and that inspiring oration by Brother Ridgway, no one was sorry he came. Will you ever forget that oration?

The trolley trip back was better than the trip down. The "Quarterly" should have had a reporter on each car instead of only one. What did it matter that the load was a little heavy for the current? When someone remarked. "This car must be run by milk!" who was inspired to add: "and the heifer's lost!"? "Tammany" was responsible for some great parodies. The "gasolene" chorus was very pat. Here's another:

Utica, Utica
First we loaf for half an hour,
Then we have to stop for power,
Utica, Utica
Blank it, blank it, late for banquet, Utica.

Brother Ridgway was embalmed in verse and song to the air of "Lydia Pinkham" thus:

We will sing of Erman Ridgway
And that wonderful speech of his,
How he put it all over the ladies
Because they are no good for biz.

And then we reached Utica and it was a grand rush into the starched breast plates that made all fraternity men look alike to President Stryker at the banquet.

THE CONVENTION BANQUET.

REALLY we did not expect such a good banquet. The program (as corrected) did not tell us all that was to come. We didn't know all of the speakers very well until afterward. But we knew then what we would have missed if we hadn't been lucky enough to be there.

TOASTS

TOASTMASTER.

ALBERT L. BLAIR, Hamilton, '72.

Invocation.....REV. RALPH W. BROKAW, Rutgers, '74.
"Living for Delta Upsilon"....PROF. ALBERT P. BRIGHAM, Colgate, '79.
"Hamilton of Today," PROF. M. W. STRYKER, (Sigma Phi) Hamilton, '72.
"Hits and Foils".....REV. DR. O. P. GIFFORD, Brown, '74.
"Fraternity and Citizenship"....ERMAN J. RIDGWAY, Northwestern, '91.

As I say, we didn't quite know what was coming. But when Toastmaster Blair started the speaking we knew we were in for a good time. He struck from the shoulder. He gave the keynote when he called for the young man of the day to "have more get up and get—more Jeromeism." His vigorous introductions started every speaker at his best and his startling repartee during the speeches added immensely to the fun. He took occasion, too, to say a word for the "Quarterly," which was well advertised through the whole convention. Brother Goldsmith isn't as green as the cover of his magazine.

Professor Brigham brought on a storm of applause when he referred to the fact that two years was spent at Colgate by Brother Charles E. Hughes, Brown, '81, and again when he spoke of "Brother Jerome, what he has done, is doing and shall do."

President Stryker of Hamilton College, a Sigma Phi, won our hearts when he said: "When I heard that strong, virile speech this afternoon and saw how it was received I knew I was in the company of a body of men—real men." President Stryker now lives in the house in which the Hamilton chapter was founded. This was news to him. He said, "That accounts for the air of sanctity I have noticed." His application of our motto and our monogram was strikingly good: "Duty the Underpinning."

Brother Gifford gave a serious talk enlivened by some good stories and Brother Ridgway justly complained that he had done enough without substituting for Brother Jerome. "Hereafter it's me for the light under the bushel," he said. He referred to the work of reform in New York City, saying, "The crimes of the times were shown through a medium controlled by a Delta U. The Legislative insurance investigation is being conducted by a Delta U., and when Hughes is through the work will be handed over to another Delta U., District Attorney Jerome." He did not say that the medium referred to was Everybody's Magazine, published by the Ridgway-Thayer Co.

As usual the cheering was a prominent feature of the banquet and there were one hundred and ninety voices to join in the cheers for each speaker. The singing was exceptionally good. One of the "old-timers" remarked on the fact that there were more good songs of the individual chapters and colleges than usual. The flowers at the speakers' table were the gift of the Hamilton Chapter of Sigma Phi. Brother John S. Briggs presented the Rochester collection of Delta U. songs that was at each place.

The banquet closed with "America" to which the McGill and Toronto boys added a verse of "God Save the King." Truly it was a good convention.

FROM THE KK CLUB

THE news that the Delta Upsilon Fraternity had granted a charter to the KK Club was received at the house at noon Friday, October 27. That the news was received with enthusiasm by the members of the club is needless to say. For the past six weeks the thing uppermost in the mind of every KK was the outcome of our petition. We had worked hard to get in touch with the chapters of the fraternity, and the result was impatiently awaited. When the good news came, all the troubles and disappointments of the past were forgotten in the thought that we were soon to be members of the Delta Upsilon Fraternity.

Our feeling of satisfaction is greatly intensified by the most sincere and hearty congratulations we have received from all sides. From fraternities, sororities, members of the Faculty, and individual students we have received evidences of the outside interest in our success. In the words of one of the local chapters, "It is with a feeling of satisfaction that we see added to the fraternities at Illinois one of such high standing and splendid record as Delta Upsilon." And from the Dean of Undergraduates, "I am glad to see such a good fraternity has been secured by such a good collection of fellows."

It will not be without some feeling of regret, however, that we shall see the passing of KK. For the past three years our organization has exerted a strong influence in University affairs. In the face of many difficulties we have grown and prospered, and commanded respect and recognition from the University community. Hence, we feel that we are giving up a name that means much to us. Yet we hope that the same principles and traits that made KK respected and honored will make the chapter of Delta Upsilon to be established at Illinois, one that the fraternity may point to with pride.

MONEY AND THE MAN.

By ERMAN J. RIDGWAY, Northwestern, '91.*

THERE can be no doubt that today as never before, in politics, in business, in the home, the money question is the paramount issue. So much has been said about it that even the women almost understand it, while the men are in danger of becoming utterly confused.

Because I know a little about money and more about man, and because the question is timely and therefore interesting, but most of all because I hope to clear away some of the confusion and help you to see them in their true relations, I have chosen for my subject, "Money and The Man."

An explanation is due the women present for omitting them from the discussion. I might plead that attaching the subject to them would put it beyond my comprehension; that only young men and ex-Presidents may speak with authority on woman's place and rights. Such a plea would be cowardly evasion. The truth is I omit woman because woman has no place in the subject. In full realization of the possible serious consequences to myself, I make this daring unqualified assertion. In practical business affairs, woman is a cipher. Woman has never known, does not now know, and probably never will know anything about money. And she never should.

* Oration delivered at the Literary Exercises of the seventy-first annual convention of the Delta Upsilon Fraternity, Clinton, N. Y., October 26, 1905.

ERMAN J. RIDGWAY
Northwestern, '91

The millions of girls employed in offices and factories at starvation wages ought to be in school. Not so much because they are robbing men and driving them to the road, but because they are robbing themselves—selling their birthright. And through no wish of their own, you may be sure. It is another of those ghastly crimes against humanity committed for gold and in the name of business. Woman does not need to be told her place by ex-President Cleveland or President Roosevelt or anybody else. Her intuition, her heart, whispers it to her long before she has put on long dresses; and woe to her who hearing does not heed. To her who hears and heeds the sweetest joys of life are given. Joys which men can never know. Woman has a work compared to which the work of making ephemeral fortunes is puny and ignoble. Woman makes everything good in the world including good men. Her work is fundamental. Her power is primate. Her sphere is from everlasting to everlasting.

May I repeat, woman knows nothing about money, cares nothing about business. She has no part in the mad scramble for dollars. She is jealous of it, she resents it, she deplores it. Man may have superior reasoning faculties, but through woman's instinct is the way of Redemption. The man who advises with a good wife or mother never gets far from right and happiness. The nation that most honors women captains the world. The spoiled beauties who drown their souls in a perfumed bath of luxurious futility have lost their way. I remember one who went from New York to Chicago in her private car attended by a retinue of servants, to consult Dr. N. S. Davis. She was obliged to await her turn in the office of the old democrat doctor with the common herd and when finally admitted to put her dollar consultation fee on the table just like the rest. After half an hour's interview, Dr. Davis said: "Madam, you have a country place?" "Yes, Doctor." "Have you by any chance a spring on the place?" "Why, yes, about half a mile from the house." "Well, I prescribe that you go twice a day to that spring and drink a pint of water." "But, Doctor, I came way out here in my private car to learn what is wrong." Madam, your malady is not treated in the books of my profession. The trouble with you as I diagnose your case is you are just plain lazy."

Now to my theme, Money and The Man. Money is a great convenience. You are not likely to forget that. Imagine the consternation of Mr. Dunlap if I were to offer him fifty copies of Everybody's Magazine as pay for my hat. What wouldn't the New York Central ticket agent say if I were to poke a couple of hundred magazines through his window for my ticket to Utica and back? He would have to stop selling tickets and go to selling magazines to get his money back. What would the poor wife of the man who makes threshing machines do when she needed pin money? The college professor would be obliged to leave portions of his brain with the grocer and the tailor and the ticket agent, which would not profit them and would leave him poor indeed. Money is a great convenience. Of late, there has been a heap of hysteria about tainted money. There is only one kind of tainted money—counterfeit money. I can remember when stolen apples tasted very sweet. Would I steal apples now? No. Would I accept stolen property? Well, that depends. If the property had been stolen in such a way that it could not possibly be returned, I might permit myself to be persuaded to assume the responsibility of putting it to good use. If the thief were driven by his conscience to disgorge, it would be positively unchristian to deny him the opportunity. I believe that money can be accepted from big thieves without in any sense justifying or even palliating thievery. To me, the worst features about accepting money from a Rockefeller or a Carnegie is the humiliation. It seems like colossal effrontery for Carnegie to take our money from us by the millions and give it back to us by the mills. And we take it and say: "Thank you, Mr. Carnegie, Laird of Skibo, we will put your name on the library and we will tax ourselves to support it. You are a fine man, Mr. Carnegie, a fine and clever man. Your trust takes out of our community every year in excessive prices enough to build a dozen libraries, but we haven't brains enough to stop it—not brains enough in our community, not brains enough in our Congress, not brains enough in our entire country." A humiliating confession, I say. But, say our legislators, we must protect our infant industries. Rather a husky infant, that Steel Trust. What grinds me hardest is their selling abroad fifty per cent cheaper than they do at home. No! That community which has public spirit enough, and self respect enough to decline Mr. Carnegie's offer and build its own library has my profound admiration. But as long as such a community is the exception, we would better go on accepting libraries and getting as much good as possible out of a bad matter. It is but fair to Carnegie and his kind to admit that the world is full of would-be Carnegies. The spirit that made him and the homage that exalts him are of a kind.

Society may be likened to a beautiful shrub. The rich are the flowers. But the shrub made the flowers and if they are not fragrant whose the responsibility? America is the only nation that has ever given itself completely over to the empty labor of piling up money. When Greece had enough to live on, she gave her time to art and her art has not since been equalled. Some of the Europeans have, I think, learned a better way than ours. Men who retire between the ages of forty and fifty are common in France. They do not give up business suddenly, but work out of it gradually. They give their sons and other peoples' sons a chance. The benefit to themselves and in time to the nation cannot be computed.

Has every man his price? "I wouldn't do it for a million dollars." Of course not. The price is so high and the contract so definite that no sophistry can wheedle me into trading my honor. But many a man would turn down a million dollar offer who sells his honor for a trifle. The clerk who has gambled and means to pay it back. The man who needs it to tide over his business. The Congressman who is living beyond his means. The lawyer who must look after his client's interests. Before a stark naked bribe, most men are honest. But dress it in the clothes of custom and only the strongest will pass it without bowing.

The phrase "I wouldn't trade places with Rockefeller" is well nigh universal. Pin down the next man who uses the phrase. Ask him why he wouldn't change places with Rockefeller. Old, bald-headed, bad stomach, unpopular. There remaineth these three, youth, digestion and popularity and the greatest of these is popularity.

It is a deplorable fact that we are taught to hold the respect of the community in higher esteem than our self-respect. Because we could not have our self respect in Rockefeller's place ought to be our reason for being unwilling to change places with him. We are responsible for the Rockefellers and all the rest. We made their business respectable. Our innocence at first, then our admiration for success. Then our pathetic homage. Remember what you and I and Carnegie did for poor Charlie Schwab. A clean, able, young fellow, hard working, ambitious. Carnegie put him at the head of the Steel Trust. The newspapers and magazines featured him extravagantly. We bowed in the dust. No wonder he lost his head. Money success makes brutes or beasts or fools of most men and still the best brains in America go on striving for it.

Have you realized how many books end with the hero coming into a fortune? How many plays turn on the making of money? How many children are literally driven into the conviction that the making of money is the purpose of living. Money, money, money! The great trusts for money! The great strikes for money! The Slocum horror for money! Wars for money! Peace for money! Get rich quick money! Adulterated food money! Patent medicine money! Bribed legislatures, robbed widows, broken homes, betrayed trusts!! Wall Street, the gambling hell, the brothel, the thief in the night, the assassin in the dark, the gallows!!!

The love of money has been likened to a contagious disease going through a community—an entire country—like the plague. I hold the view that the love of money is instinctive and, like other instinctive feelings, if allowed free play without stint or curb, swiftly flames into passion. Here is the reason, I believe, why so many men as soon as they become rich rush into the wildest excesses. Experimenting, it would seem, with every passion on the calendar. Tearing across the country in high powered motor cars or special trains. Flinging their money about like grain in a hen-yard. Building freak palaces. Betting on the races. Establishing branch homes—wines, diamonds, divorces!

When a man yields to any one of the passions he loses his self control. He becomes the easy prey of all passions. But because some men are gluttons it does not follow that eating is wrong. The crime is not in the instinct, but in the excess. It is true of the love of woman. It is true of the love of dollars. The law has decreed that one wife is enough for one man. The limit has not yet been placed on the number of dollars. But it is within the possibilities. Meantime, the instinct which drives all of us after money is good. We ought to have some money ahead. To paraphrase David Harum, a reasonable amount of money is good for a man. Booker T. Washington tells a story of a gentleman who wished to cross the ferry over one of the Southern rivers. Arriving at the ferry house he discovered he had forgotten his purse. The ferry was in charge of one of the old-time darkies. "Jake," said the gentleman, "lend me three cents, will you, to get across the river? I have forgotten my purse." "H'aint you got no money, boss?" "Not a cent." "Well, I doan' len' no money to no man what h'aint got no money. 'Sides, if you h'aint got no money you's just as well off on one side de ribber as t'odder."

As society is at present organized, the very first and imperative necessity a man fetches up against is the necessity to make money. He must have money if he would eat. Later, society and nature demand that he should have a home. He must provide some way, somehow, a regular salary or income for the growing needs of a growing family. He has no option. The MUST is as big as disgrace on one side and death on the other. Manifestly, then, the man who follows his instinct for getting money with which to provide the needs for himself and family—getting it honestly—that man is worthy.

I cannot reasonably hope for entire sympathy from an audience of undergraduates while discussing this theme. Just now you are making ideals. God bless and reward the noble men, the professors and instructors, who are helping the youth of the land to find their souls and fix them in the way of splendid ideals. The time is coming when you will need them all. The time for which I am trying to better prepare you. Some of you whose parents are making sacrifices to keep you here, already have a hint of what is ahead of you. Those of you who are working your way through college have more than a hint. You have felt the kick of necessity. Most fortunate you, because you are training your ideal to live and grow out of the hard realities of life. That is why so many men who work their way through college become great in the after years. I charge you all: cherish your ideals, forsake not your vision!

A stanza from Wordsworth's Ode to Immortality sums up the lives of all too many mortals:

"Our birth is but a sleep and a forgetting;
The soul that rises with us, our life's Star,
Hath had elsewhere its setting,
And cometh from afar;
Not in entire forgetfulness,
And not in utter nakedness,
But trailing clouds of glory do we come
From God who is our home:
Heaven lies about us in our infancy!
Shades of the prison house begin to close
Upon the growing boy,
But he beholds the light and whence it flows
He sees it in his joy;
The Youth who daily farther from the East
Must travel, still is Natures' priest,
And by the vision splendid
Is on his way attended;
At length the man perceives it die away,
And fade into the light of common day."

It is just at this point, my friends, where man's vision "Fades into the light of common day," that he becomes a debit balance on life's ledger. It is the point where money becomes the end rather than the means. The point where worthy instinct sinks into unworthy passion. Rarely is man born with the passion. I have known a few unhappy ones marked prenatally. The normal boy is a good fellow. Boyville is a pure democracy; so is a good college. Here manhood not money measures the rank. Indeed, it often happens that money is a handicap. Now when a boy comes out from Boyville or college into the business of life, he brings with him his democracy and his vision. To his work-fellows, he proposes to be cordial, helpful, square. To humanity, he means to devote the fruits of his efforts. That he will devote any large portion of his time to the sordid toil of money-making has no place in his thought.

"Full soon thy Soul shall have her earthly freight,
And custom lie upon thee with a weight,
Heavy as frost and deep almost as life."

O! The bitterness of the awakening. The vision that can live through it must have its roots in God. You step out into the world full of splendid purpose and high resolve. An altruist. To your chagrin, you discover that the world has no time for you, no need for your ideals, no noble place for you. The wheel stops just long enough for you to get the tips of your fingers on a six dollar job and then swings on. Your fellow workers care little for your cordiality and not at all for your helpfulness. You find that you are the one needing help. But there is none. Every fellow looks out for himself, is the rule. There is no pity, no escape. You are in the inexorable grind and if you would not be ground you must grind. You learn that your employer is not paying you what you are worth and that your fellows are trying to get your job. Everywhere you look, you see the men who have made money riding on the necks of the less fortunate. From being an altruist you become a pessimist.

In this state of mind, the rich with their luxuries, their carriages, boxes at the opera, leisure for travel and recreation, fine clothes and fine houses, and patronizing manners, inflame you. You rail at society and storm at riches.

Again, you discover that the world is not listening to you. Again, you discover that each fellow is looking out for himself and while you have been "hollering" the quiet man has passed you and the world moves on. You think it over with the result that from a pessimist you become an egoist. Some men pass immediately from altruism to egoism, but I am persuaded that the man with the real ideals must go through the black abyss. As an egoist you settle down to your trade. You waste no more time worrying about the other fellow. Let him look out for himself. When you are struck, you strike back and the blow you get doesn't hurt half so badly. Whatever fails to help your cause along you discard. Things begin to come your way. You begin to make good money. You have more than enough for your needs. The world looks brighter. You are at the parting of the ways where Fate's red lantern swings. One is the world's way, the other way is the soul's way. If your ideals have lived they will swing your choice to the right road. The hour of your vision has struck. The world will listen to you now. Your fellows will come to you for help and encouragement. Your community will look to you for leadership. A thousand opportunities will find you ready to help humanity. Not the kind of help which robs the recipient of self respect. Rather the kind that gives him a chance to help himself. I have no quarrel with the moneyed man whose money does no harm to others or himself. There is no more splendid thing in all the world than the man who has the nerve and skill and perseverance to make a fortune honestly and who remembers in his affluence that he is the steward of the Most High. There is no sweeter joy than the joy of being able to help humanity. Your rich man must come out of egoism through optimism, back to the altruism with which he started if he would save his own soul.

We feel almost contempt for the poor devil who grinds through life with nothing better than the hope that some day he will make a fortune, so that he may have as big a house as somebody else, and better horses or an automobile. Vanity and vexation. The child reaching for the fire. But there is a certain pathos in the figure of the man of brilliant parts coming down to his last days, seemingly enjoying the plaudits of his compeers, but inwardly consumed with anguished regret for the neglected opportunities. Each day he has promised himself that tomorrow, afterwhile, he will forsake the scramble for money, afterwhile he will go after the things really worth living for, afterwhile he will begin to think of others and do for others.

Afterwhile—and one intends
To be gentler to his friends—
To walk with them, in the hush
Of still evenings o'er the plush
Of home leading fields, and stand
Long at parting, hand in hand;
One, in time, will joy to take
New resolves for someone's sake,
And wear then the look that lies
Clear and pure in other eyes—
He will soothe and reconcile
His own conscience—afterwhile.

Now I approach my summing up. And I find that the relations of man to money should be as his relations to most other things of life. He should avoid extremes. To the proverb, "A fool and his money are soon parted," I retort "A fool and his money are late parted." The most harm that comes from much money is to the man himself. Anybody can stand adversity; it's good for us. It takes a giant to stand prosperity and only giants should strive for it. I have no quarrel with the man who is making money honestly. I fear for him and for his home and for his children. Too often a rich man expects money to do for his children what only hardship and love can do. In no other life is there so much danger to the man himself as in the business life. The physician may sacrifice everything to his profession, but he is partly redeemed in that his life is spent for his fellows. And so in a sense with the lawyer and the artist and the teacher. The business man is in business for money. At first for what money will buy and then, alas, too often for money itself. The ideals of men in the professions have a better chance to live because there is something in their work to keep ideals alive. But in business there is little for ideals to feed upon. Little, I mean, in line with the humanities. Business is not philanthropy. Business is not altruistic. Business is egoistic. Business is selfish. Business is—business.

And so it happens that your business man knows little of books. He has not time to read. Nothing of art—it's a waste of time. The music that thrills him is rag-time and the play that inspires him is comic opera. They rest him after a hard day's work. In politics, he prefers the administration that facilitates business—his business. And he is not above paying bribes when they save his time and his money. It is business that corrupts legislators. It is business that is making America a reproach before the world. It is business that pays rebates. It is business that adulterates food. It is business that runs the United States Senate. Thank God, it is not business but conscience that runs Theodore Roosevelt. Thank God, it is not business but humanity which urges Charles E. Hughes to plunge his pitiless probe into the insurance scandals. Thank God, it is not business but justice which drives William Travers Jerome to clutch the business grocer of Newburg in one hand and the business bartender of Good Ground in the other and hold them up to the scorn of decent men.

God take away some of our money and give us more such men.

"God give us men. A time like this demands
Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and willing hands,
Men whom the lust for office does not kill;
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;
Men who possess opinions and a will;
Men who have honor; men who will not lie;
Men who can stand before a demagogue
And damn his treacherous flatteries without winking;
Tall men sun crowned who live above the fog
In public duty and private thinking.
For while the rabble with their thumb worn creeds,
Their large professions and their little deeds,
Mingle in selfish strife; lo! freedom weeps;

ERMAN J. RIDGWAY, Northwestern, '91

By RUPERT HUGHES, Adelbert, '92.

IT was a bright day in August, and a solitary stork might have been seen wending its way slowly across the continent, staggering under the weight of an unusually bouncing baby. It was to be an important child, and the stork had a worried look choosing to whom to entrust it.

The bird had a long head as well as a long bill, and finally decided that a certain farm near Otsego, Ohio, where Nathan B. Ridgway and his wife, Catherine Erman Ridgway, resided, was the ideal place for the rearing of his youthful client.

On August 6, 1867, then, just after the country had had time to recover from the Civil War and prepare for another shock, Erman J. Ridgway was ushered into an expectant world, whose expectations have been since well realized—and new expectations raised.

Country schools at Otsego, at Gallion, and Wills Creek, Ohio, gave him his earliest education. Thence he went, at the age of sixteen, to the Northwestern University Academy, at Evanston, Ill., where he was graduated in 1887. Next he entered the University, where he spent two years, joining Delta Upsilon to a mutual advantage. He left there to go to Yale, where he was graduated with honors and a bachelorship of arts in 1892.

At Yale he won not only academic, but athletic honors as well, and "Ridgway of Yale" was one of the names which not to know argued one's self unknown.

Leaving Yale, Brother Ridgway became a salesman for the National Folding Box and Paper Company, of New York. Two years later he was made the general manager and vice-president of Frank A. Munsey's numerous enterprises, including the Munsey Magazine, the Mohican Company, the Manhattan Umbrella Company, the New York Daily News, Boston*Journal* and Washingto Times. He remained with Mr. Munsey from 1894 to 1903, and must be credited with a large part of Mr. Munsey's phenomenal success. If any one should doubt this he has only to look about and see what phenomenal success Mr. Ridgway has made since he stepped out to go it alone. It was in 1903 that he left the Munsey enterprise and organized the Ridgway-Thayer Company, becoming its president.

At this time the name of Everybody's Magazine had an ironical effect, though it bore the bewitching emblem of Wanamaker. The two young men whom a single idea and a hyphen united have made Everybody's a magazine of which even Mr. Boffin could say, "And well named, too!"

To many persons Everybody's means Thomas W. Lawson, but the magazine had taken a great leap forward long before the general public even showed the first symptoms of Lawsonitis. The circulation man was swearing his head off and the safety-valve on the multiplication table was already beginning to squeak when the magazine heard of Mr. Lawson and offered him its pages as an outlet for the vast volume of indigestion against "the System," which he has since exploded with seismic effect.

The Lawson exposures have, of course, made Everybody's an enormous circulation, but so has the magazine made a national figure of one who was before a stock-broker who often broke. Furthermore, in that remote but inevitable hour when Mr. Lawson has said all he has to say, the magazine will remain; new storks will distribute new subscribers round the land, and the circulation swearing man will continue to swear.

When the last of Mr. Lawson's threats is carried out and John D. Rockefeller comes asking for a job as office-boy or caddy, when H. H. Rogers' Amalgamated Coppers total about thirty cents, and "the System" is flat and cold as the buckwheat cakes of yesteryear—still Mr. Ridgway will find new pabulum for the people at popular prices. [Advt. Now is the time to subscribe.]

So much for the public career of our Brother Delta U. He is already a figure of power and dignity in the land, and is not yet forty. Those of us who have been privileged to know him personally have not wondered as his big success, though we have delighted in it. His quiet and forceful presence shows a strength that could not be kept down. His solidity of character and earnestness of ambition have not been denied a liberal sprinkling of the saving salt of humor. He is a brilliant after-dinner speaker and can also joke between meals.

Brother Ridgway was largely instrumental in the formation of The Commonwealth Club, of Upper Montclair, N. J., a suburban town largely of New York business men, where Brother Ridgway resides. The club was founded to supply a social, literary, and educational feature to the suburban life. It met considerable opposition in the indifference of its members to take up any sort of community responsibilities. Mr. Ridgway was made chairman of the entertainment committee, and during the past winter secured the services of many well-known men and women in the musical and lecture fields. Appropriate exercises were held on Fourth of July, and other holidays, a Junior Club was organized for the young men, with facilities for contests, and many other features were introduced, all looking toward the "getting together" of the men, who had previously not known what good fellows their neighbors were, and exciting the interest of the women in the needs of the community. The handling of this matter by Brother Ridgway illustrates his tenacity of purpose and his optimistic regard for all fellow-men.

He is a member of various clubs, but in the very midmost of his struggle with a success that came down on him like a thousand of brick, he has not been too busy to devote time, thought, and energy to building up the Delta Upsilon Club of New York. Many of us who pray or bray very loudly at a banquet cannot find time to do one-tenth as much as this busy builder of a great establishment.

In a dozen ways Erman J. Ridgway is an example to every American, every college man, and especially every Delta U. man. Big of body, of heart, of brain, he has succeeded no more bigly than he has deserved.

"YELLOW JOURNAL" METHODS.

BROTHER Rupert Hughes, in securing the necessary (mis)information for his "write up" of Everybody's Ridgway, has exposed himself to several actions for libel, as shown in his letter to his victim, which we publish below. Not the least of his crimes is the manner in which he insults the editor of the QUARTERLY, calling him "out of his name." Brother Hughes says he has just closed a contract with the Century Company for the publication of his next novel, with an advance royalty. There's our chance, Brother Ridgway. Let's get after him.

15 EAST FIFTY-NINTH STREET, August 24.

E. JUGGERNIT RIDGWAY, ESQ.,
Southampton, L. I.

Dear Erman: As the special agent of Fads and Fancies, I wish to offer you a biography in it for $1,500. I enclose a letter from the publisher, Mr. Goldschmidt. Owing to the newspaper excitement the name has been changed to THE DELTA UPSILON QUARTERLY.

Of course, I know a lot of things about you, which, I think, you would prefer left unmentioned to your Bible class. I think that my silence on these points is cheap at $1,500. The payment of the sum, however, entitles you to have any substitute you wish for the bitter truth. You are a quinine pill, but if you can pay for a sugar coating, why not?

Please let me know at once the answers you desire to have made to the following questions:

Where were you born, and when?

If never born, please state where you were not born.

Why were you born?

Why haven't you died yet?

Is this further proof of Lawson's claim that "the System" is to blame for almost everything, including Lawson?

Where did you get that hat you talk through?

Where were you—I was about to say "educated"—well, let the word stand, why quibble?

When did you quit learning college words?

How did you come to this?—meaning magazining.

What circulation do you claim? You notice I say "claim."

Where do you expect to spend eternity, and what board will you pay?

Goldsmith thinks you are doing the public good, so do I. You are doing them —— well.

When do you open your branch in Mars?

If you'll answer these questions before a notary, I'll put in a few facts for variety, and let her simmer, sweeten to taste, and serve with a grain of salt.

Yours faithlessly,

RUPERT O'HUGHES.

W. T. JEROME AND HIS CAMPAIGN.

TO the country-wide acclamation of Brother Jerome for his splendid campaign against the bosses that ended in victory, the QUARTERLY can add nothing at this time. Every son of Delta U. must rejoice that in the forward movement of civic and political righteousness a member of the fraternity is taking such a conspicuous and effective part.

To chronicle here in complete measure the story of his fight against boss rule would be impossible. It must suffice to present a composite pen-picture of Brother Jerome as others see him—in his fearlessness, his honesty and his humanity.

WHO IS THIS MAN JEROME?

New York Letter in the Indianapolis News.

WHO is this man Jerome that is turning New York upside down politically? Simply an honest man with a good brain and a predisposition for industry. He has always been a Democrat, and he tells his audiences that he has not laid aside his Democracy in national affairs in making this race for district attorney. He is a Democrat of the Cleveland stripe.

Four years ago he was the fusion nominee for district attorney, and we all remember the whirlwind campaign he made on that occasion.

Coming into office he surrounded himself with competent men, who were not connected with the machines of either political party. He set about the prosecution of evil doers regardless of whether they were Republicans or Democrats. Party politics were kicked out of the district attorney's office. It was the first time it had been so handled for half a century.

Soon after taking office Jerome moved from a fashionable neighborhood to one of the worst sections on the East Side, and during his term he has lived among the people of the underworld. Thus living, he came to know their struggles for existence and temptations that beset them. His studies enabled him to deal out even-handed justice as district attorney.

The political machines—Tammany on the one hand and the Odell machine on the other—soon learned that they could not run his office. The politician who appeared to request the release of a man because he had been a "faithful ward worker" was shown the door by Jerome.

Of course that did not please the professional politicians, and when the time approached to make up this year's tickets they conspired to "put Jerome out of business." It has been proved that Odell, the head of the Republican machine, and Murphy, the head of the Tammany machine, entered into an agreement that neither would "stand for Jerome."

The fearless public officer saw that he could not hope for support from either party and so last fall he told his friends he proposed to run as an independent. When it came time to prepare the petition required to secure a place on the ballot for his name citizens came forward by the thousands and volunteered the use of their names.

True to their agreement the Democratic and Republican machines ignored Jerome when the candidates were nominated, and the politicians said among themselves:

On another occasion Jerome, ax in hand, fireman-like, was ascending a ladder, when someone below pulled the lower supports in the hope that he might break Jerome's neck. Mr. Jerome lost his ax, but, with a good hold on the windowsill, he lifted himself so that he could push up the window and crawl in. There was a wild scramble as he entered, and no arrests, the police having learned, just in time, that Judge Jerome was "doing stunts."

And so it went on. Jerome sat on the bench of the court of special sessions in the morning and raided at night. If it was not a gambling house he raided it was a place where young girls were held as prisoners.

Then came the revolt against Tammany, when the independent democrats, republicans and Citizens' union came together and named a ticket, headed by Seth Low. It went through with a whirl, with Jerome for district attorney running far ahead of the ticket.

An incident in the campaign which will not be forgotten was when, in his dare-devil campaign of the city, Jerome arrived at the place in Rivington street which he had once raided alone.

A big fellow took hold of his arm and led him to the door he had once broken down

"Let me show you the way," said Jerome.

The big man fell back and followed until he reached the stage. There he caught Jerome by the neck and, shoving him aside, said, in a voice that could not be misunderstood:

"Gentlemen—It's my right and privilege to introduce to you tonight the real speaker of this occasion. I used to run a poolroom in this place with my brother, as you all know. The night this d—— Jerome busted in alone we meant to kill him. I'm d—— glad we didn't.

"I've been doing a better business since, beginning with peddling, and now have a store of my own.

"The nerve of this man in coming here tonight is equal to that of the night he came here alone. You know that you are gathered here to down him.

"Just a word before he speaks. Brother Jim's dead. Jerome did not kill him. Booze did. Jim was drunk one night and the cops had him right, as they thought, for stealing. I went to this here fellow Jerome and put it up to him. He said Jim might be a gambler, but he was no ordinary thief, and he got a friend to go bail. Then he used his college-graduate friends to look up the case and they proved Jim innocent. I have the honor of introducing 'Bill' Jerome."

There was a dead silence and then a burst of applause as the candidate faced his former enemies. He spoke very simply, acknowledging that he had violently entered the poolroom, and then burst into torrents of abuse of the organization of which most of the auditors were adherents. He put it up to them whether they wanted a "red light" over the stoops of the flats, where they lived with their wives and children.

COPYRIGHT, 1908 BY PIRIE MAC DONALD, N. Y.

"This job I have undertaken is really one for a Savonarola, and I am only William Travers Jerome; still I have got to tackle it."

The prepared hisses changed to cheers, the crowd following the weary campaigner to his automobile, insisting on shaking hands with the man whom a little while before they would have pummeled with pleasure.

WHEN HE FACED A SAM PARKS CROWD.

"Listener" in the Boston Transcript.

WITH all the descriptions that the newspapers have been giving of Jerome's marvelous campaign the half has never been told.

There have been more moments of peril for the whole business, personal peril as well as political, than have got into the newspapers. One such case was where he was addressing a very rough assemblage, composed of labor unions gathered together as such. Naturally before he had got far one of the savagest and most insolent of these disturbers who had come to the meeting to break it up, put his fist under Jerome's nose and demanded him at once to answer one question before those there assembled. It was: "Why did you hound Sam Parks to death?"

A wild yell in accord arose from the audience, but Jerome was halted only for an instant. Doubling up his own fist in return and stepping forward to hold it in the face of his interlocutor, he told with pathetic detail that proved the genuineness and intensity of his sympathy, the sufferings of the wife and children of the working man of straightforward, industrious life, through the exhaustion of his savings in the continual strikes which Parks had decreed.

"When I learned," shouted Jerome, "that Parks in ordering these strikes was doing it mainly from personal spite and for his own pocket all the time, if I had met with Parks in the street I could have knocked the —— —— —— villain to —— and snatched his — —black heart out of his body."

Needless to say the crowd went with him from that on, and at the end he was carried out to his carriage on the shoulders of the nearest.

JEROME AS A PUBLIC SPEAKER.

From the New York Herald.

THERE is little of the orator about Mr. Jerome. In his speeches there are no rounded flights, no graceful periods, no rhetorical working up to a point. One peculiarity has been remarked by those familiar with his methods, and this comes from his mental activity. Beginning on one topic, he often says not more than a dozen words, when they suggest to him something else. Off at a tangent he will go with a parenthetical clause which not infrequently gives him an idea of a further digression. Generally he rounds back to his first thought. Sometimes he lets it drift away entirely, never to be completed.

Somewhat harsh of voice, it might be said that Mr. Jerome's speeches are delivered in a monotone. Even so, he never becomes tiresome, nor do his auditors become inattentive. He is quick to perceive the feeling of an assemblage and certain to take advantage of any incident which will go to point his moral or adorn his tale. He prefers to walk slowly about the platform as he talks, dragging his feet leisurely; his watch is always before him, that he may not overstep the time limit he has set for himself.

His sarcasm is one of the most telling of his equipments. His lips recede until his white teeth are displayed; his eyes gleam wickedly; his words are shot out as the puffs of a locomotive; one hand will move out from the shoulder, the fingers outspread, and back and forth he darts it, as if driving home every word he utters. It is a treat to hear him dilate on C. Francis Murphy, as he terms the Tammany leader, on his Good Ground, his liveried chauffeur and his automobiles, and his sallies about J. Sergeant Cram and his Tuxedo coat always draw a shout of derisive laughter, as does his reference to "that grocery man of Newburg."

With a keen appreciation of the humorous side of things, he will switch suddenly from the most serious phase of his discourse to run upon a sidetrack of fun. He can tell a story well, and always delights his audiences when he is in such a mood. Of his pathos, those who heard him in the campaign of four years ago and who wept and sobbed at his recitals, need not to be told. Of an emotional temperament himself and with a sensitiveness he endeavors to mask, his feelings at times almost overcome him, and then there is a suspicious use of his handkerchief.

But he is seen and heard at his best when he appears before an audience which he knows is antagonistic to him. Then it is that the fighting side of his make-up is disclosed, as well as the further fact that he glories in a rough and tumble, man to man argument. If he is permitted to define his position he will do so, and then he will ask his hearers to question him on any point on which they are not satisfied.

"Put it up to me; put it up to me hard," he will beg, and when the questions come thick and fast he is in his element. And his personality and his manliness usually triumph and those who came to scoff remain to admire and applaud.

STRONGEST CHARACTER IN NEW YORK CITY.

Fred B. Warren in the Pittsburg Dispatch.

GIVEN a capable lawyer of tremendous earnestness, a man 46 years old, well born, well trained, who has had an active life among men —a man fond of sports, of good physique, built up by exercise—a man of clean life, of high social position and of democratic habits and thought —this is already a catalogue of most of the virtues and kinds of good fortune that an American citizen need have. Add to these courage without taint of fear, and you have William Travers Jerome, by all odds the strongest character and the most noteworthy personality in the public life of New York.

Jerome's achievements cannot be easily tabulated; for the noteworthy thing is the kind of service that he has done, rather than the volume of it that shows in the tables of convictions. The thing that tells is the quality of the man.

He has so done his work that the District Attorney's office is the one public place in New York where everybody knows that a man works for the city's uplifting who has no favor and no fear.

STRIKING INCIDENTS OF HIS CAMPAIGN.

"Where's that man Jerome?" inquired in a fog-horn voice a big man, plainly a Westerner, as he strode into the Gilsey House headquarters. He was told by one of the secretaries that Mr. Jerome would not be there until late in the afternoon.

"I'm sorry," continued he of the stentorian voice. "I'd like to meet him. You people down here talk about electing him district attorney. Huh! Why out west we are going to make him president."

* * * *

During one of his whirlwind dashes through the East Side Mr. Jerome passed the rooms of a club which was known to exist only to sell pools. The sound of cheers brought the members to the windows. As the candidate went by, a man on the sidewalk looked up at his fellows in the windows and shouted:

"Boys, he's against us, but he's square. Three cheers for Jerome!"

The answering yell from the club-rooms left no doubt as to their sentiments of admiration.

One of the most remarkable features of Mr. Jerome's canvass was the intense interest manifested in every section of the country. Hundreds of letters poured in upon the Jerome committee and hundreds more contained substantial tokens of their sympathy.

Many pathetic stories could be told of the sacrifices made by poor people of New York to help swell the Jerome campaign fund. A man went into the Gilsey House and offered a contribution of fifty cents. The treasurer, glancing up, saw the giver wore ragged clothing and was evidently in need. He gently urged the man that he ought not to give the money, but the man insisted, adding as a clincher:: "It's such as me he's working for."

A poorly-dressed woman with the unmistakable signs of hard work and many troubles called at the New York Sun office and with an apology for the smallness of the amount asked that she be allowed to contribute 25 cents to the Jerome campaign fund. She is the mother of five children and takes in washing for a living.

"I want to see Mr .Jerome elected," she explained, "because he is good to every mother who's in trouble. Two of my boys used to be bad. One of them got mixed up with a gang and he was going in a bad way. Mr. Jerome didn't send him to the reform school. He just had a talk with that boy and he sent somebody to talk with his teacher and me, and I haven't got any complaint to make against my boys now. They ain't so awful good, but they're honest. And that's what Mr. Jerome is. God bless him."

* * * *

Pictures of Mr. Jerome were tacked up in almost every tenement and store and restaurant on the East side by women workers. In the Home Fire Insurance Company Restaurant, pictures of every mayoralty candidate were put up every morning and torn down before noon. Mr. Jerome's picture remained and beneath it in a crude, untutored hand was written:

"One man on the square—the rest are on the bum."

* * * *

A woman's hand wrote these words in an unsigned letter to the candidate:

"Honest William Travers Jerome:

"It is only a five dollar bill, but two honest votes go with it—those of my husband and of my oldest son and the promise of one other is assured to you. My other son, 19 years old, will be ready to cast his first vote for you as Governor of New York or as President of our noble land."

* * * *

At one of the Jerome meetings a McClellan enthusiast was speaking. He said he thought that "Jerome is as sure of election as George McClellan."

There was an instant uproar. Somebody obtruded a proposition that it was time for "three cheers for William Randolph Hearst!"

About two-fifths of the audience adopted the suggestion.

"Three cheers for George McClellan!" shouted a man in the gallery. There were three big McClellan cheers. Then came a shrill shout:

"What's the matter with Ivins?"

A considerable part of the audience responded with a roar of approving sentiment.

John P. Leo, the chairman, sprang to the front of the platform and shouted:

"Gentlemen, gentlemen! This is unseemly. We are all for Jerome anyhow."

"ON THEIR NECKS"

Cartoon by C. G. Bush in the New York "World," November 8, 1905

"Three cheers for Jerome," shouted one man, and the whole crowd, McClellan men, Hearst men and Ivins men, rose and shouted and ripped flags from the side walls and cheered and cheered again.

NEWSPAPER OPINION OF JEROME'S VICTORY.

REPUBLICAN.

The crowning and most splendid achievement has been the election of William Travers Jerome. It was the greatest moral victory of election day in this country and its value is immeasurable.—Boston Transcript.

Mr. Jerome became to this community the symbol of fearless and upright performance of public duty, and his election is not merely a great tribute to him and a victory for good government, but a tonic vindication to the people themselves of their own moral impulses and their capacity for self-government.—New York Tribune.

We congratulate the community upon the outcome. New York will be a better town for it. The whole country will be better for it. Never before did a brilliant and distinguished public servant crush so brutal and ruthless a conspiracy as that which sought to destroy William Travers Jerome.—New York Sun.

Jerome is not a political puppet; he is a giant of strength, as was shown in a fight that probably no other man in New York would have had the audacity to make. Jerome today is a national figure of formidable dimensions to such Presidential aspirants as Folk, Johnson, LaFollette and Bryan. The outcome of this campaign will be gratifying to every lover of justice and decency in America. It is a triumph for clean politics and an assertion of the power of the people to return to themselves the control of government. It will stimulate the spirit of reform everywhere. It makes Jerome the man of the hour.—Kansas City Journal.

This is one of the gratifying triumphs of true citizenship fairly aroused in a righteous cause.—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

The election of Mr. Jerome is certainly the most significant declaration of political independence made in recent years.—Providence Journal.

Far and away the best single result of yesterday's voting—for the cheer and inspiration in it—is the re-election of District Attorney Jerome. His re-election is a thing to thank God for. Every sordid political boss between the two oceans holds by a more precarious tenure because of him, and American citizenship has risen in every market.—Hartford Courant.

His splendid and magnificent defiance of boss rule is morally justified. It has been over all the country a rousing encouragement to civic independence and civic righteousness.—Philadelphia Press.

By common consent District Attorney Jerome's candidacy represented most vitally and dramatically the anti-bossism issue of the off-year elections. His victory is a magnificent one, in view of the heavy odds against him, of the conspiracy of the "regular" machines.—Chicago Record-Herald.

DEMOCRATIC.

It was a great victory for a free people and an independent press. It will hearten everywhere those who are defending against the brutal bosses the principle of American democracy.—New York World.

Many a man on Tuesday beat a boss of one party, but it remained for William Travers Jerome to beat all the bosses of all parties.—Cleveland Plaindealer.

The election of Mr .Jerome is a great personal triumph and will meet with universal approval throughout the country.—Boston Globe.

As the player of a lone hand Jerome has no peer.—Charleston News and Courier.

Jerome's riding down of two powerful old-line organizations is at once the most sensational and most convincing demonstration of the inherent capacity of the people to manage their own political concerns; and is a matter of congratulation to good citizenship everywhere.—St. Louis Republic.

He had no alliances except his own honesty against the organization of his opponents; he held forth his courage to counteract the influence of those who hated him and feared unhampered justice; he typified the predictions of the people; he touched the core of popular honesty.—Detroit Free Press.

INDEPENDENT.

There can be no mistaking the absorbed interest with which his campaign has been followed in every village of the land, nor the chorus of delight and gratitude which is going up from millions as they read of his immense success. He has lighted a fire which will not go out until in its flames boss after boss has shrivelled and been consumed.—New York Evening Post.

Without the election of Jerome, the satisfaction of honest men and good Americans in the results of yesterday's election would have been incomplete. No other rebuke to bosses and corruption, no other victory for honesty and independence, would have compensated for the disappointment of the high hopes which had been raised during the enthusiastic campaign for New York's fearless District Attorney.—Baltimore News.

Here at least is one man in office who will owe nothing to any party or boss, who is absolutely free to be the best public servant possible. His campaign has been an inspiration, and his victory is an assurance that the people can win over bosses whenever they really want to do so.—Indianapolis News.

The election of Jerome is a splendid triumph, not only for this fearless and able public prosecutor, but for the civic virtue and independence of the voters of New York.—Boston Herald.

Mr. Jerome's victory in New York is in some respects the most notable event of the elections and one of the greatest benefits yet conferred upon the cause of good municipal government.—Chicago Daily News.

EDITORIAL.

THE SEVENTY-FIRST CONVENTION

The Hamilton Chapter has added greatly to its reputation by its successful handling of the recent convention, following, as it did the great gatherings at Chicago and New York city, where the alumni clubs which conducted the convention set a standard that promised difficulties for those who followed them. But no one thought of making any comparisons, and it would not have mattered if they had. The Hamilton Convention was not overshadowed by recollections of New York and Chicago.

Several features distinguished the seventy-first annual convention and convinced many that a large city is not the best place for a convention. The delegates "got together" more than usual and there seemed to be more opportunity for making acquaintances. At the smoker the men circulated freely and began the pleasant task of forming friendships. The business of the convention went through briskly because the men knew what was coming and were ready for it. At the theatre the musical comedy thoroughly pleased the delegates and apparently the delegates pleased the rest of the audience with their singing as there were calls for "more." The trolley trip and the literary exercises were both successful. The history was unusually interesting and the oration was exceptionally fine. The banquet, with its attendance of nearly 200 and its splendid list of speakers, brought to a close a convention that well earned for the Hamilton Chapter the resolutions of appreciation passed at the close of the banquet.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

One of the most interesting features of the convention was the reception of the petition from the KK Club of the University of Illinois. The quiet but stirring presentation of their application by Mr. Edward Corrigan made a deep impression on the delegates. The result of the vote on the motion to grant a charter brought out an inspiring storm of applause which was renewed when the members of the KK Club were brought back to receive from Brother Thomas the information that their three years of hard work had borne fruit. The KK Club has gained the prestige of membership in a national fraternity and Delta Upsilon has gained a strong and enthusiastic chapter.

PROSPERITY AND THE FUTURE

Prosperity is written large and fair on the statistics of Delta Upsilon chapter membership which were given in the last issue of the QUARTERLY. One can gaze with satisfaction upon the excellent showing made all along the line. Not that large membership, per se, is everything or even a very great deal to a chapter, but as a sign it has its undoubted value just as membership below the average is often warning of danger.

But amid evident prosperity is it not worth while to ask, not pessimistically but philosophically, how much of it is due to force outside of the fraternity—the general prosperity of the country, the increasing tendency toward college education? To any chapter that feels it owes its present prosperity mainly to such extraneous factors this should be said: Make these days of calm, days of strengthening. Deepen and broaden undergraduate life. Cultivate the alumni. Resolve that the chapter shall live as long as the institution of which it is a loyal part. Then when the storm comes and college classes decline, as they must in time of financial depression, there will be no hard times for any chapter of Delta Upsilon.

A NEW CLUB AT OXFORD

A year ago the editor wrote to one of the Rhodes Scholars suggesting an alumni club at Oxford for the purpose of forming a bond between the Delta U. Rhodes scholars. Fearing that such an organization would tend to defeat one of the objects of the scholarships, it was decided at the time that an alumni club would be undesirable. A year's experience, however, has shown that this fear was not well founded and that a club with infrequent meetings will not lead to the segregation of the Americans or prevent them from entering fully into the English University life. The Oxford University Delta Upsilon club has, therefore, been formed, and the report of its organization will be found in the Alumni Club department. We need have no fear that this will lead to an attempt to form an undergraduate chapter at Oxford, which, as the secretary says, would be as undersirable as it would be impossible.

CONVENTION PHOTOGRAPH

The convention photograph was taken by Carl K. Frey, of 11 Broad street, Utica, N. Y. It is an excellent group picture, the faces being very distinct. Copies can be had from him at the following prices: 8 in. x 14 in., 75 cents; 10 in. x 20 in., $1.25; 12 in. x 22 in., $1.75. A framed collection of convention groups makes an interesting historical record of the fraternity.

THE CAMPAIGN FOR SUBSCRIBERS

The chapters are expected, as their senior delegates were informed at convention, to appoint a man to take charge of increasing the list of subscribers to the QUARTERLY among their alumni. His name was to be sent to Brother A. D. Wetherell, Middlebury, '05, who planned and is conducting the campaign. Has your chapter done its duty in the matter? When you read this it will be about six weeks after the convention. What chapters have failed in this regard? None, we hope. A full report of the results will be published at the close of the campaign.

DISCUSSION BY CORRESPONDENCE

The amendment providing for graduate subscriptions to the QUARTERLY was passed. It was not expected by the editor, who hoped to provoke discussion, but little more. Only one good point was brought up against it, however, and even that may be overcome by proper explanation. An open consideration of this or any other fraternity matter is proposed for our new department, "Open Correspondence" (for which, by the way, a better title is solicited.)

A few subjects suggested by the points brought up at convention and by the chapter letters in this issue are: Is it safe or allowable to pledge men before they enter college? If a chapter starts the year strong, is it safe to "take your own time in selecting new men?" Shall Founder's Day be celebrated on the same date by all chapters? Shall there be a uniform position for wearing the pin? These and other questions may well be discussed openly and so save the time at convention. Are you interested?

The corresponding secretaries have been exceedingly lax. This issue would have gone to press with about one-third of the names incorrect if Brother Fairbanks had not sent the editor a list he had compiled from recent correspondence with the chapters. The Directory is of little use if it is incorrect and its accuracy depends on the corresponding secretaries. The editor approves of the idea of having one man fill the offices of both corresponding secretary and chapter editor.

While at convention Brother Frederick M. Crossett, New York, '84, presented the Hamilton chapter with a plaque bearing a New York University seal, in commemoration of his having attended twenty-five consecutive conventions.

A word of warning. In any chapter having a senior delegation the seniors must see that they do not let the chapter become greatly weakened by their graduation. Have you missed a good man in the junior or sophomore class? A small junior delegation this year will mean a weak chapter next year.

The discussion of the official design should show the chapters that it is wise to deal only with the jewelers advertising in the QUARTERLY. There is an official shape and that only should be purchased.

A letter from every chapter! Again the desired is accomplished. Woe unto the editor failing to send a letter for the next issue!

The pins used at the convention were furnished by A. H. Fetting of Baltimore. They were excellent in taste and made attractive souvenirs.

An interesting line of fraternity jewelry was exhibited at the convention by Messrs. Burr, Patterson & Co., of Detroit.

The Convention History, by Brother E. P. Powell, Hamilton, '53, will be published in the March issue of the QUARTERLY.

For the Convention Annual send ten cents to Brother Arthur E. Bestor, 5711 Kimbark avenue, Chicago, Ill.

THE ALUMNI CLUBS.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY DELTA UPSILON CLUB.

To the Editor of the Delta Upsilon Quarterly:

I take no moderate pleasure in announcing the existence of an "Oxford University Delta Upsilon Club." You will remember that one year ago the Delta U's in Oxford discussed the advisability of organization. The men then stood together against it, for reasons of which you are aware. The year's experience of the first Delta Upsilon Rhodes contingent, however, has led them to believe (and the seven new men who have come up this year have fallen in with this view) that by forming a loose organization, the Delta U's in Oxford will not be withdrawing themselves from the University life, and yet will secure to the home chapters the advantage which they deserve for the splendid record they have made in capturing Rhodes Scholarships.

Accordingly a meeting was called October 24, in the rooms of Brother Schutt at Brasenose, to which all Delta U's at Oxford were invited. Brother Schutt was elected President and R. H. Bevan Corresponding Secretary. The idea was to meet once a year for a dinner, and once a term in the rooms of the various members at the different colleges to transact any necessary business.

I must apologize for this very brief and hurried report but the American mail goes in a few minutes and I want the good news to reach you as soon as possible. I will send you a fuller report in the near future.

Fraternally yours,

RALPH H. BEVAN.

CALIFORNIA DELTA UPSILON CLUB.

The sixth annual banquet of the Club occurred on Friday evening, November 10th in the Chapter House of the Stanford Chapter. Being the eve of the annual football game between California and Stanford, the attendance was unusually large and the undergraduates of the rival universities enlivened the occasion with football songs and college cheers.

The president of the club, Theodore F. Burnham, New York, '71, served as toastmaster, and the following toasts were responded to: "Address of Welcome," W. A. CHESAPEAKE DELTA UPSILON CLUB.

On September 12th, known as "Old Defenders' Day," a legal holiday in Maryland, as it is the anniversary of the battle of North Point when the British stormed Baltimore and were repulsed, the Chesapeake Delta Upsilon Club enjoyed an outing on Chesapeake Bay. Through the kindness of one of our members, a launch was set at the disposal of the Club. Although in the summer time many of the fellows are out of the city, about a dozen gathered for this excursion. We ran from Baltimore to "Thompsons' Sea Girt House," a place with a reputation among local epicures, and their standard "Southern Supper" of soft-shelled crabs and fried chicken tasted "good to us."

We then went to River View Park—sort of a small Coney—and amused ourselves and other people greatly. I guess they—the other people—had never seen a bunch of Delta U's enjoy themselves before. All hands threw base-balls at the babies, ringed canes, rode on the switchback, and nearly broke up The Old Mill by a race in two of the boats at close quarters. Jokes and fun were the order of things throughout. One fellow lingered to try his avoirdupois at a penny-in-the-slot machine, and could not understand his seeming overweight, till the solution was offered that he might have "a weight on his mind." A spin in the moonlight brought us home again.

Did you ever see a Sunday School picnic, or go on one? Of course you have. Well, our outing wasn't anything like that!

MILWAUKEE DELTA UPSILON CLUB.

On September 19, 1905, the Milwaukee Delta Upsilon Club held its annual fall banquet at the Republican House, Milwaukee, Wis.

When President Haring led the way to the banquet hall twenty-one Delta Upsilon braves followed him. In attendance, spirit and enthusiasm this gathering eclipsed any previous one.

Brother Arthur Kletzsch, one of the joint owners of the Republican House, had prepared an excellent menu which won for him words of praise and approval.

Informal speeches, college songs and yells enlivened the evening. The speeches were followed by a general discussion of the needs of the fraternity and how to best advance its interests.

Those present were:

Columbia: Arthur C. Kletzsch, '93.
Middlebury: Richard O. Wooster, '95.
Technology: Edwin C. Cramer, '96.
Rutgers: Cornelius I. Haring, '81.
Wisconsin: Judge Warren D. Tarrant, '90; Prof. Willard Bleyer, '96; Ray Willetts, '98; Geo. B. Vinson, '02; Waldemar Kremer, '02;

During the summer the club took dinner at Whitefish Bay, but many of the brothers being out of the city at the time only twelve responded to the secretary's call.

BOOK REVIEW.

ZAL: AN INTERNATIONAL ROMANCE. By Rupert Hughes, Adelbrt, '92. The Century Co., New York, N. Y.; pp346; price $1.50.

The meaning of the title of Rupert Hughes' new novel is practically hopeless sorrow and longing, a homesickness that cannot be cured because the home is gone, a living despair for freedom such is in every patriotic Polish heart. But despite the gloomy prognostications of such a title the hero achieves success and wins the millionaire's daughter with whom he falls in love thinking she is poor. Between them they surmount many obstacles, undergo many tragic experiences and struggle against the apparent opposition of fate, their romance finally ending happily as all romances should.

DEATHS.

COLUMBIA, '89—"Members of the Regiment were shocked to hear of the sudden death from heart disease on August 28, of 1st Sgt. Henry Brown Turner, of Co. F. The funeral services were held at his home Wednesday evening, August 30. A remarkably sad coincidence is that the hour set for Sgt. Turner's funeral was the time appointed by Co. F for an election for 2d Lieutenant, for which office the deceased was the unanimous selection of the company.

"Sgt. Turner was born March 10, 1868, in New York city. His father was the late Henry B. Turner, formerly Captain of Co. F, who was succeeded by his son and namesake. Sgt. Turner enlisted in Co. F in 1891, was appointed a corporal in 1893, sergeant in 1896, and first sergeant in 1899. He had two brothers who formerly belonged to Co. F, one of whom is Lt. Frederic G. Turner, 6th Cavalry, U. S. A.—Seventh Regt. Gazette.

HARVARD, '07—On September 25, 1905, at his home in North East, Md., Walter Le Grand Gifford, in his 21st year.

LAFAYETTE, '02—Rev. John R. Peale and his wife were murdered by Chinese at Lien-chow, China, on October 28, 1905, in a massacre in which three other missionaries were killed.

Mr. Peale was born in New Bloomfield, Pa., September 17, 1879. He graduated at Lafayette College and Princeton Theological Seminary. His wife was Miss Gillespie, of Port Deposit, and Mr. and Mrs. Peale had only just reached Lien-chow, having sailed from this country last August.

Just before his departure Bro. Peale wrote the editor asking that his "Quarterly" be sent to his new address in China. The day before the news of his death appeared in the newspapers the editor received a postal from Bro. Frank Eckerson at Amoy, China, asking that Bro. Peale's name be added to the list of Delta U's abroad published occasionally in the "Quarterly."

The Emperor of China has ordered the viceroy of Canton to inflict exemplary punishment upon the perpetrators of the crime and all guilty officers, and directed that compensation be made and adequate protection afforded for all missions.

MICHIGAN, '84—Henry W. Halsey died in Berkeley, Cal., on September 21, 1905. He was a newspaper publisher and manager, who had been connected with the Minneapolis Northwestern Miller, the Denver Sun, the Chicago Record-Herald and the San Francisco Examiner.

The will of the late Harry W. Hawley has been filed for probate. Among other provisions is a bequest of $10,000 for the founding of one or more scholarships to be known as the "H. W. Hawley Scholarship of the Fort Dodge High school." The bequest is for the purpose of aiding worthy graduates of this school to obtain a collegiate education, and only the income of the fund to be used for this purpose.

Mr. Hawley was a student in the public school during his youth in Ft. Dodge. For nine years prior to his death in Berkeley, Cal., he was unable to move hand or foot. His long sickness diminished his estate and caused him to rewrite his will just prior to his death, but his misfortune in no way abated his love for his childhood home, and when his will was filed for probate it contained the provisions for the Fort Dodge High school as originally written.

A condition of the bequest is in the following language: "Should any one chosen as a beneficiary become, in the opinion of said directors, unworthy of such aid, said board shall discontinue such aid. I am moved to make this bequest in recognition of the good already accomplished by said school, and hope it may be the means of stimulating many of the graduates therefrom in years to come, to strive for a noble manhood and womanhood and high plane of moral and intellectual life."

MICHIGAN, '03—William R. Lloyd died September 10, 1905, at his home in Catlin, Ill. He received his A. B. in 1903 and was in the class of 1905 Law.

RUTGERS, '00—Rev. Arthur P. Brokaw died September 2, 1905, at Weatherford, Okalahoma, of typhoid fever. He was graduated from the Theological Seminary at New Brunswick, ordained in his father's church, the Dutch Reformed church of Freehold, N. J., and went West as a missionary among the Indians.

TUFTS, '05—Ernest L. Speirs died of appendicitis October 5, 1905, at his home in Westbrook, Maine, after a short illness.

UNION, Hon.—Justice Judson S. Landon, LL. D., died in Schenectady, September 7, aged seventy-five years. He had served as county judge from 1865, and was appointed justice of the General Term in 1884. In 1891 he was appointed an associate justice of the appellate division of the Supreme Court, and later an aditional judge of the Court of Appeals. He was president ad interim of Union College in 1885. Judge Landon's sons are Brothers, Robert J. Landon, Union, '80, and William P. Landon, Union, '86.

WISCONSIN, '99— Ernest O'Neill died of tuberculosis October 5, 1905, at his home at Neillsville, Wis. Although a young man, he had attained great prominence in the legal profession.

LETTERS AND NEWS ITEMS.

The alumni news, which has heretofore been a separate department, will be classified with the chapter letters. Chapter editors and alumni correspondents are requested to send news regularly for each issue. For several years the bulk of the news has been contributed by Brothers F. M. Crossett, Albert Warren Ferris, Wilson L. Fairbanks, R. J. Eidlitz, several of the alumni correspondents and a few of the chapter editors. It is expected that the new arrangement will prove an inducement to chapter editors and alumni correspondents to collect and forward the news of their chapter.

Once more college has opened, and once more have all the active Delta U's gathered together for one more year of work and pleasure. The Adelbert Chapter consists of twenty active members who are all anxious to get back into the chapter life.

As the special car passed through Cleveland on the way to the convention the Adelbert Chapter in a body met the train at the station and had a very pleasant time in seeing and talking with some of our Western Delta U. brothers. The delegates from Marietta and Ohio State came to Cleveland and we enjoyed a very pleasant day, to say the least, in welcoming our down-state brothers.

On October 19th the chapter held its annual initiation and banquet, and five men whom the chapter thinks worthy of membership and whom we think will become loyal and enthusiastic Delta U's were elected to membership. After the rites were over the company sat down to a sumptuous feast which gratified the tastes of the most exacting.

Football is the all-absorbing topic of conversation now, for the varsity is out for State championship honors and bids well to acquire them, for her opponents have been unable to cross her goal line so far. Wynne, a giant freshman, is playing on the team, and we expect him to uphold Delta U's football record this fall.

Adelbert's two delegates to the convention have returned and have nothing but praise for the way in which they were received. They report a very fine time at the convention, and their report had a very stimulating effect upon all the active members.

College began September 21st with all indications pointing towards a most prosperous year. There are 160 men in the entering class, about 30 more than usual, bringing the total enrolment up to about 450, the largest it has been for many years.

Two radical changes have been made at Amherst this year. The honor system in examinations has been introduced and the competitive system in electing managers is being given a trial. This latter is primarily intended to do away with fraternity deals and to put the best man in office after he has proven his ability.

College Hall has been completly rebuilt through the generosity of the class of '84, and now is one of the most imposing buildings on the Campus. Work on the new Natatorium is progressing rapidly, and the building is expected to be finished by March, 1906.

The chapter house has been renovated during the past summer and several of the rooms newly papered. We also are enjoying a new smoking room his year.

Brother Haller, '08, is with us this year. He was at Columbia last year. We have enjoyed visits from Bros. Copping, Williams, '05; Greene, Bowdoin, '05, and Barnum, Middlebury, '05, this fall.

But two men failed to return this year—Seaman, '07, who is in New York Law School, and Waite, '08, who is in business this year. Lewis, ex-'05, is with us again in the Senior class after a year of teaching in Cincinnati.

Quite a number of honors have fallen to the lot of old Delta U since last year. Bridgman, '06, is track manager of Scarab, the senior society, a member of the Cotillion club, on the Glee club and at the Senior elections recently was elected prophet-on-prophet. Carter, '06, is manager of the "Amherst Literary Monthly," and last spring took one of the Ladd prizes in Public Speaking. Howe, '06, is on the Glee club and chairman of the College Dramatics committee. Glasgow, '06, and Hall, '06, were elected to the Phi Beta Kappa on the first drawing last spring. Hall is also ivy orator and manager of the college dramatics for the year. Lewis, '06, is fullback on the Varsity football team and also a member of Scarab. Pethybridge, '06, is on the musical clubs, and Thayer, '06, on the golf team. Osborn, '07, is at his old position of right guard on the Varsity football team. Comins, '07, has been class secretary for three years, and is our representative on the Olio board for this year. Palmer, '07, took the second prize in Sophomore Latin last year. In the annual flag rush between the Freshmen and Sophomores held this fall, Feagans, '08, won the contest for the Sophomores by capturing the flag in about two minutes. He was also a member of his class baseball team. Gilpatric, '08, was a member of the Freshman Kellogg fifteen in declamation last year. Derbyshire, '05, and Gardner, '05, were elected to Phi Beta Kappa last year. Derbyshire was also on the Hyde sixteen and the Hardy fifteen. The Kent prize of $100 was awarded to Gardner, '05, for the best essay on an assigned topic.

The chapter feels very proud of the Freshman delegation. We are sure that they will prove one of the strongest Delta U. has ever had at Amherst. H. L. Smith, '09, has already made the Banjo club, and is secretary of his class. In the fall track meet McKay, '09, took third place in the mile run, beating out some fast men.

Our house is always open, and we would be glad to see any of the brothers who may be in this vicinity at any time. T. B. AVERILL.

ALUMNI NEWS.

'54—The late Willard Merrill formed the subject of a comparison with certain prominent insurance officials in an editorial in the "Boston Transcript," a part of which follows:

Sometimes we are enabled through force of contrast to obtain a clearer light on questionable transactions. The "Waterbury American" of a recent date contains a letter written in 1896 by Willard Merrill, vice-president of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, in answer to the solicitation of a Republican congressional committee in Iowa for campaign funds. This letter was a courteous refusal to comply, an extract from which was as follows:

"This company has never made a contribution of that sort. We have felt that we had no right to make a contribution even in cases where a great disaster had overtaken a city or a section of the country. We are aware that some companies have made contributions in some of these cases, but under our charter, and as we understand our duty, we have felt compelled to decline when requests have been made. There are both Democrats and Republicans on the official staff of this company, but we are without exception this fall in favor of sound money and shall vote accordingly. We have no sympathy with the free coinage of silver, but we do not feel at liberty to take part as a company in any political campaign."

There is no casuistry about that reply. It is the plain outgiving of an honest man. "The American" speaks of Mr. Merrill, who is now dead, but who used to be an occasional visitor in Waterbury, as "a man of ideal conscientiousness, and one whose religion influenced and decided every act of his life. He was a very strong Republican, an insurance man of the Jacob Greene type, and we are glad to believe that such men are in the majority. We don't hear much about them because they never become notorious. Downright business honesty neither courts nor receives publicity —as a rule. Sometimes it is necessary to bring it into view at the front of the stage to show that it has not perished from the earth.

'79—On October 22, at the First Congregatinal church, Lincoln, Neb., Rev. J. E. Tuttle rebuked the presi dents of the three New York life insurance companies and declared that convicts were less deserving of eternal stigma, than they were. The meeting was held under the auspices of the National Prison Congress.

Dr. Tuttle declared that the worst men seldom entered prison. Those who did time left disgraced for life. Trickery in business he denounced as worse.

'86—Trumbull White is editor of "The Red Book," a monthly magazine that has made a big success.

'86—Speaking before the special commission appointed to consider industrial and technical education, at the Masachusetts State House on September 22, Robert A. Woods said there is great need throughout the country for men of highly trained skill. "We have done much to develop captains of industry," said Mr. Woods, "but the places of non-commissioned officers are lacking in competent men. The industrial future of Massachusetts depends on our developing a higher degree of skill. The fact that 30,000 men in this State are taking instruction in the correspondence schools show how much special training is needed. The majority of the pupils turned out by the public schools are sure to enter the ranks of the unskilled. We need institutions which will give high-grade training with instructions in the principles of several trades. There is no danger of flooding the ranks of industry, though some workingmen are afraid of it."

'87—Alonzo M. Murphy was chosen one of the directors of the recently organized university club of Spokane, Wash., to serve for a term of three years.

The year of 1905 marks the beginning of the 103rd year of Bowdoin college and never was a year more favorable to the success of Bowdoin's future. The class of 1909 is the largest class that has ever entered Bowdoin. It is full of athletic material as well as scolastic ability. Four freshmen have already made their places on the football team, three of whom are Delta Upsilon men, Blair, '09, quarterback, Stacey, '09, right-tackle and Hafford, '09, right half back. Reed, '09, is also a promising man on the varsity squad.

In the baseball games between the sophomores and freshmen, '08 sophomore team we were represent-sophomores team we were represented by Hayes, '08, and on the freshman team by Richardson, '09, and Harlow, '09. In the freshmen-sophomore football game soon to be played we will be well represented.

At the recent class election Bro. Phillips, '09, was chosen vice-president of the freshman class.

Prepartions are already being made for the college glee club and Delta Upsilon will show up well. Wilson, '07, who sang on the club last year, will fill the same position this year and also the position of asst.-manager. One or two freshmen will also make a strong bid for places. In the college band Cooper, '09, is solo cornetist.

Wilson, '07, manager of the baseball team is making preparations for the college minstrels, for the benefit of the baseball association, to be held January 19th. Delta Upsilon will have several men in the chorus, also one end-man, Kingsley, '07, and one soloist, Blair, '09.

Through the boundless energy and fraternal loyalty of our alumni, we have secured the finest chapter house at Bowdoin, as has been admitted by popular opinion. It has been a great incentive and a great aid to us in securing men.

Our rushing this year was done by very simple methods. Very little money was spent to entertain men, as it was not necessary. We simply invited a man to dinner, showed him the house, and the fellows, told him of the merits of Delta Upsilon, and he pledged. In this way we got sixteen men, and were obliged to turn away several more. This, I think, shows, more than anything else, how well Delta Upsilon is thought of outside of the college world. In closing I extend, in behalf of the Bowdoin chapter a cordial invitation to all Delta Upsilon men to visit us, whenever they are in the boundaries of the State of Maine.

Since last June, affairs at Brown have been progressing in their normal manner, and Delta Upsilon has had its usual allotment of competitive and elective honors. The most important events at the end of the year were, of course, the Class Day and Commencement Day exercises, in both of which Delta Upsilon was represented by Cronkhite, '05, who delivered the Address to the Undergraduates and was also one of the four commencement Speakers chosen by the faculty. On Class Day the Chapter entertained its visiting Alumni and friends at the fraternity house, to our enjoyment as well as theirs.

Among the honors distributed at the end of the year, Delta U. was represented by Wood, '05, who received the Phi Beta Kappa key; by Whitenack, '06, who was elected to the Camarian Club, the honorary senior society at Brown; by Dennet, '07, and Hurley, '07, who were appointed to membership in the Sphinx, a literary and philosophical society; by Bruce, '07, and Dennet, '07, who received respectively the first and second prizes in the Hicks Prize Debate; by MacPherson, '07, who won the third Carpenter Prize in Oratory; by Whitenack, '06, who was appointed editor of the Brown Study in the Brunonian, our monthly; and by Macgregor, '07, who was made a member of the Board of Athletic Directors. As for athletics last spring, in base-ball, though we had no 'Varsity men we supplied the class teams with good material. Among the winners of numerals in base-ball were Reynolds, '07, Gurney, '07, Brown, '07, Dennet, '07, manager; Lyall, '08, and Townsend, '08.

This fall, in athletics, Brown is gaining strength, and on one of the finest foot-ball teams in the college's history is Macgregor, '07, the veteran tackle, and Conklin, '08, last year's guard and this year's center. In the inter-class Field Day events, Tucker, '06, Swaffield, '06, Gallup, '07, and Bruce, '07, all won their numerals. Several of the under-classmen are trying for, and will probably make, their class foot-ball teams. At the class elections, Whitenack, '06, was made chairman of the Class Day Committee for 1906, and Townsend, '08, vice-president of his class. Hurley, '07, is secretary and treasurer, and Dennet, '07, is a member of the executive committee of the Brown Debating Union for the ensuing year, while Hughes, '09, is vice-president of the Freshman Debating Society. The fraternity is also represented on the musical clubs by Hughes, '09. Burgess, '09, was a large winner in the freshman prize Examinations, taking first honors in both Mathematics and Latin, and a half second in Greek.

As a whole we are looking forward to an active season this year.

'70—E. Benjamin Andrews, chancellor of the University of Nebraska, has come to the defence of the men who have amassed large fortunes, and who use them intelligently.

Chancellor Andrews, as a member of the committee which will dispense the $10,000,000 gift of John D. Rockefeller for educational purposes, has been making a study of the questions involved. In an address on September 23, he said:

"Current rage against promoters is in great measure simply part and parcel of the popular hostility felt against all the wealthy. This hatred, so deep, so widespread, so intense, even to savagery, so unreasoning and so relentless, I deem the most dagerous sign of our times.

"Hardly a newspaper in the land but frequently gives it; various pulpits are equally intemperate. The pith is that this gnashing of teeth goes on against the rich as such, without the least discrimination between good and good for nothing. After the lessons of past years, adults who lose by being drawn into unseaworthy schemes should be ashamed to plead the baby act."

'81—Charles E. Hughes was nominated by the Republican party for the office of Mayor of New York city, without his previous consent. When officially notified of the nomination he informed the committee that as he could not accept without sacrificing the work he had undertaken as chief counsel for the legislaive insurance inquiry committee he was constrained to decline. It was a most unprecedented situation and evoked a great deal of comment in the newspapers, which unanimously commended the strong and characteristic stand taken by Bro. Hughes.

Charles E. Hughes, chief counsel of the N. Y. Legislative Insurance Inquiry Committee will be one of the speakers at the dinner of the New York Alumni of the University of Rochester at the University club, December 4.

The frontispiece of "The World's Work" for November is a full page portrait of Charles E. Hughes.

'83—Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, D. D., of Topeka, Kan., delivered the sermon at the fifty-ninth annual meeting of the American Missionary Association at Worcester, Mass., October 17-19, 1905.

'83—On October 24 Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, the reform preacher and author, whose book, "In His Steps," brought him fame, was dangerously ill at Topeka, Kan., and may have to submit to an operation. A consultation of physicians pronounced his case alarming.

'87—A protest against the use of sensational methods for attracting people to church services was made by the Rev. Dr. B. L. Whitman at the last meeting of the Philadelphia Baptist association at Philadelphia on October 11.

"We should not ask people into our churches to worship," he said, "and then present to them a program for mere entertainment. When our ministers are truly imbued with the spirit of God there will not be used such subjects for sermons as 'A Woman in the Case,' a sermon on John the Baptist, 'How It Looks to a Man Up a Tree,' a sermon on Zaccheus, and 'Come and Hear a Donkey Bray,' a sermon on Balaam and his ass.

"And there is too much work being piled on the shoulders of the pastors by congregations. The pastor is expected to do so many things that ought to be done by people in the congregation that he does not have sufficient time for prayerful preparation and study. In many instances the minister is the only financier in the congregation, and then he is expected to head every subscription list and to go on all committees. What we need most of all is to call ourselves back to the life of prayer."

'91—Rev. George H. Ferris, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, New Haven, Conn., has received a unanimous call from the First Baptist Church of Philadelphia.

At present the greater part of our attention is centered on the football team and its preparations under the new Dartmouth coaches to defeat Stanford on November 11th. As yet the team has not been scored against and judging from the game that the freshman team put up when it beat Stanford 6-0, we will not be disappointed with the varsity when its turn comes. Stern, '06, will play right guard, which position he has filled for the last two years and Golcher, '08, is putting up a good fight for left half.

The game this year will be played on the new football field at Stanford. On the night before, the California Alumni club of Delta Upsilon will hold its annual banquet at the Stanford Chapter House. Here we are certain of having a rousing good time.

Stoddard, '06, has recently resigned from his position as manager of the "Daily Californian" on account of its interfering with his college work.

Hartley, '07, has been appointed chairman of the General Committee for Junior Day, the event of the Junior Class.

Hoffman, '07, and Warner, '07, have been initiated into the "Winged Helmet," the Junior honor society.

A. C. North, '08, has been appointed chairman of the Sophomore Burlesque committee and Phinney, '08, has been chosen manager.

Whiting, '08, was on the Senate Debating team in its annual contest with the Congress society.

Drescher, '06, is on the Honor committee of the Associated Students and Wilcox, '07, has been elected to the DeKoven club.

The Chapter has received several enthusiastic letters from its delegates, Armstrong, '06, and Teichert, '07, regarding their enjoyable trip and the very brotherly way in which the Chapters that they have visited have welcomed them.

We shall be doubly glad to receive any visiting Delta U's in our new Chapter House at 2601 Durant Ave.

The college year at Chicago opened October second, with seventeen active Delta U's back. Their activity has resulted in the pledging of six new men, with several others likely to be added soon.

The Chicago Chapter has started the year in a new house—larger and better suited for fraternity use than the old one, at 6128 Woodlawn avenue, within a block of the old house. To let our Alumni in the city know where it is we held a house warming on the night of November fourth, and our register shows the following as among the Alumni who visited us: Joseph Parker Warren, Harvard, '96; Henry J. Brown, Rutgers, '65; James J. Connelly, Lafayette, '98; Hervey F. Mallory, Colgate, '90; Gerald B. Smith, Brown, '91; Guy A. Meeker, Wisconsin, '02; Thomas A. Hamilton, Chicago, '05; E. L. Chambers, Nebraska, '03; James W. Lawrie, Chicago, '03; James Westfall Thompson, Rutgers, '92; H. G. Rich, Cornell, '94; F. M. Lowe, Michigan, '03; B. A. Cohoe, Toronto, '98; Paul H. Seymour, Michigan, '92; Clifford G. Roe, Michigan, '99; and Archibald R. Gibbons, Minnesota, '04.

Besides those above mentioned, we have had visits from the following alumni: G. M. Tunison, Nebraska, '06; F. A. Anderson, Nebraska, '06; J. H. Peterson, Nebraska; W. A. Volkman, Wisconsin, '07; Arthur E. Bestor, Chicago, '01; J. W. Armstrong, California, '06; C. L. Keller, Lehigh, '93; A. Teichert, Jr., California, '07; A. M. Johnson, Michigan, '05.

The opening of the football season found four Delta U's on the team: Parry, '06, left end; Hitchcock, '06, right half-back; Russell, '08, reserve guard; and Webb, '06, reserve center. Parry, as track captain for 1906, is also laying plans for a strenuous indoor and outdoor season. He and Russell and Bro.-to-be Taylor will divide honors in the discus, hammer, and shot events. Hughes, '06, will be back at his old place on the basket ball team.

In the first elections of the year we have fared well. Moulds, '07, was elected treasurer of the Junior class. Harvey Fuller, '08, was chosen secretary of the executive committee of the Philosophy College, and Russell, '08, is a member of the Science College executive committee.

Bruce, '06, and Fernald, '08, are associate editors of the "Daily Maroon," of which Harvey Fuller is a reporter. Moulds and George Fuller, '08, have just been chosen business manager and assistant business manager, respectively, succeeding Markham, '06, and Worley, '06. On the "Monthly Maroon" we are represented by Fernald, associate editor, and Harvey Fuller, art editor. Moulds is law editor of the university annual the "Cap and Gown."

The Fencibles, the university honor debating society, has added to its ranks Judson, '08, Fernald, and George Fuller. Moulds is also a member. Bruce belongs to the senior honor society, the Owl and Serpent. Fernald and Harvey Fuller are members of one Sophomore society, the Skull and Crescent, while the Score Club, the other second year society, has Judson and George Fuller on its rolls. Bros-to-be Talcott and Bowman have been elected to the ¾ Club, the freshman honor society.

Hughes is leader of the Glee Club of which Bro-to-be Adams is a member. On the Mandolin Club we are represented by Harvey Fuller.

Bruce is president of the Dramatic Club, and acting-prior (president) of the Blackfriars, the University comic opera club. To this latter organization also belong Vogt, '06, and Judson.

Moulds is vice-president of the Y. M. C. A.; Fernald is chairman of its membership committee.

Vogt has been elected secretary of the executive committee of the Reynolds Club. Bruce is on its entertainment committee.

We are expecting on Thanksgiving Day a goodly number of our alumni, as well as a good sized delegation from the Michigan chapter, to eat turkey with us and attend the Chicago-Michigan game.

The prospects of the Chicago chapter for a successful year are excellent, and plans for next year are already being begun.

At the opening of the fall term our active membership was reduced to twelve by the loss of Hunt and Davis, '07, and Higgins, '08. Four only of our pledged men entered college this year, but as a result of a very successful rushing season we were able to initiate twelve men.

The annual initiation took place at the Chapter Hall, Thursday evening, October 12. After the initiation ceremonies encouraging words were spoken by President White, Brown, '87; and Bro. Dunham, '86, presented to the Chapter a framed photograph of the Fifty-first Annual Convention held with the Rochester Chapter. The Initiation Banquet took place on the following evening at the Cony House, Augusta, at which Bro. Stevenson, (ex-'02) Harvard, '03, presided as toastmaster.

We have another representative on the faculty this year, Bro. D. K. Arey, '05, assistant in Biology. On the football squad we have Lincoln, '06, Lyons, '08, McLellan, Morgan, and Hackett, '09. In the musical organizations we have: on the Glee Club, Betts, '07, manager; Richardson, Tallman, Foye, and Chandler, '09; on the Mandolin Club, Lincoln, '06, leader; Chandler, Tallman, Blanchard, and Merrill, '09; in the College Choir, Keene, '06, organist; Betts, '07, first tenor.

In literaray activities we have: on the College weekly, Lincoln, '06, literary editor, Betts, '07, news editor; on the annual, Betts, '07, junior editor.

Our men also hold many important class offices. In the class of 1906 Keene is poet, Coombs toastmaster, and Stevens member of the executive committee; in 1907 Colpitts is chaplain and Betts poet; in 1908 Tribou is secretary, Libby poet, and Condon a member of the executive committee; in 1909 Hackett is secretary.

A spirit of loyalty, enthusiasm and fellowship exists among the brothers, and the present year bids fair to be one of the most successful in the history of the Chapter.

We feel that the opening weeks of college have been most prosperous for us. Through the rushing season every one has worked hard for the chapter, and we have every reason to feel proud of the new men whom we have initiated and we believe they will prove most loyal Delta U's. We have also a fine start on a delegation for next year, having four men pledged. While the rushing season is practically over for this fall, yet we strive to make the whole year a rushing season in order that we may look over well the material in the Academy.

On October 19 our annual initiation banquet was held and we were pleased to have with us a number of our alumni and three men from the Hamilton chapter. The following toasts were responded to at the banquet, Joseph F. McGregory,Ph.D., '80, acting as toastmaster:

This year we are very fortunate in that we have in town four of last year's class who are ever ready to advise and aid us. They are: Bro. Aude, who is the instructor in Mechanical Drawing in College and teaches Chemistry in the Academy, and who is also the coach of the Academy football team; Bro. Bailey, who has entered the Seminary; Bro. K. O. Smith, who is doing work in the college; and Bro. W. A. Root, who is in business with his father.

A. M. Hughes, '06, is teaching first year Greek and Anabasis in college in connection with his regular senior work. On the football team we have Stowell, '07, and Porter, '06. The latter, who is manager of the basketball team for this year, is very busy arranging the schedule of games for the season. Cronkhite, '09, is captain of the freshman track team. In the Sophomore-Freshman Track Meet, which was held this fall, Jones, '09, took first place in the 100-yard dash, and Cronkhite, '09, won the pole vault.

We expect to celebrate on November 21 the fortieth anniversary of the founding of our chapter, and expect to have a rousing time then.

We have under way now a movement for the purpose of obtaining funds with which to refurnish our parlor. Letters were sent to all our alumni asking for help and they have responded most nobly, and we extend our thanks to those who have already aided us.

The college this year has an entering class of over ninety.

Science Hall, for which ground was broken last spring, is steadily approaching completion and is to be a fine addition to our group of college buildings.

We feel that it was a great privilege to our chapter to have the national convention so near. A large number of our men and alumni were present at the different meetings, and we all received great inspiration to work harder for Delta U in the future. On Saturday and Sunday after the convention our chapter entertained about twenty men from different chapters.

As the result of strenuous rushing since the end of September, we have secured three good men from the entering class. Our freshmen are quickly becoming factors in college life. In the fall regatta Hoag rowed on his class crew. Pell is out for "Spectator" and is trying for the middleweight event in the cane sprees, which come off just before the Christmas holidays. On November 6, in the presence of a large number of alumni, these three men were initiated into membership in the fraternity. We have a good representation in the Law School this year, all three affiliates being members of its entering class.

On October 6, we held an informal housewarming in our new abode, in order that our alumni might again get in touch with the fellows and see what we have been doing for the last few months. Many of the older men were on hand. The New York chapter attended in a body, including Bro. Crossett, '84, who left a gigantic loose-leaf register at his departure, as a present to the chapter. Our new house has been a great help in the keen rushing that has been going on. It is comfortably filled at present, there being room for about a dozen men in all. Warren, '04, who is in business down town, is living with us for the winter.

In the quarter just past we have been very much in evidence about college. Maynard, '06, was elected secretary of the senior class, a permanent position. Roberts, '07, is treasurer of the junior science class, and Chapin, '07, has been elected secretary of the college division.

Varsity basketball practice has just started. Several positions on the team are to be filled by substitutes on last year's squad, and from the early work Haight, '06, and Fettretch, '06, are first choice in their respective positions.

At a meeting of the lacrosse association in October, Temple, '06, was elected president, and Hill, '07, secretary. Temple played on the lacrosse team all last season at coverpoint.

The University trophy-room is now under the direction of Maynard, '06.

On November 17 the musical clubs went to Ithaca, where a joint concert was held with the Cornell clubs on the evening before the Columbia-Cornell football game. Mastin, '08, and F. Swartwout, '08, were with the glee club, while Temple, '06, played with the mandolin club.

We were glad to entertain the Swarthmore delegates, Bros. Palmer and Walker, as they passed through New York on their way to the convention. Our delegates, Essex, '06, and Roberts, '07, returned from Utica with glowing reports of the reception they met with up state. The transactions of the convention were received by the chapter with much pleasure. It becomes our agreeable duty to thank the Hamilton chapter for the splendid way they entertained the convention.

We will hold another initiation on December 18, at the time of the Alumni association meeting, when we will take in two more men.

We began the year with a small chapter, owing to the fact that we lost last year five men by graduation, and three who have gone into business. However, we are very fortunate in having with us three of the old men—Bros. A. D. Camp, R. C. Rodgers and H. E. Santee. Bros. Camp and Rodgers, of the class of '05, are instructing in the university, and Bro. Santee, '04, is completing his course in medicine.

On October 28 the thirty-sixth annual initiation banquet was held at the chapter house. A number of alumni members of the chapter were present and speeches were in order. Robert James Eidlitz, '85, was toastmaster.

In athletics the chapter has not been exceedingly active. H. E. Davis, '07, varsity fullback last year, has been forced to withdraw from the team this year owing to injuries that he received some time ago. However, the pledged men are showing a very active spirit in college activities, and are making a very good start. One of them is already on the board of the paper published by the College of Engineering, and several others are working hard on their class athletic teams.

We have on the Glee Club two men, Nichols, '06, and I. Davis, '08; and Wesson is on the Mandolin Club. Nichols was also successful in the competition for the Masque, our university dramatic club. H. P. BuBois, '06, is the editor-in-chief of the Cornell Daily "Sun," and A. W. DuBois is the manager of the cross country team.

We were glad to have a number of alumni with us at the initiation and again when we gave a small house party at the time of the Cornell-Columbia game.

'72 and '74—The address to the incoming freshman class of Stanford University, which for many years has been delivered by President David Starr Jordan, was given this year by Dr. John Casper Branner, vice-president of the university and acting president in the absence of Dr. Jordan. In this address President Jordan has always outlined the pathways in which the freshman who desires to do right should walk, and his dry humor has made it one of the interesting events of the opening of the college year. The address was given a somewhat broader scope this year, and was intended for the ears of the whole university.

'77—Dr. Leland O. Howard, entomologist of the Department of Agriculture, recently stated before the International Sanitary commission that the fonts of holy water in churches are in many instances a breeding place of yellow fever mosquitoes and a grave source of danger.

Dr. L. O. Howard was sent to Europe in June by the Massachusetts entomological officials for the purpose of collecting and shipping to this country parasites for the suppression of the gypsy and brown tail moths. On his return he announced that he had made an agreement with European officials whereby they will ship to this country the insects needed here for the moth warfare, in return for American parasites which are needed abroad.

Speaking of his plans, Dr. Howard said that the parasites he had secured merely would keep the moth pest in check, and that property owners should not in any way relax their watchfulness over their trees.

Last year was looked upon as a signal year for De Pauw University. But the opening of this year surpasses last with a greater number of students, a better financial outlook, and many improvements on the college buildings and grounds. Without a doubt the new era predicted for De Pauw is already here and no one has contributed so much to this bright outlook as has President Hughes.

However in football our showing has not been so satisfactory as it was last year. The general line up is not so good. The heaviest blow which the team sustained at the beginning of the season was the absence of its captain, Bro. Carl Tucker, who was in the West and owing to circumstances over which he had no control was rendered unable to return this term. The team has had to overcome other obstacles such as injured men and men going out at request of parents. As a result of all this our first games were not promising. But through the faithful work of the coach and the Athletic Board a good team has been developed and our last three games have scored victory and honor for De Pauw.

For years De Pauw Delta Upsilon has looked forward to the time when she could possess a chapter house. As a result of much faithful work, planning and sacrificing on the part of alumni members and of the active chapter, our men returned this year to a beautiful fraternity home. The method of purchasing was by the incorporation of a house company, shares taken by the alumni and men of the active chapter.

There were ten old men back with the opening of school. In the hardest spike that De Pauw has ever seen eight splendid representative men donned the gold and blue. On account of a slight amount of preparatory work yet to be done by two of these men, William Brown of Greencastle, Indiana, and Arthur C. Cornell of Paw Paw, Illinois, they will not be initiated until later in the year.

Already this year we have had several visits from Alumni members. These visits afforded us great pleasure, and we extend a cordial invitation to any who might at any time be able to come and see us.

C. Earle Smith, '07, and Fred Williams, '06, will be back in school next term.

The following is something of our representation in college enterprises: W. Stanley Gibson, president of Y. M. C. A.; J. D. Sallee assistant editor of "The De Pauw," the college weekly; Roy W. Rawlings and Frank Alford members of the college band.

Our chapter has started prosperously this year with the addition of six new members, one junior and five freshmen. Bro. Dudley, '08, did not return to college this fall, having gone into business with his father.

We have six men out for football this season: Roosa, '06, playing left half and Swetman, '07, left guard on the Varsity; White, '08, sub. left end; Allen, '08, sub. right end; Kneeland, '09, and Spencer, '09, sub. halves. Macdonald, '06, has acted as coach to the "scrub" and also as one of the cheer leaders.

White, '08, Leavenworth, '09, and Spencer, '09, represented their classes in the annual fall field meet between the sophomores and freshmen. McLean, '06, and Trippe, '07, are busy with work on the "Lit;" Maynard, '06, and Clark, '07, are supporting the "Life," and Swetman, '07, is busily engaged as business manager of the "Hamiltonian."

Our freshmen are already taking an active part in college life. Spencer, '09, was elected temporary president of his class at the first election. Leavenworth, '09, won the Baldwin prize entrance examination with papers of a very high character; he is also a promising track man. Meeker, '07, one of our initiates, won the first prize in speaking last June for his class; he is also the assistant manager of the musical clubs and a member of the Advisory Board. And so with the good work of our old members and the excellent start of our new men, we feel that our chapter has promise of a successful year.

'61—After thirty years spent in educational work, Dr. David L. Kiehle is going back to preach in the church which he founded in Preston, Minn., forty years ago, when he came to Minnesota fresh from Union Theological seminary. For ten years after he came to Minnesota Dr. Kiehle was pastor of the Presbyterian church in Preston. He organized the congregation and secured funds to erect a church building. Then he left the ministry to follow educational work.

His services to the educational system of the state are too well known to need detailed comment. He began as superintendent of schools at St. Cloud, and from there was called to the office of state superintendent of education. Later he organized the pedagogical department of the state university, where he still remains as head of the summer training school for teachers.

Dr. Kiehle's return to the ministry is not permanent. He says: "I have no intention of severing my connection with educational work or returning permanently to the ministry. I shall continue my work in connection with the School of Home Study and Correspondence through the winter and mail addressed to me here will be forwarded to me at Preston."

'73—J. Edman Massee has been seriously ill for nearly a year. We hope to report his full recovery soon.

'79—A practical working out of advanced religious thought has resulted in a very significant movement under the leadership of the former evangelist, Benjamin Fay Mills, in Los Angeles, Cal. Of the movement the "Arena" says: "Beginning a few months since with only a handful of devoted individuals and a great idea, with no organization, no money, no meeting place, no prestige or leverage of powerful influence, the Los Angeles Fellowship has grown into a compact organization of over 1,000 contributing members, with 25 working committees, with activities along many lines, with a cash asset of $14,000, with a hearing in the public press, and with universal enthusiasm and limitless hopes and purposes. The head of the fellowship is, of course, its founder, Mr. Mills; working with him is his wife; and working under their direction are other members of their family and a large number of committees, secretaries, assistants, etc.

The attendance at Mr. Mills' public meetings has been phenomenal. The difficulty has not been to get the people to come, but to get halls large enough to hold them. Hall after hall has been given up as too small. Plans are now being perfected for the erection of a great building to accommodate the various activities of the fellowship, including a hall for public meetings, amusement halls, business headquarters, committee rooms, publication offices of the Fellowship Magazine, etc."

The Harvard Chapter started the College year 1905-06 handicapped by the loss of several Seniors who had completed their college course in three years, and gone out into the world before their proper time. The most serious losses were those of Ralph Underhill, who had been elected president of the Chapter, but who is now teaching at the Choate School, in Wallingford, Conn.; W. W. Thayer, who is now a Rhodes scholar at Oxford, but is with us here in spirit; Frank Spencer, who played on the Nine last spring, and Clarence Kempner, our star actor, now reporting for a New York paper. These were serious losses, indeed, but at the very opening of college we were much saddened by the untimely death of Bro. Walter Le Grande Gifford, at his home in North East, Md. Bro. Gifford had been one of our most active and beloved members, and at the time of his death held the position of chapter editor. In addition, our treasurer, Austin, left for a year to accept a position as a tutor in Rye, N. Y., but fortunately left the funds in the capable hands of Bro. Eustis.

Football is now the all-engrossing topic of conversation. Hanley is a candidate for fullback on the Varsity, while Kempner is shining as quarterback on the Second. The work of Hurlin in composing football music should also have its effects when we meet Yale on November 25th. Keays also sacrificed a collar bone to help the good cause along. Johnson, '07, and Brackett, '06, are out for their class tennis teams, Lord is president of the St. Paul's Society, Holmes is on the Banjo club and Christy on the Mandolin club, Holcombe is secretary of the Phi Beta Kappa, and of the Social Service committee, and Eaton of the Andover club.

Of last year's graduates, eleven have returned to the University as members of the various graduate schools. Bates is a Rhodes scholar, Deming and Whitney are assistants in college courses, Groves is a proctor, and secretary of the Phillips Brooks House association. Gring, our star pole-vaulter of two years back, has returned after a year's absence, Adams is seen occasionally, and Johnson, Whitney, Burns, and several more "grads" are living at the house.

The great event of our year is always the annual Elizabethan play, and with this in the capable hands of Hurlin, a successful season is assured. The play has not been definitely selected as yet, but will probably be "Monsieur Thomas," by Beaumont and Fletcher. Though we have lost Clarence Kempner, our shining light for two seasons, yet nine of last year's cast have returned, while among our new members there is promise of good material.

The chapter begins the year with every sign of a successful season, and if the finances can be successfully managed, we hope to be in a position to build a new house in the spring.

Planned primarily for college and university courses in American poetry or American literature, Dr. Page's compilation does not, like the usual anthology, give a few selections from each one of many authors, but includes important poets only—Bryant, Poe Emerson, Longfellow, Whittier, Holmes, Lowell, Whitman and Lanier—aiming to give enough from the works of each one fully to represent the man. The editor furnishes critical and explanatory notes and reference lists.

Out of the smallest Freshman class that has entered Lafayette for a number of years the chapter has succeeded in obtaining eight good solid men for Delta U. With twelve fraternities rushing at once the competition was unusually high and we are congratulating ourselves on getting our share of men, in fact, more than our share. On October 24 the new men were impressively initiated, following which we held a banquet at the Huntingdon Hotel where the active chapter and our alumni endeavored to infuse true Delta U loyalty and enthusiasm into the initiates.

The new Theta Delta Chi house is about completed and there is a rumor that another fraternity is about to break ground for a new home. This inspires us to greater effort as we realized during the past rushing season the difficulty of properly entertaining new men without the aid of a house.

In athletics Brother Shields, '06, was playing sub-end on the Varsity till put out of the game by injuries and Brother Styer, '08, is a halfback on the Scrub. In the class baseball games at the opening of the term Brother Reeder and More played with 1906, Brother Lerch with 1907, Brothers Kinsey, Craig and Wade with 1908 and Brother Ross with 1909.

We are indebted to Brother David Proctor, Columbia, '01, leading man in the "Message from Mars" Co. for his kindness and forethought in reserving a box at the theater for the Delta U's of Lehigh and Lafayette during his recent performance here. The show was thoroughly delightful and the chapter appreciates the spirit of Brother Proctor.

The delegates to the seventy-first convention desire to take this opportunity to extend their thanks and appreciation to the Hamilton chapter for the royal manner in which they were entertained during their stay in Utica and Clinton.

The college year 1904-05 closed for us with a banquet celebrating the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the Chapter. Brother Goldsmith of the Quarterly and Brother F. M. Crossett, New York, '84, who was largely instrumental in the founding of our Chapter, added much to the pleasure of the occasion by their presence. After the banquet, a meeting was held and an Alumni Association organized, which has since incorporated.

We lost two men at the close of the college year, Burchsted, '04-06 and Brown '07, and to our great dismay, two more were forced to leave at the opening of college by a new faculty rule concerning conditions. These were A. B. Marshall, '07, and Hunter, '07. They will return, however, in the summer of 1906, and there is a possibility that Brothers Burchsted and Brown also will return.

The house was open all summer, a goodly number of us being here, either in summer school or at work.

The number of active members in the house this fall is rather small owing to the loss of the four brothers mentioned, and to the fact that one of our men is living outside. But we are enabled to get along very comfortably by the aid of Brothers Jones '04, Mendoza '04, and Galvin '05 who are living with us.

On Founders Day, Oct. 12th., took place the Installation of the new President of the University, Henry S. Drinker, C. E., of Philadelphia, an enthusiastic and loyal Lehigh man, a very able lawyer, and a thorough gentleman. He has become very popular in the short time he has been with us; and a period of great prosperity and advancement is assured to Lehigh under his competent direction of her affairs. Brother Harlan S. Miner, '88, gave the Address of Welcome from the Alumni at the Installation banquet.

After the ceremony of installation, ground was broken for Drown Memorial Hall, which is to be erected on the campus in memory of the late President Drown.

The Hall, which was one of Dr. Drown's most cherished plans, is to be a student's club with a large auditorium, a dining hall, reception rooms, pool, billiard and lounging rooms, bowling alleys, etc.

President Drinker wishes to inaugurate a dormitory system, and there is some talk of giving building sites on the campus to such of the fraternities as desire to build there. If these plans should be carried out they will revolutionize college and fraternity life at Lehigh.

The Delta Tau Deltas and the Alpha Tau Omegas have, this fall, moved into new quarters somewhat nearer the campus.

The football outlook did not seem very encouraging at the outset, but the team is showing steady improvement, and is likely to make a strong finish. Dunn, '07, at center and Rommel, '08 at half-back are representing Delta U. on the Varsity. Brother Dunn has played in every game thus far and is doing excellent work. Brother Rommel has played in the last four games and bids fair to hold down his position for the rest of the season. H. C. Marshall, '06, is doing very nearly varsity work on the scrub.

Stair, '07 is stage manager of the Minstrel Show, and Smith, '06, and Denlinger, '06. are senior-instructors in chemistry.

Our rushing prospects are unusually bright. Although we are not allowed to pledge freshmen until New Year's, we are rushing a large number of exceptionally good men. Owing to the fact that seven of our number expect to graduate in June, it is necessary that we take a large quota from 1909. The entering class, though small, contains much first-class material and we hope to take eight or nine good men from among them.

Bros. Dunn, Rommel and Earnshaw wish to express their gratitude to the New York Chapter for the generous and brotherly reception accorded to them some weeks ago.

We are glad to have with us, as Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., Bro. R. S. Rogers, '05, Syracuse.

We enjoyed our usual seance with the California brethren on their way to Convention. Two of our number were so carried away with these brothers that they were unable to tear themselves away this side of New York. They are thinking of going to California next year.

We acknowledge with pleasure visits from Bros. W. P. Bates, Brown, '02, John A. Williams, Colgate, '01, and C. F. Carman, '99, of this chapter.

Our delegates have returned from Convention and report a corking time.

The present school year promises to be one of great importance and prosperity for Marietta. At the commencement exercises last June there was present the largest and most representative number of alumni that has been here for several years. At that time Carnegie's gift of $40,000 to the college was assured by the alumni's subscribing an equal amount for the erection of a new dormitory and otherwise improving the school. With the erection of two new buildings on the campus activity and enthusiasm has been aroused in all lines of college work. The football team has been unusually successful, having defeated the strong U. of C. team 4 to 2.

We have an active membership of seven which will soon be increased to eleven by the initiation of our freshmen. We have two Delta U. men on the faculty, Bro. A. B. Hulbert, Marietta, '95, having been made professor of American history, and Bro. Payne, Hamilton, '02, being professor of Latin and Greek in the preparatory department.

Stone, '08, is captain of the football team and is recognized as one of the best tackles in the west. Hulbert, '95, is graduate manager of the football team and to his industry and enthusiasm is due a large part of the success of this team. Stealey, '07, is assistant manager of the same team. Lord, '08, was elected manager of the basketball team and Mitchell, '06, manager of the baseball team.

We gave our opening dance September 28th. It was formal and a very enjoyable affair. On October 30th we gave a Hallowe'en dance which was also very pleasant.

We have had with us as visitors Bros. Bennet, Rochester, '04, and Moore, Colgate, '05, with the Muskingum football team.

The delegates to the seventy-first convention report an excellent time. The Hamilton chapter is to be congratulated on its success in entertaining the convention.

We wish much success to all the chapters for the coming year.

'84—Both hisses and cheers greeted the address of Charles G. Dawes of Chicago before the meeting of the State Bankers' association. Mr. Dawes championed corporation methods against indiscriminate criticism. He directed his powers of denunciation against the "down-with-the-high-finance" school of literature, and praised the Garfield report on the beef trust.

The preceding speaker had commented upon the multitudinous sins of the captains of industry in rough-shod manner. Mr. Dawes was not able to contain his rising indignation. He began a vehement counter-attack as soon as he was given the floor, and was greeted by a tempest of hisses. But, nothing daunted, the ex-controller of the currency continued, modeling his style on "Cicero against Catiline," and the effect was spectacular. He brought his peroration to a thrilling climax with a staccato dictum that reduced his hearers to a state of rich and penitent enthusiasm.

"To hell with platitudes," declaimed Mr. Dawes. Never did an actor make a better point than the usually sedate president of Chicago's Central Trust company. The western appreciation of a breezy phrase broke loose in a whirl of applause. Mr. Dawes had converted the hissers and the lance hurled in defense of capitalism had struck home.

"I felt humiliated and ashamed at the remarks of the speaker who has just finished," he began. "The gentleman saw nothing but wrong in everything. He seemed to be searching for the seamy side and to be overlooking the virtues in the question. This is no time for such utterances."

Here the hisses started, but Mr. Dawes could not be stopped.

"I have no sympathy with the man who has been 'stuck' in Amalgamated," he continued. "The first lesson in the business of stock buying is to know exactly how much each share is worth. Stop these indefinite accusations. Do not try to fight Rockefeller, the steel trust, and half a dozen other organizations at once. Find one that is doing wrong and punish it. The lamentable fact is that you who howl continually have no constructive theories. We have too many iconoclasts and too few effective builders. It is the man who works for the right, not the man who talks against the wrong, that is the real reformer.

"This is the day of critics. Waves of investigation, such as are now sweeping over the land, come in periods of prosperity, for when we get our nose to the grindstone after a period of depression our first thought is to poke that nose into somebody else's business.

"Let us have a sane consideration of the trust and corporation questions. There are good corporations and bad corporations. It is the duty of the citizens of the country to study the original contracts upon which corporations are based. Were this done there would be less stock bought and fewer people defrauded out of money. Politicians and office seekers should not be permitted to look into the questions. Sane business men must take them up.

"Prepare yourselves for the settlement of industrial questions in a logical manner. Do not denounce everything in general, but study some particular evil and then fight hard. Know your subject before you begin."

Mr. Dawes defined a corporation as a device for the "distribution of risk, profits, ownership and management of business between individuals."

'95—"Washington and the West" by Archer B. Hulbert is the title of a book just published by the Century Company. The volume treats of a new phase of Washington's life, showing his influence in shaping the early policy of the nation along the lines of expansion and internal improvement. Much of the book is devoted to his diary of September, 1784, which is given in full; this has to do with a trip across the Alleghenies in the neighborhood of Deer Park and Oakland, Md., in the interest of internal improvements.

The college year opened at McGill with bright prospects for our fraternity. We had only three men in last year's graduating class and one of them is back with us taking a further degree. We have already taken in four men and have a line on several more. Bro. Will Stewart, one of our new initiates, is president of the McGill Athletic Association, the body which controls all athletics at McGill.

The university inter year sports were held on October 13. McCuaig, '06, ran first in the 220 yards and second in the 100 yards and 440 yards. Bro. Waugh distinguished himself by breaking the college records in the high jump and 120-yard hurdle events. He also won a place in the broad jump.

On October 20th the McGill track team captained by Bro. McCuaig defeated the track teams of Toronto and Queens, Bro. McCuaig making the highest individual score.

On the football field we have Bro. Beckwith playing centre scrimmage for the first XIV. and several of the brethren playing on their class teams.

At the annual meeting of the hockey club Bro. Lindsay was elected president and at a later meeting Bro. McCuaig was chosen as manager of the team. Bro. Walker also is on the hockey club executive.

In the intercollegiate football league McGill was unfortunate in losing her first two games each by the margin of but one point, but on Thanksgiving day she decisively defeated Ottawa College. She was also awarded a draw in place of her first defeat as the ruling of the referee on one point was held to be wrong by a meeting of the league.

At the Rifle Competition held October 28 Bro. Woodyatt won sixth place and Bro. Lindsay also figured in the prize list.

Bro. McCuaig is president of Science, '06.

This year the new McGill Y. M. C. A. building called "Strathcona Hall" in honor of one of the principal donors, Lord Strathcona, was opened. It is a beautiful and well furnished building of five stories in height containing besides large sitting and reading rooms a large auditorium and also apartments for about 60 or 80 students.

Bros. McCuaig, Waugh and Davidson report a splendid time at the convention in Utica and McGill is very glad to welcome Illinois University into our fraternity.

College has now been under way for a little over a month, and everything is well with the Michigan chapter. We look forward to one of the most successful years in our history. Above all, we have secured a large and good freshman class. Without detracting at all from past classes, alumni of our chapter have remarked that "these new ones are the best ever." In short, we are more than satisfied.

The football season has opened with the best prospects for another championship for Michigan. Weeks, '07, is again used by Yost as general utility man on the varsity. Chandler, '08, and Gray, '08, are both sure of "R's" for their services on the reserves.

In the realms of journalism we are everywhere strong. Shaw, '04, is managing editor of the "Alumnus; Hull, '05, '08 Law, is literary editor of "The Inlander," of which magazine Davis, '08, is exchange editor.

Young, '06, is on both the mandolin and banjo clubs, while Cutting, '06 Law, is on the glee club.

Park, '06, has been appointed assistant instructor in chemistry in the Engineering department, while Burnett, '07, holds a similar position in bacteriology in the medical department.

We have just learned of the admission by the present convention of the KK club as the Illinois chapter of Delta Upsilon, and we all feel that within a year this will be one of the leading chapters of our fraternity. Messrs. Frost and Finlay from Champaign were with us last week for several days, and made a great impression upon all of us.

Brothers Anderson and Tunison of Nebraska stopped off to see us as they passed through bound for convention, and we shall not be satisfied until they come again.

But we have had one deep sorrow this fall in the death of our dearly beloved brother, William Russell Lloyd. He graduated last year from the Law department, having previously received his A. B. degree here also, was one of the best known men in the university, and without doubt did more for the fraternity than any man whom we have had with us in the past six years. His memory will ever be fresh, though he is no longer with us in person. Elsewhere in this number will be found resolutions of the chapter concerning his death.

Well, the Fall campaign is over, and we have had our usual success as regards a Freshman delegation. On the first Saturday of the term we gave a dance in our rooms which, under the able management of Bro. Holmes, was a success in every sense of the word. Since then we have given but one dance. It is our custom to hold these about once in two weeks throughout the year. Athletics here this year are not as successful as we could wish. We have won only two games out of five. We have four more games and we are going to try hard to win. At present we have only two men on the team. Bros. Cushman and Parker.

At the annual class elections we secured Freshman President, Bro. Peach; Senior President, Bro. Ricker; Junior Treasurer, Bro. Dodge; Chairman Junior Prom committee, Bro. Acton; Senior Treasurer, Bro. Hooker; Chairman Senior Ball committee, Bro. Parker. Class Day officers, Bro. Cushman, Ivy Oration; Bro. Bird, Orator.

Brother Cushman, '06, is President of the Athletic Association for the ensuing year and Bro. Acton, '07, is Treasurer.

Bro. Wetherell, '05, is with us again as a tutor in Geometry, English and History. We also have Bro. Harriman of the Bowdoin chapter in town as principal of the local High School.

As usual the brothers are taking a very active part in all lines of college activity and so far everything points to a very successful year for our chapter away up here in the Green Mountain State.

Hon.—Senator Redfield Proctor, in a letter to the Secretary of the Vermont State Tuberculosis Commission, announces that he will purchase a site and erect a sanitarium as a cost of about $50,000 in Vermont for treatment in incipient cases of tuberculosis.

The building will accommodate from twenty-five to thirty patients. In addition the Senator says he will give $100,000 as endowment for the institution. He suggests that a board representing all sections of the State, headed by the Governor, be selected to have charge of the sanitarium and to provide that if the State at any time wishes to assume the charge and maintenance of the institution it may in the discretion of the trustees be turned over to the State with all its property and funds. The site has not been announced, but will be selected soon. The Senator says he makes the gift at the request of his children.

MINNESOTA.

Active membership, 20.

The interest of Minnesota, almost of the Northwest, is at present centered in our "varsity" football team. Hundreds of people go to see the small games. Thousands from all parts of the state and surrounding territory come to Minneapolis to see a championship game. Up to date our "varsity" team has been successful; it has scored three hundred and thirty seven (337) points against its adversaries, while its own goal has never been in danger of being crossed. There yet remain four games to be played; the important ones being with Wisconsin, Nov. 4th, and Nebraska.

On the "varsity" team is Brush, '07, who plays right tackle, and Weisel, who is sub-quarter. O'Brien, '04, ex-quarter, has been assisting in coaching.

Our chapter is taking a very active part in University affairs. We have still two men on the Athletic Board of Control. Claude S. Haney is Colonel of the University Corps Cadets and C. P. Schouten is Major of the 1st Batallion. John Lowe, '07, is business manager of the "Minnesota Daily," and associate editor of the 1907 "Gopher," the Junior annual. Two of our brothers are chairmen of committees on the Junior Ball Association. Geraghty, '07, was elected president of the junior class of the College of Engineering. Adams, '06, is editor-in-chief of the "Engineer's Year Book." Weisner, '06, is president of the Engineer's Society. In the Glee and Mandolin clubs we have three brothers, one of whom, C. Champine, '08, is the business manager.

Bro. Canovarra, Cornell, '08, has registered as a student in our College of Forestry.

Lawton and Charles are now at the convention in Utica and have already reported that they were being royally entertained and that they were most favorably impressed with the brother delegates. We hope to receive many new ideas and added inspiration to fulfill the ideals of Delta Upsilon.

The year of 1905-6 opened at Nebraska with thirteen old men back. On September 29, the first initiation of the year took place. The charge to the six men was delivered by Bro. Tuttle, Amerst, '79. According to custom a banquet was held on the same evening at which Bro. Harrison, '04, acted as toast-master. He proposed toasts which were replied to by the following brothers: Dr. French, Brown, '85; Pollard, Nebraska, '01; Knapp, '03; Lundin, '06; Burr, '08; Sage, '09. Delta Upsilon already has begun to gather in the honors at Nebraska. Davis, '06, has been chosen editor-in-chief of the "Law School Annual" and also manager of the Senior Play. In the Y. M. C. A. work we have Lundin, '06, and Burr, '08, on the cabinet, while Stephens, '08, and Humphrey, '08, are doing good work on committees. In the military department three Delta Upsilon men have been promoted to be non-commissioned officers. These are Stephens, '08, Burr, '08, and Clark, '08. The Vikings, an inter-fraternity organization, have elected Clark, '08, to membership.

In athletics we are especially strong this year. Lundin, '06, alternates at right tackle on the football team, and will probably get in some of the big games. In basket ball we have two first team men Hagensick, '06, and Moser, '07. Winters, '09, is also showing up. Track prospects are excellent. Hagensick is expected to smash something in the pole vault next spring and Collins, a pledge, is a hammer thrower. Winters, '09, another pledge, is our strongest track possibility. His events are the quarter mile and 220 yard dashes and the broad jump. He holds the Missouri Valley record in the first named event and last spring jumped 23 feet, 6 inches. Sage, '09, has a record of 4:50 in the mile run.

Anderson and Tunison, our delegates to the convention, returned with many good ideas from the chapters they visited, which we hope to profit by. They also reported the finest kind of a time and a warm reception by all the Delta U's on their route.

A matter has come up at Nebraska which promises serious consequences if it culminates the way it has started. The board of regents of the University, through the faculty have called a meeting between representatives of the fraternities and representatives of the faculty. The cause of this is a movement to prevent fraternities from rushing and pledging men until they become sophomores. The fraternities all are opposed to any such move and it will probably fall flat.

Two new buildings are being completed on the campus, the Physics building, just west of the old University hall, and the new administration building in the center of the front campus.

Preparations for our annual banquet and dance are under way for the eighth and ninth of December, and so many old men have signified their intentention of attending that a jolly reunion is assured.

The first month or more of college activity has passed, and the New York chapter has entered upon another year of—let us hope—a successful season. We miss with regret our brothers of 1905, Big "Tom" Reilley and the others, but we hope to have them with us frequently so we will only consider it a temporary loss.

A delegation of twenty-three active men returned to college, including our two captains, Lillis of the baseball team, and Tippett of the track team. Captain Reilley of football and Captain Hardy of gym. were lost by graduation.

New York University bids fair to have an active season along many lines, and prominent among its workers are enrolled many Delta U's. The positions they have won were acquired through credit and not any particular fraternity rivalry or desire. On the 1906 publication, "The Violet," edited by the present junior class, we have three of the board of editors, Hill and Van Horne, with Baxter, business manager.

Delta U. has again upheld her reputation for class officers. From the incoming freshman class we have Macdonald, president, and Wilson, class secretary. From the sophomore class, Bro. Scannel is vice-president, while Bro. Tippett holds the same place in the senior class. The Class Day officers have not as yet been chosen, but Delta U. looks forward to a good representation.

Our chapter house has, indeed, fared well this fall. Through the efforts of Bro. Crossett, '84, we have been the recipient of forty college shields given by prominent alumni of Delta Upsilon among the colleges in which we have chapters. Our Rev. Bro. Bishop Henry Spellmeyer, D. D., '66, sent the New York University shield; William Travers Jerome, Amherst, '82, contributed the Amherst emblem, and the remainder were presented by our alumni of note. In addition to this we have a handsome new table and chairs for our reception room. We have nearly completed our collection of college flags and wish that those chapters which have not as yet exchanged would come to the front promptly.

In our library we have nearly completed our file of Quarterlies and Annuals handsomely bound. We have also placed there a large picture of Stephen J. Field, LL. D., Williams, '37, and an additional picture of President Garfield. It may be of interest to note that in the lower left hand corner is a card bearing the following inscription:

JAMES A. GARFIELD, LL. D.

Orator, 1867 and 1876 Conventions of Delta Upsilon. President 1870 and 1880 Conventions of Delta Upsilon. Major-General U. S. Army; Congressman 1863-'80. U. S. Senator 1880; 20th Pres. of the United States, 1881. Shot by an assassin, Washington, D. C., July 2, 1881. Died Sept. 19, 1881. The First College Fraternity President of the United States.

Besides these pictures we have a large number of chapter and convention groups.

We extend a welcome hand and an open door to all Delta U's who can find it convenient to visit us. May this invitation not go wanting.

'66—In a letter dated Washington, D. C., October 26, 1905, Bishop Henry Spellmeyer, D. D., LL. D., wrote to a member of the New York chapter: "I was at Cornell last Sunday awhile—great Delta U. house there, proud of it. Success to the convention."

'92—J. Francis Tucker, an orator for the Republican party, was assigned to speak at an outdoor meeting at 117th street and Fifth avenue, during the recent campaign in New York city. When those who had got up the meeting arrived at the corner they found a Tammany meeting there, and accordingly moved up a couple of blocks. Mr. Tucker, who arrived late, had no notice of the change. Arriving at 117th street and finding a meeting going on, he ascended the platform, and requested that he be allowed to speak at once, as he was in a hurry to keep another engagement. The chairman obligingly complied with his request, and the orator who was speaking was told to stop and give Mr. Tucker a chance.

The first two or three sentences of Mr. Tucker's speech struck the crowd as queer and there were some murmurs of discontent, but it was not until he asked, "has Mr. Murphy told you yet where he got it?" that the crowd tried to storm the stand.

"Where in blazes did you come from?" asked the chairman of the meeting.

"From the Republican County committee," said Tucker. "Isn't this a Republican meeting?"

The chairman conveyed to the crowd the information that Mr. Tucker was a Republican orator who had made a mistake. The retreat of Mr. Tucker was not conducted in good order.

'92—Louis W. Stotesbury recently was commissioned First Lieutenant of Company F, 7th Regt. N. G., N. Y. The chapter is much indebted to its alumni, and especially to those living in the house. They have assisted us greatly during the fall rushing, having helped to make it a success. Among those living in the house are Brothers H. E. Smoot, '03, and K. H. Davenport, '04, both of whom are attending the Northwestern Law School.

Just before Commencement we pledged Brother Shumway, who was at that time released from the customary Academy pledge. This fall by a large majority vote he was elected President of the freshman class.

Bro. Dorner won for himself considerable distinction last year in athletics by being a member of both the University track team and basket ball team.

We also have among our initiates George H. Swift, who is a son of one of our charter members, Polemus H. Swift, '81.

Among the graduates last year Bros. Cady and Brown were elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Bro. Riley held the office of Historian of the class of 1905. On the gridiron we are well represented by Scott, '06, left guard, and Gilbreth, '07, left tackle.

On the "Northwestern," the University tri-weekly, we are represented by Schafer, '07, in the capacity of associate editor. The Y. M. C. A. cabinet also has its quota of Delta U's. Smoot, '07, represents the membership committee, and Schafer, '07, is vice-president of the Association and chairman of the Social Committee.

Among those who did not return to school this fall, Brown, '05, holds the chair of chemistry at Petoskey, Michigan; Cady, '05, holds that of Geology at Winfield, Kansas; Howser, '05, is Collection Attorney for the Casualty Insurance Company of America; Riley, '05, has a good position with Reid, Murdock & Co.; Eilers, ex-'05, is in business at Gillespie, Ill.; St. Clair, '06, is studying law at the University of Iowa; Tillotson, '08, is studying engineering at Purdue University, and Poole, '08, is in business with his father at Mt. Vernon, Ill.

The annual initiation and banquet was held on October 19, at the Union Hotel in Chicago. Invitations were issued to all the alumni and those who could do so responded. After the banquet several toasts were given, among them being one worthy of especial mention, that of Brother Swift. '81, who told of the early days of the fraternity at Northwestern. Bro. A. B. Kanavel, '96, very ably acted as toastmaster.

The meeting of some of the delegates to the 71st convention was a pleasant occasion. We received short visits from Bros. Armstrong and Teichert from the University of California, Bros. Tunison and Anderson from the University of Nebraska and Bros. Lawton and Charles from the University of Minnesota.

Ohio State University opened this fall with the largest attendance in its history, the total registration up to date pressing near the 2,000 mark. From all indications, the year will be a most prosperous one and Delta U. is sharing in the general prosperity.

All of our last year's undergraduates, with the exception of one, are back in school, thus giving us a good nucleus to start the year's work. The rushing here this year was more strenuous than ever but this did not deter us from getting the men desired.

On the evening of October 14th, we initiated three men, the initiation being followed by a banquet at the chapter house. A number of our alumni delighted us with their presence and everyone had a most enjoyable time.

We have pledged three more men who will be initiated at the beginning of the year.

The football season is at its height and so far our team has made an excellent showing. On October 28 we met Case, our great rival, and before a record-breaking crowd the two teams battled through two long halves without being able to score.

Schory, '08, the star fullback of last year's team, is playing in old-time form although he has just recently recovered from a siege of typhoid fever. Surface, '07, has been playing a steady, consistent game at tackle and Barrington, '09, is making a good showing at the quarterback position. A wealth of material is out on the squad and by another year a great team should be developed.

Marker, '04, captain of the 1903 team and tackle on four Varsity teams, has been assisting in the coaching of the team in its preparation for the coming hard battles.

Basketball which was such a great success last year, is already on the boom. Several of last year's stars will be missed, but from the quantity of material it is hoped to develop another championship team. Up to date there are over seventy candidates for the team. Among these we have Felger, '06, Dennis, '07, Schory, '08, and Barrington, '09.

Brooks, '06 holds the chairmanship of the senior social committee.

Reigart '07, is on the staff of the college paper.

We are now located at 138 West Ninth avenue, and like our new place very much. Our new departure of running our own table has proven very satisfactory and things are running very nicely.

Our alumni drop in on us quite frequently which is a very satisfactory occurrence as they all seem infused with Delta U spirit.

Since our last letter we have been favored with visits by Bros. Richardson, Swarthmore, '02, Viger, Michigan, '05, and Tucker, DePauw, '08.

GEORGE RAUL MILLER, '09, Pittsburgh, Pa.

At Pennsylvania we have started the year with every indication of increased prosperity. All but three of last year's chapter are again in college and the work of getting started is being pushed with great energy. In addition to the two initiates which we take pleasure in introducing to the Fraternity we have one man pledged and many others in view. Also Bros. Marquissee of Wisconsin and Hunter of Lehigh who are in the University are taking an active interest in the chapter and are a great help.

But the activity of the members of the chapter is not confined to internal affairs. We are well represented in every branch of the University life. Galey, '06, is manager of the gymnasium team and Scot, '06, is manager of the fencing team. Martin, '07, is President of the Junior class. Abrams, '07, is on the Junior Ball Committee. Bennis of last year's football team is again with the squad and will probably play one of the backfield positions. Johnston, '08, is easily first substitute quarterback. Bromley rowed in the first year Law crew and Galey and Bogardus in the Senior college crew in the Fall regatta.

The University has begun the year with very bright prospects. The enrollment has increased several hundred, a larger increase than any other Eastern college enjoys. The chances for a champion football team were, at the outset, all we could ask for. With a host of candidates and Mike Murphy as trainer it looked like a sure thing; but accidents, illness and the Faculty have removed so many of the best players that it will be hard to get through the season without losing a game.

We have enjoyed many visits from members of other chapters this fall and look forward to many more during the year. Come and see us whenever in Philadelphia.

Our prospects for a successful year are very bright. Nearly every one of the men is actively interested in some branch or other of the college work. At the initiation banquet on the evening of October 20, a larger number of alumni were present than for several years past. Bro. Wilcox, '90, acted as toastmaster, and toasts were responded to by Bros. Harry Bowers Mingle, Pennsylvania, '99, John R. Slater, Harvard, '94, Walter R. Rauschenbusch, '85, and Clarence C. Keehn, '00.

Bro. Humpstone, who entered the chapter with the class of '93, but did not remain to graduate, has returned to college and active membership in the chapter. Bro. Humpstone has been selected as both director and leader of the University Glee club, a position for which he is admirably fitted, having spent the past twelve years teaching music in Brooklyn. He will graduate in 1906.

The chapter is represented on the varsity football team by Jordan, '07, left guard; Reynolds, '06, center; Fowle, '09, right half; Roberts, '09, end and sub-quarter; Williams, '09, sub-half, while Brink, '06, Munger, '08, and Ramaker, '09, are filling regular positions on the second eleven. Napier, '07; Taylor, '07; West, '07;, Fowle, '09, and Robinson, '09, are members of the college glee club. On the college orchestra are Taylor, '07; Benedict, '08, and Robinson, '09. McChesney, '09, is on the mandolin club.

Freshman—McChesney, vice-president; Ramaker, basketball captain.

As manager of the University Dramatic club Rathjen, '06, is very busy with the preparations for a college play which will be presented early in December.

Saunders, '06, is deeply interested in the work of the college Y. M. C. A. and the success of the annual hand-book of the local chapter of that organization was due largely to his efforts.

Never has our chapter been in a more prosperous condition. With twenty-four active members and our house full we have reason to feel that Delta U. is going to make her influence felt this year as never before in Rutgers life.

In the class elections recently held, Bro. Kain was elected secretary of the senior class and Bros. Murphy and Green selected as senior members of the Student Self-government Board; Bro. Kain was also appointed chairman of the Senior Play committee. Bro. Stockum was elected junior member and Bro. Segoine sophomore member of the Self-government Board.

On the gridiron Delta U. is represented by Green, '06, captain and left end; Murray, '06, right end; Tharp, '07, quarterback, and Segoine, '08, quarterback.

Murphy, '06, is again holding his position as manager of the Glee club with promises of a fine season; and Andreae, '09, has been elected first tenor of the Glee club.

Living up to its prize-taking reputation our chapter captured both the first and second Sloan Entrance examination prizes through the efforts of Bros. Potter and Devan (pledged) respectively. This augurs a great prize-taking season.

Bro. Besson, '07, has been chosen editor of the college annual, "The Scarlet Letter," and Bro. Harman-Ashley, '09, is one of the reporters for the "Targum."

A Pan-Helenic council has recently been organized at Rutgers, of which Kain, '06, has been elected president. We are hoping for great things from this council of the Greeks.

Our entire chapter was greatly pleased at the reports brought back from the convention by its delegates Bros. Fales, '06, and Gies, '07, particularly with the admission of the new chapter at Illinois into our fraternal bonds.

We wish the best of success to all the chapters and trust that they will be as prosperous this year as we hope to be.

Delta Upsilon at Stanford is just now at its busiest time of the whole year. The annual football game between Stanford and California is less than two weeks away. Preparations are being made to entertain the many visitors we expect at this, the first intercollegiate football game to be played on the Stanford Campus. We expect all of the California Chapter and all of the alumni of Delta Upsilon in this part of the country to be with us on the day of the "Big Game." The annual banquet of the California Delta Upsilon club is to be held in our chapter house on the evening before the game.

Football practice, rehearsals for the Football Show, Glee and Mandolin clubs, Sophomore-Freshman debate, Competition for the Bonnheim Dissertation, management of the program for the football game, fall training on the track, and the Convention at Utica are some of the things which, added to the regular college work, are keeping the members of Delta Upsilon busy.

Our initiates have taken hold quickly of our principle of having "every man in something." Three of them were on the freshman football squad, and the fourth is preparing for the Sophomore-Freshman debate.

The University is nearing the end of what has been aptly called the "Stone Age." A few weeks will see the completion of the stone work on the new Library building, which marks the fulfillment of the architectural ideals of the University set by its founders. Our new football field is nearly completed. The bleachers, built in the shape of a long U and rising to a height of sixty feet, are to seat 16,000.

We are anxiously awaiting the return of our delegates from the convention with news of the action taken on the many important matters brought before it.

SWARTHMORE.

Active membership, 17.

The advent of winter finds the Swarthmore Chapter prosperous and happy. Last spring's elections brought us several official honors as follows: Palmer, '06, president of the A. A. and basketball captain; Perkins, '06, lacrosse and track manager; Henrie, '07, assistant basketball manager and track captain.

At Commencement, Bro. Robinson, '05, ΦβK was awarded the gold medal for scholarship and character, while Bro. aJckson, '05, was Class Day Presenter.

So far this fall, the football team has been very successful, three of the four games played having been victories. Penn. alone has beaten us, by the score of 11-4. Perkins, '06. is our only representative on the team this year, as Lamb, '06, is not playing on account of his health.

Fall lacrosse practice has been going on in earnest, and several of the brothers have been making a good showing. Price, Lamb, G. L. Broomell, Eastwick, Booth, Darlington and D'Olier were members of the varsity team which defeated Pennsylvania in a practice game on October 27.

In the musical clubs this fall we have Palmer, Price, Darlington and D'Olier on the Glee Club and Palmer and Booth on the Mandolin club. The prospects are very bright in this line, and we hope to have some good entertainments.

The college has obtained the best talent for the Lecture Course this year, and it promises to be even more successful than last year. The opening lecture was delivered at October 18 by Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis. His subject was Oliver Cromwell, and the talk was of exceptional interest.

The Athletic Association has erected a large new grand-stand on Whittier Field.

We were very glad to receive visits from Bro. Goldwin Goldsmith and from Bros. Teichert and Armstrong of California, on their way to the Convention. We are also fortunate in having Bro. Harris, '02, living in Swarthmore.

Our annual banquet will be held at the Bellevue-Stratford, Philadelphia, on December 9.

The University opens with an entering class estimated at between eleven and twelve hundred and in all the University about twenty-eight hundred. This is about three hundred in advance of the attendance of last year. The entering class seems to be a very strong one, having shown up well in the two events in which they have had a chance, the interclass meet which they won with thirty-six points. and on the football squad where six or seven freshmen are playing regular positions on the first team and as many more are on the squad. By report they also bring in many star men for the basketball team which, since it does not lose one of last year's star team, should take a position in inter-collegiate basketball even in advance of that of last year. Also report has it that the entering class will materially strengthen the baseball team in the Spring and many responded to the call of Capt. Rutherford a few days since. Our football team seems to be the strongest we have ever had as they have won all the games played so far this year with the exception of the Yale game. Over three hundred students of the University attended the game held with Hamilton college at Clinton and had a most enjoyable time.

The Flour rush and Salt rush were held as usual and furnished the same amusement to the spectators and the same exhibition of class spirit as heretofore, the former being won by the freshmen and the latter by the sophomores. The sophomore reception to the freshmen was held September 21 and the Y. M. C. A. reception to all the University on September 23, both proving very enjoyable and successful, the social part of the latter being under the direction of Rice, '07, chairman of the Social Committee.

Work on all four of our new buildings, Stadium, Library, Hall of Natural History and L. C. Smith College of Applied Science, is progressing rapidly and gives a busy appearance to the campus.

The Chapter held the first part of its initiation October 18 at the house and the formal initiation October 20 at the Yates Hotel, where nearly fifty gathered around the banquet table to hear the toast list called for by Toastmaster Murdock, '85, and to meet the eight initiates. Eighteen of the old men returned this Fall, who with the new men making a chapter of twenty-six, give promise of a successful year.

Delta Upsilon men are in every form of activity on the hill this fall. Cummings, '07, is assistant manager of the football team. Massey, '06, is manager of the "University Herald;" Mitchell, '06, is chorister of the University Y. M. C. A.; Illman, '08, is manager of the sophomore track team; Hastings, '08, is manager of the sophomore football team; Hopkins, '08, is on the executive committee of the sophomore class.

Among the '09 men Townsend is chairman of the executive committee of his class; Murdock is manager of the freshman track team and treasurer of the freshman debating society.

Delta Upsilon is represented on the University Instrumental Club by Stoddard, '08, Townsend, '09, and Greene, '09.

Delta Upsilon has three candidates entered in the Inter-Fraternity Tennis Tournament which comes off in the near future. They are: Mitchell, '08, Rice, '07, and Freeman, '08.

Hastings, '08, is Syracuse editor of "Intercollegiate Athletics" and University correspondent of the "Syracuse Telegram."

Lincoln, '09, is on the executive committee of the freshman class.

TECHNOLOGY.

Active membership, 19.

At the time of this writing it has only been four weeks since the term commenced and affairs at Technology are just getting in good running order.

We start the year nineteen strong, fifteen of this number living at the house. This is by far the largest number with which we have started the opening term for some time, and needless to say we can afford to take our time in selecting new men.

The entering class is smaller in numbers than usual this year. However, four promising men have been pledged so far.

Bros. Merryweather, '04, and Tower, '05, are with us again, taking graduate work.

Athletics, although always very limited at Technology, are still further handicapped by the loss of our gymnasium. A new one is in process of construction, but is still several months from completion.

Barnes, '08, was the first to represent Technology in the recent golf championship tournament, in which he handily defeated Mr. Gregory of Williams and Mr. Mayer of Brown.

Barnes, '08, is holding down his old position as halfback on the 1908 class football team. Bridgman, '08, is also a candidate for the backfield.

Brooks, '08, has been appointed business manager of "The Tech."

Motter, '05, made us a short visit during the first of October.

Bros. Armstrong and Teichert of California dropped in on us on their way to the convention. Bro. Dennedy of Chicago, who is taking work at the Institute has also been a welcomed visitor.

Football is now the all-absorbing topic at the University and Toronto is ably upholding her past record, having won all three games so far and being universally recognized as the champions of the Canadian intercollegiate Rugby Football union, which now includes Ottawa College as well as McGill and Queen's Universities. The second team has good prospects of winning the Intermediate championship, but the Thirds have been outclassed in their league. Delta Upsilon is represented by McPherson, '07, who holds the position of manager and acting captain and plays a star game on the half line of the first team. Toms, '07, is spare man on the first team, and Hart, '06, and MacCurdy, '08, are on the third team.

The most important event in our local Greek world was the re-establishment of a chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta. The organization to which the charter was granted has had a local existence for several years as the Delta Theta Sorority.

Delta Upsilon has obtained her usual number of prominent appointments this fall. Loudon, '05, was elected by acclamation to the presidency of the Engineering Society, the most coveted honor in the School of Science and one which has never before fallen to the lot of a fraternity man on account of the strong antifraternity spirit in the school. Scully, '06, is sporting editor of "Varsity," and chairman of the Arts Dance committee. Clark, '06, is Secretary of the Tennis club. MacCurdy, '08, and Gallie, '08, are president and critic respectively of their Class executive.

We all enjoyed the visit of Bros. Anderson and Tunison of Nebraska on their way to the convention.

All indications point to the most successful year in the history of Delta Upsilon in Toronto. The opening of our University is later than at most American Universities and our rushing methods are slower. So, as yet, we have only initiated two men. Still, we have five or six more excellent men in view with good prospects of securing them.

'97—Rev. F. H. Barron of the class of 1897, University of Toronto, has been appointed to the presidency of the Davis and Elkins College in Elkins, West Virginia, in which college Mr. Barron has been professor in philosophy and Biblical literature. He also is the pastor of the Davis Memorial Presbyterian church in the same city.

'01—Frank Herbert Wood, until recently connected with the staff of Ridley College, St. Catherines, Ont., has accepted a position as teacher at the Toronto Technical High school.

'03 and '02—Toronto usually has a couple of students representing her at Oxford. Mr. A. G. Brown, B. A., who has just returned, won the Flavelle travelling fellowship for 1903-5. Mr. Ernest Paterson, B. A., the Rhodes scholarship man, has won for himself great honors at tennis. He is champion of the University of Oxford, and has competed with the finest players in the world. With the opening of college in September the largest entering class in the history of the college was enrolled. The class contained much good fraternity material, but our task of filling the vacant places was by no means an easy one. Besides the loss by graduation, seven of the brothers, who were expected back, did not return to college. However, by hard work and co-operation by the remaining active members we pledged ten men, who, we believe, have all the qualification of typical Delta U's.

This year the much talked of Commons Dining club is being given a trial. All the men of the college are brought together three times a day and, while it is early for predictions, the scheme bids fair to be a great incentive to college spirit.

The football outlook this year at Tufts is very bright, the team having won two games by large scores and lost only to the strong West Point team. Delta Upsilon is well represented with Smith, '06, as fullback; Hull, '06, center; Lewis, '07, halfback, and Mulvey, '07, and Flint, '07, substitute ends. Boyd, '08, Cohen, '08, Stearns, '09, and Nason, '09, are on their respective class teams. Lamb, '06, has been appointed cheer leader for the football season.

In the class elections Delta Upsilon obtained her share of the honors. In the senior class Hanscom is historian. Lamb, marshal; Smith, chairman of the photograph committee; Hall a member of the Class Day committee, and Dustin on the Cap and Gown committee. Mulvey is president of the junior class and chairman of the Junior "Prom." committee. Lamb, '09, is marshal of the freshman class and Coe, '09, is manager of his class football team and captain of his class track team. Nason, '09, is a member of the executive committee of the freshman class.

In other college activities we have Lamb, '06, and Danforth, '08, on the editorial board of the "Tuftonian" and Clarke, '07, and Mulvey, '07, on that of the "Tufts Weekly."

Hanscom, '06, Masseck, '08, and Morey, '09, are candidates for the Glee club. Lamb and Hanscom are members of "Tower Cross," the honorary Senior society, Derry, '07, Flint, '07, and Mulvey, '07, of the Junior society, the "Ivy," and Armstrong, '08, of the sophomore society "Sword and Shield."

On October 6 the chapter received news of the death of Bro. Ernest L. Speirs, '05. The news came as a sudden blow to all of us, for he had been with us but a week before, in apparently good health. Bro. Speirs was very popular in the fraternity and the college, and his loss is sincerely mourned.

The annual initiation took place on the evening of October 23 in the chapter house, Bro. Brooks, '93, delivering the charge. After the ceremonies the meeting adjourned to the Hotel Thorndike, Boston, where the initiation banquet was held, at which Bro. Gordon, '05, acted as toastmaster. Several alumni were present and the occasion was a very enjoyable one. We were pleased to have with us as a guest Bro. Bridgeman of the Amherst chapter.

The smoke of the rushing battle has cleared and we are left with five excellent freshmen for our share. The battle at Union lasted longer than usual and the fraternities have spent more time in looking over the men. It can be safely said that better men have been taken in by the frats than for some years past.

The college has the appearance of a huge lumber yard and brick-kiln just now, owing to the erection of the new Electrical Engineering laboratory and heating plant. We take pleasure in recording the recent gift of $200,000, $100,000 of which was given by Andrew Carnegie and the remainder by the board of trustees. This gift will be used in building an Engineering building and to increase the salary of professors in this department.

The student body has put up a new set of bleachers and is now building a fine skating rink. The number of men which has entered here this fall from other colleges calls attention to our rapidly increasing importance as an engineering college.

Sigma Phi has been presented with a new memorial window and a set of mahogany dining room furniture.

We are now located comfortably in our new home and extend a cordial invitation to all the chapters to visit us at any time. We have been honored by visits from Bro. Harry Reese, Lafayette, '05; E. R. Walton, L. A. Sheldon, G. M. Tnnison, F. A. Anderson, all of the Nebraska chapter; B. B. Staats, Rutgers, '06; C. A. Acton, '07, and J. M. Ricker, '06, Middlebury.

Bro. Reed is having fine success with the Glee club this fall and has the honor of turning out the best club in years. Parsons has been elected assistant manager of the Musical association. Putnam is chairman of the Executive committee of the Philomathean society. Curtiss is a member of he Junior Hop, and Snow is forward on the fast Company E basketball team. Hilt is treasurer of the Y. M. C. A., Reed is cheer leader, Roosa is on the Freshman Banquet committee, Streibert, McCormick and Roosa are on the 1909 track team. Snow is on the Sophomore Soiree committee; he also was in the semi-finals of the fall tennis tournament.

The Union delegation to the 71st convention wishes to thank the Hamilton chapter as well as the Colgate chapter for the fine entertainment during the convention. With best wishes for a fine year,

The beginning of the one hundred and twelfth college year at Williams has shown numerous building improvements on the campus completed and others well under way. Regular chapel services are now being held in the new Thompson memorial chapel completel last year, and the old chapel is being transformed into a recitation hall. Morgan Hall, partially destroyed by fire a year ago, has been rebuilt, and, with West College, is now the best dormitory on the campus. Berkshire Quadrangle is in course of construction, and, in addition to Berkshire Hall, to cost $80,000, extensions are being made to South College, where there have been interior improvements. A large swimming tank is being constructed in Lasell gymnasium, and the locker rooms have been remodeled. A baseball cage is being constructed on Weston Field. The new Phi Delta Theta chapter house is in course of construction, and the Delta Psi and Alpha Delta Phi fraternities have remodeled and improved their houses. The entering class numbers but 146, a decrease from last year. The college faculty now numbers 54, an increase of 11 from last year.

The end of the rushing season found us with six new men, a sophomore and five freshmen. We feel that these new members will do much to strengthen our chapter, and several are already showing up well in various college activities. The annual initiation banquet was held at the chapter house October 13. Guests of the evening were Dr. J. G. Broughton, '89, president of the board of fraternity trustees, Professor, Henry D. Wild, '88, of the college faculty, and Senator William A. Burns, '97, of Pittsfield. At a meeting of the board of fraternity trustees held the same evening, considerable money was voted for the re-painting of the chapter house, and various interior improvements. Bro. John H. Burke, '84, was elected member of the board to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Bro. G. H. Flint, '86, who has served faithfully for several years.

Bros. Nomer, '06, and Cramer, '07, made the college choir at the fall trials, and Bro. Nomer is a member of the double quartette of the glee club.

Bro. Barlow, '06, was a member of the committee to arrange for the senior Hallowe'en celebration.

Bro. Nomer, '06, is vice-president of the Adelphic Debating Union, including Dartmouth, Welseyan and Williams. He is vice-president of the Philologian debating society, and captain of the Williams-Wesleyan debating team.

Bros. Conover, '07, Cramer, '07, and Bargfrede, '09, are playing substutite positions on the varsity eleven. Bro. Williams, '09, is playing left half back on the Freshman football team this fall.

Bro. Fenno, '08, won a place in the 440-yard dash in the Sophomore-Freshman track meet this fall.

The prospects for the coming year seem very favorable, although the loss of many old men will be felt. One of the most vital questions of our chapter at present is that of our new house. During a recent meeting of stockholders, held here, definite steps were taken in regard to the building of our new home within the coming year.

Any interest taken by alumni in an active chapter is helpful. At our annual banquet held on the twenty-second of this month we were honored with the presence of nineteen old Wisconsin men. Michigan, Chicago and Minnesota also were represented, Chicago responding to a toast.

We have initiated four freshmen and have three others pledged, Anson Willard, John W. Balch and Alonzo B. Ordway, all of Marshalltown, Iowa. Willard is out with very good chances for making the freshmen crew.

On the college publication we have Hetzel, '06, business manager of "The Sphinx," and Brown, '08, society editor of "The Cardinal." On musical organizations, Parker, '06, is leader of the Mandolin club, of which Melcher, '08, is also a member; Bryan, '08, is on the Glee club, and Volkmann, '07, is on the University band. Karrow, '08, is a member of Athenae; Hetzel, '06, a member of Hesperia, and Cole, '06, a member of Philomathia. Cole and Volkmann are members of the Commercial club. Bishop, '06, is president of the Caduceus, the Pre-medic society. Hetzel, '06, and Johnson, '07, are members of the junior and senior society, Monastics. Hetzel is a member of the senior honorary society, Iron Cross, and is also vice-president of the Edwin Booth Dramatic club. Johnson is on the "Badger" board and Volkmann is chairman of the Junior Prom finance committee.

In interfraternity athletics our prospects are very bright. We have three of the last years winning four-man relay team and also every one of our winning six-man team of last year. We have considerable good material for baseball this year and are expecting excellent results. Parker, '06, is president of the interfraternity baseball league. We expect Van Derzee, '08, to figure in the broad jump, and Barr, '08, in the hurdles this year. Hetzel is sub. left tackle on the football squad.

By the acquisition of our freshmen this year we think we not only have benefitted our chapter but the fraternity at large and with their aid we hope for a sucessful year.

THE ILLINOIS CHAPTER OF DELTA UPSILON

The Delta Upsilon Quarterly

VOLUME XXIV MARCH 1, 1906 NUMBER 2

OUR NEW CHAPTER AT ILLINOIS.

By WILLIAM CLAY SMOOT, Northwestern, '07.

THE INSTALLATION.

WELL, we put them through. Despite the unfavorable weather and the scarcity of old Delta U's the Illinois Chapter was installed in fine style. Brother Thornton B. Penfield presided at the installation, which was held at the Elks' Auditorium in Champaign. After the song of renewal was sung and the invocation by Brother Wells, the chairman in his quiet but impressive manner administered the preliminary pledge to the brothers-elect.

Brother F. T. Hughes, Chicago, '06, in the absence of Brother Bestor was called on to deliver the charge. His speech was no attempt at oratory, but a plaint heart-to-heart talk on Delta Upsilon and its advantages. In a concise and earnest manner he told of the side of Delta Upsilon now opened for the first time to the new brothers— that of responsibility. He brought out clearly the necessity of concerted effort in order to maintain the high ideals of the fraternity.

When Brother Hughes concluded Brother Penfield proceeded with the initiation ceremony and spoke the words that made the K K boys members of Delta Upsilon. After a short admonition as to their careful keeping the charter and constitution were turned over to Brother Frost, the president of the Illinois Chapter. The pins were then placed on the new members and the certificates presented, after which the Fraternity ode was sung and the service concluded with general congratulations.

Then all gave the yells and throwing our coats over our shoulders, went over to the Beardsley Hotel where the banquet had been prepared.

THE BANQUET.

I WISH I had adequate space and ability to tell you of the time we had over there. In the center of the dining room was a great centerpiece of yellow roses and living ferns draped with blue ribbons. The tables were strewn with small flowers in the colors of the fraternity, making a very pretty and original effect. We didn't waste much time, however, in viewing the scene for we were all struck with one idea, namely to eat; and say, you missed it. We ate and we sang and then we reversed the order and tried it all over again. And I mustn't forget the orchestra that played the fraternity songs as often as we asked them and that wasn't a few.

When course after course had been brought until even Brother Wade was satisfied, Brother Gray, Illinois, '04, acting as toastmaster, called us to order and announced the first course of the intellectual feast in the person of Brother F. E. Rightor, Illinois, '03, to whose determination and ability of organization, the Illinois chapter probably owes her charter. Responding to the toast "Illinois and the K K Club," he told briefly the early history of their organization struggles and triumphs. Closing he told of their joy in becoming members of Delta Upsilon and finally remarked amid the applause of his old K K brothers that "if Delta Upsilon remained as fine as K K had been it would be by far the finest bunch in school."

The toastmaster then introduced Brother F. T. Hughes, Chicago, '06, who spoke for a few moments on "Delta Upsilon In Illinois." After telling of the establishment of the older chapters in Illinois and of their growth he tendered the congratulations of the Chicago and Northwestern chapters and welcomed the newest member into the state and fraternity. Closing Brother Hughes said: "And I see no reason why, with the Northwestern and Chicago chapters, and our strong alumni association of three hundred members, together with this our baby but sturdy chapter, we cannot put and keep Delta U. in Illinois in the lead."

Brother Newton A. Wells, Syracuse, '77, one of the men who has been most influential in bringing Delta U. to Illinois spoke on "The University of Illinois." He told us of its phenomenal growth and of its even greater prospects for the future. Then in a well arranged alphabetical poem he told us of the personages and places connected with the University. He then started a whirlwind of enthusiasm by subscribing $100 towards a permanent sinking fund for the chapter and before this had subsided $3,900 had been subscribed, all of which made some of the older men look thoughtful and wonder if their own chapters would display such enthusiasm and earnest desire for the welfare of Delta Upsilon as this, our youngest chapter, had shown.

Brother Gray now introduced the real serious course of the evening, Brother Penfield, who told us of the "Executive Council." He first congratulated them in behalf of the Council and said they were happy in the birth of this new baby in the family, one so lusty and vigorous and one with such a bright future. He then complimented them on their hard work and gave a timely warning against letting a desire to be prosperous unbalance their judgment of men and he sought them to uphold rigorously and zealously, the standard upheld so successfully for so many years. He then explained carefully and fully the position of the Executive Council, its work, its hopes, its aims, its helping power and the need of cooperation for the successful termination of its plans. Concluding he said in part "You are now caught up, keep striving. Don't let or make Delta Upsilon carry you. We are all still racing. Our ideal is still ahead. Your goal should be the ultimate satisfaction of usefulness and our usefulness has been in the past in our motto, a square and manly deal for all. We feel you are going to add strength to us and will require much of you, but are confident you will line up to your opportunities, and that we will be proud of you."

After this Brother Turner, Illinois, '03, gave a rendition of that laughable piece "Schneider's Rhyme." Brother Corrigan gave us the dessert in the form of the numerous telegrams and letters of congratulations. As it was now in the wee, sma' hours of the morning we adjourned, all smiling, the new men because of their emblems and their new standing in general and we old men just simply from the joy of seeing so many fine new Delta U's.

"Say, aren't you sorry you didn't go?"

A SKETCH OF THE KK CLUB.

By W. H. MARSH, '05, and EDWARD CORRIGAN, '06.

AT THE University of Illinois during the year 1901-1902 a crowd of some ten or a dozen fellows, close friends and congenial spirits, were together much of the time, and though no rigid organization existed, there was a loyalty of spirit to one another seldom seen outside of fraternity groups. They called themselves by an eerie name now forgotten save by a few; meetings and social sessions were held, but there was no regularity in their system. As an organized body they did nothing, so quite naturally received no recognition as such.

Early the following year practically the same men met, and in order to foster the friendship thus started, as well as to gain strength by united effort, decided to organize under rigid rules. The constitution and ritual were drafted setting forth insignia and rulings. The old name was discarded as inappropriate and another chosen to replace it; so September, 1902, dates the real birth of KK.

During this year we gave dances, smokers, banquets, etc., and were a factor politically as shown by the way we appropriated the baseball managership and other offices we wanted. We had baseball manager, ticket sellers, and gateman, a man on the Illio Board and Senior Ball Committee besides several other minor offices. We talked national charter somewhat, but only among ourselves. In fact our growth was rational and steady. We did not spring up over night, obtain for the asking a charter from a mushroom fraternity, get a bull pup and a meerschaum pipe, and assume an air of blasè arrogance. We had been under organization two years before the public knew what we were striving for. All through the year 1902-03 we were striving to strengthen ourselves internally, were perfecting the constitution and ritual, and were taking in new and strong men. By this time we were recognized and reckoned on as a strong body.

The year 1903-1904 was full of interest to all KK's. We started a clubhouse and made a success of it. We had men in athletics, in the Faculty, in literary pursuits, and in politics. We began to talk of our alumni.

At the beginning of the year 1903-04 the question of a charter from a national fraternity came up again. E. R. Hayhurst, '03, was a personal friend of some of the members of Delta Upsilon at Northwestern who had expressed a desire to see a chapter of their fraternity at Illinois. Stuebe, '03, also had friends in the fraternity. Hence, in looking over the fraternity field these facts led us to examine Delta Upsilon with particular interest, and the high standing and splendid principles of Delta Upsilon caused the choice of this fraternity to be made.

This decision reached, an active campaign was begun. Brother Hayhurst and Dr. Wade were sent to the New York convention to present a formal petition for a charter. Our petition was held over and came up again at the Chicago convention. Following the usual conservative policy our petition was again held over for further consideration. We were disappointed but not discouraged. We went on strengthening ourselves in every possible way. A new house was arranged for and built according to the plans of two of our alumni. Last fall about twenty old men returned, and we immediately began to prepare for the Utica Convention. The rest is well known. Our period of waiting had been one of development. We have gained our goal by perseverance and work. It came to us only after much effort, and we therefore appreciate it all the more highly.

This in short is the story of KK at Illinois. It has passed, and in its stead is the Illinois Chapter of Delta Upsilon. KK has been erased from our door, and a beautiful Delta Upsilon monogram has been put in its place. Within our house, however, gathers the same group of men, burns the same fraternal spirit of loyalty and justice, and exist the same broad, open, manly principles that were KK and are now Delta Upsilon.

THE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS.

By EDWARD CORRIGAN, Illinois, '06.

THE University of Illinois is situated in Champaign County in the eastern central part of the state, between the cities of Champaign and Urbana, and within the corporate limits of the latter. It is 128 miles south of Chicago, at the junction of the Illinois Central, the Big Four, and the Wabash railroads. The country around is a rich and prosperous argicultural region. The cities of Champaign and Urbana have, together, a population of about 17,000.

The University was founded upon the national land grant Act of 1862. Its support, therefore, is derived from the interest on its land endowment, from the national government, and other appropriations. These sources give an annual income of about $537,000.

The grounds consist of 850 acres with 27 University buildings. The estimated total value of University property is about $3,500,000.

In the matter of appropriations from the state legislature, our University has been most fortunate. In 1901 the general appropriation was an even million. In 1903 this amount was increased by $267,000, and in 1905 the appropriation was $1,518,535.

To secure the location of the University several counties entered into competition by proposing to donate to its use specified sums of money or its equivalent. Champaign County offered a large brick building in the suburbs of Urbana erected for a seminary, and almost completed, about 1,000 acres of land, and $100,000 in county bonds. To this the Illinois Central added $50,000 in freight.

The institution was incorporated February 27, 1867, under the name of the Illinois Industrial University, and placed under the control of a Board of Trustees, composed of the Governor, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and the President of the State Board of Agriculture, as ex-officio members, and 28 citizens appointed by the governor.

In 1873 the Board of Trustees was reorganized, the number of appointed members being reduced to nine, and the ex-officio members to two, the Governor and the President of the State Board of Agriculture. In 1887 a law was passed making membership elective at a general state election, and restoring the State Superintendent as an ex-officio member. There are, therefore, now three ex-officio members and nine elective members. Since 1873 the President of the Board has been chosen by the members from among their own number for a term of one year.

The University was opened to students March 2, 1868. The number of students enrolled at that time was about fifty and the Faculty consisted of the Regent and three professors. During the first term another instructor was added and the number of students increased to 77, all young men.

By a vote March 9, 1870, the Trustees admitted women as students. During the year 1870-71, twenty-four availed themselves of this privilege. Since that time they have constituted from one-sixth to one-fifth of the total number of students.

In 1877 the state legislature gave the University the power to confer degrees and issue diplomas. Previous to that time certificates were given.

In 1885 the legislature changed the name of the institution to the "University of Illinois." It also passed a bill transferring the State laboratory of Natural History from the State Normal University to the University of Illinois. This laboratory was created by law for the purpose of making a natural history survey of the state, the results of which would be published in a series of bulletins and reports, and for the allied purpose of furnishing specimens illustrative of the flora and fauna of the state to the public schools and to the state museums. A large amount of material has been collected, and extended publications have been made in both the forms mentioned above.

Other additions have been made as follows:

May 1, 1896, the Chicago College of Pharmacy founded in 1859, became the School of Pharmacy of the University of Illinois. It is located at Michigan Boulevard and Twelfth Street, Chicago.

The School of Law was added in 1896. This was changed to the College of Law in 1900. At first it offered a two year course, but in 1897, in order to conform with the requirements for admission to the bar, it was made a three year course.

The College of Physicians and Surgeons located at 813 West Harrison Street, Chicago, became a part of the University in 1897. The same year the State Library School was opened in connection with the University at Urbana.

In 1901 a School of Dentistry was opened in connection with the College of Medicine. This is also situated in Chicago.

On the whole, the history of the University has been one of steady growth and advancement. From the humble beginning in 1868, when fifty students enrolled, we have grown until now we number about 4,000. Courses are offered in almost every branch of study except theology. Our Faculty numbers 411 which gives an average of one instructor to ten students.

The entrance requirements have been raised, until now it requires 42 high school credits—a full four years' course—to gain admission to the University.

Our campus is unsurpassed in the West. The buildings are practically all new, and well cared for. Of these the one which attracts the most attention is the Library. It is built of brown stone, and faces a sloping lawn which leads down to Green street, one of the main avenues of the Twin Cities. Another new building is the Women's Building. This is colonial in style and presents a very attractive appearance. Engineering Hall, the Gymnasium, Shops, etc., are all new and well equipped.

The fraternities represented here have strong organizations. In all there are now thirteen national fraternities: Sigma Chi, Delta Tau Delta, Kappa Sigma, Phi Delta Theta, Alpha Tau Omega, Phi Gamma Delta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Beta Theta Pi, Sigma Nu, Phi Kappa Sigma, Phi Kappa Psi, Delta Kappa Epsilon, and Delta Upsilon. The local fraternities number four, Aztec, Pi Theta, Comus and Oax. Two of these Pi Theta and Aztec, are petitioning national fraternities, namely, Alpha Delta Phi, and Psi Upsilon. At present about fourteen per cent. of the men are in fraternities.

Five sororities are represented, Kappa Alpha Theta, Pi Beta Phi, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Alpha Chi Omega, and Chi Omega. A local body, the Zeta Nu Club, is petitioning Delta Gamma.

The University of Illinois is still in its infancy. Our traditions are not yet hallowed by age. We look to the future rather than to the past. But are we not justified in looking to the future of this great University? Back of it stands the Great Prairie State of Illinois, whose people are turning more and more to their state university. They are sparing no expense to make this University a fitting educational center of a great state. They are doing more than this. They are sending here what is more precious than wealth, they are sending here their sons and daughters to receive that training which will enable them to become noble and useful citizens of this great commonwealth.

As I said we are lacking in tradition. Our "Fair Harvard" and our "Old Nassau" are yet unwritten. In college spirit and loyalty to our University, however, we are not lacking. To us the name "Illinois" is sacred in a twofold sense. It stands for our state, which was well named from "The River of Men." It also stands for our Alma Mater, our University, whose memories and teachings we shall always cherish.

"There are other skies as blue,
Still my heart is ever true,
To my own, my Illinois."

THE REAL FOUNDER OF ILLINOIS A DELTA U.

IN granting charters for chapters of Delta Upsilon in Ohio State University and the University of Illinois, the fraternity is taking a logical step. Both of these universities are the result of the "Morrill Act" of 1862. Senator Justin S. Morrill, of Vermont, in 1862, introduced into congress a bill providing that the United States donate to each state an amount of scrip for public land aggregating 30,000 acres for each senator and member of the house of representatives, to be used in the endowment of institutions for higher learning. The bill was passed, and as a result of the law many state universities were founded. Among these were Illinois and Ohio State.

Senator Morrill was an honorary member of the Middlebury chapter. He was president of the convention held at Middlebury in 1878, and took an active interest in the fraternity.

FRATERNITY RELATIONS AT ILLINOIS.

From the Phi Kappa Psi Shield.

FRATERNITY relations are probably more cordial and pleasant here than in any other institution in the West. The fraternity houses are all close together and the fellows visit back and forth more than a little, have dancing clubs together, play spirited fraternity baseball games, and have an excellent bowling league. Fraternity material is so plentiful that the rushing season is comparatively tame, and thus the largest chance of bitter fraternity feeling is minimized. The characteristic of an Illinois fraternity man is that he knows how to treat other fraternity men right, and he never lets an opportunity pass to do anything he can for him. The selfish, narrow view of fraternity life is almost an unknown factor, and every man works for the good of his fellow, and for the "orange and blue.'

OUR EMBLEMS

Wearing the blue-and-gold, bearing it through life's journey,
Proudly as knight of old wore the guerdon of love in the tourney;
Holding the standard high bearing the gold and blue,
Justice and truth and the honor of youth are the emblems of Delta U.

May be sung to the air of chorus of "Somebody Has My Heart."

NEWSPAPER COMMENT.

"THE biggest man in New York today is undoubtedly Charles E. Hughes." With these words the Boston Herald begins an article which has the same words spread across the page as headlines. An outline of Brother Hughes's life was given in a recent number of the QUARTERLY. In this we quote from prominent newspapers showing public opinion of the man who has probed the life insurance business to the very bottom and caused the reorganization of the big New York companies and a general housecleaning throughout the business.

THE BIGGEST MAN IN NEW YORK.

From the Boston Herald.

THE biggest man in New York today is undoubtedly Charles E. Hughes. A year ago, outside the immediate circle of his friends and business acquaintances, his name was scarcely known. Today he is known to every insurance policyholder in this country and abroad as the man who is mercilessly probing to the muddy bottom the insurance scandals.

When, last August, it was announced that Charles E. Hughes and James McKeene had been selected to conduct the legal work of the legislative committee's investigation of the life insurance companies, New York and the country at large asked, "Who is Hughes?"

The papers announced that he came from Glens Falls, was a graduate of Brown, was for a few years professor of law at Cornell University, and was then in practice in New York. That was all they knew of the man. There was no inkling there that the man was gifted with a brain that could master, and hold, that complex mass of figures brought out day after day; that out of chaos could bring order; who was impartial but persistent—oh, how persistent!—who was apparently indefatigable.

One after another the great brains of the country have set themselves against him, and have retired worsted. Day after day men have looked and marvelled at the man who has met them clearly, coolly, doggedly, with energy undiminished. He has established a high-water mark for the art of cross-examination.

The task he set for himself was a tremendous one. He resovled to do away with the skilled accountants at the start, and trust entirely to his own examination of the accounts. He subpoenaed full statements of all the syndicate and "joint account" transactions during the last 10 years of the companies to be examined, and over these he set himself, to spend hours of time.

He studied these formal records night after night, and primed with facts, he began on his witnesses. What he wanted was more facts. Given a certain transaction, he wished to follow it from the beginning to the end. And he had a tortutous path to follow, one that would have bothered the most skilled accountant.

But hour after hour he stood before the magnates of Wall street, and put to them an endless stream of unimpassioned questions. He did not ask them why they did this or that, but just what they did. Relentlessly, quietly, he pounded away, and, whatever was brought out, went on serenely, leaving the witness unable to tell whether he had been scored against or not.

He never forgets, never becomes confused, never becomes ruffled. He appears as cold-blooded as the logic he uses. He reduces everything to facts—to mathematical certainties.

"THERE IS NO WIZARDRY IN IT."

From an editorial in McClure's Magazine.

IT is not often that this country is treated to a more brilliant and stimulating intellectual performance than that of Lawyer Hughes of New York City—ripping the lid off the three great Life Insurance companies in his state. As for the effectiveness of his work, it is not too much to say that if it ceased now and no legislative action followed, Mr. Hughes would have rendered the country substantial and lasting service.

To begin with, it is no small thing to have rehabilitated the legislative inquiry as an effective method of obtaining information to which the people have a right and which they need in order to make proper laws. * * * It has been much oftener ignorance and mental incapacity than bad faith, which has crippled our legislative inquiries. Mr. Hughes has demonstrated brilliantly how much useful information an examiner can secure if he knows what questions to ask.

Now the ability to ask telling questions does not come from intuition, from cleverness, from enthusiasm for a cause. It comes from knowledge of the subject. It is clear that in the present case Mr. Hughes, before he began to ask questions, knew what there was to know and from this vantage point began his search for information. Every question answered necessarily opened fresh avenues of inquiry. He has not only known what to ask, he has had the wisdom to stop his examination when necessary to digest his new information, to correlate it and so to come at his witnesses from entirely new and unexpected quarters. The public, watching him day after day steadily draw out information which it was supposed could not be extracted, has cried out: "This man is a wizard." Mr. Hughes well replied in a public letter the other day, "Whatever success has been gained is the result of unremitting toil and individual attention. There is no wizardry in it." Mr. Hughes's colleagues at the New York bar have been making the same answer for him. Indeed, they show no surprise at the unusual quality of his work. "That's the way Hughes always has done things," they say. "He is the real thing. He is an indefatigable worker. He always has been. He gets at the vitals of a subject—never dallying with unnecessary details. He has a passion for mathematics, too—knows what figures mean and how to combine and compare them. When the insurance investigation began, the companies rained down volumes of figures on him. The accountants sent to assist said it was impossible to master the figures in the time at his disposal, but Mr. Hughes knew what figures were significant for his purpose. He sent the accountants after those. He did not content himself with finding out isolated figures, he sought to correlate figures; he did not keep his information concerning each company separate, he compared the companies; but nobody who knows Hughes is surprised. This is the way he always goes at things."

But Mr. Hughes has brought something more than trained brains and a genius for hard work to the insurance investigation. He has brought to it a lofty idea of the importance and the dignity of his task and a very solemn sense of his own responsibility. In October he was offered by the Republican party the candidacy for Mayor of the City of New York—an offer splendid enough to shake most men's sense of proportion and of duty—particularly when presented as a duty. Mr. Hughes put the offer aside. "In my judgment," he said in his letter of declination, "I have no right to accept the nomination. A paramount public duty forbids it."

A striking feature of the inquiry has been Mr. Hughes's fairness. He has not gone on the theory that the examiner is an inquisitor, and that he is free to bully, to confuse and to sneer at witnesses. He has given them every opportunity to present their side, freely accepting their written statements—taking all information they offered—giving it full consideration. * * * The insurance representatives have had a square deal—whatever odium has come upon them is the odium of the truth they could not conceal. At the same time the social position, the wealth, the reputation of the witness has never effected the rigor of the examination.

This self-control—this indifference to personalities has not sprung from coldness of temperament. The press has pictured him as a pale and passionless individual, well advanced in years, with cold, gray eyes and an inquisitor's mien, but he is anything but that. He is young for his work—forty-three years of age—there is red in his skin, there is fullness of lip and a blaze in his eye, even in its quietest phases which show him to be a man of fire and enthusiasm, and so his friends will tell you he is. His great passion has been for the law. * * * A man of such sentiments does not show the reserve and imperturbability Mr. Hughes has displayed in the insurance investigation from any lack of fire and sympathy. He is cool because it is his duty to keep his head; indifferent to the trying position of his witnesses because he is after information; and not a little too, because his democracy is too real to be troubled by wealth and position.

The education the public is getting out of the insurance examination is similar to what it got out of Mr. Hughes's examination of the Consolidated Gas Company last spring—the examination which first turned public attention to him as a man of unusual intelligence and firmness, whom it was quite impossible to dazzle, bewilder or evade when he once had taken up a subject.

As for the tonic effect of the inquiry it is already enormous. It has already driven home to thousands of young men who are, perhaps, standing at the very door of a compromise with honor, the almost inevitable public disgrace which awaits the man who plays with compromise, demonstrating again with fearful emphasis the fact that there is no punishment so terrible as public disclosure of evil doing. Quite as important, too, is the tonic effect of the revelation of a man like Mr.

Hughes, willing to give unreservedly of his power to a public cause, and, for the sake of prosecuting to the end, refusing one of the great honors of public life in the United States.

HIS CHARACTERISTICS—CLEAR, CLEAN, COURAGEOUS.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

A remarkable mental trait of Mr. Hughes is his clearness—his lucidity —his perspicacity. His is a vigorous mind, quick in its comprehension, firm in its grasp, rapid in its operation, well stored with learning, and so disciplined in its training that it is the obedient servant of his will. It is alive and alert.

It is quite clear, too, that he measures all effort by the results obtained. To obtain results is to succeed; not to, is to fail. To fail is intolerable. He is ambitious, but for personal achievement, not for personal aggrandizement. Nor has he political ambitions, as is well attested in his prompt declination of the mayoralty nomination. He is far from being indifferent to popular applause, but he would rather have his own applause, which is rarely bestowed, because he is his own severe critic. He does not take himself too seriously, though he is serious minded. When it is said that his sense of humor is keen and that of the ludicrous active, there seems to be an inconsistency. But there is not.

That Mr. Hughes is a moral man in the sense of clean living, clean thinking and scrupulous regard for the rights of others is manifest. The man is honest, aggressively, even pugnaciously, honest. He is of courageous spirit and utterly fearless in following what he believes to be the promptings of his duty. Malice seems to be out of his composition. Revenge is not a motive power to action—love of truth is a passion. And truth in his outlook is the thing that should be revealed, no matter what the consequences.

HOW HUGHES DECLINED THE NOMINATION FOR MAYOR.

From his letter of declination.

IN my judgment, I have no right to accept the nomination. A paramount public duty forbids it.

It is not necessary to enlarge upon the importance of the insurance investigation. That is undisputed. It is dealing with questions vital to the interests of millions of our fellow-citizens throughout the land. It presents an opportunity for public service second to none and involves a co-relative responsibility. I have devoted myself unreservedly to this work. It commands all my energies. It is imperative that I continue in it. You have frankly recognized that it must continue unembarrassed and with unimpaired efficiency. But it is entirely clear to me that this cannot be done if I accept the nomination.

You know how desirous I have been that the investigation should not be colored by any suggestion of political motive. Whatever confidence it has inspired has been due to absolute independence of political consideration.

It is not sufficient to say that an acceptance of this nomination, coming to me unsought, despite an unequivocal statement of my position, would not deflect my course by a hair's breadth, and that I should remain, and that you intend that I should remain entirely untrammeled. The non-political character of the investigation and its freedom from bias, either fear or favor, not only must exist, they must be recognized. I cannot permit them, by action of mine, to become matters of debate.

MONEY GETTING AND SUCCESS.

From the Chicago News.

CHARLES E. HUGHES, the lawyer who has been conducting the investigation into the big New York life insurance companies, has had as intimate a view of business corruption in high places, perhaps, as it has been any man's lot to witness. The lessons he has drawn from this unusual and highly instructive experience, therefore, have a peculiar value and are well worth noting. Speaking the other evening at the dinner of an alumni association he said:

"What we need is a revival of the army of honor. We want to hear less of the man who began poor and amassed riches and more about the man who lived unsullied, though he died poor. We want to change the burden of proof. Let every man who has amassed wealth or gained office be ready to show a clear balance sheet, if he has got it.

"We want a baptism of self-respect, so we can stand erect in the presence of the almighty dollar."

No one will charge Mr. Hughes with being a mere idealist. His searching questions during the life insurance investigation have shown him to be a hard-headed man, whose views of life are sternly practical and with whom sentiment is always guided and controlled by reason. He himself, indeed, might be looked upon as a type of "successful man." And the fact that such a man raises a warning against the widespread and insatiable ambition which has for its object the amassing of riches is therefore especially significant.

A MAN OF TODAY.

From the Boston Transcript.

THE counsel for the Armstrong committee now investigating life insurance in New York, Mr. Charles E. Hughes, has become a figure of national prominence. He subtends an unusually large angle of public interest. He has not acquired the largeness of distinction through any sensational methods, through any accident of fortune, for we do not believe that it was an accident so much as an inspiration that called him to the great service that he is now rendering the American people.

Modesty has been the characteristic of his methods. He undertook a task of the magnitude and delicacy of which few men, even among those who have followed closely the ordering of his work, have any adequate conception. Perhaps he did not himself realize how formidable was the undertaking in which he was engaged until he found himself in medias res. But he has not recoiled from any difficulties nor shrunk from any responsibilities. It has doubtless been a good thing for him as well as for the public. It is a kind of work that adds to the growth of the men engaged in it, whether it is Folk in Missouri, Weaver in Philadelphia, or Jerome or Hughes in New York. The forces of evil are fair game and those who have the knightly qualities to conduct an effective crusade against them are themselves broadened, quickened, and ennobled by the exercise. Men have to wait for opportunities sometimes before they can take the true measure even of themselves, and in this case the public has learned it as soon as Mr. Hughes himself.

He is a man of whom the public would like to know much more than it does, and so his appearance at a dinner of the University of Rochester alumni had special interest for those who attended, and even for the less favored who through the reports of the exercises were able to get fleeting notes of what was said around the mahogany. In his remarks he guarded well his professional line of procedure. He was not betrayed into any impropriety of utterance, but he did venture to discuss some fundamental principles, the observance of which by the men who have had to meet his searching questioning would have made the sensational developments of the last few months unnecessary and impossible.

"I believe," said Mr. Hughes, "in the soundness of American life, and yet I know we need an illumination of vision to see the multitude who will not bow the knee to greed, nor betray a trust, nor falter in the presence of an opportunity for evil. This is a time for a searching of hearts; a time for repentance and resolve, when we need a revival of the sense of honor and a better perspective. * * It is a time when we want more chivalry, more of the spirit of knighthood, that * * * feels a stain like a wound." And he added: "College men are the very ones to whom we ought to look for men who will never mistake true manhood." And this man who stands at the focus of the rays in the white light that has been shrinking and withering reputations, was once a college professor, and never has found another service that pleased him so well. But * * * scores of men have forfeited the confidence and respect that they enjoyed a year ago, because of his clear, logical, unflinching probing of their business records, whereby he has condemned them out of their own mouths.

EDITORIAL.

NEVER in the history of Delta Upsilon has a chapter been born into our brotherhood under more auspicious circumstances than the occasion of the initiation and installation of the Illinois Chapter. True to her principles, Delta Upsilon has been exceedingly conservative in the granting of charters in late years. Our brethren in the University of Illinois have worked long and hard to qualify themselves for admission to the fraternity. Patiently and persistently they have filed their applications with succeeding Conventions and at last the record of their achievements, their position in the University, and their financial and social condition was such that no one in Convention could pick a flaw. The delegation who appeared at the recent Convention of Delta Upsilon and made these points perfectly clear, and Brother Corrigan in an impassioned appeal captured the hearts of all voting delegates, as recorded in the last issue. Illinois came into the fraternity amid the hearty congratulations and warm welcomes of all the chapters and a host of the alumni.

We may well be proud of the baby chapter with her splendid band of earnest, thoughtful, far-sighted leaders who command the respect and admiration of the student body in the University of Illinois; with one of the handsomest houses that any chapter in our fraternity can boast; with the unexcelled opportunity for future power and usefulness. Our brothers in Illinois are certainly to be congratulated, and even more than they, our fraternity is to be congratulated upon this addition to our brotherhood; but in the midst of our congratulations let us remind ourselves that this is not the end of the way but only the beginning.

Membership in Delta Upsilon has always meant qualification for service. Our fraternity stands for usefulness in the world. We believe we have one object in view and in the attainment of that object there is work for every member of the fraternity. We predict a place of usefulness and power for the Illinois chapter, and in that inspiring prospect is there not a share for each chapter of the fraternity. Shall we not individually and severally buckle down to the year's work with a new encouragement and new feeling of power and strength and new grounds for success which will not mean selfish aggrandisement but a greater influence for good in college or university and a preparation for a larger usefulness that awaits us in the world of work and achievement.

FOR the first time in the fraternity's history more than a third of our living chapters are located in the West. The advent of Illinois is not more the occasion for congratulation than for reflection. It is at once the seal and confirmation of the fact that Delta Upsilon has ceased to be sectional.

We knew it before but there may be present need that we emphasize it. Thirteen of our thirty-seven chapters now lie west of the Pennsylvania border. Not one new chapter has been established in the New England or Middle States since Swarthmore in 1894. All have been Canadian or Western chapters. Stanford, California, McGill, Nebraska, Toronto, Chicago, Ohio State, Illinois, an impressive octet. We have today in the West more chapters than any other fraternity of eastern origin.

This western trend of our growth inspires in the fraternity (and particularly among its eastern members) no fear, no anxiety, nothing but pride. It has too long been the common characteristic of eastern fraternities to sneer at western petitions and resolve with Pecksniffian solemnity that the East was the place for them. If this spirit still remains as a cardinal principle of eastern fraternities, then Delta Upsilon ceased to be an eastern fraternity thirty-seven years ago.

The western movement of Delta Upsilon has progressed naturally without forcing. When there has been hesitation it has oftener been in the West than in the East. The true catholic spirit has been shown, a spirit that makes for strong enduring plans in any organization. The question about any petitioning body has been not "where" but "what." We have asked, have the petitioners sought us in sincerity, do they know they want us, are they in dead earnest, do they meet our reasonable requirements. These are the vital matters in comparison with which location, east or west, north or south, is of absolutely no consequence.

A Delta Upsilon conference at Chautauqua is under consideration by the Executive Council. Plans are still hazy but will probably be ready to announce in the June issue of the QUARTERLY, should the event prove as practicable as it seems desirable. If the conference is held, the time will be the last of August when a prominent member of the fraternity will speak before the Assembly one afternoon. The conference is likely to center round a meeting of the Executive Council, but fraternity business will be a comparatively small part of the gathering, which will have for its chief aim the fostering of fraternal ties in a more intimate way than is possible at our busy conventions. The hiring of one or more boarding houses exclusively for members of the fraternity for the conference period is among the possibilities and all the usual attractions of this famous summer resort will be available. No pleasanter place for spending part or the whole of a vacation can be found.

IT is comparatively easy to preach on the theme of the Kenyon fraternity hazing tragedy. Several fraternity magazines have already delivered sermons on the subject. We think the lesson for Delta Upsilon very simple. The death of the young freshman serves to clinch and rivet the recommendations of the Internal Development Committee against horse play. That any initiation tomfoolery in public is contrary to the spirit and life of the fraternity goes without saying. To have "fun" with an initiate in chapter hall is not much more defensible and not at all so when humiliation is involved. To the few chapters of Delta Upsilon that use horse-play even though not on the initiation night, we say—cut off this excrescence on the chapter life. If the freshmen need to be taught their "place," there is another way to teach them. But let their entrance into the fraternity be made with digniy, befitting a new relation which will last far beyond the few years of college life.

A WORD to the chapters. Did you read the editorial "The Campaign for Subscribers" in the last issue? Evidently not. Did your senior convention delegate do his duty last fall by having a man appointed to take up your part in this campaign? Apparently not. He was requested to see personally that this was done. What are the results? The following chapters have reported to Brother Wetherell for duty: Wisconsin, Tufts, Middlebury, New York, Amherst, Syracuse and Union—eight in all; less than 25 per cent.

This work is being done to carry out the plans of the Internal Development committee appointed by Convention. It is not being taken up by the chapters as it should be—as it must be if the QUARTERLY is to grow and be of any real use to the fraternity.

Since convention, 129 new subscribers have been added to the list. Of this number 51 were secured by five chapters reporting to Brother Wetherell. If the twenty-nine chapters that have not yet responded to this call, and the three whose reports are not in yet, should produce the same average results, it would mean 320 more, and additions from other sources would bring the total up to 500. Not that we must stop there. We must keep it up. But in view of the discouraging response of the chapters, our optimism is fast waning. Do you care anything about it?

Delta Upsilon's list of Rhodes Scholars is still growing. With five in 1904 we had two more than any other fraternity, irrespective of the comparative number of chapters. We reported six in 1905, and have just learned that Brother R. E. Bates, Harvard, '05 was appointed from Nova Scotia, making seven for last year. And now comes word that Toronto Delta U. has again captured the honor, Brother R. C. Reade, Toronto, '05, having been appointed this year. The reports of the Delta Upsilon club of Oxford University will make interesting reading.

THE ALUMNI CLUBS.

COMING EVENTS.

The New England Club of Delta Upsilon will hold its annual banquet in connection with the New England District Convention on March 3, at the Copley Square Hotel, Boston, at 7:30 p. m.

The Albany District Association of Delta Upsilon, the only organization of any fraternity in Albany, will hold its seventh annual banquet on March 2, 1906. If the club hasn't your name or your correct address for mailing purposes, drop a postal to the secretary, Leopold Minkin, De Graaf Building, Albany, N. Y.

DINNER TO HUGHES AND JEROME.

A dinner will be given in honor of Charles E. Hughes, Brown, '81, and William Travers Jerome, Amherst, '82, by the Delta Upsilon Club of New York at 7 o'clock on Friday evening, March 23, 1906, at the Hotel Savoy, Fifth avenue and Fifty-ninth street, New York City.

Tickets ($5.00 each) can be procured from William J. Norton, Cornell, '02, Secretary, 317 West 42nd St., New York City. Telephone 1277 Bryant.

All chapters are urged to send promptly to the Secretary the names and addresses of any of their members who have located in New York or vicinity within the past year.

VERMONT NEXT?

Brothers B. L. Stafford, Middlebury, '01, and Redfield Proctor, Jr., Technology, '02, are organizing a Delta Upsilon Club of Vermont, the immediate aim of which is to secure a good attendance of local alumni at the Middlebury Convention. The QUARTERLY hopes to have a good report of the organization in the June issue.

THE MONTREAL DELTA UPSILON ALUMNI CLUB.

The first annual meeting of the club was held in the McGill Chapter House on December 2nd, 1905, and the reports submitted were found very satisfactory. During the year, ten meetings were held, at which the attendance ranged from five to eleven. Six of the meetings were of the regular business nature, and four were special: One in January on the occasion of the annual banquet of the active chapter; another in April when a banquet was tendered to one of our members; the third in September when a smoking concert was given by the Alumni club to the active chapter, and the fourth was the annual meeting.

The membership was composed of twenty resident, and twenty non-resident members. Four resident members were lost during the year through removal from Montreal, and two new ones were acquired.

Financially the receipts were $81.95, and disbursements $70.55, leaving a balance of $11.40 with which to commence the new year. Twenty dollars was paid to the active chapter for use of rooms for meeting purposes, and $28 to the DELTA UPSILON QUARTERLY for subscriptions. Formal recognition of the club has been obtained from the Delta Upsilon Fraternity, and everything appears bright for another good year. The officers for this year are: President, J. W. Thomas; First Vice President, Rev. John McKay; Second Vice President, A. R. McMaster; Secretary-Treasurer, Dr. W. A. Wilkins.

COLUMBIA ALUMNI ASSOCIATION OF DELTA UPSILON.

The association held its annual meeting for election of officers on December 11, 1905. Brother O. B. Smith, Jr., declined a re-election and Brother Herbert D. Brown, '95, was unanimously elected to the presidency. His first announcement was that a motion to adjourn was in order, whereupon Brother "Doc" Gould called upon Brother "Pat" to disgorge some information about the chapter house scheme. Brother Patterson produced several trump cards from his sleeve and it developed that he had been assisted by Bob Mathews, also a legal light.

Following the line of Investigator Hughes, "Doc" Gould demanded facts, and got them, with the result that his aid in lifting the lid was secured. With two lawyers to secure the victim for "Doc" to operate on there is no doubt but that large, cancerous growths of real money will be found and removed. With that accomplished the chapter house plan, which has been suffering from arrested growth, will resume normal development.

The greatest enthusiasm of the evening was evoked by Brother Charles L. Eidlitz's declaration that he would turn a large gold brick into the "real stuff."

The investigation of the committee was attended by Brothers L. D. White, '87; Charles L. Eidlitz, '88; John Patterson, '92; William Van Valzah Hayes, '93; H. J. Shaw, '94; H. D. Brown, '95; Jos. Van Vleck, Jr., '96; E. W. Gould, '96; Goldwin Goldsmith, '96; O. B. Smith, Jr., '97; E. C. Brown, '97; L. G. Cole, '98; C. E. Haydock, '01; A. L. Hutton, '02; H. C. Brinckerhoff, '03; F. S. McLintock, '03; W. B. Whitney, Jr., '03; R. P. Hoyt, Jr., '03; W. F. Allen, '03; H. C. McCullom, '03; E. C. Smith, '04, and F. C. Rawolle, '05.

THE DELTA UPSILON CLUB OF NEW YORK.

The annual meeting of the Delta Upsilon Club of New York was held at the University of Pennsylvania Club, 124 West Forty-seventh street, on Tuesday evening, December 19, 1905. About 100 brothers were present, and the meeting was marked by enthusiasm and festivity of the real Delta Upsilon brand. The chief business of the evening, the election of officers for the ensuing year, was soon disposed of, with the following result:

President, Erman J. Ridgway, Northwestern, '91; Vice-President, Hon. E. M. Bassett, Amherst, '84; Secretary, William J. Norton, Cornell, '02; Treasurer, Edgar S. Bloom, Pennsylvania, '95; Historian, Arthur C. Perry, New York, '92.

Executive Committee: W. H. Van Steenburgh, Rutgers, '77; C. L. Eidlitz, Columbia, '88; F. M. Crossett, New York, '84; C. P. Blaney, Harvard, '90; J. B. Richardson, Williams. '00.

The meeting had a special significance in that it was held on the fortieth anniversary of the founding of the New York Chapter, so that Brother Ridgway, who occupied the chair and acted as toastmaster with his customary graceful wit, called particularly upon New York men for impromptu recitals of chapter reminiscense. Brother William L. Ludlum, '68, one of the three charter members present, told of the founding of the chapter and of the early struggles. Brother Charles E. Lillis, '07, captain of the New York University baseball team, reported on the present day activities of the chapter, announcing an active membership of thirty-three, and inviting all present to visit the chapter house on the Heights and "see for themselves." Brother Charles L. Eidlitz, Columbia, '88, whom the president introduced as "New York, '47," gave one of his vividly humorous speeches and pledged his energy to service on the Executive committee, to which he had just been elected. Brother Frederick M. Crossett, '84, responded to "New York Chapter in Fraternity History," and read interesting letters from Bishop Henry Spellmeyer, D. D., L.L. D., '66, a charter member, and Dr. Otis J. Eddy, Hamilton, '68, of Washington, D. C., a member of the committee which installed the New York chapter. The Rev. John Love, D. D., '68, a charter member, read a poem in commemoration of the anniversary, in which the scenes of the early days of the chapter, when the Fraternity was in its anti-secrecy mood, were brought forward in poetic imagery, and beautiful tributes were paid in graceful verse to the brothers who have "gone before."

Musical treats were provided by Brothers Beviere and Potter, of the Rutgers chapter, who played several violin selections, and by Brothers Hill, Van Horne and Wilson of the New York chapter, who, with the assistance of the hearty chorus of graduate-members, sang many fraternity and college songs in spirited fashion.

The more material wants were filled by an unfailing supply of cigars, and a supper served by Mazzeti, which was enjoyed by the following:

Colgate: George T. Dowling, '72; F. A. Butler, '90; W. L. Rowlands, '91; C. W. Leavenworth, '05.

CHESAPEAKE DELTA UPSILON CLUB.

The Chesapeake Delta Upsilon Club held a smoker in the parlors of the Hopkins Club, Baltimore, on the evening of February 2nd, 1906.

It was the occasion of the annual business meeting. For the benefit of the men present for the first time, E. L. Norton, Cornell, '01, told of the forming of the club, its objects, and history to the present time.

In choosing a name of the Club, that of "Chesapeake" had been selected because it was hoped ultimately to embrace in the organization as much as possible of the Chesapeake region. With this in view, the idea was discussed at length of holding the Annual Dinner this year in Washington to create an interest in the club among Delta U's there, of whom we believe there are many. Final decision of the matter was left to the Board of Governors. Election of officers resulted in the following:

President—L. O. Howard, Cornell, '77.

Vice-President—George C. Shepard, Cornell, '89.

Board of Governors—Aldus N. Hershey, Lafayette, '93; Eugene L. Norton, Cornell, '01; T. Stockton Matthews, Swarthmore, '02.

A cold spread and the smoker proper followed. Stories passed and incidents of varying character were recited,—certainly to the extreme enjoyment of all, and in instances at least, to the enrichment of the mind as well! Brother R. Keith Culver, Cartoonist for the Baltimore American, favored us with his now famous bit of true humor, "Account of an Italian's Experience at a Football Game."

Though the Club has increased materially in membership since a year ago, only nineteen men found it possible to attend.

It is customary at each gathering of the Club to take count in a wholesome rivalry regarding the number of men present from each chapter. The result on this occasion was:

Stanford 3—R. P. Cowles, '99; R. K. Culver, '99; H. L. Langnecker, '01.

Cornell 3—S. B. Austin, '95; George C. Shepard, '89; E. L. Norton, '01.

Lafayette 2—A. N. Hershey, '93; J. A. Nesbitt, '02.

Bowdoin—Paul Preble, '03. Technology—Granville Smith, '98.

California—H. S. Thompson, '04. Marietta—L. P. Jones, Ex-'07.

Williams—J. W. Dimon, '05. Toronto—Dr. E. K. Cullen.

R. H. WALKER, Swarthmore, '02, Secretary.

BUFFALO DELTA UPSILON CLUB.

The annual banquet of the Buffalo Delta Upsilon Club was held at the University Club, Buffalo, N. Y., Monday evening, February 12. The private dining room was tastefully decorated, and the party just filled the space around the long table. These members were present:

Dr. A. L. Benedict, Michigan, '87; Rev. O. P. Gifford, Brown, '74; Dr. William N. D. Bird, Cornell, '80; Howard J. Smith, Rochester, '93; Thomas H. Noonan, Middlebury, '91; Charles M. Harrington, Harvard, '85; William F. Strasmer, Rochester, '81; A. G. Miller, Colgate, '74; Edward H. Letchworth, Harvard, '02; Samuel B. Botsford, Middlebury, '00; C. DeForrest Cummings, Syracuse, '02; Moses T. Day, Amherst, ex-'95; Dr. Charles Sumner Jones, Cornell, '84; Charles W. Underwood, Lehigh, '94; Harry J. March, Rutgers, '87; C. S. Chamberlain, Rutgers, '93; Donald P. Hurlburt, Middlebury, '99; and F. N. Moulton, Union, '86.

The occasion was characterized by the informality which is the peculiar charm of these gatherings; most of those present were well acquainted, being frequent visitors at the University Club. President Charles W. Underwood presided. The Rev. O. P. Gifford was the principal speaker, and his wholly impromptu talk was in the best style of this gifted brother who has so frequently addressed the national conventions of the fraternity. At the instance of Moses T. Day, a toast to Lincoln, whose birthday it was, was drunk standing and in silence. Brother Botsford urged every member of the club to attend the annual convention, which is to be held at Middleburg next year, and gave some idea of the plans for that event. Brother Noonan, who is vice-president of the fraternity, spoke, giving some account of the Hamilton convention, which he attended, and Brother Letchworth spoke eloquently on the needs of alumni for retaining the fraternal spirit and some plans for ensuring this. Various other brothers also contributed to the speaking. The singing of the old songs was the most enthusiastic the club has ever had.

The officers elected for the coming year were: Dr. Charles Sumner Jones, Cornell, '84, president; Charles M. Harrington, Harvard, '85, vice-president, and Samuel B. Botsford, Middlebury, '00, secretary-treasurer. A resolution was passed declaring for a continuation of the monthly luncheons and the annual dinner. Dr. Jones advocated a larger dinner, with some out-of-town speaker, and Brother Noonan called the attention of the brothers to the need of subscribing for the QUARTERLY.

DELTA UPSILON CLUB OF OXFORD UNIVERSITY.

The accompanying picture of the Delta U. Club of Oxford lacks one member, Brother Roy Elliot Bates, Harvard, '05, Rhodes scholar from Nova Scotia, now at Merton College, who has not been reported before in the QUARTERLY. He makes the seventh 1905 Rhodes scholar for Delta Upsilon, making twelve for 1904 and 1905. Secretary Ralph H. Bevan writes:

"The club held its dinner on November 28, 1905, and it proved a most delightful occasion. Brothers Schutt, Bevan, Paterson, Cronkhite,

W. W. THAYER F. W. CADY H. A. MORAN H. H. HOLT H. W. SOULE

THE DELTA UPSILON CLUB OF OXFORD UNIVERSITY

Moran and Thayer made speeches and Brother Crittenden acted as toastmaster. It was, unfortunately, necessary to omit the songs, lest the Proctor be attratced to the scene of the festivities."

The members of the club are:

W. E. Schutt, Cornell, '05, Pres., (New York, 1904) Brasenose College.
R. H. Bevan, Brown, '04, Sec., (Rhode Island, 1904) Worcester College.

INDIANA DELTA UPSILON CLUB.

The Club held its regular annual banquet at the Denison Hotel, Indianapolis, Friday evening, February 2nd. It was the best attended and probably the most enthusiastic and most enjoyable of all the Club's annual dinners. An elaborate menu was served after which the following toasts were responded to on call of the toastmaster, Edward B. Raub, DePauw, 94:

"CHARACTER AND DELTA UPSILON," F. W. Douglass, Brown, '81.
"AN EXPERIENCE," J. T. Eaglesfield, Michigan, '80.

The set toasts were followed by a number of impromptu speeches interspersed with yells and songs.

Brothers E. B. Raub, Frank Caldwell and Jesse Dwight Sallee of the DePauw Chapter House Committee reported that the DePauw Chapter is now comfortably housed in its new quarters. The interest taken in the movement by the alumni on the occasion of the banquet, and previously, assures the ultimate success of that venture. Delta U's generally throughout the State of Indiana whether of the DePauw Chapter or others have taken great interest in establishing Delta Upsilon in a home of its own. All feel that this is already an accomplished fact and that unless existing plans entirely miscarry the Chapter will soon be the owner of a valuable property entirely free from debt. At least it will be so after another night or two of enthusiasm such as took possession of the boys the night of their last annual dinner.

Communications to the Club for the ensuing year should be addressed to H. N. Hempstead, 38 North Pennsylvania Street, Indianapolis, or Herbert T. Wagner, 1419 Broadway, Indianapolis, the newly elected president and secretary respectively.

Brown: F. W. Douglass, '81.
Washington and Jefferson: C. H. Smith, '66.
Michigan: J. T. Eaglesfield, '80.
Leland Stanford: Herbert T. Wagner, '03.

THE FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF THE FOUNDING OF THE COLGATE CHAPTER.

By a Colgate Undergraduate.

The horn of plenty has been opened wide above the Colgate Chapter in recent days. First: the annual initiation with unusual promise for the future; then the Convention attended by the entire Chapter at the various sessions. Next, the privilege of entertaining a number of the delegates at the close of the Convention and as a climax, the inspiring observance of the Fortieth Anniversary of the Founding of the Colgate Chapter on November 21, 1905. It is not surprising that fraternity enthusiasm has bubbled up and run over like a living spring in our midst.

The afternoon of the anniversary the Chapter greeted the alumni in our beautiful chapter home and in the evening fifty-five undergraduates and graduates sat down at a banquet carefully planned and admirably conducted. The key note of this celebration seemed to be "prosperity." The history of the past with its story of struggle, of ambition and of achievement distinctly led up to the word "prosperity" and the promise of the future as evidenced in the words of both graduates and undergraduates and in the quotations from the scores of letters that were read were in perfect accord with this key note. This reading of letters was a distinct feature of the celebration and was introduced as a roll-call from absent alumni members. To each alumnus a letter had been addressed asking for a response,—the price of the response to be $1.00 or more and the money to be put into a fund for future needs of the Chapter House. The response was hearty, gratifying and satisfying. New furnishings for the Chapter home will be the substantial proof of the affectionate remembrance of those who were absent from the banquet.

It would be interesting to quote from many of the letters speaking of the indebtedness of their writers to the Colgate Chapter and their happy memories of college days and of Delta Upsilon. The presence of Brothers H. H. Peabody, D.D., '66, and J. M. Taylor, LL.D., '67, who were charter members and who told of the beginnings of the chapter in the vivid recital of the feelings and plans of those who first avowed the principles of "Ouden Adelon," let us all into the charmed inner circle of the early days, and gave to us a new feeling of tenderness and reverence for Delta Upsilon.

In three cases, father and son were present. Brothers J. M. Taylor, '67, and J. P. Taylor, '95; Brothers D. D. Dean, '77, and R. G. Dean, '08; Brothers E. J. Farley, '83, and E. S. Farley, '07. Brother J. M. Taylor has been closely identified with the chapter since its founding, his residence having been in Hamilton since graduation. A pleasant feature of the banquet was the presence of Brother Thornton B. Penfield who represented the Executive Council and came to our Colgate celebration with the representatives of the Hamilton Chapter, where he happened to be visiting at the time. His toast invigorated the speaking and linked the occasion to the forward stride of the whole fraternity outlook. The undergraduates will not soon forget the love evidenced by the alumni, their unwaning zeal and evident satisfaction to be present and the hearty responses from those who were necessarily absent. Nothing will bind the hearts of the younger men to the fraternity more than this splendid example. The toasts were as follows:

Toastmaster,	Professor Albert Perry Brigham, '79
Forty Years,	Professor James Morford Taylor, LL.D., '67
The Charter Members,	Reverend Henry Harrison Peabody. D.D., '66
The Men of His Time,	Reverend Delavan Daniel Dean, '77
Brothers That Win,	Reverend John Walter Phillips, D.D., '82
The Chapter House,	Reverend Edson Joseph Farley, '83
The Chapter Home,	Professor James Paddock Taylor, '95
Today,	Wayne Gilbert Benedict, '06

OPEN PARLIAMENT.

CONCERNING FRATERNITY PINS.

New York, October 27, 1905.

To the Editor of the Delta Upsilon Quarterly:

It seems to me that it would be a good idea for the Alumni as well as the undergraduates of the Delta Upsilon Fraternity to wear their pins exposed on all occasions, instead of lending them to their wives and sweethearts. I have met several members of the Fraternity, long since graduated, who recognized the pin, and spoke to me in a friendly way—two from Hamilton, three from Williams and one from the far west who was on here visiting during the past summer. It is some encouragement to a man striking a strange town to see a Delta Upsilon pin swung by some man long since removed from college life, and very often we will meet friends who may be of assistance to us in a business way as well as a social. It is human, I suppose, for young men to loan their jeweled badges to their sweethearts, but it seems to me that if it is necessary for their sweethearts to wear them the young men might possibly raise enough money to buy two.

Fraternally yours,

JAMES C. THOMSON, New York, '69.

CONCERNING CHAPTER LETTERS.

New York, January 18, 1906.

To the Editor of the QUARTERLY:

At the risk of making myself disliked I intend to criticise the chapter letters as published in the QUARTERLY. And I shall therefore hide behind a nom-de-plume—that's all the French I know.

There has been considerable improvement lately, but there is always room for more. I have been led to form an opinion of the various colleges from the fact that even with changes in the chapter editor the character of the letter does not materially change. In several cases I have fancied that the "college" was hardly above the level of a high school.

One of the recent letters contained the following:

"We start the year nineteen strong. This is by far the largest number with which we have started the opening term for some time, and needless to say we can afford to take our time in selecting new men.

"The entering class is smaller in numbers than usual this year. However, four promising men have been pledged so far."

Aside from its English, which you might have corrected,, the contrast between those two paragraphs points its own lesson.

Too many of the letters are but a statistical record of the positions held by the men on athletic teams, committees, etc. This is all good, but not enough. I would be interested in news of the college itself and in the coming of new fraternities into the field. In the past seven or eight years several new chapters have been added to the fraternity list at my college, but our chapter letters have never mentiond them. The editor forgets that these matters would be news to the alumni.

Some of the chapter editors seem to have been elected with absolutely no regard to their fitness for the work. Here are a few quotations which appear time after time in one form or another:

"The opening of the school year found the chapter in prosperous condition."

"The prospects for a successful year are exceedingly bright."

"They are men who will uphold the standard of Delta Upsilon."

"We succeeded in getting the cream of the freshman class."

"We extend greetings to the brothers of our sister chapters."

"His was a noble life. To know him was to love him."

"We are well represented in every branch of college life."

It is evident that the chapter letter is an irksome duty to many of the editors. Why should this be the case? Have we no enthuiastic undergraduates? I must not be too sweeping. There were half a dozen excellent letters in the last number. I read every letter. Of course the statistics are of interest to the alumni of the chapter, but the rest of the letter, if there is any, is of general interest. A good test of a letter is to cut out the statistics; if the remainder claims your attention it is good. But these platitudes; these optimistic prognostications; these hopeful views of future honors; they are all padding. I want to see this, the largest department of the QUARTERLY, and the most important, made the most interesting. I shall continue to watch it with that hope.

Fraternally yours,

AN ENTHUSIAST.

OBITUARIES.

J. CHESTER CHAMBERLAIN, RUTGERS, '82.

Electrical science and American bibliography each sustained a loss irreparable by the untimely death, from acute pneumonia, in New York, on July 28, 1905, of J. Chester Chamberlain, who occupied a unique place in the van of progressive electrical engineers, while an unusual number of people, bound by ties of blood and comradeship, grieve the loss of one of whom it has been aptly and truly said that he had "a positive genius for friendship."

Mr. Chamberlain was born in India July 3rd, 1860, the eldest son of Charlotte (Birge) and Jacob Chamberlain, M.D., D.D.; the seventh in generation from William Chamberlain of England, who settled in New England in 1648. He married in Albany, N. Y., June 12, 1895, Anna May Irwin, who, with one daughter, survives. For many years his home was in the Beresford, 1 West 81st St., New York.

After graduating with honor from Rutgers College in 1882, he took a post-graduate course in chemistry. Prominent in all college activities, he was a member of the football and baseball teams, champion in running and tennis, captain of the boat association, class president and business manager of the Scarlet Letter, the college annual. Especially loyal and devoted to Delta Upsilon, he was president of his chapter, a delegate to the '81 Convention and a trustee of the old Delta Upsilon Club of New York. The large attendance of Rutgers men at the 69th Convention and the 70th anniversary banquet in New York was due largely to his efforts. His influence and financial support were constantly employed in Delta U's behalf. Four of his brothers are members of the Rutgers chapter: William I., '82; Lewis B., '86; Rufus N., '88, and Charles S., '89;—one of the two Delta Upsilon groups of five brothers.

So intense was Mr. Chamberlain in his devotion and application to the serious purpose and work of his life, electrical engineering, that it may account for the splendid success he achieved in widely varied lines of development of electrical science and their triumphantly successful application in mechanically and commercially practicable ways.

Upon leaving college he entered Edison's Laboratory in New York and thus became one of the pioneers in electrical lighting, and later he was an electrical engineer in the historic first Edison electric light station in Pearl St. In 1886 he became electrical engineer and superintendent of construction for the Sawyer-Man Co., and his earlier installations included the U. S. Capitol, the Hudson River Tunnel, which before used candles, and other great plants. In 1889 the Julien Traction Co., at that time introducing storage battery cars, engaged him and he patented many improvements and inventions, some of which were fundamental and were acquired by the General Electric Co. About 1893 electric launches attracted his attention, and for seven years he developed the design, construction and equipment of such boats, and carried them from an experimental condition to a complete commercial success, the Electric Boat Co. buying his interests in 1900. The next three years were devoted to private interests and early in 1904 he became general manager of the Automatic Refrigerating Co. He had just succeeded in developing and perfecting the system, especially in connection with electric motive power, when his sudden illness terminated his career.

As a bibliophile Mr. Chamberlain, by his selection and acquirement of American authors, had passed all rivals, and possessed the best and most interesting collection, containing some forty unique items which he had unearthed. His fine discrimination and exclusiveness of taste was remarkably well demonstrated by his rejection of all copies which were not immaculate. His Whittier collection could not be approached and contained a copy of "Moll Pitcher" in the original blue paper wrappers, uncut. In the lines of the leading American authors there was no one who had a greater knowledge of first editions, and he was a familiar figure in the rare book shops and auction sales of New York, Boston and other cities. Throughout all rivalries for the possession of rare copies he always was beloved by his fellow collectors.

Mr. Chamberlain also was an experienced, accomplished genealogist. One of the founders and most generous supporters of the Chamberlain Association of America, he gave to it much of his time and at the time of his death he was engaged in genealogical researches whose scope far exceeded the Chamberlain ancestry in America.

Many clubs enrolled him as a member, including the Grolier Club which appealed especially to him, the Colonial Club, the Marine and Field Club, the Delta Upsilon Club, and the old Electric Club; he was an early member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, and a governor and chairman of the House Committee of the Engineer's Club.

The New England Historical Register closes an obituary notice of Mr. Chamberlain with:

"Yet his highest excellence was not his notable electrical discoveries and achievements; nor in his marked business success; nor in his skillful, important work as a bibliophile and genealogist. He was faithful to the welfare of both his city and his country. In him gentleness was blended with strength, and amiableness with resolute integrity. Well born and well brought up, he appeared even to those who knew him most intimately, to have no remotest inclination to any form of dishonor. Comely, courteous, joyous, with a genius for friendship, he was the light of his beautiful home, a centre of attraction among many acquaintances, and an example of perfect uprightness in wide business relations. He was, all in all, a Christian gentleman of rarely noble type."

Brother Chamberlain was one of a group of Delta Upsilon men from several chapters who were active workers in our Fraternity life over twenty years ago. The open-hearted, cordial, fraternal affection which he freely gave and received will never be forgotten. A characteristic type of Delta Upsilon manhood has passed this way.

JOHN R. PEALE, LAFAYETTE, '02, "THE MISSIONARY MARTYR."

UNDER the title "John R. Peale, the Missionary Martyr," The New York Observer of November 23, 1905, published the following article on Brother Peale who was murdered October 28, 1905, at Lien-chou, China:

No deeper shadow has fallen over Princeton Seminary in years than that caused by the news of the martyrdom of the Rev. John R. Peale and his wife, in Lien-chou, China, October 28, 1905.

Mr. Peale was graduated from Lafayette College in 1902; was an honor man in his class; President of the Young Men's Christian Association; a member of the Dramatic Association and the Delta Upsilon Fraternity. He was editor of the College Annual; won the Coleman Biblical prize in his freshman year; was three times a delegate to Northfield and was Leader of the Volunteer Band. His chief purpose while in college was the spiritual uplift of the college life.

He entered Princeton Seminary in the fall of 1902, where he was one of the most popular of the men and beloved by both faculty and students. Seldom has there ever been a student there more intensely interested in foreign missions or one who tried to do more to interest his fellow students in that work. * * * He lived a sweet, unassuming life, but did much quiet personal work among men.

Just before his departure for China Mr. Peale expressed the wish that he might be allowed to serve his Master forty years in China. He was permitted to live there only forty days, so that beyond a few letters expressing his joy at being in China, there is nothing to report of his life as a missionary; but he had done a good work for missions before he left the United States. He was graduated from Princeton Seminary in the class of 1905, having received his M. A. degree from Princeton University in 1904. He sailed for China August 16, 1905. He had been at his station in Lien-chou only four days when the massacre occured, and he and his young wife were slain. His death came as a great shock to the entire student body. Yet no greater stimulus could have come to the seminary for foreign missions than the martyrdom of this one beloved by all, who worked so zealously for that cause while here. Instead of its being a damper thrown upon the cause men are hearing in it a clarion call to rise and fill the gap left vacant.

REV. JOHN R. PEALE

Died, October 28, 1905

On Sunday afternoon, November 4, 1905, a memorial service was held in the Seminary for Mr. Peale, and practically the entire student body and faculty were there. * * * It was one of the most impressive meetings ever held in Princeton Seminary. His death has caused a wave of missionary zeal to sweep over the Seminary.

FREDERIC G. KIMMICH, COLGATE, '06,—IN MEMORIAM.

BY the death of Frederic G. Kimmich on December 21, 1905, the Colgate chapter suffered a loss unparallcled in the experience of the present members. A private service was held at the chapter house and the funeral was at his former home, Horseheads, N. Y., many of the chapter and college attending. Six of the active chapter acted as pall-bearers. At the time of his deatli he was president of the senior class, captain-elect of the varsity baseball team and president-elect of the chapter. He had been offered the state secretaryship of the Pennsylvania Y. M. C. A. He was a leader in the life of the college and was a faithful student, gaining the respect of his instructors by his work.

Brother Kimmich's manly attitude toward life, his noble and lovable disposition, have had a lasting influence on all who knew him.

In these days of our loss we, his brothers, have gained a closer fraternal bond and a new impulse toward true living.

A GARFIELD MEMORIAL.

At the Colgate alumni banquet at Hamilton, last June, John B. Creighton, secretary of the Brooklyn League, responded to the toast, "The Fraternity Man in Public Life." In part he spoke as follows:

"In speaking of Delta Upsilon men in public life the name of James A. Garfield still stands pre-eminent.

"It seems to me that Delta Upsilon men the world round should make hallowed ground of the room in which he died. Why not have it a Garfield museum assembled by the love of his fraternity brethren? Why not make it a Mecca for all who believe the cardinal features of the Delta Upsilon ideals were exemplified in the life of James A. Garfield? Could not the Colgate chapter start such a movement? The cottage is now one belonging to the Elberon Hotel and rented each season to whoever may apply. The chair in which the President died still remains in the room."

Brother Creighton is a member of the executive committee and secretary of the Brooklyn League. His address is Temple Bar, 44 Court Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

BOOK REVIEWS.

THE DIVINE PROCESSIONAL. A poem in twenty-nine cantos, interspersed with songs. By the Rev. Dennis Wortman, D.D., L.H.D. Author of "Reliques of Christ." Fleming H. Revell. $1.50. For sale by Board of Publication of Reformed Church, 25 E. 22d st., N. Y.

The poet of the 1892 Convention, held with the Colby Chapter at Waterville, Maine, was the Rev. Denis Wortman, D. D., L. H. D., Amherst, '57. Shortly before the Convention Dr. Wortman found himself unable to attend, and forwarded his manuscript which was read by another. His striking poem, "The Wonder-Cross," made a profound impression and it will interest the members of the Fraternity of which, for more than half a century, Dr. Wortman has been a highly honored member, to know that this striking interpretation of Christianity's central fact has grown until it now appears a handsome volume of nearly three hundred pages, published by Fleming H. Revell Co., under the title of "The Divine Processional." The title as it now appears, is, according to the author in his introduction more suggestive of the trend and purpose of the whole work than the one originally selected, "The Wonder-Cross." This book, and by that I mean the poem, is one of the most remarakble productions in recent years. A writer in the Princeton Review began his review with this striking sentence: "In the above poem Dr. Wortman has given us the noblest modern Christian epic," and continues, "It will rank as the best harmony of the apparently conflicting thoughts of our teeming age and as their highest inspiration. It gives them all a place in a firmament that presents an orderly, progressive, divine scheme, wherein glimpses of an infinite unity cause the stars to sing together and sons of God to shout for joy." William Hayes Ward of The Independent says, "It is a remarkably bold and original poem in its plot and conception, and surprisingly well constructed and developed. You have attempted a most unusual task, like Milton in the third book of Paradise Lost, to make God a principal speaker in the epic, or like one of the old prophets, to utter a 'Thus saith the Lord.'" This introduction of Jehovah as one of the speakers is both audacious and sublime. The author gives his reason for it in these words: "To hear the Father speak, appeared the only way to represent the incarnation and atonement from the divine standpoint. We have been in the bad habit of overlooking the Father's interest in the redemptive work. Our praise and praying would seem to indicate that in showing forth His mercy, He were going against His own nature; as though He needed placating; as though He did not love us but wanted to, and so let His beloved die on the cross that He might overcome the legal obstacles and scruples, and love us and forgive; We seem sometimes to forget that God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son! Therefore, here we would have Himself speak out His own gracious heart; however brokenly and erringly we may interpret it into our human speech. The poem, therefore, would venture reverently to place us in the attitude of listening to His Voice, and gathering therefrom some conception of what He is pleased to plan." And the poem does this very thing. Everywhere reverence is sensed and dignity is realized. It is a master hand that in this poem does this very thing. It has been said that "Revelation is God's triumphant march through history," and it is along this path that the author walks with stately and reverent step, the purpose of the poem being an interpretation of nature, of history, and of God's relation to both. That God is in his world and at work toward a divine purpose, the author firmly believes and as successfully shows. Bold in his utterances, daring in his imagination, with a fine poetic feeling, with a jubilant faith, and breathing through all his verses a fine, wholesome mysticism, Dr. Wortman has produced a great poem. He has honored the fraternity of which he is a member, and has rendered a distinct service to religion. As Margaret Sangster says, in her review of the poem, "No one who loves Jesus and loves to dwell on his wonderful life, wonderful death, and resurrection, can fail to find profit in this remarkable book. It is the product of many brooding years, not the hasty and careless work of an hour." It is a book, therefore, which one will read, and read again. EZRA SQUIER TIPPLE.

THE TORCH: a novel, by Herbert M. Hopkins, (Columbia, '93); the Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis; pp 398; price $1.50.

This is neither a murder mystery nor a problem novel—the two apparently favored types of stories today. It has, however, its mystery and its problem, for is not the heart of a woman a mystery and is not the management of a university a problem?

A new president, ambitious and snobbish, takes the reins in the university at Argos and drives with a curb bit. He dismisses the professor of political economy, an old classmate who was instrumental in his appointment, on the ground of improper socialistic and political activities. The faculty shows its indignation by the resignation of a dozen of the most prominent members. Although the author was connected with Stanford University at about the time of the dismissal of a professor for utterances offensive to the founder he did not intend to identify this university with his story. He says that he took his idea from this incident, but that to compare the wealthy woman and false-hearted president of the story with Mrs. Stanford and President Jordan would be worse than caricature.

The story is full of action and interest and shows the result of letting money-worship take the place of sound learning. The characters are individually well drawn, the plot is evenly developed and the ending is satisfactory. The story is altogether thoroughly enjoyable.

PHILIPPINE LIFE IN TOWN AND COUNTRY. By James A. Le Roy (Michigan, '96); illustrated; $1.20, G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York.

This book will prove of interest to many more than the thirty or forty Delta U's who have been to the Philippines recently. The subject is full of interest to all patriotic Americans. The author has given a thoughtful consideration of the Filipino civilization, progress and prospects. The New York Tribune says:

"His avowed purpose is 'to set forth the Filipinos as they are, avoiding, on the one hand, pschological speculation under the guise of analysis of their characteristics, and, on the other hand, political propaganda in behalf of any theoretical plan for their future government, or in behalf of the compromise plan under which they are at present being governed.' This purpose Mr. Le Roy fulfils with rare discretion, and his book may be read with profit and without offense by imperialist and anti-imperialist alike. It is, in fact, one of the sanest and least prejudiced of the many accounts, discussions and pronunciamentos that form the already large and highly variegated bibliography in regard to our new and perplexing Asiatic possessions. The point which the author keeps constantly in view in his description of native characteristics, customs and institutions is the capacity for progress which they indicate."

Brother Le Roy has had unusual opportunities for studying his subject. He was for several years connected with the Department of the Interior of the Philippine Government. The Providence Journal says, at the close of a long review: "Mr. Le Roy is manifestly to be listened to with respect. He gives his facts plainly, and, although he is in the main optimistic, he admits that there are grave possibilities. What is most needed at the present time, he feels, is a class of men of 'definite attainments, men who have acquired knowledge by hard work, who will apply themselves to the immediate practical needs of the people.' The unfortunate, possibly even fatal, feature of the present situation is that the young men of the best type, 'but one instant after having contemned the ancient regime for having bound their people in economic and intellectual slavery, are pushing headlong into the speculations of the sort which so commonly enchant the Spanish soul, pottering about the outskirts of modern science, grasping after distorted fragments of the philosophy of other nations. It is so much easier to reach great conclusions in sociology, to chase theorems of political philosophy around a stump, than to solve the practical problems of administration now facing the Philippine municipalities and towns. And yet, * * * they set up for themselves the standards of the Occident, not those of the Orient.'"

Referring to the table giving a summary of chapter membership published in a recent issue of the QUARTERLY, the Shield of Phi Kappa Psi three times refers to us as "Delta *E*psilon."

* * * *

The Caduceus of Kappa Sigma gives a list of percentages of fraternity men to the number of male students in a number of colleges from which we take the following: Bowdoin, 85 per cent; Brown, 60; New York, 45; Swarthmore, 43; Stanford, 28; Nebraska, 20 (excluding locals and professionals); Wisconsin, 13 (excluding professionals).

* * * *

The Kappa Alpha Theta girls evidently had a good time on the way to convention last July. Here is where the sororities "win out":

* * they all turned in and made up their own berths, despairing of ever getting beds through the uncertain and inefficient motions of a green porter. One girl developed such skill that with the aid of a sophomore to fetch sheets and pillow cases from the linen closet she made up eight berths.

Fifty years ago a man generally wore his fraternity pin in his cravat. As time wore on the pin advanced to the lapel of the coat; then fraternity conservatism dictated that it was ill-mannered to display it upon any place but the waistcoat. The best authorities upon the subject recognize that it is only proper to wear the pin as near the heart as possible.—Phi Gamma Delta.

Should any chapter of Delta Upsilon consider local conditions paramount and good taste of lesser importance it would do well to realize that the Phi Gamma Delta voices the opinion of all fraternities.

This is "George Edwin's" item 3 in instructions to chapter editors as given in Desmos of Delta Sigma Delta:

The type-setter is not especially impressed by monograms or embossed letter heads, and he absolutely abhors one of these letters that skip from the first page to the third, then back to the second, and finally finish on the fourth. That may be all right in writing to Maude, but the type-setter is a sordid chap with work-stained fingers and that kind of copy frequently makes him swear like a hired man, which is bad for his morals.

* * * *

On December 26, 1904, at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon convention at Memphis, Tenn., that fraternity published the first issue of its "Convention Daily News." The Record claims that the idea is, "so far as the writer is aware, a new venture in fraternity journalism." On October 26, 1904, two months earlier, the first copy of "The Convention Daily" was published at the Chicago convention of Delta Upsilon, and was, so far as we are aware, the first venture of its kind.

Incidentally it was in 1867 that Delta Upsilon published the first Greek-letter fraternity magazine, OUR RECORD, the predecessor of THE DELTA UPSILON QUARTERLY.

* * * *

A table taken from the Manual of Sigma Alpha Epsilon giving date of foundation, total membership and number of chapters of twenty-seven fraternities has been going the rounds of the fraternity journals during the past six months. Delta Upsilon is credited with 8,538 members and 30 chapters! Shades of Baird! Someone must have been asleep. The table must date back to 1896, when we had 29 chapters and increased to 31. The October, 1905, QUARTERLY published a table compiled from the latest edition of Baird's Manual giving Delta Upsilon 9,169 members and 36 chapters. And now we have 37 chapters and our membership is close to ten thousand.

This is the treatment accorded by Sigma Alpha Epsilon to chapters failing to have a chapter letter in any issue:

No chapter letter for this issue of The Record was received from Indiana Alpha, whose remissness has spoiled an otherwise clean score. For purposes of record one copy of this issue is forwarded to the delinquent chapter, other copies being purchasable at The Record's published rates.

The following fraternities have been the pioneers in the universities of the Rocky Mountain states and the Pacific Coast states: Zeta Psi, University of California, 1873; Delta Tau Delta, University of Colorado, 1883; Sigma Nu, University of Washington, 1896; Sigma Nu, University of Oregon, 1900; Sigma Nu, University of Montana, 1905; Kappa Sigma, University of Idaho, 1905. That section is now being rapidly preempted, as it presents the finest uncultivated field for fraternity extension in the United States. In the whole Union there remain only two or three state Universities which have not been occupied by the Greeks.—The Scroll of Phi Delta Theta.

The following college news items are taken from The Caduceus of Kappa Sigma:

Stanford alumni will raise $5,000 for a portrait of President Jordan, by Sargent, which they will present to their university.

There were three co-eds at the University of North Carolina last year. At Purdue there were twenty-eight. There are six hundred more women at Nebraska than men.

Legal obstacles have put a final end to the negotiations, begun in May, 1894, looking to the practical consolidation of Harvard and Massachusetts Tech. by an elaborate scheme of co-operation.

Acacia, a "Masonic fraternity" was chronicled recently. Here are two more out of the ordinary:

The first National Greek Letter College fraternity to be founded by colored students was organized January 3, 1906, at the Ohio State University with eleven members. It is called Pi Gamma Omicron. Charters will be granted to these colleges: Chicago, Indiana, Denison, Fiske, Tennessee, Hampton, Wilberforce, and Virginia.—The New York Sun.

Sigma Delta Sigma, a newly formed fraternity in the University of Wisconsin is trying the experiment of running on the "co-ed" basis—if the term may be borrowed without too great violence to English—taking both men and women students into membership—The Shield of Theta Delta Chi.

CHAPTER LETTERS AND ALUMNI NEWS

Chapter letters for each issue will be due not later than the first of the month preceding the date of issue. They must be typewritten, on one side of the paper only, on paper about 8 in. by 11 in., headed with the name of the chapter and signed by the chapter editor.

At the beginning of each letter state the number of active members in the chapter, and give a full list of all initiates since the previous issue, with full names, home addresses and class year.

Alumni news must be written on a separate sheet, arranged in order of class year, with "vital statistics" separate from news items. Follow the general arrangement of news items in this issue in preparing copy.

Alumni correspondents and chapter editors, as well as all alumni, are requested to send news regularly.

GEORGE E. DAVIS, '09.

THE mid-year examinations have come and gone since the last letter, and the second semester is well begun. Now is the quiet time of the year at Adelbert, the period between football and spring athletics. Basbetball is the one sport which breaks the monotony and Benz, '07, is playing a star game at guard on the varsity team, while Davis, '09, is holding down a position on the freshman five. The season for the Glee and Mandolin clubs has begun and promises to be a good one. Barr, '07, and Schulte, '08, are both playing again this year.

One evening during Christmas week the chapter invited out many of the alumni and all seemed to have a good time. Since then some have dropped in again and received a hearty welcome. We are always glad to have them come as their visits afford us great pleasure. The series of dances which the chapter is giving is very successful and being well enjoyed by both active and alumni members.

The chapter was glad to receive a visit from Bro. Carpenter in January.

Alumni News.

'69.—Rev. Josiah Strong, D.D., president of the League for Social Service, was one of the speakers at the fifth annual dinner of the N. Y. alumni of Western Reserve University, held in New York January 30th.

'88—Geo. T. Snyder is in charge of the Engineering Department of the National Tube Company at McKeesport, Pa.

'92—Rupert Hughes's prolific pen has produced another play, "The Triangle," which is to be put on the boards at the Manhattan theatre, New York city, before the close of this season.

Commenting on the group pictures of the diners at the banquet in honor of Mark Twain last winter, the "Newark News" says of the author of "Zal:" "Rupert Hughes has taken advantage of the moment to look for the waiter. The camera catches him red handed."

AMHERST.

Active Membership, 33.

SINCE the close of the football season the affairs at Amherst have gone back to the old routine. The college had, in the main, a successful team this year. Dartmouth and Columbia were played to a standstill and virtually defeated and Williams was beaten by a score of 17-0 at Williamstown. A majority of the undergraduates accompanied the team to Williamstown and the Delta U. brothers who went were very pleasantly entertained by the Williams chapter at dinner after the game.

The chapter regrets to report the loss of two of its members since the last letter. Bro. McChesney, '07, who was forced to leave College because of illness and Bro. Comins, '07, who has left to go in business. However Bro. McChesney expects to be with us next fall.

Bro. Howe, '06, has been elected a member of the Cotillion club recently and Bro. Gilpatric, '08, has been elected as our representative on the "Olio" board. Bro. Lewis, '06, is on the heavy gym. team. Bro. Howe, '06, is a member of the Senior Prom-committee and also on the Class Book committee. Bros. Osborn, '07, and Lewis, '06, were awarded the football A.

We have had the pleasure of entertaining some of the Pennsylvania brothers who were on the U. of P. musical clubs which gave a joint concert with Amherst in Northampton January 19th.

T. B. AVERILL.

Alumni News.

'51—Miron J. Hazeltine completed his fiftieth, or "jubilee year" of continuous service as chess editor on February 3, 1906. He is 81 years old but is always the same genial Delta U. brother.

'52—Daniel Bliss celebrated his 82nd birthday August 17, 1905, having been born in 1823. In 1856 he began his work in Beruit, where he was president of the Syrian Mission until recently, when his son took his place. On February 7, 1906, Dr. Bliss celebrated his 50th anniversary in Syria. He still preaches at the Mission, and during the absence of the president he presides over the faculty meetings.

'55—Prof. W. L. Montague, secretary of the class of 1855, has prepared a 150-page biographical record of his class.

'57—Rev. Denis Wortman, D.D., L.H.D., of 20 Watson avenue, East Orange, N. J., is in charge of the ministerial relief work of the Reformed Church of America.

'71—Professor H. G. Lord was chairman of the faculty committee which recommended to the university counsel that football be abolished at Columbia.

Professor Cross was formerly principal of Robinson Academy at Exeter and his summer home is in Randolph. He is, therefore, well qualified to speak on the subject he chose—"Beautiful New Hampshire." Stereopticon illustrations added to the enjoyment of word pictures describing places dear to the heart of every person born in the White Mountain State.

'79—Dr. Nehemiah Boynton of Brooklyn, addressed the American Missionary association at the annual meeting at Boston, October 18, 1905, his subject being "Our Southern Educational Work."

'82—William Travers Jerome was a contributor to the Christmas number of the "Homiletic Review."

District Attorney Jerome has been described by General Bingham, the new Police Commissioner of New York city thus: "Mr. Jerome struck me as a very forceful and—I don't want to appear as throwing bouquets—as a very charming man. That's the way I'd put it if I did not hold office."

'83—Last December a man who was masquerading as Alexander D. Noyes, financial editor of the "Evening Post" of New York city, was arrested on the charge of passing worthless checks made payable to A. D. Noyes and signed by Philip L. Allen, who is Wisconsin, '99.

BROWN.

Active membership, 30.

ATHLETICS and debate loom up as the prominent student activities at Brown this winter term, and in both these phases of our college life Delta Upsilon has supplied the university with good material.

On the football team which went through its schedule last fall with remarkable success until the final and critical game, Macgregor, '07, ably filled the tackle position, and Conklin, '08, fitted in well at center. On the victorious Sophomore team, Paine played guard and Townsend end, with Larrabee as tackle for the Freshmen. In the winter sports hockey has become more prominent this year, and on the team is Griffith, '08, who plays forward. Hurley, '07, is manager, and Dennet, '07, is assistant manager of this enterprise.

In debate we have just formed a triangular league with Williams and Dartmouth, and of the six men on our Varsity teams, three are Delta U's,—Bruce, '07, who will harangue against Dartmouth, and Dennet, '07, and Hurley, '07, who will uphold the argument against Williams. The Sophomore debating team has just been picked and Paine, '08, has been chosen captain. As Hughes, '09, has been elected president of the Freshman Debating society, the activity, not to say the supremacy, of Delta Upsilon in Brown debating circles is very easily recognized.

In the social life of the campus, we are officially represented by Hurley, '07, treasurer of the Junior Week Committee, Dennet, '07, member of the Junior Promenade Committee, and Townsend, '08, member of the Sophomore Ball Committee. In a large event, the annual Brown Banquet, which occurs in the spring, Swaffield, '06, is chairman of the committee and Hurley, '07, and Paine, '08, are members.

In the intellectual life, outside of the regular curriculum, there have been several series, one of Faculty lectures, this fall, which President Faunce began with an address on "Sicily, Once the Center of the World." This winter there is in progress a series of Vesper services, at five o'clock, Wednesdays, at which President Faunce officiated on January 10, and Reverend George H. Ferris is to speak on February 24. Poultney Bigelow, as guest of the Providence Alumni of Brown is delivering, every Monday night, those utterances which have so stirred officious Washington.

At the annual banquet of the Brown Alumni of New York, held on January 19, it was announced that Andrew Carnegie had offered $150,000, to be half of the contribution for a new University library. At this banquet Charles E. Hughes, '81, was the chief speaker, and was greeted with an outburst of enthusiasm. President Faunce also spoke.

There have been some changes in the Delta Upsilon membership of the faculty. Dr. Allan H. Willett, Ph. D., of the department of Political Economy is to have charge of the department of Economics at Carnegie Institute, Pittsburg, and Arthur U. Pope, '03, and Basil Bois Wood, '05, are now in our philosophic department, the first as instructor, the latter as assistant. Pope has made several maps of Palestine, one of which gained high recognition among geographers at home and abroad.

There are 849 undergraduates at the University this year, of whom thirty-one are Delta U's, and these are by no means the "submerged" one twenty-eighth.

'64—Ratcliffe Hicks, of the Hicks Realty Co., is to be addressed at 68 Cannon St., Bridgeport, Conn.

'70 and '80—Chancellor E. Benjamin Andrews of the University of Nebraska and President W. H. P. Faunce of Brown University have each been mentioned as a possible successor of President Harper of the University of Chicago, who, before his death, named them, with Lyman Abbott, as the three men whom he wished to have take part in his funeral exercises.

"There is a persistent revival in the University of Nebraska circles of the rumor that Chancellor E. Benjamin Andrews will be called to the position of president of Chicago university. Members of the Nebraska faculty say that the appointment of Dr. Andrews should not surpise any one, if a tentative offer had not already been made, as Dr. Andrews is well acquainted with John D. Rockefeller."—N. Y. Sun.

'76—Professor George E. Horr of the Newton Baptist Theological Institution was the speaker on November 9, 1905, at the second in the series of biblical lectures at the Twentieth Century Club.

"The Bible in Present Day Conditions" was analyzed by Professor Horr, and this subject he treated from the standpoint of the modern intellectual revolution and its influence upon conceptions of the Bible.

'80 and '81—At the annual dinner of the alumni of Brown University on January 19, 1906, President W. H. P. Faunce announced that Andrew Carnegie had given $150,000 toward a library in memory of John Hay.

Dr. Faunce then tackled football. He said that the "sins of the entire college should not be loaded on a single game." He emphasized the improvement in the moral tone of college life caused by the game, because drinking and carousing practically had yielded to the demand of football that its players lead clean, healthy lives. "The question is," he said, "what the game has done for the social and official side of the university. There is no doubt that the rules should be modified, but I would not make the game as innocuous as checkers."

Charles E. Hughes, representing the class of '81, spoke of the college men in practical life and the value of their ideals. "I cannot understand how men after four years of life in an atmosphere of culture and high ideals," he said, "can come out of college and become the lickspittles of a political boss. You may look into our insurance companies, into our legislatures, and I am sorry to say you will find college men trying to get their share of graft with the rest of them."

'82—Prof. W. B. Jacobs of Brown University was elected secretary of the new organization known as the Conference of New England Professors of Education formed in December 1, 1905, at Cambridge. Prof. Jacobs led the discussion on "The aims, scope, means and methods of education in colleges and universities."

'83—Prof. A. W. Anthony was one of the speakers at the Inter-church Conference on Federation in New York, November 15-21, 1905, describing the Interdenominational Commission of Maine, of which he is secretary.

Prof. Anthony is the preacher of the College Men's class of the Main Street (Lewiston, Me.) Free Baptist church Sunday school.

'84—Prof. George C. Gow, of Vassar College, presented to a conference of collegiate teachers of music, held at Columbia University, a plan on which he is working for the unification of the study of music in colleges and schools.

'84—Wm. M. P. Bowen is a member of the Judiciary Committee of the Rhode Island House of Representatives.

'90—Lyman C. Newell is assistant professor of Chemistry in Boston University.

'90—Prof. James Q. Dealey recently exemplified the breadth of spirit which characterizes the fraternity. The "New York Sun" said:

"Out of Brown University—greatest of the Baptist Church—out of Providence, R. I., the city of Roger Williams, the unbigoted New England religious outcast—came a champion this morning for the Unitarian and Universalist churches at the Interchurch Conference on Federation at Carnegie Hall. He was Prof. James Quale Dealey, Ph. D., head of the department of social and political sciences of Brown University and President of the Rhode Island Federation of Churches.

"At the beginning of the business session, which was given up to a discussion of a plan of federation, the professor created a sensation by a motion that practically opened the door to the latitudinarian denominations. The sensation was in the nature of an amendment to Clause 7 of the plan of federation and read as follows:

" 'Other church bodies, not included in the list of organizations above mentioned, may become members of the Federal council if they make application before or on Jan. 1, 1907.

" 'No phraseology contained in the plan of union shall be construed to imply any doctrinal basis whatever save that implied in the broadest Christian unity.' "

Prof. Dealey has been re-elected president of the state council of the Rhode Island Federation of Churches which, with the State Federation of New York and Massachusetts, was organized under the auspices of the National Federation of Churches. The body has the broadest possible basis, and includes both the Universal and the Unitarian Churches. On the other hand, the federation proposed by the Carnegie Hall gathering will probably take a much narrower basis. If, therefore, the State federations are allowed representation in the Federal Council, there will probably be a clash of basis of representation, it is said. Prof. Dealey's amendments were not adopted.

'91—Rev. George H. Ferris, formerly pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church of New Haven, Conn., was one of the very few clergymen who had the bravery or the manliness to protest against the unchristian narrowness and unfairness of those controlling the recent so-called Interchurch Conference, who ruled out the delegates of the Unitarian and Universalist bodies. He resigned last November and has accepted a call to the First Baptist church, 17th street, near Walnut street, Philadelphia.

'92—George F. Andrews and Mrs. Andrews are at Algeciras during the international conference on Morocco. They will then go to their headquarters in Algiers and will later travel in Northern Africa.

'93—Rev. Leslie E. Learned, who was for nearly eight years in charge of the parish house of St. Bartholomew's Church, New York City, resigned lately, and entered upon his new work as rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Ridgewood, N. J., in December, 1905. During the year ending November 1, 1905, the great parish house of St. Bartholomew's received $100,188 from church collections, club dues, etc.

'98—Stacy R. Warburton, has accepted a position in the Office of the American Baptist Missionary Union, Boston, to have charge of editorial and literary work.

'00—Nathan A. Tufts, coach of the Waltham High school football team, was one of the speakers at a banquet given the team on December 14, 1905.

'05—L. W. Cronkhite, Rhodes Scholar, made first place in the Oxford university meet last December and in the Worcester College meet took three firsts.

THE opening of the spring term finds our chapter settled at last in our new fraternity house, which we will dedicate by an afternoon reception and an evening dance sometime during February. This will be the formal opening to the College at large.

The University is at present aroused over the reform of Intercollegiate Football which is so universally being waged. From the stand now taken it appears that the Pacific Coast universities will act independently in this matter. There is a strong sentiment in favor of the Rugby game and in all probabality the Freshmen will play this next term.

The usual spring sports are now attracting the attention of the athletes. More attention will be paid to these sports on the part of the public now that football has so declined in favor.

A number of promising freshmen have entered this term and this looks good for the Freshman Track Meet which will be held with Stanford this spring. A series of baseball games between the Freshman classes will be played. It is hoped that these games between the first year men will induce many players to come out.

It is possible that the rowing regatta will be held at San Diego, in Southern California this year. This will necessitate a trip of over 500 miles, but an excellent course can be obtained.

The opening of the term was marked by the dedication of California Hall, the first of the buildings of the greater University, at which the Chinese Imperial Delegation were interested spectators.

Last week we entertained Clayton S. Cooper, Brown, '94, International Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who after a successful work among the fraternities at Stanford was able to organize a system of Interfraternity Bible study here.

Bros. Wyckoff, '96, Stern, '03, Titus, '03, Baldwin, '04, and Stoddard, '04, were among our recent visitors.

*University regulation prevents initiation until three months full work is completed.

SINCE our last letter was written the chapter has been weakened by the loss of four of its members. Vogt, '06, left college in November on account of ill health. He is now at Albuquerque, New Mexico, picking up rapidly. About ...is time Worley, '06, left college to enter business. He is still in Chicago. Shortly afterward, Harvey Fuller, '08, left to act as tutor and companion for Marshall Field III. He is now at Lakewood, New Jersey. Hitchcock, '06, left us in January to go into business, with the Western Electric Company of Chicago.

This loss in numbers was met by our annual initiation, which was held on our fifth anniversary, January fifth. A number of our alumni were present, as well as brothers from the Harvard, Northwestern, Adelbert, Rutgers, Minnesota, Cornell, Swarthmore, and Michigan chapters. The charge to the initiates was given by Robert M. Lovett, Harvard, '92. The following toasts were responded to at the banquet, Herbert I. Markham, '05, acting as toastmaster:

The Faculty
James W. Thompson, Rutgers, '92.
The Alumni Club
William H. French, Cornell, '73.
The Active Chapter
C. Arthur Bruce, Chicago, '06.

The football season closed with the Chicago team the champions of the West. Three Delta U's are wearing the gold footballs given to those who played on the championship team. They are: Parry, '06, left end; Hitchcock, right half-back; and Russell, '08, right guard.

Captain Parry of the track team, expects to have a winning indoor team this season. Russell and Brother-to-be Taylor are counting on helping him out in the point winning.

Bruce is on the gymnastic team. Pressure of other work makes it necessary for Hughes, '06, to give up his position on the basketball team.

The inter-fraternity bowling league has just met, electing Parry president. Two years ago he won the cup for high score with a total of 240 pins. So far, we have won two out of three games from Alpha Delta Phi, and lost by the same score to Phi Kappa Psi.

At the delayed elections of the year, Bruce was elected treasurer of the senior class, and Judson, '08, vice-president of the sophomore class. Bruce is also chairman of the senior dramatic committee, and Hughes is on the senior reception and dramatic committees.

Moulds, '07, at a new election, was chosen managing editor of the University annual, the "Cap and Gown." Hughes is a member of the committee on fraternities and social organizations.

Bruce was appointed a marshal, by the President, at the last Convocation. Webb, '06, is also a marshal.

We have had visits from brothers from the Wisconsin, Illinios, Pennsylvania, Michigan, and Cornell chapters.

This letter cannot fittingly end without mention that the University of Chicago has lost, by death, its president, William R. Harper. His death was a loss which the entire student body has felt.

It was one of the President's last wishes that while his body lay in state a student guard should watch over it. On this student guard of honor served, Bruce, Hughes, Parry, Webb, and Fernald, '08.

At the funeral exercises Bro. E. Benjamin Andrews, Brown, '70, and Bro. William H. P. Faunce, Brown, '80, gave the addresses. It was the especial request of President Harper that they, as two of his closest friends, should be present.

At the special memorial exercises of the University, Moulds was appointed speaker for the student body.

COLBY.

VERY little has happened recently to bring the Colby chapter into special prominence. However, a few laurels have been won and a good foundation is being laid for a steady, healthy growth in all college and fraternity activities.

Our delegates returned from the Convention full of enthusiasm and with a better appreciation of Delta Upsilon. Some of this enthusiasm has already been transmitted to the other members and they are sparing no effort that will help our chapter to live up to our ideals.

Our new delegation is already beginning to show that it is made of real Delta Upsilon stuff. Bro. Foye, who comes to us from West Bridgeport, Mass., by his excellent preparation for college was able to capture the first entrance prize. Bro. McLellan is holding down the position of center on the varsity basketball team. Bro. McCombe, '08, is meeting with marked success as Reader for the Musical Clubs. A college band has recently been organized and on this Delta Upsilon is well represented by Tallman, Merrill, and Richardson, '09, Betts, '07, and Lincoln, '06.

On the baseball team which has already begun training, Bro. Coombs is captain and pitcher, Bro. Tribou is out for his old position in left field and is sure to hold it. Both of these men were selected for the All-Maine team last year.

Looking backward, we can see that our chapter has already accomplished something this year; looking forward, we can also see that there are excellent opportunities to accomplish more and the brothers are eager to seize upon these opportunities as they come.

It will give great pleasure to the Colby chapter to entertain or see in our meetings any of the Delta Upsilon brothers.

'81—The demand for Holman F. Day's new story of the Maine coast,

"Squire Phin," necessitated a second printing before the day of publication. The scene is laid in a town called Palermo, but it is not the real Palermo, Me., which is situated well inland, and the character of the old weather prophet of the novel, Aquarius Wharff, has led certain Down Easters to identify the town with Dexter, which boasts of a very similar "guesser" on meteorological subjects.

ON November 21 our chapter passed through one of its red-letter days when we celebrated the 40th anniversary of its founding with a banquet. A goodly number of our alumni were here to help us celebrate the occasion as well as several brothers from other chapters.

We are pleased to have with us Bro. A. D. Brownell, '02, who has returned to finish his course in the Seminary which he was obliged to give up three years ago on account of his father's illness.

At the opening of this term we received very pleasant calls from Bro. Henry Taylor, ex-'03 and Bro. G. B. Roorbach, '03.

Bro. Porter, '06, the basketball manager, has been kept busy arranging his schedule of games and has a fine schedule completed. Bro. Stowell, '07, is on the Varsity, and with Bros. Stevens, '07, and Langworthy, '09, plays in the class games. Men are being tried out now for the Glee and Mandolin clubs, and for the Dramatic club, and prospects bid fair for a good Delta U representation on them all. Bros. Yocum, '07, and Stowell, '07, are on the Junior Prom committee. On the Sophomore Soiree committee are Bros. Howard, '08, and Northrup, '08.

Since the last issue of the "Quarterly" our membership has been decreased by the sad death of Bro. Frederic G. Kimmich, '06, who passed away on December 21, 1905, after an illness of but five days. We feel his loss very greatly in the chapter, not only because he was one of our most prominent members but also because he was a true brother to each one of us.

WE have made steady progress throughout a busy winter. Two more freshmen were initiated on December 18, making five new men to offset the six seniors we lose in June.

It has given us pleasure to see so many alumni at chapter functions, notably at the December initiation, when we held an alumni smoker. The chapter house plan is progressing favorably among the alumni and within the chapter under the direction of Bros. Patterson, '92, and Mathews, '95. The Executive Council met here on December 8.

Immediately after the close of the football session the student body received the jarring news that football had been abolished by the University faculty. The matter went through the various stages of discussion, protest, statements by the President, and student mass-meetings. "Spectator," under the editorial direction of Maynard, '06, was a prominent factor in the students' fight. The University Council, in taking final action against the sport just before Christmas, went even further and recommended to the President the close restriction of all intercollegiate sports except rowing. To aid him in the proposed investigation, President Butler has appointed Committees of Nine from the faculty and the alumni, and also from the undergraduates, when he found out how strongly they felt in the matter. Delta Upsilon members of the three committees are Prof. H. G. Lord, Amherst, '71, of the faculty, W. V. King, '89, of the alumni, and Maynard, '06, of the undergraduates.

We have received visits recently from Bros. Keays, Harvard, '07, Evans, Hamilton, '05, Ferguson, Hamilton, '04, Tolson, Brown, '06, MacCurdy, Toronto, '08, Harvey Fuller, Chicago, '08, Styer, Lafayette, '04, and McChesney, Amherst, '07.

Haight, '06, did good work in the "soccer" game with Cornell. He played at goal. Essex, '06, has been elected an editor on Spectator, and Chapin, '07, has been advanced to the managing board. On the basketball team, Fettretch, '06, is playing at right guard, and Haight, '06, and Reilley, New York, '05, who is in the law school this year, are among the substitutes. Though the team has not done so well as last year's combination, it has only lost one game so far, that with Dartmouth. Maynard, '06, has been elected secretary of the Athletic Council. Everett Swartwout, '08, Williamson, '08, and Robert Swartwout, '08, are trying for the 'Varsity baseball team. On the senior class-book committee we have Maynard, '06. Clarke, '07, has been holding down his old place on the swimming team. At the election of Class Day officers, Essex, '06, secured the position of historian. With Maynard, '06, who as secretary calls the class roll, we have two out of eight speakers on the program. This year the Seniors will plant ivy instead of the customary yew tree. On our crowded campus fromer class trees have never had a chance to grow. Jacques, '09, is Freshman fencing manager. For the first time in several years the Columbian, on which Delta Upsilon was represented, as usual, appeared before Christmas. Its timeliness and acknowledged excellence made it quite a success.

We will have Temple, '06, and Hill, '07, out for the lacrosse team this year. Pell, '09, has joined the Freshman Debating Society. Hoag, '09, is out for the Freshman crew. Several brothers are trying for the 'Varsity and class track teams.

On December 15 the pan-Hellenic banquet at Columbia was held. Over four hundred men were present, and our chapter attended in a body. This event bids fair to become a permanency in the fraternity world.

We extend a hearty welcome to the Illinois chapter on her entrance into the fraternity. May success ever crown her efforts.

AFTER the last letter to the Quarterly our chapter has been busy getting settled. We are now in good running order and are ready to sit up and take notice of what is doing in outside world. But while we have been busy learning to know each other, we have not been so absorbed in that that we couldn't pay a little attention to the college activities.

Bro. H. P. DuBois, '06, has been elected Chairman of the Senior Ball, and this, with his office of Editor-in-Chief of the Cornell Daily Sun, gives him an enviable position in his class.

Bro. H. E. Davis, '07, is holding up the reputation of the Junior class as the Vice President of the Interscholastic League and Chairman of the Junior class Vigilance Committee. These two positions are of great importance owing to what they will bring next year.

For the second time Bro. Root, '08, is playing on the Varsity Basketball team, and is putting up his regular good game. He has also been elected to his class society, and we feel that he is helping the chapter to maintain its standing in the University. In fact, all the members of the chapter this year seem to be doing their best in this direction, and are succeeding.

While on the Glee Club trip this Christmas Bro. Nichols, '06, sang several solos in the concerts, and made a very good impression on the audience.

The whole chapter has been greatly shocked and grieved to hear of the sudden death of Brother Harry Frank Sommer, '03, at his home in New York last month. While Bro. Sommer was not known by all the present members of the chapter, those who knew him had spoken about him so often that his death was felt by all. And in losing him we all feel that we lose one of the most loyal Delta U's that we have ever had.

'71—George A. Benton of Rochester, N. Y., has been appointed judge of Monroe county.

'72—Educators and business men of Denver joined in a tribute to David Starr Jordan, president of Stanford University, California, who spoke December 29 at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon. This eminent educator and scientist had an unusually large and appreciative audience, holding as it did the most prominent in business affairs and the leaders in thought and education throughout the state. He spoke of the socalled "Yellow Peril," and, remarkable to relate from the president of a California institution, made little of the "peril" that might be expected from either Japan or China.—Denver Republican.

The N. Y. Tribune, in an editorial, quotes President Jordan thus:

The position of the labor unions on the coast in regard to excluding Oriental labor is liable to cause trouble, for the unions want a special ban put upon Chinese, Japanese and Coreans. If this measure becomes a law it will mean war between the United States and Japan. I am sure of it, because I am personally acquainted with many of the Japanese officials and know their sentiments.

President Jordan addressed the students and guests of Swarthmore College, November 18, 1905. His subject was "The Blood of the Nations." Among other things he said:

Greece and Rome, Carthage and Egypt, the Arabs and the Moors fell because, their warriors dying, the nation bred real men no more. The man of the strong arm and the quick eye gave place to the slave, the pariah, the man with the hoe, whose lot changes not with the changes of dynasties.

'74—Press dispatches from Stanford University at Palo Alto, Cal., recently announced that Dr. John Casper Branner, as acting president of Leland Stanford, delivered the annual address to the incoming Freshman class. In the course of his remarks he gave the new students a serious talk, speaking at length on the extravange in which some college men indulge and treating the fraternity situation. He denounced the practice of rushing men from the train to the club house and there pledging them, before they have a chance to get their bearings, and he urged the fraternities to use more moderation in getting their new members.

Dr. Branner is professor of geology and vice-president of Leland Stanford, Jr., University, and acted as president in the absence of Dr. David Starr Jordan, '72.

'88—The Team Owners' Review for September contains an illustrated article on the career and the present influential and prominent position of George Judd Tansey, the president and manager of what is probably the largest teaming business in the United States—the St. Louis Transfer Company of St. Louis, Mo. The firm owns between 1,000 and 1,100 horses, and transports every day about 1,500 tons of freight.

After leaving Cornell Mr. Tansey attended the St. Louis Law School and was admitted to the bar in the following year. In 1889 he became assistant president and auditor of the St. Louis Transfer Company, of which his father was then president.

The following year he entered upon the practice of law and continued for nine years in the active practice of his profession.

Upon the death of his father, R. P. Tansey, in 1899, the St. Louis Transfer company elected the son to the position of president and general manager.

Mr. Tansey's prominent position, his influence and his legal knowledge have been of immense benefit to the entire teaming trade of St. Louis on several occasions during controversies with the labor unions. While Mr. Tansey is not an opponent of labor unions, he believes in maintaining the principle of the "open shop."

In 1902 Mr. Tansey was elected president of the Merchants' Exchange of St. Louis. He was a director of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition company. He is now a director of the Granite Bi-Metallic Mining company and a member of various social clubs.—Cornell Alumni News.

'05—The Cornell Alumni News quotes extensively from Warren E. Schutt's article on his impressions as a Rhodes scholar, published in the Educational Review.

Six of the thirty-six permanent class secretaries of Cornell are members of Delta Upsilon. They are: J. Henry Comstock, '74; Edward L. Nichols, '75; Engene Frayer, '76; Norton T. Horr, '82; Robert James Eidlitz, '85; and William J. Norton, '02.

After the Cornell-Princeton football game, many of the alumni and members of the Cornell chapter with their wives, sweethearts and sisters, dined and spent the evening very pleasantly at Ye Olde Tavern in Duane St. Arrangements had been made by Brother Dresser '00, to give Delta U the exclusive use of the place for the evening and the ladies and undergraduates had the pleasure of seeing the old grads do the stunts for which they were famous in college. In addition to the ladies there were present: R. J. Eidlitz, '85; C. H. Smith, '97; F. Y. Parsons, '98; A. H. Cooke, '98; G. S. Dresser, '00; R. E. Hemstreet, '00; J. O. Dresser, '01; D. OUR active membership is just one less than it was last term; nevertheles there have been some changes among the fellows. Bro. George Tucker, '08, was called home on acccount of sickness. Bro. Thomas Durham, '08, returned home at the close of the term. Bro. E. A. Gilmore, '09, has gone to New York city, to act as an assistant to his father who is manager of a construction company. Bro. Roy W. Rawlings, '07, has entered the Emerson College of Oratory at Boston, where he will give special attention to oratory and dramatic work.

We have in a great degree been compensated for the loss of these men. Bro. C. Earl Smith, '07, is back in school again. True to our custom we kept on the lookout for good men even tho' the "rush" of the first term had long since passed. As a result we have just initiated two more men, Bro. Eugene Taylor, '07, who is assistant in the Mathematical department of the University, and Bro. Lee Strong who entered as a freshman this term. Besides these we pledged two men of the preparatory school, Randolph C. Patton and Carl Ell. Both are excellent students and the latter is a Senior and a star player on the basketball team. We have now four strong men coming up from the Academy and prospects for Delta U in De Pauw are bright indeed.

It is seldom that we refer to our social accomplishments, but some of our Alumni will perhaps be interested in a little plan which we arranged and carried out with no small degree of success last term. It was in the form of amatuer theatricals. The play entitled "Three College Days" was written by Bro. Rawlings. All roles except that of the heroine were played by men of the fraternity. The heroine was Miss Edith Miller, of Frankfort, Ind., a cousin of one of the brothers. A fraternity orchestra was organized and part of the music composed by Perry Reed, '07. An amateur stage was perfectly equipped in one end of our large dining hall. We gave the play twice. The first evening about forty of our fair friends were present who assigned us much sincere praise for our successful and in this place, very unusual entertainment. The following evening the play was repeated before some of our alumni, parents of Delta U men, and a number of our friends who reside in the city. Our second effort was, if possible, rewarded with greater appreciation and applause. We naturally felt quite elated over the outcome of our efforts.

The chapter house plan is still a vital matter with us. We feel that with the alumni back of us it is bound to be successful. Occasionally we receive a splendid, encouraging letter from some alumnus which causes our stock of enthusiasm to advance several points. We are certainly persevering and with the help of our graduated brothers we shall certainly come out with colors flying high and the chapter house plan on a thoroughly solid basis.

On the evening of February 2 our Annual State Banquet will occur at Indianapolis. We are going down with the expectation of meeting every Delta U in the state. We desire that this banquet may beget so much enthusiasm that Delta Upsilon may flourish in Indiana as she never has before. Not only do we want to fix our chapter house plan on a solid foundation but we also wish to enlist the co-operation of our alumni in getting a line on many of the new men who will enter De Pauw from the various parts of the State next autumn.

AFTER the convention was over we once again resumed our regular routine of college work and play. Winter term has just now begun and it finds the chapter busily engaged in the different activities of college life.

The basketball team is now hard at work and Bros. Swetman, '07, Meeker, '07, and Kneeland, '09, are supporting this branch of athletics, while Bro. White, '08, is working for assistant manager. Bro. Roosa, '06, and Spedick, '06, and Swetman, '07, are practicing stunts for the college "gym" show, to be given in Utica in March.

We have a good delegation trying for the musical clubs: for the mandolin club, Bros. Massee, '07, Trippe, '07, Allen, '08, Spencer, '09, and Leavenworth, '09; for the glee club Bros. Massee, '07, Allen, '07, White, '08, Leavenworth, '09, and Spencer, '09. Bro. Meeker, '07, is assistant manager of the clubs and is our representative on the Junior Prom committee.

Bro. McLean, '06, was elected a member of the Senior debating team and will also represent the college in our debate with the College of the City of New York.

THE past few months have seen a great turning point for the Harvard Chapter in the celebration of its twenty-fifth birthday, an occasion which was fittingly observed by a very successful and memorable banquet. The end of the first quarter-century of its existence sees the Harvard Chapter firmly established, with an honorable record behind it, an enthusiastic backing of graduates, many of whom have made their mark in the world, and a unique and respected position among Harvard clubs, gained by its uniformly high standing in scholarship and character, and to the great success of our Elizabethan plays.

As regards scholarship, the present year is well up to our standard. Holcomb, Hurlin, Jones, Briggs, Thayer and Underhill, from 1906, and Haring, '07, are in Phi Beta Kappa, while at the recent award of academic distinctions, no less than twenty prizes were carried off by Delta U's. In other intellectual fields, Brackett is President of the Chess Club, and he and Johnson played on the team against Yale; Hirsch was a 'Varsity debater against Princeton, and Holcombe was on his class team; and at the recent Musical Club Concert. Several of Hurlin's compositions received merited applause. In the social field, Keeling and Brumley are on the Junior Dance Committee, and Holcombe has been elected to the Hasty Pudding club. In athletics, Kempner is on the basketball team, and Gring, Holmes, and MacAusland are on the squad, while Burton is captain of his class hockey team.

The great event of the spring term is our annual play, for which we will this year revive Thomas Heywood's comedy, "The Wise Woman of Hogsdon," one of the best, though little known, of the Pre-Shakesperian dramas. The play has not been revived since it was first produced, and our choice has met with universal approval. At this writing, the cast has not yet been selected, but the chief role will undoubtedly be taken by Hurlin, who made a great success in last year's play. Performances will be given in Cambridge and Boston, and at Wellesley College, and in conclusion, the chapter extends a cordial invitation to all brothers past and present to attend the graduates' night performance, at Brattle Hall, Cambridge, on March 26th.

THE installation of our chapter occurred on the evening of December 21, 1905. On account of examinations it was impossible for many of our brothers from other chapters to be present. We regretted this very much, as we had hoped that a large number of them would be with us on that occasion. A number of our alumni members were back for the event to which they had looked forward for three years.

Our chapter really began its existence with the new year. We number twenty-six undergraduates and two alumni. Harman, '02, and Malcolm, '02, both instructors in Engineering, are rooming in the house and taking an active interest in the chapter.

We had five freshmen who were taken in as charter members of the chapter. Since then we have pledged one man, T. W. Samuels of East St. Louis. All of these men are promising. Wacaser was regular end on the freshman eleven, and is 'Varsity material. Hendricks is a member of the University Band. Samuels is on the debating squad and will in all probability make the University team. Taylor is showing up well in baseball practice.

The football season was rather discouraging, as the material was light. Three of our men, Rump, '06, Bradley, '07, and Stewart, '08, were awarded "I's".

Baseball practice began immediately after the Christmas vacation.

About 150 men are out for the team, and the prospects for a winning team are much brighter than they were at this time last year when only one veteran reported. Demmitt, '07, who played right field last year and Wasson, '08, who was substitute pitcher, are out for the team. Wacaser, '09, and Taylor, '09, are also out.

We are fairly well represented in class affairs. Bradley, '08, is on the Junior Cap Committee; Wasson, '08, is on the Sophomore Cotillion Committee; and Hall, '07, is on the Illio Board.

Our annual will be held March 2. We are planning for a house party in connection with it, as we shall have a large number of guests from out of town.

At the installation banquet a movement for a permanent chapter house was started. Headed by Professor Wells, Syracuse, '77, each active and alumni member pledged $100 to be paid in yearly installments of $10 each. The total amount subscribed was over $4,000.

THE Chapter has added to its number two more men, making a total of ten taken in this year. On January 22 our Second Degree Initiation was held for which an amusing program had been prepared. The initiates safely weathered the many "trying" ordeals to which they were subjected and are now engaged in preparing for the fraternity examination which will soon be around.

Basketball being excluded at Lafayette for lack of a suitable floor an Inter-fraternity bowling tournament has been arranged as a diversion for the winter term and matches are taking place daily. All are displaying a decided interest in the sport and the rivalry is high. Delta U is represented by a team which was victorious in its first contest.

The annual celebration of Junior Week, which has now become a permanent fixture comes the second week in February this year and is looked forward to by the fellows with a great deal of interest and pleasure. The program includes a play by the Dramatic Association, the Junior Browse and Junior Hop. The latter especially has always been a delightful occasion and Delta U is making every endeavor to obtain a good attendance at this, the social event of the college year.

Hamilton, '07, has been elected a business manager of the "Melange" and also appointed chairman of the Music Committee for the Junior Hop.

Bacon, '07, is assistant business manager of the "Lafayette."

On the Mandolin Club we are represented by Hamilton, '07, and on the Glee Club by Hutchinson, '09.

THE past three weeks have been busy ones for the Lehigh chapter. The sound of grinding has been anything but low. The mid-year examinations terminated only today, and the second term begins Monday.

The results of the examinations were, on the whole, satisfactory to us, and it looks as though we would all be here until June, at least.

The Freshmen are allowed to live in fraternity houses from now on, and three of our Freshmen have moved into the house. We have initiated six men thus far this year, which is better than most of the fraternities have done; and we are to have another initiation sometime in February. At least three more will be taken in at that time. An informal banquet was held at our last initiation, December 15, at which several alumni, and a delegation from the Lafayette chapter were present.

Bro. Dunn, '07, played center on the varsity football team until near the end of the season, when his arm was badly injured and he was obliged to retire from the team. Bro. Speirs, '09, played in several games at quarter, but was handicapped by an injured knee.

Bro. Zollinger, '09, is headed straight for Tau Beta Pi, and all the honors and prizes obtainable in his course.

ON January 23, 1906, one of the most significant events in the history of Marietta College took place in the laying of the cornerstones of the new Library and Dormitory. Bro. J. E. With two new buildings taking definite shape we are made to believe that what we are pleased to call the Greater Marietta is indeed a reality.

Our chapter has also been strengthened by the initiation on January 17 of two men whom we feel will be a credit to Delta U.

On Friday evening, December 22, was held the annual Christmas banquet. Bro. A. G. Williamson, '98, was toastmaster. Toasts were given by Bros. H. W. Stanley, '80, L. S. Devol, '92, A. B. SINCE the last issue of the "Quarterly" we have added three names to our chapter roll, of men whom we think will strength our chapter.

Christmas exams are over and we look back over the past term with feelings of both sorrow and joy—sorrow over the days that are gone forever and joy at something accomplished. This last term has seen us in a better way numerically than for three or four years.

Our chapter has been very active in University affairs. Bros. McCuaig, Lindsay, Spafford, Walker and Stewart are all on the Executive of the Hockey Club. Bros. Ruttan, Baillie and Mather are holding down places on the various teams, while Bro. Lindsay is playing a stellar game in goal for the first team. McGill stands an excellent chance of winning the Intercollegiate trophy again this year. She has beaten Queens once but was unforunate to lose against Toronto on a small rink devoid of ice in places. However, the local club is hoping for revenge when Toronto visits Montreal in a couple of weeks.

The McGill Glee and Mandolin club has just returned from a trip through Eastern Ontario, having visited Morrisburg, Brockville and Smith's Falls. The trip was successful in every way except financially. Bros. Tom and Will Stewart sang in the Glee clug and Bros. McCuaig and Pedley played in the Mandolin club.

Our Eighth Annual Banquet was held on January 10th at the Place Viger Hotel with Bro. McCuaig presiding and about twenty-five brethren present. The dinner was a great success although we were sorry to miss the faces of several of our alumni who did not receive their invitations in time.

Bros. McCuaig and Lindsay attended the banquet of the Toronto chapter while up with the hockey team and report a jolly time while there.

The annual Arts Dance takes place in the Royal Victoria College on February 2nd and we are all looking forward to an enjoyable time as this will be the only college dance between Christmas and Class Day this year.

The Glee and Mandolin club are holding their concert a week later on February 9th and are hoping to make up the small deficit incurred on their trip.

During the last couple of months we have been favoured by visits from quite a number of brethren of other chapters, Bros. Ballard, Mackenzie and Irving of Toronto and Whitney and McAvity of Harvard being among those welcomed.

The McGill chapter wishes all the other chapters a very successful ending of this year's work.

AT the present writing, we are nearing the close of the first semester of the college year, and Michigan Chapter can look with satisfaction on the work accomplished thus far. The chapter is keeping pace with the progress of the University and is upholding the stand it has taken in scholarship, and student activities.

In the latter we are well represented, despite the fact that we lost ten strong men by graduation, last June. Hal Weeks, '07, played regular halfback on the 'Varsity this fall, and Chandler, '08, and Gray, '08, received "R's" for services on the 'Varsity reserves. Our prospects in track work are equally good. Chandler, '08, is showing up well in the weight events, and Hull, '05, '08, Law, is out for the sprints. Gradle, '06, is expected to again win the Fencing Championship, which he has held for two years. He is also president of the Fencing Club, and has first place on the team. Several of the brothers are expected to make their class track teams in the coming try-outs.

On the Comedy Club, we are represented by Dickey, '06, who is president, and has the leading role, and by Cutting, '06, who is manager.

We have three men, Wilson, '09, Spiro, '09, and Weeks, '09, on the Freshman Glee Club, the freshman honorary society. Hull, '05, '08 law, has been initiated into the [illegible] Delta Phi, (legal.) Fishleigh, '02, '06 Eng., has been elected to the Quadrangle Club, honorary. This club is composed mainly of members of the faculty, and Delta Upsilon still has more than twice as many members as any other fraternity in this club. Fishleigh is also a member of the Vulcan, and of the Michigamua, the two senior societies.

On committees, we have Gradle, '06, Senior Pipe and Stein, and Young, '06, Senior Memorial. Broadhead, '07, represents us on the Junior Hop committee.

Fishleigh, '06, was elected to the senior council. This body has control of all student activities and student organizations.

Dickey, '06, received excellent press notices for his skits and monologues produced in connection with the 'Varsity Musical Clubs.

A very unusual state of affairs exists in our chapter this year. We have five pairs of brothers.

We have been favored with many visitors recently. Among them were Bros. Beck, Chicago, '07, Tanner, Cornell, '91, Smith, '04, Johnson, '05, Houston, '05, Corbusier, '99, Wright, Harvard, '97, MacLaughlin, '03, Simpson, '04, and Viger, '05. During the football season we had the privilege of seeing nine of our Wisconsin brothers, on the occasion of the Michigan-Wisconsin game and the entire Ohio State chapter paid us a visit when O. S. U. played here.

Michigan lost the championship of the West in football this year, after holding it for four succesive years. We saw the end of the season, with our goal line still uncrossed. Chicago beat us by the score of 2 to 0. It is a consolation to Michigan chapter to know that Chicago had the three Delta Upsilon men on the line up. The game was well played and the glory is fairly theirs.

We are now looking forward to our annual house party which takes place in February at the time of the Junior Hop. The complete success of both events is proverbial.

MIDDLEBURY.

Active Membership, 25.

MIDDLEBURY has the hardest part of the college year before her just now. The year here is divided into three terms and as we have no basketball team there is nothing in the athletic line to distract our minds from our studies. Therefore the faculty get in their best licks on us during this term and we have to study some to keep ahead of the game.

On the 26th of January we gave what we call our Semi-annual Hop, and under the management of Bros. Acton and Perkins it was successful. We are planning to have another little dance in a week or so. These dances are not full dress affairs but rather tend toward the shirt-waist style, but everyone has a good time because the number is small and everyone knows everyone else.

Bros. Percy, '07, Eddy, '08, and Viele, '09, are back with us this term after nearly a year's absence and seem glad to see all the brothers again. Bro. Hayford, '09, has returned after an absence of a part of last term. Bro. Waterman, '09, has left college to go south with his parents.

At the annual Sophomore Hop given at the end of the Fall term Delta U was better represented than any of the other three fraternities and, what is just as important here, we had them beaten on girls. There is always considerable rivalry along that line.

Middlebury wishes well to every brother in Delta U everywhere and with these wishes must say goodby for another three months.

Hon.—Senator Redfield Proctor of Vermont will resign his seat in the Senate before the expiration of his term.

Senator Proctor has written a letter announcing that he will tender his resignation to take effect not later than March 4, 1909, although it is possible that he may retire from the Senate before that date. Mr.

Proctor's term does not expire until 1911. Largely for family reasons Senator Proctor is looking forward to closing his term of office. The recent death of a daughter, coupled with the fact that Mrs. Proctor finds the climate of Washington unsuitable are the reasons why he will return to private life. He also puts it on the score of years. He is now in his seventy-fifth year and he thinks that after a long, active public career, he is entitled to be placed on the retired list.

'81—The Boston Globe says: "Fletcher D. Proctor in all probability will be elected governor of Vermont in 1896. * * His term of office would not expire until November, 1908. He would have received the prestige of the governorship and would be well in line for a United States senatorship in 1908, the date fixed for the retirement from the senate of his father.

AT present we of Minnesota are in the midst of an invigorating winter. With the thermometer registering 15 degrees below it is no unusual thing to see people scurrying along the icy walks with coat collars high and their hands over their ears.

The beginning of the second semester finds the fraterniay prospering and keeping up its various interests in college affairs. Several of the brothers are taking a prominent part in the preparations for the Junior Ball, the chief social event of the year. On the evening of February 3 will occur the annual election of the athletic board of control. Two brothers, Schouten, '05, law '07, and Haney, '03, Medic. '06, retire after two years of active and efficient service on that board. Bros. Lowe and Cannavarro have been elected to the Boarshead, the junior class honorary society. Bro. Weisel has been elected a member of Theta Tau, an engineering society. The Scabbard and Blade, a military organization, has instituted a chapter here, largely through the efforts of Bros. Haney and Schouten. Bro. Weisel has also joined this society. He is acting as senior captain of the cadet corps this year in which Haney and Schouten are Lieut.-Colonel and senior major respectively. Weisel is managing the girls' basketball team this year.

Bro. Wilson, '08, has been appointed on a committee of three, the others being non-fraternity men, to carry on all arrangements for the election of a Gopher board, which will have charge of the annual junior album next year. Bro. Wilson holds the honor of winning the freshman-sophomore spelling match and also holds the Guild medal for knowledge of military tactics, being the first man ever to win this competitive medal during his freshman year.

Bros. Brush and Weisel were both awarded their "M's" for football.

A crack squad of fifteen men has been organized among the cadets, the best drilled men of the two regiments being chosen. Bros. Crosby and Eklund are in this squad.

Since the former letter was written our delegates have returned from the national convention and have expressed their heartiest commendation of everything done there. They have expressed themselves as especially pleased with the entertainment and hope to show their appreciation in some measure when the convention meets in Minneapolis.

Our chapter heartily commends the legislation effected at the convention and especially extends to our latest chapter in Delta Upsilon the heartiest of welcomes.

DECEMBER 8 and 9, Nebraska Chapter did herself proud. On the 8th we gave the most successful dance and party of the year. This being our "annual stunt," a large number of old men were here, and besides these, we had representatives of other fraternities. Bro. Dildine, '06, who is now in the jewelry business, presented us with gold plated buttons, bearing the monogram and the words "Nebraska Chapter." These buttons made quite a hit in the University and certainly were a great credit to Bro. Dildine.

Early on the evening of the 9th, we initiated the three new men and then repaired to the Lindell Hotel, where an elaborate banquet was served. served. On the toast list were Bros. Harrison, '04, McNoun, '04, Davis, '06, Tunison, '06, and Stephens, '08. Bro. C. T. Knapp, '04, presided over the function in his usual felicitous manner. Among our alumni who were present were Bros. Chambers, R. C. Pollard, J. A. Pollard, Knapp, Harrison, Green Dildine, Nye, Kile, V. A. Lussier, and McNoun; besides we had with us Bro. F. C. French, Brown, '85.

We are holding our usual corner on college honors. Claude Davis, '06, has secured the place of leading man in the Senior play, winning out over many aspirants. Frank Anderson, '06, was initiated into Phi Delta Phi, the honorary law fraternity. He was also elected Master of Ceremonies of the Officers' Hop, which is given annually by the Cadet Officers. Bro. Hagensick, '06, was elected to membership in Sigma Tau, the engineer's fraternity. One of the resultant pleasures to us of the football season was the winning of an "N" by Bro. Lundin, '06. In basketball, we have an option for sure. Out of the six first team men, three are Delta U men, and out of the ten men in the first squad, we have five. These are Moser, E. Hagensick, Winters, L. Hagensick, and Sage.

A sad event was the death of Mr. J. P. Walton, father of Bro. Walton, '05. Holding a position with the General Electric Co., at Schenectady, Bro. Walton returned to Nebraska and was with us until after the funeral. He reports Bro. Sheldon, '05, as being very successful with the same company, having just received a substantial promotion.

The matter of fraternity rushing, taken up by the Board of Regents, has been settled. A committee, consisting entirely of fraternity men was appointed to regulate these matters and therefore no harm was done by the movement.

The second semester opens up in nice shape. We will have three old men back with us—Eugene Brookings, '01, who will register in the College of Law; W. F. Day, who graduates this year from the Civil Engineering department; and H. L. Swan, of the class of '08, who was unable to return last fall. This will raise the total membership to twenty-five and as we have several new men hanging fire, it seems probable that we shall attain the highest membership ever reached by the Chapter.

THE chapter house has been quite popular for the past week or more. We are in the midst of our mid-year examinations, so that is easily explained.

Since our fall initiation we have been progressing quietly. Our brothers who attended the convention gave us a glowing account of their good time. We were all envious. There have been a few items of interest; one is that Bro. Van Horne, '07, son of Bro. John G. Van Horne, '72, was elected football captain for 1906. This brings up our representation to three. We have hopes of a fourth in the near future. Also at the annual athletic asociation elections we were honored with the first vice-presidency, Bro. Chamberlain, '07, being chosen. Besides this office we now have upon the executive committee Bro. Van Horne, '07, football captain; Bro. Lillis, '07, baseball captain, and Bro. Tippett, '06, track captain.

The 19th of December marked the fortieth aniversary of the founding of the New York Chapter and the event was celebrated in good fashion by a union meeting of the Delta Upsilon club of New York and the New York University Delta U. asociation at the University of Pennsylvania club in the city on the above date. A large and enthusiastic gathering of Delta U.'s was there, including nearly the whole of the sister chapters, New York and Columbia. The time was whiled away in "song, eat and talk." If you didn't attend, you missed a good time.

We extend best wishes and fraternal greetings to all, and repeat the invitation, "Come and see us."

'71 — Professor Borden Parker Bowne, who is making a tour of Japan, continues to be the recipient of numerous hospitalities of the most lavish character. He and his party arived at Tokio on Sept. 19. On the following day they were entertained at a large garden party attended by distinguished citizens of the capital. Among the guests was Count Okuma, who said: "It has been my privilege to welcome many Americans during my service as prime minister, but I have taken special pleasure in welcoming two of the greatest Americans—General Grant and Dr. Bowne —Grant the military genius and Bowne the scholar."

An official invitation from the president of the Imperial University to lecture was followed by a special escort to the university. In Japan he is called "the Evangel of Light." Following the lecture he was entertained by the president and professors of the university at a dinner given in his honor, at which brilliant compliments expressed high esteem for this American scholar. In twelve days he gave thirteen addresses before universities, schools and assemblies.

Dr. Bowne has been elected a member of the Imperial Education Society of Japan.

SINCE the last issue our Chapter house at 720 Foster street has been redecorated and repapered. After a general house-cleaning a gift day was held, on which the members of the Chapter each presented the house with something that was needed to make the parlors more attractive.

A recent visit by Bro. Theodore Whittelsey, a graduate of Williams College, who holds a chair in the chemistry department here, was much aprpeciated.

On the night of December 11th we initiated Bros. Redelings and Moore. The ceremony took place at the Chapter house, the charge being delivered by Bro. Harry E. Smoot, '03. As this was the second initiation of the year, we were pleased to see the alumni turn out as well as they did. A special dinner was served in the Chapter house immediately before the initiation took place.

Having played for four years on the University football team, the students have presented Bro. Scott with a handsome watch fob. The charm is a solid gold football, containing the inscription, 19N06. This gift is presented neither by the university nor by the Athletic association, but is given directly by the students as a token of their appreciation, the funds being raised by voluntary subscription.

The wind-up of the football season gave both Bros. Scott and Gilbreth claim to the varsity emblem, an N. No emblem has as yet been presented to any member of the team, but they will be given soon.

At the annual football banquet held in the gymnasium, Bro. Gilbreth was elected captain of the 1906 team. For two years he has been on the team, filling sometimes the position of left tackle and at other times that of fullback. As tackle his position was almost invulnerable, and as fullback he was a constant ground-gainer, generally being called upon to make the distance on the third down. His unanimous election as captain was one that he well merited by his steady training and good playing.

On the track squad we are well represented. Among those of last year's team, Bros. Scott and Gilbreth are out again for the weights, while Bros. Dorner and Smoot are doing good work at the pole vault. Among the new material we are represented by Bros. Harrold Smoot, Swift and Redelings.

Bros. Dorner and Swift are on the basket ball team.

The University Glee club has on its limited roll of membership four Delta U.'s—Bros. Shumway, Smoot, Baird and Redelings.

The annual Junior play will occur in March. On the cast Bro. Clay Smoot takes the leading part.

Bro. Scott is a member of the Interfraternity Senior council.

Bro. Schafer has been filling the position of editor in chief on the university paper, "The Northwestern," since Thanksgiving. Bro. Dorner is serving on the repotorial staff.

At the annual election of officers of the Deutsche Gesellschaft, Bro. Schafer was reelected treasurer.

Preparations are under way for our annual formal party to be held on May 26. So many of the alumni have signified their intention of attending that a fine time is assured.

THIS writing finds every one deep in his mid-winter's work, but in spite of the aparent unbroken routine of this time of the year there are plenty of interests requiring the students' attention.

Just at present every one is interested in the movement to secure a students' building for the university. The need of this has been felt for some time, and from all indications such a building may be realized in the near future. The plans include a considerable expenditure in order to secure a building of such a nature as to be a credit to the university.

Another matter of particular interest to fraternity men is the introducing of a bill into the State Legislature providing for the leasing of building sites on the campus to the different fraternities. It is hoped to have this bill passed at the present session of the Legislature, and should this occur it would mean a great step forward in fraternity life at the university.

Our football season closed on Thanksgiving day with the Indiana game, which was one of the best games of the year, although resulting in our defeat. This and the Michigan game were the only defeats of the season, which was one of the most successful in the history of the school.

Schory, '09, played a great game at fullback, winning his "O" and making the All-Ohio team. Barrington, '09, had first call at the quarterback position and played an especially good game on Thanksgiving day. Surface, '07, sub-tackle, and Perry, '09, at end, also did consistent work.

The basketball season is on, and the present indications are for a good team despite the fact that three of last year's stars are gone. Barrington, '09, easily won first place for the forward position and is playing a good game.

Since our last letter we have initiated three more men. Our initiation was held at the Chapter House Saturday evening, January 6, and was followed by a banquet, every one having a royal good time. We feel highly elated over securing exceptionally good men this year, and have several more men pledged.

Barrington, '09, and Sosman, '09, are on the Mandolin club, the former being the 'cellist.

We are all looking forward to our annual formal dance, which will be given in late February or early in March. At last year's similar event every one had an especially enjoyable time, and we expect to have the same this year.

The Junior Prom, the greatest social event of the year, will take place at the University armory on the night of February 9, and a large number of our men expect to have an enjoyable time at this function.

Our new $100,000 mining and ceramics building has just been opened and forms a valuable addition to the buildings of the campus.

Simon, '06, student assistant in mining engineering, will have charge of the annual trip to the mines of the mining engineers.

Reigart, '07, has been elected associate editor of the Makio, the college annual. Fried, '09, made "The Strollers" the college dramatic company.

We have been unusually well favored with visits from our alumni, especially over the holiday season. Among these were Hirsch, '01, and Saunders, '03, who are in the government service at Washington, Stocker, '02, Hull, '02, Miller, '01, Marker, '04 and Harris, ex-'05.

THE winter season at Pennsylvania has not been an especially active one in university life. After coming through a very successful football season in spite of great misfortunes, we have been content to rest for a while. In football Bro. Bennis won his varsity letter. Johnston played in a great many of the games, and since Stevenson has left college he will probably be the varsity quarter next year.

At present the basketball team of the university leads the Intercollegiate league. The candidates for the crews have been called out, and prospects are bright. Delta Upsilon is represented on the squad by Atkin, '07, stroke of last year's varsity eight; Bogardus, P. G., of last year's varsity four; Galey, '06, of the 1904 four; Elliott, '07, and Magree, '08. The baseball candidates will soon be out, and we have a sure member of the team in Johnston, '08, of last year's team. Aside from athletics, Bro. Galey is on the Ivy Ball committee. We desire to extend a cordial invitation to members of the other chapters visiting Philadelphia to come see us.

THE chapter is enjoying a very pleasant and profitable year. The number in the chapter is larger than it has been for some years, and all of the men are busily interested in some branch of the college work.

Bro. Truex, '08, will take part in the college play, of which Bro. Rathjen, '06, is manager. Bro. Ramaker, '09, is playing right forward on the varsity basketball five. The following men of the upper classes have been declared eligible to try for appointment on the Alling prize debate, which will take place during commencement: Seniors, Bros. Wilson, Humpstone, Rathjen, and Reynolds; Juniors, Bros. White and Napier. Bros. Wilder, Wood, Truex and Munger are competing for places on "Soph. Ex." Bro. '81—Waldo G. Morse, a lawyer, with offices at No. 10 Wall street, who has lived in Yonkers for many years and made a study of transit franchises as granted by this State, is at the head of a radical system by which prominent citizens of Yonkers, aroused by the wretched trolley service which the city receives, have organized for the purpose of petitioning the legislature to annul the charter of the local road and turn over its tracks and franchises to the new company by condemnation proceedings. Startling as the plan is, Mr. Morse, who is acting as counsel for the dissatisfied Yonkers citizens, has evolved a method of procedure which seems to be brand new in municipal government.

Those who will back the new company which hopes to wrest the transit franchises of Yonkers from the hands of the Belmont-Ryan monopoly say that the franchises of street railroad corporations are not exclusive in this State, and that competing companies may be authorized to run cars over existing tracks. To prove this startling assertion it is said that no corporation in the State of New York enjoys an exclusive franchise by force of law in view of the provision of the constitution, in force since 1872, which says that the legislature shall not pass a private or local bill granting to any private corporation, association or individual any exclusive privilege, immunity or franchise whatever.

The dissatisfied citizens of Yonkers maintain that the legislature, upon evidence that the Union Railroad company is not giving proper service, may authorize the municipality, or any individual or corporation, to operate vehicles over any public street, even along rails laid by a private corporation. Only the question of the compensation to be paid for the use of such tracks would have to be considered. This, it is argued, could be fixed by a municipal or legislative commission.

STANFORD.

Active Membership, 20.

WE are back again after a delightful vacation of two weeks. Two weeks spent in outdoor recreation — tennis, golf, rowing, riding, fishing and surf bathing. These have given us almost a second summer vacation and brought us back fit for a semester of hard work.

The combined Glee and Mandolin clubs have just returned from a successful tour of the southern part of the State. Lachmund, '06, is leader, and Kellogg, Ross and Severy are members of the Glee club. Owen is on the Mandolin club.

In common with President Roosevelt and our other friends of the East, Stanford is deeply interested in the future of football. The situation on the Pacific coast is not so critical as it seems to be in the East, for it is the boast of the two great universities of the coast—Stanford and California—that neither professionalism nor brutality mar the game as played here.

The tennis men are already hard at work practicing for the February try-outs. Baseball and track will be claiming the attention of the university before January is ended. Dudley, '06, right field on last year's nine, will try for his old position, and Daily, '07; Salisbury, '07, and Slusher, '07, will be on the squad. Severy, '08; Ross, '08; Walker, '08; Owen, '09, and Stolz, '09, are out for track work.

In the play "She Stoops to Conquer," to be given by the Sophomore class, we are represented by Severy, Ross and Walker.

We are looking forward with unusual anticipation to our annual "jolly-up" with the California Chapter in their beautiful new chapter house.

PROBABLY the most important events which have lately befallen the Swarthmore Chapter are the initiations of Randolph T. Zane, '09, on November 1, and of James Edwin Baum, '09, on January 8. Bro. Zane is a graduate of the Central Manual Training School of Philadelphia, and Bro. Baum of St. Paul's School of New Hampshire.

After Bro. Baum's initiation we enjoyed a banquet and entertainment at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Scott.

Bros. Palmer, '06, and Walker, '06, reported a very successful and enjoyable convention, and we were all very glad to hear of the admission into the fraternity of what is now the Illinois Chapter.

The football season this year was the most successful Swarthmore has ever seen. Out of eight games played our only defeat was suffered at the hands of Pennsylvania. Bro. William C. Walker, '06, who expects to return to college next year to take a post-graduate course in chemistry, was elected football manager for next season at the December meeting of the Athletic Association.

Swarthmore is unfortunate in losing the services of Dr. W. S. Cummings physical director, who resigned on January 1 to pursue the study of medicine in Europe. Dr.. J. K. Shell of Pennsylvania is ably filling Dr. Cummings' place.

The basketball team, with Bro. Palmer, '06, as captain, and Bro. Heed, '07, playing forward, has been having fair success, winning three games out of six played. Bro. Henrie, '07, was one of Swarthmore's representatives at the Fifth Regiment indoor meet in Baltimore on December 16, winning two second prizes and one third.

A debate was held on December 14 with Pennsylvania State College, which Swarthmore lost by a two to one vote of the judges. Bro. Amos J. Peaslee, '07, is a member of our team, which supported the negative of the question: "Resolved, that United States Senators should be elected by direct vote of the people."

On December 9 our annual banquet was held at the Bellevue-Stratford in Philadelphia, Bro. John P. Broomell, '99, acting as toastmaster. It was the usual hearty and enjoyable affair, about forty brothers being present.

Bro. David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford, Jr., University, spoke in Parish Hall on "The Blood of the Nation," on December 15. His talk was a powerful and interesting argument against international warfare. The Chapter was very glad to meet Bro. Jordan after the lecture.

SYRACUSE is just finishing its mid-year examinations, and college activities of all kinds seem at a rather low ebb. However, this is the lull that precedes the storm, for with next week the calls are made for men to enter all branches of athletics. The captains of the crews and the track team have posted notices for the men to report next week for active work, and the baseball captain will do the same shortly. Then the week beginning February 19 has been designated as Senior week, and festivities for the same are now well under way. On Monday evening occur the fraternity parties, Tuesday evening the Glee Club concert and Wednesday evening the Senior reception.

Our football team closed a successful season with the West Point game. While we did not win all the games, the material brought out in the entering class will be of untold value to the teams of the future. At the end of the season James P. Simpson, '08, was elected captain for next season; also Bro. Cummings, '07, was advanced from assistant manager to manager of the football team.

The Freshmen held their annual class banquet on Monday evening, October 30, at one of the downtown hotels. Bro. Murdock, '09, was toastmaster.

While work has progressed somewhat on the buildings now in course of erection on the campus, it has necessarily been slow, but in the spring, when work is begun on the new Alumni Hall, given by the alumni and designed to seat 5,000; on the chemical laboratory, and men's dormitory to be built by the university, things will take on an appearance even busier than before. The above are to be the nucleus of a quadrangle around the old athletic field. The university has also purchased the Yates castle grounds, which join the campus. This was formerly a preparatory school, but will be remodeled for a college of pedagogy.

On January 16 occurred our annual athletic dinner, given in honor of the block "S" men. Over four hundred were present. On January 30 an athletic benefit concert was given in the Wieting Opera House by a large chorus and orchestra.

In our Chapter life we regret to report that Bro. Armstrong, '07, has left college. On the evening of December 20 we had a Xmas tree at the house, and passed a very enjoyable time with the alumni and their wives.

Bros. Green, '08; Stoddard, '08; Hopkins, '08, Townsend, '09, and Stacey, '06, represented us on the Christmas trip of the Glee clubs.

Bro. Illman, '08, is in the cast of "Macbeth," the play to be given by the students this spring.

Bro. Hastings, '08, is reporting college news on the Post-Standard.

On November 23 we held our annual alumni smoker at the house and had about fifty present.

WE are now in the midst of our mid-year examinations and every one is working very hard. However, the "exams" are followed by a vacation of about one week, which will give us all a chance to rest or catch up, as the case may be.

Since the last letter we have taken in four new men all Freshmen. The regular fall initiation was held on November 3, Bro. Vogel delivering the charge.

On November 24 Bro. Foss, '09, was taken in, Bro. Jewett delivering the charge at this informal initiation.

If there is such a thing as inheritance of Delta U. spirit, Bro. Mitchell, '09, certainly ought to be richly endowed with it. He is the eighth of his family who has been chosen by Delta U.

Bro. Merryweather, '04, who has been with us this last term, has gone to Calumet, Mich., where he will apply his genius for mining engineering. Bro. Morton, '07, has left for Arizona, where he will get a little practical mining experience before returning to the Institute next fall.

With the opening of the second term, we are all looking forward to the district convention of New England chapters, which will be held in Boston on March 3 at the Copley Square hotel.

After the wonderful success of last year's convention we feel justified in anticipating even better success at the coming convocation.

In connection with the New England district convention the New England Club of Delta Upsilon will hold its annual banquet at the same place and will unite with us in making a record meeting. Open house will be kept for our alumni and the visiting delegates.

We have been particularly fortunate this term in having our weekly meetings well attended by our alumni. Almost every meeting has found us with one or more present, and we are well pleased at the interest shown.

On December 8 Bros. Gleason, Harvard, '86; Holliday, Harvard, '89; Kendall, Technology, '91, and Swan, Technology, '99, were with us and talked to us most interestingly.

During the last term we have received visits from Bros. Hough, '00; Seyms, '03; Kearney, '03; Rodgers, '04, and Klahr, '05.

SINCE our last letter much has happened of importance both to the university and the Chapter. Of the former, the record of the football team was perhaps the most interesting to the students. After winning every match in the Intercollegiate Union, the team played Ottawa City "Rough Riders" for the championship of Canada before the largest and most enthusiastic crowd ever gathered in Toronto. The varsity team, who won on condition and brains, were managed and captained till the last game by MacPherson, '07.

The students of the faculty of arts and applied science were in a condition of unrest, if not absolute insurrection, for a large part of the past term, owing to the action of the discipline committee. Two years in science were in fact out on strike for some time. The troubles are settled now and we all look for a reorganization of the disciplinary methods in the near future. A commission was appointed some time ago by the government to make a thorough study of the situation in this and other large institutions and report exhaustively, recommending necessary changes. The commission has just finished hearing suggestions et cetera, and expects to report soon. Bro. MacCurdy, '66, and Bro. Mackenzie, '96, were members of the athletic commission appointed by the main body to consider the athletic situation.

Hockey is the only game at Toronto now. Unfortunately up to the present the winter has been so mild that ice has been scarce and the team without proper practice. This is particularly hard luck, as we have better material than ever before, perhaps. Bros. Thoms, '07; Harold Clark, '09, and Herbert Clark, '08, are on the team.

As was stated in the last letter, we had good hopes of landing new men. As a matter of fact, our success in rushing was beyond our expectations, as the above list shows. This was particularly encouraging since it was the first year that we have attempted serious and systematic rushing.

A committee has had in preparation for some time a pamphlet dealing with the general history and condition of the Chapter, to be distributed to all the alumni. A copy will also be sent to every chapter. It is expected that it will be ready in a few days.

Our annual dance was held on November 23 with its usual success.

The Chapter is, according to many alumni, in a stronger position than ever before.

J. T. MAC CURDY.

Since writing our letter three important events have occurred that necessitate a postscript.

On the 26th of January, Toronto met McGill in their first hockey match together, and contrary to most expectations defeated them nicely, thus placing the standing of the league a three-cornered tie. The work of our representatives was specially commended by the press. The following night saw the annual dinner of the Chapter. It was very successful, there being about sixty present. One noticeable feature was the good speaking of the new members. It augurs well. We were glad to have with us Bro. McCuaig of McGill, the manager of the hockey team, who stayed over for dinner.

The award for the Rhodes scholarship has just been announced, and we are all rejoicing in the success of Bro. R. C. Reade, '05, who captured the coveted honor. The last Rhodes scholar from Toronto was Bro. E. R. Paterson, '02, who has distanced all competitors in tennis at Oxford. Bro. Reade makes the fourth D. U. scholarship winner to go to Oxford in five competitors. He has a brilliant record behind him in scholarship, athletics and literary work.

'95—Mr. W. A. Kirkwood B. A., '96, M. A., who contributes to this issue of the Monthly the article on "Student Life in Athens," is one of the most progressive classical teachers in the province. After taking his Bachelor's degree Mr. Kirkwood attended the School of Pedagogy (Toronto), and then spent one year as classical master of Walkerton High School. In 1897 he accepted a similar position in Ridley College, St. Catherines, where he remained for six years. In 1903 he went abroad to enter on a period of graduate study. After visiting England, Scotland and several of the continental capitals he proceeded to the International College at Smyrna, Turkey, where he spent one year, devoting himself to teaching and to a study of the results of recent excavations, and visiting many places of interest in Asia Minor and Egypt. His second year of foreign study was spent at the American School in Athens. Mr. Kirkwood has recently returned to Canada, and is living at present in his native town, Brampton.—University of Toronto Monthly.

'95, '02, '05, '06—The "Varsity," the undergraduate publication of the University of Toronto, under the editorship of Bro. Megan, '06, recently issued a very attractive Christmas number. The following articles by members of the Chapter were noted: "Modern Greece and Its People," by W. A. Kirkwood, '95; "The University Men in Canadian National Life," by R. J. Younge, '02; "The Oxford Letter," by E. R. Paterson '02; "Plutus" (poem) by R. J. Reade, '05.

'96—At a meeting of the executive committee of the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada, R. W. Allin, head master of the Boys' School at Rothesay, N. B., was appointed assistant missionary secretary in the office of the Missionary Society.

Bro. Allin was graduated with honors in English literature. He has been a very successful teacher, and has had wide experience in the missions in the diocese of Fredericton.

'00—When it became known that Bro. R. J. Younge, '02, was resigning his position as secretary of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, there was a very large number of applications filed for the secretaryship. The coveted position was awarded to Bro. J. F. M. Stewart, '00, who for the past two years has been a very efficient secretary of the Toronto branch of the association.

'02—The Commercial Intelligence Committee of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, January 5, 1906, approved of the appointment of R. J. Younge as commissioner in Canada for the international exhibition, New Zealand.

'03—Arthur G. Lang is with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company at New Orleans, La.

'05—The second Ontario Rhodes scholarship has just been awarded, and for the second time the award has gone to Delta Upsilon. The appointment of Bro. R. C. Reade has met with universal approval. The Toronto Globe of February 3 makes the following comment:

"The Rhodes scholarship award aroused considerable excitement when it was announced on Wednesday afternoon. The news quickly spread to the Union, and became the chief topic of conversation. "Bobby" Reade, the fortunate candidate, was well known to the members of that club, and his witticisms were familiar to many who did not know him personally. In his last year at college he was a member of the Thirteen Club. He is also a member of the Delta Upsilon Fraternity, which has already furnished a Rhodes scholar, and two Flavelle scholars.

AT the present writing all interest centers on the approaching mid-year examinations for which we are already busily preparing. Consequently there is a lull in college activities. The basketball and track teams, however, are exceptions to this. On the track team we have Bros. Boyd, '08, Coe, '09, and Brother-to-be Sheehy, '09, all three ranking among the fastest men on the squad. Bros. Stearns, '09, and Nason, '09, are also candidates and Bro. Dustin, '06, has signified his intention of coming out for the hurdles as soon as the exam. period is over. We have a good coach, and the number of candidates is large, consequently a successful season is anticipated.

In the recent inter-class basketball series, which was won by the Juniors, Bros. Hall, '06, Derry, '07, and Gronin, '09, played on their respective class teams. Our social events have been two very enjoyable house parties and an informal Christmas-tree party.

Hall, '06, Smith, '08, Lewis, '07, and Brother-to-be Sheehy, '09, have been awarded the 'Varsity "T" for their work on the football team. Stearns, '09, won his class numerals in football, and Masseck, '08, Boyd, '08, and Coe, '09, in the Freshman-Sophomore track meet, by making points for their respective classes.

It is with regret that we record the loss to our Chapter caused by Brothers Mulvey, '07, Nason, '07, and Cronin, '08, leaving college. Brother Mulvey is now employed in a bank, and Brother Cronin has gone into business with his father.

The Christmas trip of the Glee and Mandolin Clubs, this year, was a very successful one. The larger cities and many of the towns in Maine were visited, and everywhere the Clubs were received by enthusiastic audiences. Bros. Hanscom, '06, Masseck, '08, and Brother-to-be Upham, '08, represented Delta Upsilon.

Along other lines we are also active. Bro. Bean, '07, is vice-president of the Knowlton Debating Club, and has recently been appointed a member of the Junior Week committee. Morey, '09, is a member of the executive committee of his class. Hanscom, '08, is one of the cast for Dekker's "Old Fortunatus," which will be presented by the English department this spring.

Bro. Hall, '06, is at present ill with diphtheria.

The Chapter is looking forward with keen anticipation to the New England District-convention which is to be held in Boston, next March, in connection with the New England Club banquet.

We are now firmly established in our new house and extend a cordial invitation to all Delta U's to come and see us.

The new Electrical Engineering laboratory is nearing completion, and adds greatly to the beauty of our campus. The board of trustees has nearly secured $100,000 to which Andrew Carnegie is to add a like amount. This money is to be used in building another engineering laboratory and to increase the salaries of the professors in this department.

At a recent college meeting it was voted by the student body to abolish football as now played.

BROTHERS McGraw, '05 and Barr, '08, were forced to leave the university during the current semester on account of sickness but we expect them back the beginning of next semester. The lowering of the chapter roll due to their leaving has been compensated for by the recent initiation of three Iowa men, and with Alfred C. BOWDOIN.

Active Members, 33.

JUST at present we are taking a greatly needed rest after a strenuous attack of exams. But we have been very busy during the last few weeks in the various branches of college activities.

On the senior elections Bro. Stone, '06, made the commencement committee, and Bro. Holman, '06, the picture committee. In the junior elections Bro. Wilson, '07, was elected vice-president and Bro. McMichael, '07, chairman of Ivy committee. Bro. Wilson, '07, the popular baseball manager has been very busy with making arrangements for the Bowdoin minstrels, the proceeds of which go to the baseball association. Our men showed the proper Delta U spirit in supporting our brother, there being twelve men in the chorus and one endman, from this chapter. The endman Bro. Kingsley, '07, made a decided hit with his jokes, and in his specialty "Uncle Josh," he acted to perfection, keeping the house in constant laughter. The show was a success in every way and the proceeds amounted to $100.

On the relay team for the B. A. A. we were represented by Bro. Blair, '09. In the various clubs, we are represented by Bro. Russell, '07, Chemistry club, Bros. Wilson, '07, Russell, 07, and McMichael, '07, Deutscher Verein, and Bro. Holman, '06, in the Government club.

VOLUME XXIV JUNE 1, 1906 NUMBER 3

THE JEROME-HUGHES BANQUET.

By ARTHUR C. PERRY, JR., New York, '92, Historian.

SUCH a meeting as the testimonial banquet to Brothers William Travers Jerome, Amherst, '82, and Charles E. Hughes, Brown, '81, given by the Delta Upsilon Club of New York on March 23, 1906, would tax the descriptive powers of even the best of reporters. The ability of your Historian being extremely limited he was glad to sub-let his contract and muster in several good brothers to cover the details. He acknowledges their help and, in addition, the aid of Bro. J. B. Richardson, Williams, '00.

It was one of the most notable gatherings of college men New York has ever witnessed. The royal banquet hall of the Hotel Savoy was taxed to the limit of its capacity by the 238 Delta Upsilon men from the five quarters of the globe (four quarters in the United States and one in Canada, if you question my artithmetic). Just the right kind of a dinner —the kind that we expect at the Savoy—was served to us, and yet I wonder if any of us, considering our appetite for the intellectual feast, knew or cared what we were eating.

After the invocation by Brother Ezra S. Tipple, D.D., Syracuse, '84, we started in upon the meal to the usual accompaniment of fraternity songs and chapter cheers. Not more than three courses had been served when Toastmaster Starr J. Murphy, Amherst, '81, introduced Brother Hughes, explaining that, owing to the great pressure of his work, the Armstrong Insurance Committee at that moment being in session at his home, he could be present only a few minutes.

CHARLES E. HUGHES WAS BRIEF.

Brother Hughes spoke with his customary charming directness, expressing his thanks for the reception accorded him and his regrets that important duty prevented his remaining throughout the evening. "I have exceeded my loading," he said, "and the contingent reserve is far from adequate." His serious theme was Delta Upsilon as the first and foremost influence of his own early life, but his remarks sparkled with witticisms from beginning to end. The head table was referred to a conjunction of luminaries and the star (Brother Murphy); the audience as a distinguished array or policy-holders; and the advertising section of Brother Ridgway's magazine as an inflamed appendix.

Looking at the District Attorney, Brother Hughes said: "I used to meet my friend, Mr. Jerome, at Amherst, where he conducted 'John Doe proceedings' in defiance of the faculty—the proceedings that have made his administration so successful." In closing he said: "Heretofore I have paid annual dividends to this club, but tonight for the first and only time in my life I must declare myself in favor of a deferred dividend policy." Brother Hughes' speech brought every man to his feet, and prolonged cheers greeted Brother Ridgway's toast to "the next Governor of New York."

"I attribute your good wishes to the spirit of fraternity and good fellowship," said Brother Hughes, with instant self-possession. "I must, however, leave political aspirations where they belong," and looked toward District-Attorney Jerome and Lieutenant-Governor Bruce.

Brother Hughes' words seemed to electrify the atmosphere and throughout the evening, from speech to speech, the intangible current passed with magnetic might, stirring each speaker to his best effort.

Brother Erman J. Ridgway, Northwestern, '91, gave one of his characteristic speeches, a combination of enthusiasm and reserve, optimism and pessimism, sarcasm, humor and seriousness.

PRESIDENT RIDGWAY'S ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

"As president of the Delta Upsilon Club it gives me great pleasure to greet you, although my enjoyment was partially spoiled when I learned that I was not to be toastmaster. The Executive Committee has played Senate to my Roosevelt, and I have to submit. Jerome told the Committee he would come only on condition that Ridgway was not toastmaster, although I could have introduced Jerome as well as I did Lawson at the St. Louis meeting.

"At that time I said: "When the country needed a Father, Washington was raised: when the country needed Liberty, Lincoln was raised: and now in its dire extremity, the country has raised Lawson.' And then Jerome arose and said, 'Evidently Lawson has been raised to raise Hell.'

"In addition to the large crowd here, there is one Delta U. man I should like to welcome, and that is Brother Rupert Hughes. He writes me he is on the road with his successful play, and that he is having the trouble that all of us men of talent have—the critics look at the defects with a microscope and then tell about them through a megaphone.

"We magazine men are hearing from the critics. I have an idea that the general impression is abroad that some periodicals are in somewhat bad business. It's about the turn of the magazines to get what's coming to us but while we're getting it I don't think we'll keep as still as some people who have been getting it from us. Back of all this publicity for high crimes and misdemeanors there is purpose beyond advertising.

"But to return to club matters. This gathering is one for the administration to be proud of. The club has seen nothing like it since the convention banquet in 1903.

"Again I welcome you and again I say I am sorry I am not toastmaster; for I would introduce Jerome as a man with his heart on his left side, his conscience on both sides, his head balanced in the middle, and red blood according to the white man's standard."

Reported by W. W. JACKSON, Columbia, '92.

President Ridgway then introduced the toastmaster, Brother Murphy, who began by saying: "The toastmaster's position is a cinch. He sits up here among the wax works—" and the laughter prevented the completion of the sentence. After telling several entertaining stories he read telegrams of greeting from the Indiana Alumni Association and from the Delta Upsilon Club of Philadelphia, both assembled at their annual banquets. After mentioning District Attorney Jerome's two personal victories for civic righteousness he said that Brother Jerome needed no formal introduction.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY JEROME'S SPEECH.

Without giving Brother Jerome's entire speech it would be impossible to do it justice. He opened his mind to his friends and brothers in Delta Upsilon in regard to many questions now uppermost in the current thought in connection with his own official position. That portion of the press, commonly termed yellow, which has been assailing him in his conduct of the office of District Attorney was completely routed.

Received with a storm of enhusiastic applause, Brother Jerome began with a glowing tribute to Charles E. Hughes.

"I have one regret," he said, "that Brother Hughes could not be with us. For as far as my voice can carry any approbation of him as a man and a lawyer and of the work he could do, I not only wanted to say it, but I wanted to say it to his face. It is an easy thing to conduct an investigation for a legislative committee. Every man is at the mercy of its counsel. But the magnificent restraint, the lawyer-like and manlike way in which Mr. Hughes conducted that investigation, never for one moment descending to cheap claptrap plays, can never be forgotten.

"No tribute that can be paid him would be adequate. He had ever before him the approbation of his professional brethren and not the approbation of the yellow press, and that brings me to that situation now confronting us about which I want to say a word as to our duty as educated men toward public opinion.

"Public opinion goes hither and yon like a ship, but in the long course of time it is sweet and sane and sound and will make its port; but it lies to you to see that its tacks are no longer than they ought to be. It is wasted power, that sentiment of the community that goes up one trail and back again to another. Today all through this nation what do we find—a case of absolute hysteria.

"Gentlemen, no nation ever built its national life on the warp and woof of perjury. tort and larceny; and yet today you would think that this great country we love was setting its course on this foundation.

"David Graham Phillips is now writing about the 'Treason of the Senate' for a magazine. Treason is an ugly word. It is punishable by death. We have got so used to superlatives that our own racy tongue has become debauched and we have no superlatives left. The Senate of the United States—is it a treasonable body?

"Because some men are there who ought not to be there—some who bought the position—shall we say that the governors of our body politic are guilty of treason? Base men are there, but when in the bright, breezy sentiments of modern newspaper life you assert there is treason, you either lie or misconceive the meaning of the English language. * *

"Much of this," he continued, "is due to the newspapers, and again not. In this community one or two stand out as vultures that seek their carrion, and seek it with a sense of recognition. The others try to be clean. But standing before them is the financial success of these two. The people demand hot stuff at so much per, and their needs are met by a class of publications whose text is dictated by their counting rooms and by their counting rooms alone.

"Many of the good ones go wrong at times, but I believe that the press as a whole strives to do right and voice public sentiment.

"I have no words but words of praise for the honest papers. In our days criticism of public officers is right—stinging criticism if it is just, and he who is not a fool can learn from it. And if he is a fool and cannot learn he ought to take his medicine."

Referring to the insistence of the press that the trustees of the life insurance companies be indicted for misappropriation of the funds of the companies, and to his own stand on this question, Brother Jerome said:

"How far this hysteria has gone! See in this morning's paper the words of men like Roger Pryor, a former Judge of the Supreme Court, a good man, upright man, I believe, but swept off his feet. An educated man feeding fuel to a flame which may be just or may not be just.

"There is only a handful of men in this community today who know whether it is just or not. He says that Section 544 of the Penal Code says that this is a crime. He is willing to talk so carelessly of the reputations of his fellow-men that he forgets to put into his statement that that section says: 'Trustees appointed by will, deed, order of the court, or other instrument in writing,' none of which Trustees of insurance companies are. Careless, you say, for a former Judge of the Supreme Court to do such a thing?"

Speaking of Alton B. Parker, former Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, he continued: "He goes down among our Southern brethren and says the way to convict is to convict—note the judicial note. He says there is not a Grand Jury that would not indict these men. Gentlemen, it is because the Grand Jury would indict these men with or without evidence that there is one public official in New York who will not permit them to indict them without good and legal evidence.

"I am going to see that those who violate the criminal law shall be punished, but the way to convict is by evidence.

"I feel bitterly, my friends, in one way—not personally, but I feel bitterly that my people should be swept off their feet by such circumstances as these. Conceive how little the educated man thinks when an editor writes an editorial addressed to the District Attorney appealing to him on his reputation. The District Attorney who does anything in his work with a view to enhance his reputation does worse than wrong; he does something for which he should be removed, for he commits a crime.

"Gentlemen, it is up to you. I leave with you a sentiment in which I hope you will all join in this crisis: Not halt, but steady!"

Reported by EDWARD H. BRUSH, Columbia, '87.

The day following the dinner all the papers published Brother Jerome's speech, some of them giving a resume of parts of it, apparently colored by a feeling that in his criticisms of certain "yellow journals" he had attacked the press as a whole. But after a day for reflection opinion seemed to change as was shown by an editorial in the Times which began:

"Mr. Jerome's phillipic at the dinner of the Delta Upsilon Club was a notable symptom of the rising reaction against yellowness in speech and writing, against excess in thought and act, against the hysteria lately prevailing. * * * Mr. Jerome * * is a natural and qualified spokesman against these outbreaks of perfervid passion. * * * They have deserved Mr. Jerome's words of censure."

In introducing Lieutenant Governor M. Linn Bruce, Rutgers, '84, the toastmaster recalled the fact that Delta Upsilon was the first Greek letter fraternity to give a President to the United States, Garfield, Williams, '56.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR BRUCE'S TRIBUTE.

Brother Bruce also had a word to say of Brother Hughes, remarking that however much or little he was known by the people and the press before the insurance inquiry, "Charley Hughes was no stranger to the bar and the bench of the State." He made a stirring address comparing the political conditions of thirty years ago unfavorably with those of the present day. His optimism was shown clearly throughout his speech. In closing Brother Bruce said: "Whatever I am so far as a college man and a professional man is due to the influence thrown about me in my undergraduate days by my brothers of the Rutgers Chapter of Delta Upsilon."

THE OTHER SPEAKERS.

Deputy Commissioner of Police, William Mathot, New York,, '91, compared the conditions of public affairs in the United States with those existing in England, France, Germany and Italy, where the possibilities of corruption, due to the lack of publicity and connivance of government, far exceeded anything to be found here, and the exposure of secret graft by the press in this country was some compensation for the evils of intemperate public clamor and journalistic hysteria. He would impress upon his brethren the necessity of beginning at the foundation of society, the home, the teaching of children the principles of right living, so that they might grow up with high ideals of conduct, and not with the idea that everything depended upon money and success. With such moral training in our homes, the graft and corruption found in public affairs would be impossible.

Major-General Henry C. Merriam, U. S. A., Colby, '64, expressed his thanks for the welcome extended him, both personally and on behalf of his branch of the service. Before going to college, his parents had admonished him above all things always to be open and frank, and Delta Upsilon, with its principles of justice and non-secrecy had from the first attracted him. All through life in the army and elsewhere, he had found that non-secrecy was always best in the end. "The soldier of Delta Upsilon," he said, "bears the motto, 'Ouden Adelon' on his shield and 'Dikaia Upotheke' on his sword; he goes straight into the face of the enemy and 'Hughes' his way to victory."

Charles L. White, LL.D., Brown, '87, President of Colby, spoke to us of the snow and ice of his home state, Maine, and of its "furtail" climate. He gave us an account of his reception on the eve of his inauguration and recounted briefly the history of the chapter in war times, when it had to close its hall because all its members (including General Merriam) enlisted for the war. He compared Delta U. to the summit of an Alpine mountain, with a wide spreading view on all sides. In like manner Delta Upsilon widens the horizon. The ambition of the Delta

U. man is to do something. His aim is not success, but service, and with such men as Hughes and Jerome to carry on that ideal he found no room for discouragement, no ground for hysteria.

THE CROWD.

Well, it was a crowd—a good big, jolly old time Delta U. crowd—a sight to make a man's heart glad. The old fellows were back in large numbers, reviving memories with a zest and the younger men were out in force and all chock full of enthusiasm and delight at the conspicuous success of the affair.

The speakers' table was decorated with a border of college pennants. It was inspiring to see the line of strong, forceful men of the day at this long board, while the laughing, chatting groups of alumni and undergraduates at the many small tables formed an attractive picture.

We were all glad to be there to mingle in the college yells, to sing the songs; to march in the parade around the banquet room; to hear the thoughts of brainy men and to feel afresh the throb and beat of royal brotherhood.

It was worth the price of the dinner just to feel the friendliness of Tipple as he went around from table to table and from friend to friend; and "Doc." Brickner—same old "Doc."; and the Eidlitz brothers four of them, true and tried; Perry and Waite of scholarly bearing; Prof. Burdick and Dr. Josiah Strong, loved and lovable; Fairbanks with his calm, quiet friendliness; Crossett, bustling and happy; "Bobby" Goeller, now fat and forty and full of fun as ever; "Roaring Bill" Norton, and Jackson with his whoop; Goldsmith with his six-feet-four of enthusiastic self full of ideas and plans for THE QUARTERLY; Mingle, same old six-pence; Bloom with his business and his smiles; and the trio of doctors who are bringing reputation to their alma mater and glory to the fraternity, Bainbridge, Jelliffe, and Gould; and the genial Ferris belongs to the same classification; but where shall we draw the line? Everyone of the lot was a good fellow—and we were all glad to be there—yes, it was a rattling old Delta U. crowd.

Reported by T. B. PENFIELD, Columbia, '90.

WORDS FROM THE ABSENT ONES.

Letters of congratulation were received from many alumni and clubs, all expressing regret at being unable to attend. Telegrams were read from the Delta Upsilon Club of Philadelphia and the Indiana Alumni Association.

President W. H. P. Faunce, D.D., LL.D., of Brown University, wrote from Kentucky:

"Profoundly I regret that absence in the South will prevent my presence at the Delta Upsilon dinner to Charles E. Hughes and William Travers Jerome. I have written before this to each of them my deep sense of the distinguished public service he has rendered. Especially I regret that I cannot be there to say a word regarding my life-long friend, Charles E. Hughes. It seems only yesterday that he and I were college students together, rooming in Old Hope College, and dreaming of the years before us. During the last ten years I have frequently said he was the ablest lawyer of his age in New York but I did not know whether the world would ever find it out. But the world has now discovered him. No other name is known to the people of the United States so well as his, save the name of President Roosevelt. His is no transient fame, no wave of popularity. His is the gratitude of all honest men, i. e., of 99 out of 100 of the American people. He has done very much to quell the anarchy born of injustice, and to still the social discontent which has justly been roused in the presence of corporate falsehood and greed. Let every Delta U. man stand by him with a tangible sympathy which shall nerve his arm when the next blow is to be struck."

Major Holman Day, Colby, '87, who was entertaining Mr. Jerome K. Jerome and Mr. Charles Battell Loomis, wrote:

"It is with deep regret indeed that I am forced to inform you that I cannot be in New York Friday evening. I can conceive of no greater pleasure than the one in store for those fortunate enough to meet and listen to the gentlemen whom you have named in your letter."

From Bishop Henry Spellmeyer, D.D., LL.D., New York, '66, writing from Kansas under date of March 2, 1906:

"I would be glad to hear our Brothers Hughes and Jerome speak for both of them greatly honor our Fraternity. My best wishes for the success of the dinner."

The thirteen members of the Oxford University Delta Upsilon Club showed that distance had not lessened their interest, by writing:

"Having heard of the dinner to be given by the New York Delta Upsilon Club to two most intrepid Delta Upsilon men, we, as brothers in the Oxford University Delta Upsilon Club, deem it a privilege and honor, on this occasion to extend to Brothers William Travers Jerome and Charles E. Hughes, and to their hosts, our heartiest congratulations. We recognize, in common with all, how signal a service these two brothers have rendered to the cause of social progress. Although we are in a foreign land at England's most ancient university, we derive our chief inspiration from the example of such Delta Upsilon men, and feel an ever increasing gratitude to that Fraternity which they have so conspicuously honored.

NEWS FROM THE PACIFIC COAST.

DEAR BROTHER GOLDSMITH:

I am sending herewith a few items of alumni news. I had quite a number of items for you but they went up in smoke, so I guess you'll have to be content this time with what I am sending. I am sending you the chapter house article. Excuse the use of red ink. My typewritten copy was lost in the earthquake shuffle, and my black ink as well.

As far as I know, no serious damage was done either the California or Stanford houses by the earthquake nor have I heard of any of the fraters being killed or injured, although it is of course pretty soon yet to hear from everyone.

Stanford has closed until next September. California has practically closed. All the Seniors in good standing will be graduated without examinations. Very little damage was done by the earthquake at California, but the damage at Stanford was very severe. The University of California Cadets have been doing splendid service.

Yours fraternally,

R. L. LANGWORTHY.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, CAL., April 27, 1906.

DEAR BROTHER GOLDSMITH:

I am enclosing a very short chapter letter and a very short report of conditions at Stanford. I would like to be able to send a longer report and a better chapter letter, but we are all too busy to write more than a few words.

Your letter of sympathy was greeted with a hearty round of applause when read at the breakfast table this morning. And the baker's dozen of us who are still here at Stanford send our thanks as well as the appreciation of the whole Chapter.

It is hard for us of Stanford to realize that we have suffered very little. As we escaped into the street in the early morning and watched the buildings of the university topple and fall, it seemed as if our world were crumbling to pieces, as if there could be no greater desolation than ours. But our loss has faded before the greater woes of our neighbors. In seeing and trying to alleviate the terrible suffering of the people of San Francisco we have found that our troubles are very slight.

On the campus only two lives were lost. At Encina Hall one man was killed by the falling of a large ornamental chimney, and when the great stone stack of the Engineering Building fell it killed one of the engineers.

The Memorial Church, which cost $1,200,000, was wrecked by the falling of its tower. The Memorial Arch was shaken to pieces. The new Library and Gymnasium buildings, valued at $750,000 and $500,000 respectively, are utter wrecks as the enclosed pictures show. The Chemistry Building is seriously damaged, but only a small amount of apparatus was destroyed. Part of the Outer Quadrangle will have to be rebuilt, but the "Inner Quad" is almost intact. Encina Hall and Roble Hall, the large dormitories are only slightly injured, and of the fraternity houses and dwellings the Chi Psi is the only one seriously damaged.

President Jordan, talking to the men of the university a few hours after the earthquake, said: "The real University consists of the professors and the students." Stanford University, then, is uninjured. The laboratories and class-rooms are among the least injured of the buildings, the greatest damage being confined to the uncompleted buildings and the ornamental structures. As far as instruction is concerned we will be next August exactly where we were last week. But the "Stone Age," instead of being ended, will last for another decade.

Our Chapter has not suffered at all. The Chapter House, which was built under the personal supervision of Brother A. B. Clark, Syracuse, '88, is so solidly constructed that the only damage it sustained was the loss of a few yards of plaster and the tops of three chimneys.

We have not heard directly from the California Chapter but, knowing that Oakland and Berkeley are practically uninjured, we feel no anxiety about them.

Yours fraternally,

D. M. GREER.

With the closing of Stanford University work upon the restoration of the damaged buildings has already begun. In Dr. Jordan's quiet statement, "I get a little tired sometimes, but it is all right," the whole situation is summed up. Stanford will be rebuilt, and in the same plodding way it was built before, on the income of its endowment alone, little by little through the years.—Oakland Tribune.

THE NEW SONG BOOK.

HADDON HEIGHTS, N. J., April 16, 1906.

Dear Brother Editor:

Let me talk about the new Fraternity song book in the form of a personal letter, for then we can gossip to our hearts' content, without having the sword of some critical Damocles over our heads, ready to drop if we let down the bars of correct essay form. Writing correct essays, however, isn't half as enjoyable as planning about the new song book.

Every one had felt for a long time that the old book was a little short in the sleeves and threadbare for a growing, prosperous Fraternity, but it was not until last year that the Convention advised a new outfit. Whether the Executive Council, in choosing the editor for this book, was inspired or misguided, a few months will show, but let me tell you confidentially, that any evil influence can be easily neutralized by sending in such a deluge of good songs that his own limitations will be lost sight of in a glorious glare of real inspired ditties.

If the new song book is to have one dominant note, it is hoped that it will be that of comprehensiveness in expressing the broad idealism and varied traditions that cluster about the Fraternity's history and growth, as well as expanding the usefulness of her songs to reach the chapters from coast to coast. Each chapter has been asked to pay its tithe in songs, and a labored pilgrimage through the vast tomb-like wastes of the Decennial rewarded my eyes with the vision of "men who have done things" in verse. These have been pleaded with to invoke their Muses to glorify Delta U. Several have signified their willingness, a few have already sent in the finished product, and others have sadly confessed being divorced from the flame of youthful days. All, however, are a unit in saying they are glad to know that a new book is projected.

Favorable answers promising co-operation, and enthusiasm shown in the collaboration by various chapter representatives, make a successful book a certainty. Not only will it be replete with songs of the right kind but the artistic features are being carefully studied and worked out. One portion of the book will contain the "one leading song" of every Delta U. college, enabling us in times of general assemblies, or when far-off brothers are visiting us, to attest the highest kind of college loyalty by voicing others' songs.

At the present rate of progress the book will be out in time for the "Fall Opening," or at the latest, for the annual Convention, when we can "whoop 'er up for Delta U." The work is being held up somewhat by several laggard chapters who have withheld data for which they have been solicited. I am confident, however, that they will shortly wake up.

The book will be financed by the Executive Council, and as it means an outlay of about a thousand dollars, the need of prompt action by the chapters in taking the books is apparent, so that a large sum of money will not be tied up for any length of time. The chapter assistants who have ably and loyally assisted me so far, I am sure will urge this necessity upon their own quota of men. Advance subscriptions for the book can be sent to me direct by alumni.

In conclusion, let me urge every man who can burnish up a rhyme to try his hand for Delta U. There's always room for one.

Fraternally,

WILLIAM OTTO MILLER, Pennsylvania, '04

THE COMING CONVENTION.

JUST before commencement time pamphlets will be sent all the chapters, regarding the Middlebury convention, and it is urged that each chapter stir up its undergraduates and alumni to attend this convention, for Middlebury desires to be hospitable to the largest crowd in the history of the fraternity. October 24, 25 and 26 are the dates set, and all business sessions will be held in Middlebury, Vt. This town is situated in the Champlain Valley, one hundred thirty miles from Montreal, two hundred miles from Boston, two hundred sixty-seven miles from New York, and one hundred eight miles from Troy; and with fast through trains and the rates low, we look for many more than the regular delegates. Arrangements have been made for housing all visitors comfortably and prices will be so low that no brother can afford to stay away. The Yankee undergraduates have devised some unusual features, and the whole convention will be in contrast with recent city meetings. All visitors are asked to remain over Saturday, October 27th, when it is planned to hold a "fraternity hunt in the wilds of the Green Mountains; the brothers will be permitted to shoot at anything in sight, including each other, and the day will be ended by a game dinner at a famous old Vermont inn, followed by a stage ride down the mountains for the midnight trains. Judge E. R. Sherman and President Fletcher D. Proctor will be present throughout the convention, and, as it is the fiftieth anniversary of the chapter's foundation, the Middlebury alumni will attend in numbers.

SAMUEL B. BOTSFORD, Middlebury, 1900,
Chairman of Committee in Charge.

MR. JEROME AND THE THUGS.

From the Indianapolis News.

The attacks on Mr. Jerome by certain newspapers have been outrageous. And speaking generally, it has seemed to us for some time that public opinion in New York city, if it is at all reflected in the papers, is exceedingly uncertain and fickle. Here was a man who had done his duty in office so honestly and bravely that the people of New York without distinction of party re-elected him, and they did it although the man had no party organization behind him. Then all at once because this man differs with certain popular opinions as to what the law is, and refuses to take his orders from certain newspapers, he is at once written down as corrupt, and it is assumed that he believes in such conduct as that of which the insurance men were guilty. It seems to us that in this case the community, rather than the officer, is to be condemned.

EDITORIAL.

AFTER a large amount of correspondence the Executive Council has finally completed the district organization with the exception of selecting a secretary for one district. The districts with the officers named are as follows:

District I (New England)—President, Clarence A. Bunker, Harvard, '89, 5 Tremont Street, Boston, Mass.; Secretary, Clifford N. Swan, Technology, '99, 91 Babcock Street, Brookline, Mass.

District II (New York City, New Jersey, Pennsylvania)—President, Dr. Albert Warren Ferris, New York, '78, 114 West 69th Street, New York City; Secretary (to be named.)

District III (New York State, except New York City, and Canada)—President, Ralph C. Rodgers, Cornell, '05, Ithaca, N. Y., (home address, 115 Oak St., Binghamton, N. Y.); Secretary, A. V. Rowley, Syracuse, '07.

District IV (Western States except Pacific Coast)—President, Frank W. Leavitt, Minnesota, '94, "Housekeeper," Minneapolis, Minn.; Secretary, John F. Moulds, Chicago, '07.

District V (Pacific Coast)—President, Melvin G. Dodge, Hamilton, '90, Stanford University, Cal.

These officials will continue in office until after the next general convention.

MOST important among the duties of these new fraternity officials is that of holding district conventions. Evidence accumulates with each experience that these gatherings are going to be a very strong feature in the fraternity life hereafter. If too elaborate programs are not attempted, they will supply a long-needed opportunity for inter-chapter friendships such as can hardly grow out of the brief fellowship at national conventions. The reactive effect on the chapters also is bound to be excellent. Often a chapter gets half isolated as it were. A vague provincialism of spirit enwraps the members. They come to believe that the fraternity begins and ends, with the chapter, not pausing to think that as a local society they would be almost nil in the college world. Attendance at a convention will always dispel such impressions, and it does not matter much whether the convention be district or national.

We must, therefore, welcome these right-at-home gatherings as an excellent cure for limited views of fraternity life.

Another and not less important result that will flow from the district meetings will be improvements in chapter methods. Out of the discussions and exchanging of experiences will come ideas that can be carried away as a common heritage and made the inspiration of new and larger thoughts in every chapter, more efficient working out of plans for individual development. It is hard to overestimate the contributions that might be made in the next few years by the district conventions, if rightly guided.

THE official ritual now authorized for use by the chapters in their initiations, was adopted in 1886. This ritual gave excellent satisfaction for a good many years, but some time since it began to appear that the fraternity had grown into the need of a better and stronger form. During the last few years, especially, considerable dissatisfaction with the old ritual has been manifested, and the desirability of a thorough revision of it has been repeatedly urged. At least five chapters have ceased to use it and have adopted special forms of their own, while many other chapters have introduced additions and modifications. So evident was the feeling on the matter that the Committee on Internal Development reported to the 1904 Convention that it regarded "a revision of the fraternity ritual as a very urgent need." As recommended by that Committee, the Executive Council was instructed to proceed with the work of revision.

The Council has found the task thus set before it one of no small difficulty, for the requirements of a ritual are hard to meet. It must be neither too long nor too short; it must be dignified and impressive, showing excellence in style as well as in thought; it must voice the lessons of history, and be in keeping with the traditions of our fraternity; it must express clearly the principles and ideals of the fraternity; above all it must be calculated to leave a deep and abiding and very definite impression on the minds of the initiates; and to that end it must be so arranged as to offer a progressive development of a theme—loyalty to the fraternity, and to its ideals and its traditions. All this demands not only the selection and arrangement of appropriate ideas and sentiments, but their expression in forceful and graceful language, with special need of a careful formulation of principle and precept. It demands as well the introduction of such ceremonial features as will heighten the desired effect. This brief statement will make manifest the difficulty of the Council's task. And it is because of this difficulty that the Council is anxious to secure the advantages of advice from the fraternity's members. A request for suggestions from the chapters has already been made, but the Council will still welcome suggestions as to the ritual—its form, scope or contents—its general ideas or specific wording—from any member of the fraternity, graduate or undergraduate. Surely the evident importance to the fraternity of an adequate ritual should be sufficient to provoke numerous responses to this request, which will be helpful to the Council in its work. He who has an idea to give, let him speak!

The present expectation is that the ritual will be in tentative form before college opens next fall, when copies will be made and sent to the chapters. The plan is that each chapter shall use the ritual in its regular initiation, thus forming an opinion of it from actual experience. With the aid of the criticisms and suggestions which will then be made, the ritual can be put into final form and submitted to the Convention of 1907 for adoption.

AS directed by the Convention last fall the Executive Council has prepared and put out, in the form of a pamphlet of 66 pages, a reprint of the important historical material in the Quinquennial of 1884. The publication of this pamphlet seemed advisable in view of the fact that about one-half of the chapters do not possess the 1884 Quinquennial, which contains the most important material ever published in our fraternity history. The Quinquennial being out of print, this material could not be made available in any other way than by the preparation of a reprint. Copies of the pamphlet have been sent to each chapter to be placed in the chapter library; but personal copies may be secured by any member of the fraternity, at twenty-five cents apiece, from the Secretary of the Executive Council.

WE recommend the Nebraska chapter letter as a good example for perusal by the chapter editors of some other chapters, not because of its reference to the QUARTERLY'S behests, but because it is well arranged, well written and comprehensive. It is free from tiresome stock phrases, undignified slang and unexplained local allusions. It was clearly typewritten with wide lines and broad margins, on heavy paper of letter size. It was not headed "Chapter Letter" and was not addressed personally to the editor. There were no slovenly abbreviations, no misspelled words, no schoolboy flights of rhetoric. We can say with pleasure that the editors for whose particular benefit this is written are few—but you may be one of the few.

A BILL was introduced into the recent legislature of the State of New York "To exempt real estate and personal property of Greek letter fraternities connected with a college or other institution of learning, from taxation, and repealing all laws in conflict therewith."

Although Delta Upsilon has eight chapters in New York State, seven owning houses and one about to purchase, we did not and could not support the measure as class legislation for the benefit of the few at the expense of the majority is eminently unfair. A chapter house is no more entitled to exemption from taxation than a boarding house in a college town or a student's own home, which might be next door to a chapter house, and certainly not as much as the house of a college professor who is aiding in the cause of learning. We believe heartily in chapter houses and in paying our own way.

DELTA UPSILON has been maturing a plan for the formation and preservation of a "Pan Hellenic Fraternity Library," to be located in the New York Public Library under the care of Dr. Billings, the librarian, who has granted ample space and will bind and preserve the matter placed in his charge without expense to the fraternities. The plan has been presented to several faternities who have agreed to co-operate with us. In the early Fall a communication will be sent out over the signatures of those who have joined the proposition, asking that all fraternities unite to make the library complete. All fraternities wishing to join in this work are requested to write for further information to our Librarian, Wm. Oakley Raymond, 451 West End Avenue, New York City.

FOR three consecutive issues we have presented a letter from every chapter. The October issue will be the critical test of the editor's opinion that it is possible for Delta Upsilon chapter editors to equal the record of Kappa Alpha and have a volume, and more, with an unbroken record. Will you be the one to spoil it?

THE NEW ENGLAND DISTRICT CONVENTION.

By D. ASHLEY HOOKER, Middlebury, '06.

THAT the District Convention is a success was proved by its first trial, last year. That it must form a permanent feature of the fraternity was clearly shown by the second annual convention of the New England District held March 3rd, 1906.

The delegates assembled at the Harvard Chapter House a little before eleven o'clock and after half an hour pleasantly occupied in introductions and getting acquainted the convention was called to order by Brother Clarence Alfred Bunker, Harvard, '89, president of the district. Brother Clifford M. Swan, Technology, '99, acted as secretary. A letter was read from Brother Wilson L. Fairbanks, Tufts, '87, of the Executive Council, regretting his inability to be present and outlining the powers and scope of the convention.

The officers elected for the convention were A. N. Holcombe, Harvard, '06, president, and J. R. Williams, Technology, '06, secretary. Resolutions were unanimously passed thanking Brother Bunker for his untiring efforts in making the convention a success.

Brother Holcombe welcomed the convention in the name of the Harvard Chapter and in closing said: "For dinner the delegates will be divided up among the members of the Harvard Chapter." (!) Brother Bargfrede, Williams, '09, responded, expressing the appreciation of the delegates. At the luncheons with the members of the Harvard Chapter we were given a glimpse into university life.

The first paper of the afternoon session was given by Brother Prouty, Brown, '06, and was upon "Definite Aims in Chapter Work." He said that every fraternity has a certain character and a prominence in some line of college activities. With Delta Upsilon it is first character and second high intellectual attainment. He showed us what could be accomplished when a chapter has a definite aim by giving us statistics of the Brown Chapter. In the twenty-six years between 1868 and 1894 the Brown Chapter won in money prizes $4,909, while the other nine fraternities won $5,584, and the non-fraternity men won $3,618. In that time 87 Delta Upsilon men were elected to Phi Beta Kappa. The chapter is often asked, he said, how it maintains such a high standard of literary excellence. This is due to the literary programs, which consist of debates, extemporaneous speeches, original stories, papers, talks, etc. The critic brings out in his report the weaknesses and strong points of each speaker. They succeed in keeping up the interest and everyone feels called upon to do his best. They emphasize presence at the meetings. He summed up as essential: (1) Fraternity programs; (2) Compulsory attendance.

During the discussion that followed Brother Carter, of Amherst, said that there is presented to his chapter every other week a junior paper which contains suggestions to the freshmen and articles written by different members of the Junior delegation. Brother Dustin, of Tufts, reported a Literary Committee and stated that the quality of the literary work depends upon the personnel of this committee.

The convention was agreeably refreshed by the entertainment furnished them by Brother Osgood, Harvard, '04.

A comprehensive paper on "Chapter Finance" was read by Brother A. H. Donnewald, Technology, '07. This chapter has as officers in charge of the finances a treasurer and assistant, and a steward and assistant, the treasurer and steward being elected at the end of the first term and holding office for one year. The treasurer is responsible for closing the house in the Spring and reopening it in the Fall. Each of these officers appoints his own assistant, but the appointments must be ratified by the chapter. As a rule, the assistant is elected to the head of his department the following year.

The two departments are kept entirely separate. The treasurer is in charge of the house and its finances while the steward conducts the finances of the table and the laundry.

The treasurer assigns the rooms at the beginning of the year, giving the precedence to those who have been longest in the chapter and the house. The rent is uniform. The chapter dues are separate from room rent and both are paid for only the eight months of the college year. Any unusual expense is met by an assessment levied by chapter vote, but this is seldom necessary. All moneys collected by the treasurer go into one fund irrespective of their sources. The regular expenditures of the house department are rent, gas, coal, delegates' expenses, the wages of a maid, and, in fact, all expenses not directly connected with the table and laundry.

There is a small house building fund of about two thousand dollars in the hands of a committee of alumni. The treasurer's department contributes one hundred and ten dollars to this fund each year.

The assistant treasurer handles all money and keeps double entry books, the treasurer keeping the ledger and having the bank account in his name. The executive committee audits the books monthly and the executive committee of the chapter alumni association is authorized to co-operate in the auditing.

The steward employs a cook and a butler at an expense of about sixty-five dollars monthly. Fifteen men live in the house, paying five dollars a week for board. Those not boarding regularly at the house are charged a fixed amount for each meal. A separate charge is made for laundry.

The assistant keeps the cash book and the steward the journal. All bills are paid by check and the books are audited monthly. A report of receipts and expenses is posted monthly on the bulletin board. The department has been self supporting for the past three years, and last year had a surplus of $250, most of which was used to purchase china, table linen, etc.

The librarian collects two dollars a year from each member and this fund is used for the various periodicals and for binding the QUARTERLY and the college paper. It is probable that next year the monthly dues will be raised to five dollars and the library tax, general fraternity tax and Prudential committee assessment paid out of the fund of the house department. There will then be only four items to be collected each month: room rent and dues by the treasurer and board and laundry by the steward.

Brother Carter, Amherst, '05, gave a talk on "Vital Factors in Effective Rushing. He spoke of the service the alumni papers had been to his chapter this year, and said that the system needs to be extended and perfected. It is wise to have two or three alumni in the house during the rushing season. He spoke of the value of tact in rushing. Let the Freshmen feel the bond of brotherhood. But let it be genuine. Don't pretend to a feeling you haven't, and don't overdo it.

Late in the afternoon the convention adjourned. The list of those in attendance is given with the report of the New England Club banquet.

THE NEW ENGLAND CLUB BANQUET.

By GUY H. HOLLIDAY, Harvard, '89.

THE twenty-second annual meeting of the New England Club of Delta Upsilon was held at the Copley Square Hotel, Boston, Saturday evening, March third. Knowing, no doubt, that the District Convention would bring delegates from all the New England chapters, the weather man, who sits at the top of the postoffice, arranged to show them one of his best rain storms and added a few extra buckets to the downpour at about the hour of the dinner. Nevertheless, seventy-seven brothers representing fourteen chapters sat down together and gave very audible proof that no amount of rain could dampen their enthusiasm for Delta U.

At a short business meeting the following officers were elected for 1906-1907:

President, NATHAN A. TUFTS, Brown, '00.
Vice-President, EVERETT L. GETCHELL, Colby, '96.
Honorary Vice-Presidents: CHAS. L. EDGAR, Rutgers, '82; DANIEL H. FULLER, Brown, '85; WILSON L. FAIRBANKS, Tufts, '87; GUY H. HOLLIDAY, Harvard, '89.
Secretary, MILES S. RICHMOND, Technology, '99.
Treasurer, ALLEN P. SOULE, Technology, '99.

Directors: CLIFFORD M. SWAN, Technology, '99; PHILLIP M. HAYDEN, Tufts, '03; JOSEPH W. COWLES, Cornell, '90; HERBERT L. PRATT, Williams, '97; RUFUS H. KIMBALL, Stanford, '03.

The speaking was informal, as has been the custom of recent years, and was under the direction of the President, Brother Guy H. Holliday, Harvard, '89. Brother Clifford S. Anderson, Brown, '00, in a speech in which humor and seriousness were happily blended, drew attention to some of the duties of our graduates to the Fraternity and to the State. Brother Harold S. Daming, Harvard, '05, spoke at some length as to the need of a larger chapter at Harvard and of taking men having varied interests, academic, social and athletic. He referred to the Elizabethan play produced each year by the Chapter, and the effect its preparation had in breaking up and destroying any vestiges of the ice of formality and diffidence among the members that the "informal initiation" had not disposed of.

Brother Albert A. Gleason, Harvard, '86, then spoke of the early days of the Club in his usual easy and interesting style, after which the President called on a man from each chapter represented to give a brief account of its present condition and doings. Among the most interesting of these short speeches were those of Brother Rufus H. Kimball, Stanford, '03, who is president of the Delta Upsilon Club of the Harvard Graduate Schools, and Brother John A. Brewer, California, '03.

The President, according to the usual custom, turned the duties and responsibilities of his office over to Brother Nathan A. Tufts the new President, who accepted them in a few brief but appropriate remarks, and after singing the Fraternity Ode, the Club adjourned.

The list of attendance at the dinner and the district convention makes a good showing. Those marked with one star were present at the convention; those marked with two stars were at the convention only, and not at the dinner.

THE DISTRICT CONVENTION AT CORNELL.

THE Canadian and Central New York chapters held their first district convention with the Cornell chapter on May 4 and 5. The date makes it impossible to give a full report in this issue.

Brother Ralph C. Rodgers, Cornell, '05, presided. There were delegates from Colgate, Cornell, Hamilton, McGill, Rochester, Syracuse and Union. Toronto was not represented as examinations were being held. Each chapter presented an interesting paper followed by general discussion. A fuller report will be published in the next issue.

THE ALUMNI CLUBS.

COLORADO DELTA UPSILON CLUB.

THE Colorado Delta Upsilon Club is only two years old but has already had three "annual banquets." The first was on March the 19th, 1904, at Denver, when the club was organized by the choice of Brother D. P. Taylor, Middlebury, '96, as President; Brother J. W. Anderson, Marietta, '79, as Vice-President; and Brother H. W. Pinkham, Brown, '88, as Secretary and Treasurer. Brothers Taylor and Anderson had taken the lead in arranging for an organization and, together with Brother A. L. Patton, Swarthmore, '98, were the committee of arrangements for the first gathering. Twelve brothers responded to the invitations and became the charter members of the new club. Their names should be on record, and are as follows—in addition to the four above: Henry Trowbridge, Colby, 83; Henry McAllister, Jr., Swarthmore, '92; Alfred E. Hills, Northwestern, '83; Caleb D. Page, Cornell, '73; B. N. Himebaugh, Marietta, '80; Clyde H. Osborn, Stanford, '00; C. P. Way, Swarthmore, '98; O. S. Moore, Marietta, '79.

The second banquet was on the 29th of December, 1904. Fifteen brothers gathered, the additional ones being President Victor C. Alderson, Harvard, '85; Arthur J. Hoskin, Wisconsin, '90 Benton Overman; F. D. Young; Attorney-General N. C. Miller, Northwestern, '81; Rev. J. C. Carman, Rochester, '84; and J. C. Shedd, Marietta, '91. The Hon. Henry McAllister, Jr., acted as toastmaster on this occasion which was most enjoyable.

The third and last banquet and reunion was the best. It was on December the 28th, 1905, at the magnificent new Savoy Hotel in Denver. President David Starr Jordan, Cornell, '72, was the guest of the club. On account of an engagement which required him to leave early, the banquet was set for six o'clock. Shortly after that hour eighteen happy brothers in Delta Upsilon sat down together to enjoy a feast for both the outer and the inner man. President Alderson, with Dr. Jordan, was at the head of the table, and with fitting words presented to the company as the first speaker the distinguished visitor from the Pacific coast. Our honored guest made a very happy response which was received with hearty cheers. As Dr. Jordan took his leave the brothers rose and sang "He's a jolly good felllow."

Before calling for further remarks the toastmaster gave way to the president of the club, Brother Taylor, for the annual business. The report of the secretary and treasurer was presented. An election of officers for the ensuing year resulted in the choice of Dr. Alderson for President, C. D. Page for VicePresident, and H. W. Pinkham for Secretary and Treasurer. A committee was appointed to investigate the question of securing a foothold for Delta Upsilon in the Colorado colleges, namely, Brothers Alderson, Anderson, Shedd and Taylor.

Dr. Alderson called on several brothers for speeches and the responses were admirable. The spirit of brotherhood and of devotion to Delta Upsilon and her ideals was supreme. Several fraternity songs were sung with enthusiasm. The company separated before ten o'clock, every brother having had a jolly good time. The following were present: Brothers Jordan, Alderson, Anderson, Catlin, Colwell, Croasdale, Hoskin, Kinne, Moore, Osborn, Page, Pinkham, Patton, Shedd, Smith, Strickland, Taylor and Trowbridge. A telegram was received from Brother McAllister explaining his absence, and also a message from Attorney-General Miller, both of whom had expected to be with us. Adjourned to the next annual banquet in the holiday season of 1906.

Readers of this QUARTERLY and chapter corresponding secretaries are requested to send to the undersigned the names of Delta Upsilon brothers who are known to have come lately to Colorado, so that they may be invited to the next gathering of the Club.

HENRY W. PINKHAM, Secretary.

TRENTON DELTA UPSILON CLUB.

THE second annual meeting and banquet of the Trenton Delta Upsilon Club was held on Monday evening, February 27, at the Trenton House, Trenton, N. J., and was attended by thirteen enthusiastic men from Trenton and vicinity, representing seven Chapters. The invitation list embraced about fifty fellows scattered about the adjoining territory, outside of New York and Philadelphia, but the short notice was doubtless the cause of the many regrets. Those who came were:

Lafayette, (5): John G. Connor, '87, of Trenton, N. J.; F. M. Scheibley, '98, of Philadelphia, Pa.; Stacy L. Roberts, '04, of Princeton University; David Styer, '04, of Military Academy, Bordentown, N. J.; and Frank R. Bacon, '07, from the active chapter.

Union, (2): Isaac Harby, '95, of Trenton; N. S. Arms, '05, of Kinkora, N. J.

Swarthmore, (2): Owen Moon, Jr., '94, and William M. Muschert, '02, both of Trenton, N. J.

Hamilton, (1): C. E. Keck, '97, of Riverton, N. J.

Colgate, (1): Dr. A. W. Wishart, '89, of Trenton.

Rochester, (1): B. Holmes Wallace, '01, of Trenton.

Rutgers, (1): F. C. Van Dyck, '94, of Lawrenceville, N. J.

Bro. Wishart acted as toastmaster and all present responded with accounts of their chapters in an informal and entertaining manner. The Lafayette contingent in particular and the Club in general were happy and fortunate in having an undergraduate present, Bro. Robert Bacon, '07.

Bros. Roberts and Scheibley spoke feelingly of the sad death of Bro. John R. Peale, Lafayette, '02, whom they knew so intimately and loved so well. Our Club and Delta Upsilon lost a noble member in the Chinese massacre.

The following officers were elected: President, Francis C. Van Dyck, Rutgers, '94; Vice-President, Isaac Harby, Union, '95; Secreary and Treasurer, Owen Moon, Jr., Swarthmore, '94; Executive Committee, the officers and Bros. B. H. Wallace, Rochester, '01; F. N. Scheibley, Lafayette, '98; John G. Connor, Lafayette, '87.

Fraternity songs and yells were given with the vim of college days under the leadership of Bro. Styer and upon adjournment about midnight the meeting and informal gathering was pronounced a great success.

The first Monday in March, 1907, was appointed the date for the next regular annual meeting and banquet.

OWEN MOON, JR., Swarthmore, '94.

ALBANY DISTRICT CLUB.

THE Seventh Annual Dinner and Reunion of the Albany District Club of Delta Upsilon was held at the New Kenmore, Albany, New York, on the evening of March 2nd, 1906. At the business meeting the following officers were elected to serve until the next Reunion and Dinner:

Officers: President, Dr. John H. Skillicorn, Cornell, '84; 1st Vice-President, Dr. Charles J. Lyttle, Hamilton, '78; 2nd Vice-President, Prof. Jared W. Scudder, Rutgers, '83, 3rd Vice-President, Prof. John M. Sayles, Colgate, '01; Secretary and Treasurer, Leopold Minkin, Union, '01, 2 DeGraff Building, Albany, New York.

Executive Committee: Chairman, Dr. William B. Aspinwall, Harvard, '96; John F. Putnam, Union, '06; Roy H. Palmer, Williams, '02.

At the dinner, Rev. Edgar H. Brown, President, acted as toastmaster. Forty members of the Club were present. As a novelty the identity of the speakers on the toast list had been carefully concealed and each introduction by the toastmaster was a source of surprise.

Senator Owen Cassidy, Frank H. Simonds, Lewis Cass, Rev. Creighton R. Storey, and Rev. William H. Hammersly responded to toasts. F. L. Wells spoke for the undergraduate chapter at Syracuse, while Harold A. Nomer brought greetings from Williams, and John F. Putnam responded for the chapter at Union. Reed, of Union, presided at the piano and Roy H. Palmer, of Williams, led the singing. The speeches were inspiring; the singing was enlivening and it was the unanimous verdict that this was the most successful Reunion the Club has had. Letters and telegrams of regret were received from many of the absent members; those from Brothers M. Linn Bruce, Lieut.-Governor of the State of New York, Assemblyman Joseph M. Fowler, Rev. Frank R. Morris and Rev. Henry T. McEwen, met with marked applause.

Those present were:

Williams: Roy H. Palmer, '02; Harold A. Nomer, '06; Harold C. Fenno, '08.

DELTA UPSILON CLUB OF WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE Delta Upsilon Alumni Association of Washington, D. C., was organized February 1, 1893, by a few sturdy, staunch Delta U. men, such as the late Weston Flint, Union, '60; Arthur H. Giles, Syracuse, '78; Hon. Stephen J. Field, Williams, '37; Otis J. Eddy, Hamilton, '68; Hon. Frank H. Hitchcock, Harvard, '91, and Delbert H. Decker, Cornell, '84. After an active existence of a few months, the club disbanded for lack of support by the members.

But, Vesuvius-like, after a period of inactivity of almost thirteen years, the spirit of Delta Upsilon again asserted itself and has moved our men in Washington to reorganization. A few earnest men of the Chesapeake Club in Baltimore were seemingly the necessary factors in persuading and instigating our activity in the Capitol City.

Twenty-two men representing thirteen chapters responded to a call for an informal meeting in the Raleigh Hotel on March 14, 1906. Brothers Robert H. Walker, T. Stockton Matthews, G. M. Lamb, Jr., Swarthmore, '02, '02 and '00 respectively, and George C. Shepard, Cor- nell, '89, of Baltimore, who have been highly instrumental in our reorganization, were present at our first meeting and outlined their efforts in the organization of the Chesapeake Club. After a pleasant a-la-carte dinner, a short business session was held. Col. Weston Flint, Union, '60, and J. G. Sanders, Ohio, '03, were elected respectively President and Secretary pro tem.

Those in attendance at the first meeting were:

Colgate, James W. Many.
Cornell, G. E. Patrick, '73; George C. Shepard, '89; Karl F. Kellerman, '00.
Hamilton, H. C. Kieth, '03; T. D. Beckwith, '04.
Harvard, J. A. Hill, '85; Percival Hall, '92.
Middlebury, Albert N. Prentiss, '91.
Minnesota, Frederick P. Fellows, '06.
Ohio State, Rudolph Hirsch, '01; J. G. Sanders, '03.
Rochester, Theron Outwater, '75; J. Clinton Ransom, '79.
Swarthmore, Robert H. Walker, '02; T. Stockton Matthews,, '02; G. M. Lamb, Jr., '00.
Technology, Ferdinand T. Schneider, '92.
Williams, Dwight Gordon Smith, '96.

At the second meeting of the club on March 28, the following elections were made: Weston Flint, President; John H. Olcott, Brown, '72, Vice-President; J. G. Sanders, Ohio, '03; Secretary-Treasurer. At this meeting the following men were present who were not at the first meeting: Delbert H. Decker, Cornell, '84; John H. Olcott, Brown, '72; Dr. Haven Metcalf, Brown, '96; William A. Slade, Brown, '98; E. W. Varney, Bowdoin, '99; Isaac Hamburger, New York, '81; A. T. Strahorn, Nebraska, '01.

It is a great sorrow to chronicle the death of our esteemed President, Col. Weston Flint who was widely known throughout the country as a constant, energetic worker for the uplifting and enlightenment of his fellow man. Kindness was radiated by his cheerful countenance through all his walks of life. He was a great lover and student of good books. A short memorial sketch of the life and activities of Brother Flint was prepared by Delbert H. Decker and read at our last meeting.

Brother John Olcott succeeds as our president, and Dr. Arthur H. Kimball, Amherst, '97, was elected to the vice-presidency of our club.

The Secretary would be very grateful if the various chapter correspondents would inform him of the presence in Washington of their alumni or chapter members. The next meeting of the club will occur June 6, at the University Club, 16th and K streets.

The following resolutions were passed at the last meeting of the club:

Resolved, That in the death of Mr. Weston Flint, the Delta Upsilon Club of Washington has lost not only an efficient and active Presiding Officer but also an energetic and earnest worker for the Club and the Fraternity of which he has been so long a member and to which he has always been so fondly attached.

Resolved, That the Club extend to his son, Mr. Weston Brown Flint, its profound sympathy in this hour of his overwhelming grief and affliction.

JOHN H. OLCOTT, President.
J. G. SANDERS, Secretary.

CHESAPEAKE CLUB.

ON April 7th the Chesapeake Delta Upsilon Club held its annual reunion in the Grill Room of Hotel Caswell, Baltimore. The entire Grill was reserved for us—a room of very artistic design in dark wood-work—but who doesn't know what an up-to-date grill-room looks like! The features of the occasion were an excellent "Maryland Dinner" of oysters, shad, etc., served at small tables, and songs and stories in dialect by some of our own number, assisted by an employed orchestra of 5 pieces.

Brother Charles W. Ward, Northwestern, '03, was particularly entertaining with stories and verse in Irish brogue. About thirty men were present, including a number of visitors from the Washington Association. The evening was perfectly informal and most enjoyable.

R. H. WALKER.

PLAINFIELD DELTA UPSILON ALUMNI CLUB.

MEMBERS of the Delta Upsilon Fraternity of Plainfield and vicinity toasted alma mater in good old fashioned way at a banquet held in Truell Inn, Plainfield, Saturday night, December 23, and fraternal bonds were made stronger by the organization of the Plainfield Delta Upsilon Club. The organization is to be permanent. Gatherings of a social nature will be held at the homes of the different members during the year, and a banquet will be held annually.

The following officers were elected: President, Rev. L. R. Howard, Williams, '98; Vice-President, Maurice J. Thompson, Rutgers, '89; Secretary, Robert V. Hoffman, New York, '06; Corresponding Secretary, Lindsey Best, Hamilton, '99; Treasurer, Fullerton L. Waldo, Harvard, '98. The officers will comprise an executive committee.

The club has an enrollment of thirty members, representing nine of the thirty-seven chapters of the fraternity, Williams, Harvard, Brown,

New York, Colgate, Swarthmore, Rutgers, Columbia and Hamilton, and one representative from the deceased Manhattan chapter. Seventeen of the members reside in this city.

The second meeting of the club was held at the residence of Lindsey Best on February 23. It was a most successful evening's entertainment, and all of the members present were indebted to Brother Best for a right good time. The third meeting of the club has just been held at the residence of J. T. Tubby, Jr., Columbia, '96, Highland Avenue, Westfield, N. J. Members present expressed satisfaction at the result of the meeting, and it is the intention of the club to meet every two months at the home of some member.

It is our desire to enroll as many resident members as possible, and we hope that any Delta U. man living in or near Plainfield who has not attended these meetings will communicate with the secretary, Robert V. Hoffman of Westfield, and join us in our gay times at these informal social affairs.

THE DELTA U. CLUB OF WESTERN CANADA.

At present our club is what one might call in embryo, as we have only a few alumni resident in Winnipeg, the remainder being scattered over the broad territories of Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. However, we are now making an endeavor to locate our dispersed brethren in order to weld them into the Delta U. chain across the continent and to bring them under the refreshing influences of the QUARTERLY if they do not already partake of its benefits. In this we feel sure we shall be successful, and with the added strength which the increasing number of Delta U's coming to our city will give us we hope before long to become a potent factor in Delta U. doings in Canada. Small as our numbers are at present, we can assure any wandering brother of a hearty welcome should he vissit Winnipeg, and we will endeavor to give him a warm enough reception to at least make him forget his homesickness in a strange land.

Look up the secretary's address in the QUARTERLY and let him know when you are going to arrive. By so doing you will confer a favor on all of us and incidentally give the Western Canada Delta U. club an excuse for existing. If you drop in for one of our monthly meetings so much the better.

News of any of our brethren located in the West is solicited.

C. S. BLANCHARD, Secretary.

OBITUARIES.

WILMOT M. SMITH, CORNELL, '74.

Wilmot M. Smith, B. S., justice of the New York Supreme Court in the second judicial district, died at his home in Patchogue, L. I., Thursday, March 29. He was fifty-four years old.

He had served with distinction on the Supreme Court since 1895, and was held in the highest respect and esteem by his contemporaries and by members of the bar. He was noted for his whole-hearted democracy and untiring courtesy toward all lawyers who had occasion to practice in his courts.

He was born in 1852 in Smithtown on Long Island, where his ancestors had lived for more than two centuries. After attending the public schools he entered Cornell and was editor of the Era. Graduating in 1874, he returned to Smithtown, studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1877. In 1884 he was elected district attorney of Suffolk County and was re-elected three years later, serving until 1890. He was Suffolk County Judge from 1891 to 1895, and was then elected a Supreme Court Justice.

Justice Smith was much loved and respected in Patchogue, where he lived. He was noted for his charities, which he bestowed very unostentatiously.

It is related of him that while he was serving as County Judge in Suffolk, in February, 1894, he refused to accept an increase of salary when it was offered him by the Board of Supervisors, telling the Board that it would be out of proportion to what the other county officers were receiving, and that their salaries in all fairness would have to be increased also.

On the day of his death all the higher courts in Brooklyn were adjourned out of respect for his memory, and bench and bar vied with each other in their tributes to the dead jurist. In entertaining a motion for adjournment in part one of the Supreme Court in that city, Justice W. J. Kelley said:

"In putting the motion the court desires to express the deep sorrow felt by the entire bench, in common with the bar of the district, on receipt of the intelligence that has come this morning. The people have lost a conscientious, a faithful and an able judge. The bench and bar have lost a dear friend, a man who, I believe, in the course of his life never intentionally hurt the feelings of a human being. If that be the indication of a true gentleman, as some say, Judge Smith was indeed a gentleman—a man among men. At the close of the case on trial, the court will adjourn for the term out of respect to the memory of our dead associate, Justice Wilmot Smith."

WESTON FLINT, UNION, '60.

The Delta Upsilon fraternity mourns the death of its distinguished member, Weston Flint. Union Chapter mourns the loss of one of its most loyal supporters. The Delta Upsilon Club of Washington mourns the passing of one of its founders, its most active member, its president.

The death of our beloved brother occurred on the morning of April 6, 1906, at his home on K Street, in the city of Washington, after a short illness, from pneumonia. Grief over the death of his wife, which occurred less than a year before, had weakened his power of resistance.

Brother Flint was born in Pike, Wyoming County, New York, July 4, 1835. At the age of seventeen he began teaching, and in 1855 entered Alfred Academy, at Alfred Center, N. Y., where he was graduated in 1858. In 1860 he was graduated at Union College, and in 1863 received the degree of A. M. After teaching in New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, he went to St. Louis, and while looking after the sick and wounded of the federal army in the hospitals was appointed military agent for Ohio, also acting a part of the time for the states of Michigan and New York in the care of their soldiers in camps and hospitals. In 1866-69 he was attorney for claims in St. Louis, and took an active part in politics of the state. In 1866 he was one of the organizers and secretary of the southern loyalist convention at Philadelphia, and in 1868 was a delegate to the Republican convention at Chicago. He became editor and publisher of the St. Louis Daily Tribune. He was also the organizer and secretary of the second board of the Geological survey of Missouri.

In 1871 he was appointed United States consul to Chin Kiang, China. On his return in 1874 he engaged in literary work and lecturing; then studied law in Columbian University, receiving the degree of LL.B. in 1877, and that of LL.M. in 1878, and was admitted to the bar in the latter year. In 1877-87 he had charge of the scientific library of the United States patent office. He had much to do with the organization of the civil service commission, and was acting chairman and one of the examiners. In 1887-88 he served with the Senate committee which investigated the operations of the civil service, and in 1889 was appointed statistician of the United States bureau of education, and prepared the report on the libraries of the United States and Canada.

In 1898 he was appointed first librarian of the new public library of the District of Columbia. He was secretary of the Anthropological Society of Washington, a member of the Historical Society, of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, a member of the council of the American Library Association, member of the American Folk-lore Society, of the National Geographic Society and of the Society for University Extension. He was a member of the Washington Board of Trade and of its committee on libraries.

The brotherhood of man was ever a moving consideration with him and his influence is widely felt. He was a thirty-second degree Mason, a Knight-Templar, an active member of the University club and ever a loyal, enthusiastic member of Delta Upsilon.

We, as members of Delta Upsilon, while grieving at our loss, take pride in the illustrious career of usefulness of our departed brother, Weston Flint.

DELBERT H. DECKER.

DR. CHARLES E. PRENTISS, MIDDLEBURY, '63.

Charles Edward Prentiss died suddenly at Middlebury, Vt., March fifth, 1906, in his sixty-second year. At the time of his death, he was assistant librarian of Middlebury College, a position whch he had held for nearly ten years. A widow and two sons, both Delta U's, survive him. He was a brilliant man and played many parts upon life's stage. In the quiet closing scene, amid his beloved books, he made a friend of every student with whom he came in contact. And he came to all. The whole-souled helpfulness of Dr. Prentiss, the eagerness with which he seized each chance to help, and the zeal with which he created such chances, made it impossible for a man to spend much time at Middlebury without encountering him. He was confessor, counselor, confidant, and friend to all; no man on the faculty was so close to the real ambitions, weaknesses, and needs of the individual boys as he.

He was a natural fraternity man; he never omitted an opportunity to help Delta Upsilon honorably. It is my understanding that he drafted the first constitution of the national fraternity, at the Middlebury convention of 1864 where he was a delegate, and it is certain that, the Doctor being present, he would have it drafted while others debated. Out of his little he gave for books and other needs of the chapter; out of his greatness he gave to all the kindly understanding and aid which are more than money and an example of cheerfulness and self-sacrifice the worth of which can never be measured.

NATHAN D. CORBIN, MICHIGAN, '86.

Nathan D. Corbin, widely known in Detroit and throughout the state as a newspaper man, died March 20, 1906, at Harper hospital, Detroit, of heart disease.

During the past decade Mr. Corbin held many important positions on Detroit newspapers, his splendid educational equipment making him a valuable man for the more responsible posts. At different times in his journalistic career, he had been Washington correspondent, Lansing correspondent and financial editor, and nearly every paper in the city had at one time or another commanded his services. His last work on the daily press was as financial writer. About two years ago he left newspaper work for a short time to engage in private business.

Mr. Corbin was born at Bath, N. H., December 1, 1861. He graduated from the Ann Arbor High school in 1882 and from the University of Michigan in 1886. He took his Master's degree at the University of Michigan and also a law course, though he never practiced law. Before entering the newspaper field he was professor of history and political economy at the Michigan Agricultural college and was also for a time principal of the high school at La Porte, Ind.

Mr. Corbin was married in 1892 to Margaret Moore of Grand Rapids. His wife died in 1899. He is survived by a daughter, Josephine, 13 years old; a son, David, 11 years old, and an aged mother, whose only son he was.

* * * *

The Shield of Phi Kappa Psi has said exactly what we wanted to say with reference to an illustration of a Sigma Chi "third degree stunt," and said it better:

The Sigma Chi Quarterly presented a picture of a cart, with eccentric wheels, bearing a saw-horse astride of which are seated several blind-folded candidates for initiation into the new chapter of Sigma Chi at Colorado College. Members of the chapters are shown grouped about the vehicle. The apparatus is called, according to the Quarterly, "the wild ass of the desert in repose." Careful examination of the picture reveals the presence in it of considerably more than one ass.

We are jealous—distinctly so—of the editor who can report over a thousand alumni subscribers. That is the goal we have set for this year. Read this and then continue the good work already begun.

The Sigma Nu Delta has eleven hundred alumni subscribers, and claims that in this respect it surpasses every other fraternity magazine. Kappa Alpha should not be satisfied with a position among the leaders, when with a little effort she could be the leader. It is entirely dependent upon the chapters whether we shall be able to claim this proud distinction.—Kappa Alpha Journal.

Mr. Verner M. Jones, who made "The Greek Press" department of Kappa Alpha Journal most interesting during the past two years, has had to retire, to the great regret of all fraternity journalists. Editor Burnley has well sustained the reputation of his magazine by his reviews of exchanges in the December Journal. The following clippings, however, are interesting as showing how editorial opinion, which is presumably impersonal, can change:

The first copy of the S. A. E. Record the writer has seen for years is just at hand, and indicates immense improvement over the magazine of former years. It is one * * * of the best arranged magazines. * * One of the most attractive mechanical changes noted consists in using double columns for chapter letters, after the manner of Delta Upsilon.—Kappa Alpha Journal, December, 1904.

The chief fault we have to find with the Record it its publication of chapter letters in fine type, two columns to the page, giving the department an insignificant appearance, when, in our opinion, it is the most important feature of a fraternity journal, as the prime object of fraternity organs is the dissemination of news of the chapters between them.—Kappa Alpha Journal, December, 1905.

* * * *

The Caduceus of Kappa Sigma has made a comparison of the autumn issues of the fraternity magazines with respect to chapter letters, and we read it with a sinking heart. We have arranged the figures in the form of a table:

Magazine	Received	Letters	Chapters	Percent	Written During Summer
Kappa Alpha Journal	Nov. 3	46	47	.98	25
Record of Sigma Alpha Epsilon	Sept. 28	63	66	.95	63
Caduceus of Kappa Sigma	Oct. 23	63	73	.86	0
D. K. E. Quarterly	Nov. 1	33	41	.80	—
Sigma Chi Quarterly	Oct. 4	41	54	.76	41
Phi Gamma Delta	Nov. 18	42	57	.74	—
Delta Upsilon Quarterly	Oct. 15	25	36	.69	20
Phi Kappa Psi Shield	Oct. 20	27	42	.64	0
Delta of Sigma Nu	Nov. 1	33	53	.62	33
Beta Theta Pi	Oct. 20	38	57	.57	0

The editor adds: "The only conclusion which appears to the writer from this array of figures is that it is hard work to get a large number of different men to perform separate pieces of work punctually and before a fixed date—and he knew that before."

* * * *

Of the last June and October issues of THE QUARTERLY the Kappa Alpha Journal comments thus: "Besides a few notes the only editorial is on the chapter letter subject." "Notwithstanding the editorial appeal in the previous issue only twenty-five chapter letters appear of the thirty-six due."

The Journal further makes this justifiable boast:

While the Editor has had to work "powerful hard" to secure some of them, every active chapter has had a letter in the Journal for seven successive issues. The fact, however, that every active chapter has been represented by a letter in the last seven issues of the Journal seems to prove that Kappa Alpha has solved a problem over which the S. A. E. Record, the Delta Upsilon Quarterly, and numerous other Greek-letter publications are still struggling.

We have made a good start in having a letter from every chapter in this and the past two issues of this volume. But our greatest difficulty always lies with the October number. Will the chapter editors accept such criticism as the above without an attempt to make a perfect record? Will they accept seventh place with a record of sixty-nine percent.?

* * * *

The Alpha Tau Omega Palm has materially improved in the last few issues. We appreciate the following compliment, even though we are not classed at the head:

If we should be asked to name the handsomest publication (and the costliest too, perhaps,) in the fraternity world, there would be no hesitancy in mentioning the Kappa Sigma Caduceus as being superior to all others in this respect. The Delta Upsilon Quarterly and the Kappa Alpha Journal follow rather closely but the first named is a long way ahead of everything else.

* * * *

If we can find the time—and the money—we have plans to place the QUARTERLY even nearer the top. Perhaps Mr. Farr, editor of the Caduceus, will tell us "where he got it." The Palm refers to the spread of Kappa Alpha, saying that now it can hardly be called a purely Southern fraternity, and adds:

It is now up to Delta Upsilon to spread a little South and Southwest and to become less sectional in a geographical way.

Having now proffered advice as to how Delta Upsilon can do the right and proper thing (which advice it didn't telegraph for, doesn't want, and undoubtedly refuses to appreciate just now), we turn to the attractive Quarterly it has sent out under date of December first; not only attractive in appearance but interesting in its varied accounts of their late 71st annual convention.

The scribe would like to be enlightened as to why, in spite of its strength in the North and East, Delta Upsilon has never entered the Universities of Maine, or Vermont, or Dartmouth, New Hampshire. Will some one satisfy him?

The good intentions, at least, of the Palm's advice are appreciated, and the way may be paved to serious consideration of the proposition—we intend no allusion to the pavement for which good intentions are generally used.

For the enlightenment asked for we would refer to the article "Extension for Strength" by Brother Wilson L. Fairbanks, Tufts, '87, published in the March, 1903, QUARTERLY, and the subsequent discussion of the subject.

* * * *

Here are two views of "Baird's Manual," published editorially by two of our exchanges:

BAIRD'S "WE-ARE-IT" BOOK.

The Shield was instructed by the Executive Council to print a review of the latest edition of Baird's "American Fraternities from a Beta Viewpoint," but has been unable to find anyone who believes that the publication is worth the time and effort required to point out its shortcomings. The nearest we have been able to come to it is the following from Brother R. A. Welch: "Let me congratulate you on your reference to Baird's 'Ameri can Fraternities.' I was flimflammed into buying a copy of the creation, and have been longing for a chance to cuss the author myself. —The Shield of Phi Kappa Psi.

A SURE THING.

Every fraternity man has heard of something called "Baird's Book." If his chapter is truly alive, he has seen a copy among its possessions. If he himself is at all concerned to learn the whole truth and very little but the truth about fraternities in general and in particular, he has read the book and consults it frequently. If he is entitled even to the first degree as a fraternity crank, he owns a copy. "Baird" —is indispensable. The new (sixth) edition, which appeared just too late last spring to be mentioned in the June Caduceus, is more indispensable than ever.—The Caduceus of Kappa Sigma.

* * * *

This, from a chapter letter in a sorority magazine, was signed by the corresponding secretary and countersigned by another official. It is copied exactly. It is quoted not as a criticism of the sorority or the editor, for we have all met its equal, but as an object lesson for some chapter editors:

Of course fraternity life is not an ideal one, but to develope a more lovable disposition it is even better than the family life, because too often there is a spirit of favoritism, which may mar her attempts to be nicer, but realizing that her attractiveness depends upon her own efforts, and if ever she stands upon her own merit, she will try her utmost to be interesting, lovable and entertaining.

We may not all reach the goal toward which we are striving, but in our efforts we trust we may develop into the noble, broad minded women, of which each one desires so earnestly to become.

CHAPTER LETTERS AND ALUMNI NEWS

Chapter letters for each issue will be due not later than the first of the month preceding the date of issue. They must be typewritten, on one side of the paper only, on paper about 8 in. by 11 in., headed with the name of the chapter and signed by the chapter editor.

At the beginning of each letter state the number of active members in the chapter, and give a full list of all initiates since the previous issue, with full names, home addresses and class year.

Alumni news must be written on a separate sheet, arranged in order of class year, with "vital statistics" separate from news items. Follow the general arrangement of news items in this issue in preparing copy. Leave ample space between lines for clipping.

Alumni correspondents and chapter editors, as well as all alumni, are requested to send news regularly.

ALBERT ELBY SINKS, '09, Ridgway, Pa.

THE Commencement is now approaching. The Adelbert Chapter, however, is not going to lose any men by graduation this year, and expects to have all the present active men back in the work next fall.

The past year has been quite successful in many respects. In college work and activities as well as in athletics, all have tried to uphold the honor of the college, never forgetting Delta Upsilon's share for an instant. At present baseball and track are the interesting topics of talk. The former especially so in the House, for Benz, '07, is captain of the varsity while Meub, '07, D. Handyside, '07, and DeVenne, '08, are also playing. The other line is more or less ground for conjecture. Some of last years's star men are out of school this year, but we hope that those who are left, strengthened by the new material, will make a good showing in the coming meets.

The Chapter has decided to keep open house for the alumni on the first and third Sundays of each month. Every Delta Upsilon man, alumnus or not, who lives in Cleveland or happens to be there, is invited and urged to be present.

This year we have adopted the plan suggested at the convention of sending to all the alumni a statement of the condition of the chapter, and we are waiting to see if it may awaken any more interest and enthusiasm in the welfare of the active chapter.

AMHERST.

Active Membership, 30.

THE spring term at Amherst opened April 11th and found all the brothers back except Thayer, '06, and Pethybridge, '06, who have completed the work required for graduation, and are now in business.

At the recent election for Phi Beta Kappa, Bros. Snyder, '06, and Palmer, '07, were elected and out of the six commencement speakers who are selected on the basis of scholarship, we have two: Bros. Hall and Glasgow.

During the recent vacation the Musical clubs made a 2,000-mile tour of the middle west, and were greeted by large audiences. Bros. Howe, '06, and Bridgman, '06, were with the Glee club.

Bro. Hall, '06, is on the Hardy sixteen, and Bros. Haller, '08, and Gilpatric, '08, were chosen for the Sophomore Kellog Declamation fifteen to compete for the Kellog prize of $50. Bro. Howe, '06, is chairman of the class book committee.

Training for the baseball and track teams is going on vigorously. Bros. Clark, '09, and Dowd, '09, are on the Freshman squad, and Bros. Dunlap, '09, and Bristol, '09, are out for track. We are to have a fraternity baseball team this spring. Bro. Lewis, '06, ex-captain of the varsity football team is captain, and Bro. Howe, '06, has been elected manager.

Bros. Whitmore and Hoyt, '04, and Derbyshire and Noble, '05, have been among our recent visitors. We always welcome alumni or undergraduates of this or any chapter of the fraternity.

'79 and '84—Rev. Nehemiah Boynton, pastor of the Clinton Avenue Congregational church and ex-Congressman Edward M. Bassett were speakers at the organization of the Amherst College Alumni club of Brooklyn on March 24.

'86—John A. Philbrick was elected vice-president and a director of the Association of Dealers in Masons' Building Materials of New York city at their annual meeting on March 15, 1906.

'96—William L. Corbin, for two years instructor in English at Wells College, has been made assistant professor in the Department of English.

'96—The Fourteenth Street Presbyterian Church, at Second avenue, has extended a unanimous call to the Rev. G. Ernest Merriam, of Mt. Kisco, N. Y., to become its pastor. Mr. Merriam has just completed his seventh year at Mt. Kisco, his first pastorate. He is a native of New Hampshire, a son of a Congregational clergyman, a gradaute of Amherst College and Union Seminary.

A member of the Westchester Presbytery writes:

"I consider Mr. Merriam an exceptionally bright man—one of the brightest in our Presbytery. He is strong intellectually, and one of his elders told me the other day that every year he was becoming more spiritual in his preaching. I have found Merriam 'a manly man,' which I consider a great quality in a minister today. I believe that he would appeal to men, and I know that he is also very popular with the young people of his church. Again I have found him a very honest, open man in every way. His ability to adapt himself to all classes of society especially fits him for a city church. I believe that he is also a man of more than ordinary executive ability."—New York Observer.

Rev. Dr. Henry T. McEwen, Adelbert, '78, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Amsterdam, N. Y., was for many years pastor of the church which has called Bro. Merriam. Bro. Merriam's new address is 17 Livingston Place, New York City.

BOWDOIN.

Active Membership, 29.

THE spring term opened April 10 and on the Friday night following occurred the annual College Rally which proved to be one of the most notable occasions of the kind held for a long time. President Hyde, the first speaker of the evening, said, among other things, that Bowdoin was always celebrating. This year it is the 100th anniversary of the first commencement. Among the other speakers was Dr. Daniel Robinson, '73, of Bangor. Dr. Robinson spoke of the Bowdoin Spirit, as seen in the college life and as exemplified in the lives of our alumni; he spoke in very eloquent terms of Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, the hero of Little Round Top, of William Pitt Fessenden, the statesman, and of Commander Peary, now on a dash for the North Pole.

The College Dramatic Club recently presented "The Rivals" to a full house in Brunswick, scoring a big hit. It is hoped that the play may be presented again later in the term.

In spite of the unusually late spring, college athletics are progressing well. In baseball our prospects are especially good and we are devoting our attention as heretofore to securing the Maine championship. The chapter is represented by Bros. Wilson, '07, manager; Blair, '09, short stop, and Greene, '05 (Medical School, 08,), first base. On the second team we have Bros. Hayes, '08, captain; Greene, '08; Piper, '07; and Ellis, '09. In track we have Bros. Holman, '06, and Blair, '09, half-mile, and Bros. MacMichael, '07, and Stacey, '09, in the weights.

The Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity held their National Convention in Portland the week of May 1, under the auspices of the Bowdoin Chapter. The other fraternities in the college assisted in entertaining the delegates on the day of their visit to Brunswick.

Preparations are now under way for Ivy Day, the next social event of the college year. Bro. MacMichael, '07, is chairman of the committee.

Bro. Bradford, '06, is on the provisional list for commencement speakers.

JUNIOR Week has just passed by with a rush. Beginning with the Dartmouth game, including a concert and hop; an informal farce; "She Stoops to Conquer," presented by the "Sock and Buskin" society, and a roaring, rollicking, one-ring circus (with side-shows), and ending with the gorgeous Junior Prom, the class of 1907 distinguished itself for activity, originality and enthusiasm. It was the best time we have had on the Campus in years, and, needless to say, our own little group made and enjoyed much of the fun. Dennett in particular distinguished himself as the "barker" for "the finest show on earth."

Tht statistics will be brief for this report, as almost all elections have been told of. The next important event will be the Gaston Oratorical contest, in which Barbour, '06, will deliver an essay. Two prize debates come in the spring term. Bruce, '07, has already won the Mahonk prize of forty dollars, and Sinclair, '07, is on the team which debates for the Junior Hicks prize. On the team which debates the Columbia Freshmen, moreover, is Hughes, Jr., '09.

Class Day, of course, is beginning to get on our minds in the interims when we are not wondering how bad we shall beat the rest of the Big Four (we just beat Princeton 2-0). Whitenack in chairman of the Class Day committee, and Swaffield is on the Senior Ball committee. If the weather is anything like the glorious, balmy, springy Junior Week weather, this year will go down in our records as one of great events, for the committees have some excellent plans on foot.

We have had good news in regard to our faculty. Professor von Klenze, a Harvard Delta U., is going to teach us language henceforth, and we hear he is among the best in the country. And the famous sociologist, Lester Ward, is to become one of our instructors, giving us, unquestionably, the best department of sociology in the country. Already our staff in this work was famous.

Charles E. Hughes, of New York, dropped in on us the other day for a fifteen minute talk in the Union. He was on his way to address a bankers' dinner. Of course, he was greeted with spirit, and, as he left the building, he passed through a double line of cheering students, who formed his guard from the steps of the building to the door of his carriage. His speech was thrilling. I forgot to mention above that Hughes, Junior, has just been elected one of the editors of our daily "Herald"—a competitive office. And the rest of the Brown Delta U. family are keeping in a winning rut.

'70—Chancellor E. '72—Rev. Dr. B. A. Greene recently lectured before the students of Crozer Theological Seminary.

'81—Charles E. Hughes has another investigation on hand. Attorney General Mooday gave out the following statement on April 17:

"Charles E. Hughes, Esq., of the New York bar and Alexander Simpson, Jr., of the Pennsylvania bar, have been retained by the Department of Justice to take under consideration all the facts now known, or which can be ascertained, relative to the transportation and sale of coal in inter-state commerce; to advise what, if any, legal proceedings should be begun, and to conduct, under the direction of the Attorney General, such suits or prosecutions, if any, as may be warranted by the evidence in hand and forthcoming."

Charles E. Hughes was the guest of honor at the dinner of the Chamber of Commerce of Syracuse May 5. He spoke on "Honesty in Business and Political Life." Mr. Hughes said that there had been a great awakening of public conscience; that the people had been humiliated by the revelations of the insurance investigation, but that wise legislation enacted would prove a remedy for the abuses of past systems. He asserted that under the new laws the New York companies would be the best in the world, and that observance of the laws would remedy all so-called inequalities.

Charles E. Hughes is president of the Dwight Alumni association.

"It may be stated without violation of confidence that the president thinks that Charles E. Hughes possesses the qualifications necessary to make an admirable candidate for Governor of New York. It may be stated also that the President would be glad to see Mr. Hughes nominated, for he believes that he is the kind of man the voters of the state have confidence in and would desire to elect.

"Certain influential New York officials have repeatedly said that Hughes would make an ideal candidate for the Governorship. One of the close friends of the President said today: 'Hughes is well liked by the President. He thinks that Hughes carried himself admirably in the insurance investigations and afterward. He thinks he is a man who could unite the opposing factions in the state, and could certainly be elected.'

"Still another New York Republican said: 'It is a fact that some time since efforts were made quietly to sound Mr. Hughes on the question of the governorship. He gave no encouragement whatever to those who would like to get behind a movement to nominate him. In fact, he plainly intimated that politics had no attraction for him.'"—Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

'81—The Hon. Cornelius W. Pendleton, of Los Angeles, Cal., State Senator, who passed through the earthquake at San Jose, had a thrilling escape. He said: "After the earthquake I covered San Jose in an automobile and saw at least twenty dead. Nearly every brick and stone structure in San Jose was demolished or damaged. I was at the Vendome hotel. The shock of the earthquake was so severe that the floors and walls of the hotel collapsed. We had a room on the side of the hotel near a large tree. The side wall of my room fell against this tree, which also sustained that portion of the roof, preventing it from falling in on us.

"My room was on the second floor, but when I got up I was in the basement. I crawled over the debris and escaped through a third story window that was on a level with the ground."

'94—Clayton S. Cooper is Secretary for student Bible study, with headquarters at the offices of the International Committee of Y. M. C. A.'s, 3 West 29th Street, New York. He has charge of the development of Bible study among the colleges of the United States and Canada. There are over 30,000 students taking these courses, with about 2,000 fraternity men. Twenty-two of the fifty-three colleges and universities in which courses have been arranged have chapters of Delta Upsilon, and 1,300 of the 2,000 fraternity men are in these twenty-two institutions.

Brother Cooper writes of the "Quarterly:" "I am especially interested in the news it brings since my work takes me constantly among college men and I am often stopping with our Delta U men in their chapter houses."

THE terrible fire which started after the earthquake of April 18 has just been brought under control after burning for over fifty hours. The entire business district of San Francisco and a large part of the residence section lie in ruins, but confidence has not been lost and a larger and greater city will be the result. The city is under martial law and in this we have had our part, for the University Cadets were called on and the entire command has been doing guard duty. All University exercises were immediately suspended and Berkeley has been thrown open to the thousands of refugees from across the bay. From the present indications college work will not be resumed this term, as it is practically the end of the semester now.

Stanford suffered more from the shock than California and of course all inter-collegiate contests were called off. This leaves the baseball series undecided, for Stanford won the first game 1-0, and California the second 4-3. In fact, the only other intercollegiate contest was the Freshman Meet, which California won. Sheridan, '09, took the pole vault.

While, of course, all of the Delta U's in San Francisco suffered severe business losses, we have not heard of any who were injured, and at the time of writing a number have been heard from.

THE second initiation of the year was held at the Chapter house on April 7. Besides alumni of our own chapter, there were present brothers from the Wisconsin, Cornell, Williams, Michigan, Minnesota and Lafayette chapters. The charge to the initiates was given by Arthur E. Bestor, '01. At the banquet which followed, Frank R. Adams, '04, presided as toastmaster. The toasts responded to were:

Our numbers have also been increased by the return to college of Harvey B. Fuller, '08, who for the last five months has been serving as tutor for Marshall Field III.

Although seriously weakened by the loss of some of its stars, the track team, captained by Parry, '06, is planning to put up a hard fight to maintain its position as champions of the West. Parry, who holds the University records in the discus and the hammer throw, won eight points in the Western intercollegiate meet last year, and is counted on for the same number of points this season. His recent success at Philadelphia at the Pennsylvania games in winning the hammer throw from Tom Shevlin of Yale, and taking third place in the discus has marked him as one of the best weight men in the country. At the dual meet with Illinois, in May, he won first in the hammer and discus throws, and second in the shot put, breaking the Chicago and Illinois records in the hammer throw, both of which he already held.

Russell, '08, who won his secondary emblem in track last year, should, from his present form, win enough points in the discus and shot to give him his "C." Taylor, '09, will also be a strong addition to the varsity squad in the weights. The "big three" are also sure of places on the football team next fall.

Hebberd, '09, in a recent tryout succeeded in defeating all the veteran players on the varsity golf team. He is also captain of the Freshman bowling team, of which Ulrich is a member. Bowman, '09, was a member of the Science College soccer team in the inter-college games against Philosophy College, on whose team Coyne, '09, played as guard.

In the inter-fraternity baseball league we have defeated Delta Tau Delta, and have lost a game to Sigma Chi; several games are yet to be played.

At the elections the "Fencibles," the University honor debating society, Fernald, '08, was chosen president, while George Fuller, '08, was elected treasurer. Judson, '08, is also a member. Bowman, '09, is a member of the Science College debating team. Bernard, '07, is a member of the "Stump," the senior honor debating society.

The University annual, the "Cap and Gown," just published, is considered the finest and most complete volume of its kind ever gotten out at the University. Moulds, '07, was managing editor; Hughes, '06, and Fernald, '07, were associate editors; Judson, '08, was one of the literary contributors; Weddell, '05, Bruce, '06, and Harvey Fuller were art contributors.

"The Rushing of Raxes," the annual play of the "Blackfriars," the University comic opera club, will be given the latter part of May. Bruce is acting abbot (president). Judson is a member of the executive committee. Hughes will play the lead, supported by Bruce and Weddell, '05, as "leading ladies." On the chorus are Adams, '09, Coyne, Hebberd, Welling, '09, Kennedy, '09, and Bowman. Judson is property man.

The annual dramatic club play this year is "Trelawney of the Wells," in which Bruce, ex-president of the club, plays the part of "Telfer."

Lemon, '06, now engaged in research work in astronomy at Yerkes Observatory, has been awarded the departmental scholarship in that subject. Fernald and Harvey Fuller have been granted President's Scholarships; Welling holds an entrance scholarship.

Russell is on the Executive Committee of Science College, and is its athletic representative.

Moulds is one of the entertainment committee of the Reynolds club, of which Vogt, ex-'06, was secretary.

Fernald is a member of the Interscholastic Commission, and chairman of its Press committee.

Junior Day offices fell to Russell, who is chairman of the Committee on Athletics, and to Fernald, who is one of the Finance committee of the Prom.

The Pan-Hellenic Promenade was not held this year, each fraternity holding its social functions separately. Our formal dance was held Friday, May fourth, and was attended by all the active members of the chapter, practically all the chapter alumni in the city, and a number of brothers from other chapters—sixty couples in all—being in attendance.

The chapter has been particularly fortunate in its close relationship with the Chicago Alumni Club, all of whose banquets and smokers the chapter has been able to attend in a body.

Twenty-four Delta U. faculty members in the University—more than those of any other chapter of any fraternity in any college; important offices in the senior, junior, and sophomore classes; a larger number of men on the football and track teams, in the comic opera club, in the honor societies, and on the boards of student publications, than any other fraternity in the University; the first office in glee, dramatic, comic opera, and debating clubs, on the University annual, on the track team, in the management of the student daily—these, in brief, are some of the things that bring strength to the Chicago Chapter of Delta Upsilon.

THE Colby Chapter has been making substantial if not rapid progress. One of the most gratifying things in our fraternity life is the deep interest shown by the local alumni in everything pertaining to our welfare. This interest will no doubt result in a stronger bond of mutual helpfulness between the alumni and the active chapter.

A few honors in athletics and other college activities have fallen to our men recently. In the Dramatic club, which has just finished a most successful season, Bro. Lincoln, '06, is president, and Bro. Richardson, '09, property man and soloist. Among the other members of the club are Bros. Stevens and Coombs, '06, and Hackett, '09. Bro. Coombs, '06, is meeting with his usual success as captain and pitcher of the baseball nine. Brother Tribou, '08, is playing an exceptionally strong game at his old position in the left field. Bro. McLellan, '09, is out for the second team. Few of our men are showing up for track work. Bro. Condon, '08, is assistant manager. Bros. Richardson, Chandler, Anderson and Blanchard, '09, are out for the half and mile runs. Bro. Coombs, '06, will occupy his usual place in the weights.

In tennis we are represented by Bro. Libby, '08, assistant manager, and Bro. Stevens, '06.

Among the members of the Conference Board are Bros. Stevens and Lincoln, '06. Bros. Hackett and Richardson, '09, are among the artists for the "Colby Oracle."

At a recent meeting of the College Debating society, Bro. Betts, '07, was elected president.

The assistant managership of the "Oracle" has fallen to Bro. Smith, '08.

We are already making plans for our fall rushing and a number of good men are headed toward Delta Upsilon.

ANOTHER college year is nearly over and we feel that it has been a successful one for our chapter. During the past few months we have received numerous honors and we justly feel proud of them. Bro. Stowell, '07, was elected captain of the basketball team for next year. On the Glee and Mandolin clubs are Krone, '07, manager; Yocum, '07, Day, '09, and Jones, '09. On the Dramatic Club are Bailey, '05, Porter, '06, Cronkhite, '09, and Weller, '09. Benedict, '06, is president of the Thomas L. James Debate Club. At the annual banquet of the club, given May 3, Bro. Benedict acted as toastmaster and Bailey, '05, responded to a toast.

On the Grout Oratorical contest, which was held April 27, were Krone, '07, and Farley, '07, the latter receiving the second prize of $40. Northrup, '08, and Blake, '08, are on the Kingsford Declamation contest, which is held in June.

For Commencement speakers we have Bros. Benedict and Hughes; the former is vice-president of the Senior class. Bro. Ward is the class Historian. Yocum, '07, is president of the Junior class. Farley, '07, is manager of the Junior class track team and Cronkhite, '09, is captain of the Freshman track team.

The parlor of our house has recently been adorned by the addition of a new mission davenport and two chairs purchased with money given by alumni, and in our library we have a fine rug given us by Bro. Stowell, '07, and his mother.

During the festivities of. Junior Week, the second week in May, the chapter gave a house party, and we had a very enjoyable time. During the week we gave an informal and on Saturday went in tallyhos to Madison Lake.

"The presentation was a fine example of what ought oftener to be done in the way of effective illumination of Biblical literature. No one could have been present without gaining a new understanding of this wonderful book and without catching a clearer vision of man's absolute dependence on God alone in the midst of sufferings which he cannot understand."

GEORGE COLKMAN EDGAR, '09,
New York City.

AS the college year draws to its close, we feel deep regret at the parting which must inevitably come at Commencement. In making up this year's Freshman delegation, it has been our endeavor, successful thus far, to secure a well-balanced chapter, so as to prevent permanent loss from the graduation of our energetic seniors.

The death of Bro. Robert R. Mastin, '08, on February 11, was the occasion of heartfelt grief to each brother. His personality was quiet and lovable, and to each one of us the news of his death came as a great shock. Bro. Mastin, besides being interested in rowing, sang last year in the chorus of "The Khan of Kathan," and had been elected assistant manager of the Musical Clubs. The members of the chapter attended the funeral in a body, six brothers serving as pallbearers.

The athletic situation has been somewhat cleared up by the announcement that Columbia is to acquire in the near future a million dollar athletic field along the Hudson river front. As the permission of the State and of the Federal government has to be obtained, some delay is expected before the actual work of filling in begins. On the other hand, not a little discouragement has resulted from the publication of the faculty committee's report, which is supposed to indicate the tenor of the ultimate action to be taken on intercollegiate athletics. Some features of the report are the restriction of intercollegiate sports to three home games and three games out of town, the elimination of professional coaching and training tables, except in rowing, and the barring of Freshmen and postgraduates in varsity athletics.

During the last few months we have been favored with visits from the following brothers: Rev. E. H. Abbey, Hamilton, '71; Tyng, Harvard, '04; Cole, Northwestern, '03; Grant, Amherst, '04; Camp, Cornell, '05; Dutton, Rochester, '05; Lewis, Amherst, '06; Child, Hamilton, '05; Brodhead, Michigan, '07; Crosbie, Harvard, '05; Gould, Bowdoin, '04; Sage, Rochester, '05; Haller and Black, Amherst, '08; Baldwin, Cornell, '08; Hamilton, Lafayette, '07; Evans, Hamilton, '05, and a large number of our own alumni.

The Columbia Varsity debating squad was coached this year by Bros. W. B. Parker, Harvard, '97, and Baker, '99. Two Delta U men made the teams, Shaw, '08 L., and Leavenworth, '08 L., who captained the New York team. Essex, '06, president, and Chapin, '07, secretary of the debating union, were in charge of arrangements. We regret to say, however, that Cornell and Pennsylvania both secured the decision on March 9. Chapin, '07, was elected president of the Columbia-Cornell-Pennsylvania league for next year.

The Varsity basketball team, of which Fettretch, '06, was a member, finished with second place in the intercollegiate league. Hoag, '09, survived the cut in the Freshman crew squad, and is rowing in the second boat. Maynard, '06, was awarded a gold fob by the non-athletic council for his services on "Spectator." Our representatives on the Freshman track team are Edgar, '09, and Pell, '09. Haight, '06, has been receiving much favorable notice for his work on the "soccer" team. Jacques, '09, was recently elected assistant manager of the Varsity fencing team. Pell, '09, served as alternate on the winning Freshman debating team.

There have been some changes in the fraternity world lately. Phi Delta Theta has moved into its new $50,000 house at Broadway and 113th street. The Delta Phi Club is completing its six-story house on 116th street, near Riverside drive. Part of the building will be used by the undergraduate organization for chapter purposes. The Sigma Alpha Epsilon chapter has also purchased a new house. All this progress naturally fills us with the desire of owning as good a chapter house as there is on the Heights. The feeling of the chapter alumni association leads us to believe that the possession of such a home is a thing of the near future.

We have been holding several sub-Freshman rush meetings in order to get a preliminary view of next year's material. All were well attended. Though it is perhaps a little early to call for alumni support, we ask every graduate brother to get in communication with us by next September and recommend good men who are going to enter in the fall. Nothing helps in rushing more than the backing of former members of the chapter. It is our desire to see all the old men who get back for Commencement.

RANDOLPH WOODRUFF WEED, '09,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

WITH the coming of spring, both the University and our chapter have taken hold of things with newed vigor.

Dealing with athletics, our Varsity baseball team so far has played nine games without a single defeat, and, out of the five games played on Percy Field, four have been shutouts. With Umstad and Deshon on the pitching staff and with practically a veteran team, we look forward to the best season in the history of the University.

In Crew, the outlook is fully as promising. Not in the last four years, has Coach Courtney had such an experienced and strong list of candidates as is at his disposal this spring.

R. W. Weed, '09, who was initiated on March 17th, is at present stroking the first Freshman combination. In addition, our chapter has two other Freshman candidates for crew.

Bro. L. D. Root, '08, for the past two years center on the Basketball team, has been elected captain for next year.

A great deal of interest has been shown in the intercollege baseball games for the championship of the University and for the prize cup given by the Deans of the Colleges. This cup was won last year by the Civil Engineering Department after a hard struggle. All the teams seem to be even more closely matched this year, and the coming contest bids fair to be practically as interesting as our intercollegiate games.

There has also been instituted lately in the field of rowing the same system of intercollege contests for a similar cup. All the colleges have signified their intentions of developing crews, and both the undergraduates and the alumni are watching this experiment in the line of more participation on the part of the general student body in regulation branches of athletics with a great deal of interest.

Very much to the regret of the whole undergraduate body, the Freshman Banquet, our most highly cherished tradition, has been practically abolished by a ruling of the Faculty forbidding rushes and personal contests. The whole community is trying to devise some means of so regulating this banquet that the good features of the tradition may be saved.

Coming down more closely to Fraternity matters, the point of greatest interest developed in the last month is the agitation regarding giving up the fraternity houses to the alumni Senior Week instead of holding the accustomed house party. This plan seems to have met with disapproval by the fraternities, who desire to retain the house party as a valuable college function, and at the same time to do all in their power to attract as many alumni as possible to the University at Commencement time. But up to the present, any plan for saving the good points of both schemes has not been devised.

Bro. C. H. Tuck, '06, has been chosen one of the Woodford speakers. This is a Senior oratorical contest of six men for a medal valued at $100, and is the highest competition in oratory in the University.

Bro. N. Aleman, '07, has been elected vice-president of the C. U. C. A.

Our chapter is running with exceptional smoothness. We expect to turn out a strong baseball team for the interfraternity games this spring, and are looking forward to a pleasant and prosperous term.

Postscript:

The district convention, the first in this district, has just been held. The Cornell chapter was greatly pleased to play host to the delegates and feel that the results of the papers and discussions as well as the opportunity to meet the brothers from so many chapters will prove of lasting benefit.

The night the convention opened the Woodford prize, a $100 medal was won by Bro. Chas. H. Tuck, '06.

adding another honor to his already long list.

'74—A. J. Lamoureux writes thus in the "New York Times:

"I have been deeply impressed not only with the complaint that we are not getting our rightful share of the trade of South America, but also with our failure to understand the reasons for it. It shows, I sometimes think, that we can not or will not comprehend what runs counter to our prejudices and purposes. * *

"The situation in South America is a very simple one. The dominant elements there are Europeans, or of European descent; there is a large annual immigration from Europe; their education and literature are European in character;* * * their loans, the capital of their railways, port improvements, gas works, water works, &c comes from Europe. * * In short, what they have and what they are are chiefly due to European co-operation.

"Against all this, what have we to show? The protecting aegis of the Monroe Doctrine, which they have never asked for, which they fear, and which they do not want except on terms we are unwilling to grant. They are firmly convinced that our motives are sinister, and they know that our trade purposes are unfair. We ask favors, but, apart from Brazil, we are unwilling to grant them."

DE PAUW.

Active Membership, 12.

THIS term our active membership has been decreased by three owing to the fact that Bro. Smith, '07, Bro. Reed, '08, and Bro. Penland, '09, could not return. However we will not lose these valuable members long for they will be with us again next fall.

Just now great interest is being manifested in baseball. Bro. Cook, '07, of our Illinois Chapter, was secured to coach DePauw's nine and he is diligently training a good team. A schedule of fifteen games has been arranged, seven of which are to be played here. Bro. R. L. Renick, '06, is at left field.

Each fraternity here has organized a baseball nine and a schedule of games has been arranged. Last year we lost the cup by one game. This year we hope to win the cup.

Our chapter has organized an orchestra consisting of the following brothers: Strong, '09, piano; Talyor, '07, violin; Spencer, '09, cornet; Alford, '09, cornet; Watson, '06, drum.

Commencement Day will be on June 13th. We will have four graduates—Bro. Gibson, who has just finished a successful term as president of the Y. M. C. A.; Bro. Sallee, literary editor of the "DePauw," the college weekly paper; Bro. Watson, who has held first base on the Varsity nine for three years; and Bro. Renick who holds left field on the Varsity team. The last two brothers mentioned belong to Kappa Tau Kappa, the local inter-fraternity for seniors.

Next year there will be with us several brothers who are not in school at present, and we have several new men in view. We will be very glad to have our alumni or other brothers inform us about students who will enter DePauw next fall. thus giving valuable aid in our selection of new men.

Bro. Trippe, '07, was elected at the close of last term leader of the Mandolin Club for next year. Bro. Meeker has assumed the duties of the Business Manager of the "Hamiltonian," taking Bro. Swetman's place. Bro. Trippe, '07, was recently elected vice-president of the Y. M. C. A. for the ensuing year, and Bros. Allen, '07, and Meeker, '07, have been chosen members of the cabinet.

Two of the three successful competitors for the Senior winter orations were Bro. Maynard, '06, who wrote upon the subject, "From Malachi to Christ," and Bro. HARVARD.

Active Membership, 49.

THE past three months have been the busiest of the year for the Harvard Chapter, for the annual play came off in the end of March, after we had been working at it for two months. The play chosen this year was Heywood's "The Wise Woman of Hogsdon," and the general opinion seemed to be that it was the best Elizabethan revival we had done. The annual play has come to be our chief activity in college, and it certainly has helped us a great deal in establishing our position here, as well as furnishing a strong bond of common interest which is a necessity in so large a chapter as ours. The graduates' night performance, on March 26, was an enthusiastic affair, with many old Delta U's present, as well as a number of brothers from neighboring chapters, all of whom seemed to enjoy the performance, and helped by their applause. Other performances were given in Cambridge and Boston, the one on April 5 in Brattle hall being followed by an informal dance. The last performance was given in the Barn, at Wellesley College at the invitation of the English department, on the afternoon of April 14, and was followed by a reception by Bro. Hamilton, Brown, '88, Professor of Music at Wellesley, to whom the chapter is indebted for a very pleasant evening.

THE HARVARD CHAPTER'S ELIZABETHAN PLAY—"THE WISE WOMAN OF HOGSDON"

Aside from the all-absorbing interest of the play, athletics is now the chief occupation. A ball nine is being organized, with Holcombe as captain, and games are being arranged with the chapters at Tufts and Technology, as well as with local clubs. The material is good, the interest strong, and we hope to put our rivals to sleep in good style. Besides this, Holcombe is captain of the Phi Beta Kappa nine, who play Yale soon, and Hurlin, Jones, and others are anxiously working for places, while Galbraith, '99, will pitch for Harvard. Turning to more serious work, Hanley, Groves, Kerans, and Gring won places in the interclass track meet, and seem sure of making the team. Forte is on the Junior crew, Parke is on the Sophomore, and Wright and Holmes are rowing with the second Senior crew.

Class day and Commencement are getting dangerously near for the Seniors now, and Hurlin, Holcombe, Holmes, Lord, Briggs, Jones and Underhill are entitled to try for Commencement parts. Hurlin is an assistant in music for next year, and Holcombe in Government, while he is now assisting in Economics. Bro. Kendall K. Smith, '04, has won the Charles Eliot Norton Travelling Fellowship for next year, the highest honor in the classical department, and will study in Athens next year. Arthur Black, '04, is first marshal of the graduating law class; Groves, '05, has been reappointed secretary of the Phillips Brooks House Association, and will again have charge of the philantropic activities of the University; Eustis is a director of the Harvard Dining Association, and Brumley, Hirsch and Forte are on the 1907 Round Table.

A letter of sympathy was sent recently to the chapters at Stanford and Berkeley for the great calamity which has overtaken their institutions. The disaster was brought nearly home to us, as Rufus Kimball, Stanford, '03, is staying with us while at the Law School. We wish the chapters on the coast all good luck in the new beginning that they have to make.

THOMAS W. SAMUELS, '09,
E. St. Louis, Ill.

OUR first initiation since we became a chapter of Delta Upsilon occurred April 28, at which time Albert Penn, '07, and Thomas W. Samuels, '09, became members of the fraternity.

This year we shall lose seven men by graduation: Frost, Armeling, Rump, Corrigan, Bergert, Melvin and Wagoner. Besides this Bros. Harman and Malcolm, both '03, who have been teaching in the University, expect to take up active work in Engineering next year and will not be with us. This will make a considerable change in our ranks, but we hope that the chapter will continue to advance as it has done.

Our annual was held on March 2. In connection with this we had a house party from Thursday until Sunday. During this time the chapter house was turned over to our guests, and we found lodging at the different fraternity houses. This exchange of courtesies among fraternities is common here whenever a chapter gives a house party, and does much to promote a friendly feeling among the fraternity men.

Baseball is now attracting most of our attention, and from present indications Illinois will add another pennant to her long list of baseball championships. Demmitt, '07, is playing right field, and Penn, '07, Wasson, '08, and Taylor, '09, are on the squad.

Bro. Cook, '07, is at DePauw coaching their varsity baseball team.

The petition of Zeta Nu, a local organization, for a charter from Delta Gamma has been granted, and a chapter of that sorority will be established here at once. Among the successful petitioners are Miss Florence Curry, a sister of Bro. Curry of Wisconsin, and Miss Ricketts, a sister of Bro. Ricketts of Northwestern.

Illinois has a chapter of Delta Sigma Rho, the new honorary debating fraternity. This fraternity has chapters at all of the large universities of the middle West, and is made up of men who have represented their universities in oratorical or debating contests. Our chapter is represented by Bro. Samuels, '09, who was a member of the Illinois-Indiana debating team.

About a month ago President James called a meeting of all the fraternity men in the University, and laid before them a plan for holding a national fraternity convention at Urbana next year. Each fraternity represented here has appointed a representative, and from these a committee has been selected to make the necessary arrangements. The purpose of the convention will be to discuss fraternity problems and take such action as will promote the best interests of fraternities in general.

Bros. Cornell, DePauw '09, Foster, Harvard '95, Bennett, Cornell '05, and Crowley, Michigan '00, have visited us within the past semester. Bro. "Red" Rightor of our own chapter is located at Freeport, and pays us an occasional visit. During our house party we had with us, Bros. Ericson, '03, Hardy, ex-'06, Schmidt, '03, Stookey, ex-'06, Bowen, ex-'07.

Excavation has been begun for the new Auditorium on the South Campus. This building has been badly needed as for a number of years we have had no building in which the entire student body could meet. The new building was designed by Blackall of Boston, and will have a seating capacity of 3,500.

LAFAYETTE.

Active Membership, 23.

THIS term, the last and most pleasant of all, is slipping by much too quickly for the three Seniors who go out this year. Yet, as we leave, we have the satisfaction of knowing that all is well for Delta U. at Lafayette, and that there is a good firm nucleus for the work of next year. There is already a list of fully twenty names of oncoming men as a "starter" for the rushing season in the fall. Probably eight or nine men will be chosen giving us ample opportunities to select the most desirable and promising men.

We are looking forward to our annual banquet in June with a good deal of pleasure and interest because it marks the completion of our twentieth year and the beginning of our twenty-first in Delta U. and we trust that we as a Chapter may continue to grow and prosper in our maturity as in our youth.

Baseball is now receiving the attention of the college and we are looking forward to a successful season. The new diamond has been completed and the team will no longer be handicapped for a suitable place to get into shape.

The Chapter is represented on the Varsity by Bros More, '06, and Kinsey, '08; and on the class teams by Bros. Craig and Wade, '08, and Atwood, Ross and Walker, '09.

Bros. Reese, '08, and McCaa, '09, are on the Varsity track team.

Bro. Reeder, '06, has a part in the Sock and Buskin which is soon to give a performance in Paterson, N. J. He has also been elected Prophet for the Class Day exercises of Commencement Week.

Bro. Bacon, '07, has been elected President of Y. M. C. A. and of the Washington Literary Society.

Bro. Hamilton, '07, is president of the Junior class.

Bro. Ross, '09, is eligible for election to the editorial staff of the "Lafayette."

The Chapter was represented at the Trenton Alumni dinner at Trenton, N. J., on February 26 by Bro. Bacon, '07.

We had the pleasure of having with us for a few days Bro. Morrow of Rutgers and also for a shorter stay Bros. Besson and Stevenson likewise of Rutgers.

With best wishes for a successful and pleasant summer vacation to all.

SINCE the publication of the last "Quarterly" developments have taken place at Lehigh which are going to bring about important changes in student life here. We are to have a University settlement—a dormitory, a commons, and a students' club.

President Drinker, who has worked hard on the settlement idea, announced in Chapel recently that Drown Memorial Hall, the dormitory and the commons are now assured facts.

Drown Hall has been described in a previous letter. The work of erection will be commenced this summer. The commons will be operated in Drown Hall.

Mr. Carnegie has given the University $100,000 for the dormitory, which is to cost about $300,000. The rest of the fund will be raised by the alumni.

Owing to certain obstacles connected with the charter of the University, it has been impossible for men wishing to erect buildings for the University, to do so, and this is the first large gift ever received by Lehigh from an outside source.

The money for Drown Hall was raised by the alumni and the fund is complete. When these buildings are finished student life will center far more about the Campus than at present and it is expected that there will be a movement among the fraternities to build chapter houses on or near the Campus.

A more complete change than this would make in student life here can scarcely be imagined.

The fraternity houses are now scattered over the two Bethlehems, the distance between the most widely separated ones being very nearly two miles. The non-fraternity men live in private houses and are even more widely separated.

Affairs in the house have been going along smoothly. We held our third initiation on March 2, taking in three men of the Freshman class. Bros. Reeder, '06, More, '06, and Hamilton, '05, assisted at the ceremony.

Bro. Mendoza, '03, re-entered college in February for the purpose of obtaining his degree of Mechanical Engineer, thus raising our number to twenty.

The basketball season at Lehigh proved successful. We made a good showing in all our games, and won seven out of thirteen. We defeated Albright (104 to 8), the Indians, Penn. State, Susquehanna, Swarthmore (one game), Stevens, and C. C. N. Y.; and were defeated by Penn., Princeton, Manhattan, Swarthmore (one game), Pratt Institute, and Bucknell.

The baseball team took a southern trip during the Easter vacation. Bro. Munro, '08, played second base. Bro. Ahrens, '09, is out for short-stop.

Bros. Mendoza, '03 and '06, Smith, '06, and Walton, '09, are on the Lacrosse squad. Bro. Mendoza played third defense in the C. C. N. Y. game. The team has beaten Columbia, C. C. N. Y., and Virginia; tied Cornell; and been beaten by the Philadelphia Lacrosse Club.

Bro. Marshall, '06, underwent an operation just before the Easter vacation and is still in the hospital (April 25), but is recovering rapidly.

Bros. Denlinger, '06, Earnshaw, '06, and Dunn, '07, attended the "Jerome-Hughes" banquet. It was great!

MARIETTA.

Active Membership, 7.

THIS letter finds the Marietta Chapter with seven active men, Bros. H. P. Sparling and W. C. Sparling having gone into business. Our numbers, however, are by no means an indication of our condition. We may say without any "optimistic vaporings" that the general prosperity of the chapter is better than it has been for several years. We lose only one man by graduation, Bro. H. H. Mitchell, who is second in his class. We have pledged the best six men in the graduating class of the prep. school, which gives us a good start for next year.

We recently found it advisable to purchase a billiard table which has since been installed in our rooms.

Our thoughts at this time of the year are chiefly engaged in making plans for camp, which is the crowning event of our fraternity year. We have been compelled to give up the place which has been ours for the last five years, and will camp about five miles farther up the Muskingum river.

In college activities we have captured several important offices. In this respect the contest is not so much to get the office as to do the work better than it has been done before. Bro. L. G. Stealy, '07, has been elected student manager of the football team.

With the recent introduction of two-cent fares into Ohio we trust that the Ohio chapter may feel not quite so isolated as formerly.

Bro. A. W. Shaw, Minnesota, '90, paid us a pleasant visit recently.

THE past month has been a busy one for the McGill Chapter. All the students in the Faculties of Law, Arts and Applied Science have now finished their sessional examinations, the last exam. having been held on Saturday. The results were, on the whole, very satisfactory to us all.

The chapter house seems quite deserted now, for the majority of the brothers have returned to their respective homes, where they are busy making preparations for the summer vacation. The final year men, however, are waiting over for the annual convocation and other ceremonies attendant on graduation.

By graduation this year we shall lose five men—Bros. McCuaig, Davidson, Pedley and Hadley taking B. Sc. degrees, and Bro. Lindsay the degree of M. D.

On March 24th, at our annual meeting, the reports showed a very satisfactory year. Since the last annual meeting our membership has been increased by four; this shows the new rushing system, which we have adopted, to be a success.

Bro. Waugh was recently elected president of the Athletic Association. Bro. Beckwith is secretary of the Canadian Intercollegiate Rugby Football Union; also secretary of the Athletic Association, and president of the football club. Bro. Spafford is manager of the football team.

Sixty-eight degrees were conferred in the Applied Science and Law Faculties at the convocation, April 27. Bros. McCuaig, Davidson, Pedley and Hadley were well up on the list of the graduating class in Science and received the degree of B. Sc. Bro. Woodyatt took second place in third year Electrical Engineering. Bro. Walker took first rank, general standing, and prize of $25 in second year Law.

MIDDLEBURY.

Active Membership, 23.

WELL, boys, the beautiful springtime is at hand once more. I presume some of our other brothers are more fortunate in this respect. With us the grass is just coming out and the campus begins to take on a real summery look.

Bro. Fisher, '08, is back after a sickness extending over a good share of last term.

Junior Prom was enjoyable for everyone but the Juniors, who probably did not feel particularly jubilant, as it was not a success financially.

In the competition trials for Sophomore Prize Speaking we secured four places out of eight, our men being Bros. Richmond, Hayford, Holmes and Fisher. With this representation we feel confident of landing our share of prizes.

The tennis season has just opened and many of the brothers are looking forward to pleasant hours of recreation on the courts. Baseball starts off with a snap and vigor that promises good results. The team is not yet definitely picked but we have several candidates out. Aside from Bro. Holmes, '08, who is captain, Bros. Hayford, '08, Coleman, '09, and Ricker, '09, stand the best show at present.

Bro. Ricker, '06, is manager and Bro. Hayford, '08, captain of the Second Baseball team.

Bro. Perkins, '07, is having good success with the management of the "Campus," our college publication. The College Glee Club gave a successful concert at New Haven, Vt., on the evening of April 20, under the direction of Professor Rodeheaver. We were represented by Bros. Barnum, '07, 2nd bass and guitar; Haseltine, '07, 1st bass; Holmes, '08, 2nd tenor and reader; and Peach, '09, 2nd bass, mandolin and manager.

With the best wishes for the coming season,

The main address, which is given in full upon another page of today's edition of the Commercial, was by Prof. Henry W. Hulbert of the faculty of the Theological seminary in this city. It was a careful, studious, thoughtful presentation of the part which has been taken by natives of Maine in the larger and more inflential work of the world in edcational, literary, artistic and professional lines.

"The subject was treated in a most exhaustive and scholarly manner. The entire address is luminous with originality and interest. The Twentieth Century club is to be congratulated that it is the medium through which this contribution to a sociological and intellectual problem of deep importance is given to the people of the state."—Bangor Daily Commercial.

AT present the University of Minnesota is teeming with great activity. The campus has reassumed its blanket of green, and with the trees bursting into bloom, and the students, often in couples, strolling and lounging about, it presents a beautiful and animated appearance.

However, this is not true of the entire campus, for it is greatly torn up where three new buildings are in process of construction. One, the Alice Shevlin Hall or Women's Building, is being erected as a memorial hall by Mr. Thomas Shevlin on the site of the old Main, which was burned a year ago last fall. The second is a bacteriological laboratory now almost completed. It is said that it will be one of the finest in the country. The third is the new Main Building, which is to cost, with equipment, $410,000.

As examinations are only a few weeks distant, the more studious are laboring hard in preparation, although many are interested in athletics. Owing to the lateness of the spring and the former early closing of the college year, Minnesota has never had a first-class baseball team, but this year college closes two weeks later, and the prospects for a championship team are excellent. Our track team is laboring diligently and promises to carry off many honors. The Tennis Club is also actively engaged in their chosen sport, the courts having been put into excellent condition.

In the past Minnesota's great rallying point has been around football, and as a result we have had many championship teams. When the recent football agitation arose and a revision of the rules was effected much disappointment was felt among the students, but they are now prepared to take things as they come, and have new hopes for the continuance of a game as good as the former, or better.

This year has been one of great significance in our history: the faculty have assumed the right to control student affairs to the extent that they have a veto power over any act about to be executed by any student organiaztion. They have also organized an auditing committee, which with avidity delves into the workings of all student organizations. These steps which have been taken by the faculty are very unpopular among the students, but it is expepcted that they will place the student enterprises on a safer basis and prevent mismanagement. The "Minnesota Daily," the official paper of the University, has dissolved its close corporation, and is to be operated in the future by the subscribers. The "Minnesota Magazine" has changed from an oligarchical to a democratic form of management; for in the past the retiring board of editors elected their successors, while now the subscribers elect them.

Our chapter has organized an orchestra of twelve pieces. With this club, in which are a number of excellent musicians, and with the assistance of our vocalists, we gave an entertainment. Judging from the compliments received we may well assume that it was a success. With the proceeds we purchased a new bookcase for our library, and added to the furnishings of the house.

The academic fraternities have organized a baseball league. As there are seventeen of these fraternities, much interest in being taken in the contests. A few weeks ago the last of a series of games was played to decide the inter-fraternity bowling championship. The Zeta Psi team won by a large margin. Some time during the latter part of May the Greeks will hold a track meet. Last year Delta U. won third place, and obtained as a prize a beautiful leather pennant made by one of the sororities. The fraternity men of our college further meet in their class organizations, The Triangle Club and the Tillikum Club, the former made up of Sophomores, the latter of Freshmen. These societies are of great value in that they bring the men of the various chapters into social relations, and thus tend to foster friendliness.

The Annual Banquet of Delta U's in Minnesota was held on May 7. The Minnesota Delta U. Alumni Association, the Minnesota Delta U. Club, and the active chapter all unite for this banquet.

We await eagerly the summer holidays, and extend to all our brothers a hearty wish that they may have a happy and profitable vacation, and to all the graduates our best wishes for their success in life.

NEBRASKA.

Active Membership, 25.

NEBRASKA commends the articles which have recently appeared in the "Quarterly" urging chapter editors to abide strictly by facts, allowing prognostications to develop themselves. It is usually when the future looks brightest that something happens. We plead guilty to the fault, but sincerely promise our alumni readers that hereafter whatever they read in our letters shall be strictly the existing, present truth.

The material growth of the University during the past year has been gratifying. Two buildings have recently been completed—the Brace laboratory of physics and the Administration building. The Brace laboratory is situated on the west side of the campus and the Administration building on the south, just across from the Conservatory. One wing of the Museum and Geological laboratory is being constructed. It is situated just north of the Armory and when completed in the fall will give the Medical and Zoological departments the entire use of their building. Excavation has begun for the Temple, the building of which stirred up considerable agitation over the State because Rockefeller contributed two-thirds of the money for its construction. The erection of the building is significant, first, of the fearless stand which Chancellor Andrews has taken throughout the whole controversy, and secondly, of the fact that it is situated outside the campus. It has been felt for a long time that the campus was overcrowded and this seems to be the beginning of a future enlargment.

But the bulding improvement has not been confined to the University. Phi Kappa Psi has purchased a corner lot at 14th and R streets and plans the erection of a house in the near future. It is reported upon good authority that Sigma Chi has purchased a three story house at 518 No. 16th, which is now occupied by Pi Beta Phi. Phi Delta Theta rents their house from one of their old members.

At the indoor track meet held on Charter day, several University records were smashed. Bro. Hagensick, '06, in the pole vault, cleared the bar at 11 feet, ¾ inches, while Bro. Winters won the 25 yard dash in 3 1-5. True to our new resolves, we will say nothing as to the track team, but the above records show that our chances are bright. In the class meets, Bros. Sage and Winters were members of the freshman relay team which won the University championship.

Interest is running high over the interfraternity baseball league. At present only the first series have been played, and the strength of the teams is so nearly equal that the most enthusiastic fans refuse to predict the pennant winner. Our first game was with the Alpha Tau's, which we won by runnng in eight scores in the last inning. The games are being ably reported by Bro. Swan, '08, who is athletic editor of the "Nebraskan."

The Freshmen have refused to be outdone by the other classes and have formed an inter-fraternity society of their own, called the Spikes. Their avowed object of organization is for better acquaintance. Bros. Sears and Smith are members.

This year it was voted by all the classes to combine the various publications heretofore issued into one book to be called the "Cornhusker," which will be issued annually. Bro. Burr, '08, was elected business manager for the initial volume, which comes out next year. This makes three successive issues of our college annual that Delta Upsilon men have run.

Bro. Davis,'06, has been elected to membership in Theta Kappa Nu, the honorary fraternity of scholarship for law students.

We have just had enjoyable visits from Bro. P. H. Thomson, '99, now professor of German at Grinnel College, Iowa, and from Bro. J. W. Battin, Cornell, '90, a leading attorney of Omaha.

NEW YORK.

Active Membership, 34.

AS we enter upon the last month of our college year, we feel confident that the New York Chapter has done its share of work, and received its reward. We have had a very successful season along every line, for the men have as a whole taken part in all the general college activities.

In appreciation of the work done by Bro. Thompson, '08, the gymnastic team elected him captain for 1907. This brings up our list of captains once more to four. It may be of interest to know that on our championship team of this year we had Bros. Ketcham, '06, Williamson, '06, and Thompson, '08.

We were honored, likewise, by having Bro. Chamberlain, '07, chosen president of the Y. M. C. A. He also holds the position of first vice-president of the N. Y. U. A. A. Delta U is ably represented on the Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Clubs by eight men, including Van Horne, '07, manager, and Hill, '07, musical direcor for 1907. We have our usual quota of Class Day officers, and a good list of men in the other undertakings in college. The 1906 Senior show which was held in Carnegie Lyecum, was a great success. Bros. Scannel, '08, and Wolff, '09, were two of the particular stars of the cast.

Among the editors of the '08 "Violet," the University annual, for next wear are Bros. Sherin (business manager) and Thompson (assistant art editor).

The victorious New York team which won the debate with Tufts this year was led by Bro. Baxter, '07.

At the dual contest between Haverford and New York, May 5, our team, Bro. Tippett, '06, captain, won. Tippett and Bro. Jay Brown, '07, scored some of the winning points.

The Jerome-Hughes dinner was well attended by the men from the Heights. We enjoyed it, and hope you were there.

We extend a cordial and urgent invitation to all our sister chapters to visit us, and become acquainted with the New York Chapter. Many of our brothers have dropped in to see us within the past three months; let us count on you among the number soon.

THE Chapter gave its annual formal party at the Ravina Casino on the night of April 21, and it was one of the most successful that we have ever given. The place, the music and the guests were all conducive to an enjoyable time. Our chaperones were from among the alumni and the parents of several of the chapter members.

They were Mr. and Mrs. Mark W. Cresop, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Grant Sisson, Mr. and Mrs. Carl David King, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Singleton, Rev. and Mrs. H. Gratton Moore, Dr. and Mrs. Theo. J. Redelings, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Knapp, and Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Diven Huff.

Besides those from about school, we had as our guests the members of the Chicago Chapter. On May 4 they will give their annual party, and a large number of the fellows expect to return the courtesy which they showed us by accepting our invitation. Special cars were run both going and returning. The programs were in the fraternity colors, and contained an insert of the coat of arms.

On April 9 the chapter give a "smoker to its alumni. Tobacco, cider and doughnuts were provided. The freshmen entertained by singing original verses, and succeeded in making a rhyme for every alumnus present. As it grew later all gathered in the parlor and sang the fraternity songs. Dr. Pooley, one of the charter members of the chapter, gave an interesting talk about the old days and he promised to bring out all the "old boys" some time this spring.

The annual play given by the Junior class was presented at the Ravina Theater on March 31 with Bro. W. Clay Smoot in one of the leading parts.

Since the last chapter letter was written Bro. Elmer J. Schafer has been elected editor-in-chief of "The Northwestern," the University triweekly and later was elected President of the Young Men's Christian Association.

As class track captain we have Bro. Scott of the Senior team and Bro. Dorner of the Sophomore team.

Bro. Swift's freshman basketball team closed the season without meeting with a defeat.

At the class track meet held this spring Bro. Gilbreth, football captain-elect, captured almost half of the points made by his class. Bro. Dorner and Swift were also successful point winners.

We are fortunate this year in losing only one man through graduation. All the other members of the chapter expect to return next fall. Bro. Scott has occupied a pulpit in Braidwood, Ill., for several years and upon graduation will continus his duties as a pastor.

It will be of interest to the alumni to know that Dr. Harris of the Jacob Tome Institute in Port Deposit, Md., is coming to Northwestern as President of the University. An effort has been made to have him here in time for the commencement exercises.

Prof. John H. Gray, of the Harvard Chapter, who is the head of the Economics department here, has recently been appointed by the Civic Federation to investigate certain municipal problems in Europe and America and will leave for Europe about June 1.

'91—Erman J. Ridgway delivered an address on "The Making of a Magazine," at a dinner in the First Methodist Church of Montclair, N. J.

"E. J. Ridgway, editor of Everybody's Magazine, sat in one of the galleries in the Senate to-day listening to the railroad-rate debate. Mr. Ridgway wanted to see Senator La Follette, and he went down to his committee-room, leaving his hat on the gallery seat. He got back about two minutes before the Senate went into executive session, and was shooed out with all the others. He left his hat there again.

"The Senate was in executive session for about an hour and a half. Mr. Ridgway tried to get a sergeant-at-arms to get his hat. He was told nobody but a Senator could go in, and that his hat must stay there until the doors were opened. It stayed there too, and he waited.

" 'I am fully convinced,' Mr. Ridgway said, 'that these executive sessions are really held behind closed doors.' "—Clipping.

THE winter term of the university calendar has been brought to a successful conclusion. We are now quite well installed in the work of the Spring term which will be concluded about the second week in June. Bro. Fried, '09, was called to his home in Cleveland and has not been able as yet to return to his duties in the University. His absence is a distinct loss to the Chapter.

February 17th three undergraduates were initiated making the chapter roll the largest in point of numbers in the history of the chapter.

During the last session of the Ohio Legislature considerable importance was attached to the development and growth of the "State University." Two other colleges in this state have been the recipients of a considerable endowment by the state legislature. Those colleges have endeavored to make use of the money given to them by the State in the equipping of colleges for the pursuitof scientific study and post-graduate work. A Bill was introduced in the House by Representative Eagleson to make a permanent levy for the university which would annually net a sum large enough to enable the university authorities to meet the growing demands made upon the University. The two smaller colleges contested the passage of this bill. All possible pressure was brought to bear upon the members of the State legislature for the purpose of defeating the measure. The issue was "shall there be one great university in Ohio, or shall there be three smaller colleges?"

The University, however, won a signal victory. The two other colleges were given a slight donation upon the condition that they confine their efforts to the college of liberal arts and the development of normal school work. In the preamble of the bill, as it was finally passed by the legislature, it was declared to be the policy of the state to "build up and maintain one great University and that University shall be and is the Ohio State University."

April 20 and 21 the first carnival in the history of the niversity was given at the Armory. It met with pronounced success and the various organizations which were in charge have decided to make the event a permanent affair. The proceeds are to be given to the athletic association for the improvement of the athletic field and other necessary equipment. The exhibit of this chapter at the carnival seemed to meet with great favor.

The baseball season has opened. Felger, '06, is captain of the team and is covering the sack at third base. Barrington, '09, was successful in making the position of short-stop, and is relied upon for his heavy hitting.

The basketball season was terminated with all games won by the university team, save one, which was played abroad. Barrington, '09, played a good game as left-forward, having a larger number of points scored to his credit than any other player.

Track team work is receiving considerable attention and notwithstanding the absence of several of the team's former "stars," much hope is entertained that Coach Sweetland will be as successful in developing a winning team, as he was during last season. Schory, '09, of football fame and Perry, '09, are promising candidates.

In an indoor meet with Indiana during the month of March our team won a decisive victory over the "Hoosiers," who have always been "State's" "hoodoo."

A woman's building, for which an appropriation was made by the last legislature, will be erected soon on the university campus. The new Chemistry building and the Mining and Ceramics buildings are completed, which relieves the congested condition of the other buildings.

Our annual reception and dance was given March 6, many of our alumni being present. We had a thoroughly delightful time. We are anticipating with a great deal of pleasure the annual picnic-dance which the chapter will give early in June.

PENNSYLVANIA

THE college year closes with a degree of uncertainty concerning the future of the Pennsylvania chapter. We have decided to vacate the house we are now occupying and have as yet no other house in view. It is a hard matter to find a house near the college that is suitable for a fraternity and we have been hampered in the past, by a house which we considered not up to what we ought to have. If desirable quarters are found before the fall term opens, next year ought to be a good one for the chapter.

The University has again suffered loss through fire—the Mechanical Engineering building and Power plant being burned. The damage was considerable, but not much time was lost to the students as they were able to take up their work in the new engineering building which is just about completed. This is one of the biggest and best equipped buildings of its kind in the country and will greatly increase the facilities for the study of engineering at Pennsylvania.

The Mask and Wig play, "Shylock & Co., Bankers," was the usual success that is looked for every Easter. It was produced fifteen times in all and every time to a crowded house of enthusiastic Pennsylvania supporters or interested and delighted outsiders.

This year bids fair to be one of the best in athletics that the University has ever had. We have already won four championships and the baseball and track teams and the crew have all started out well. We are represented on the river by Atkin, Galey and Bogardus.

Galey was on the Ivy Ball committee and Johnston on the Sophomore banquet committee.

The annual chapter banquet was the best thing the chapter did during the winter. Bros. Harris, Swarthmore, '02, and Whitman, Brown, '87, made addresses. Bro. Mockridge, Williams, '96, was able to be present for a short time and delighted his audience with a few anecdotes of old times. About 80 Delta U's were present, the largest number at a chapter dinner in our history.

We extend wishes for a good summer to all Delta U's and hope we may run across some of you during the vacation.

SINCE the writing of our last letter, nothing of great importance has occurred, although in March the Spring examinations were safely encountered; but with the coming of spring all athletic interests are centered in the track and baseball teams, while everyone is also looking forward to commencement week. Bros. Wood, '08, and Fowle, '09, are doing excellent work on the track team and Bro. Munger, '08, retains his position as first base on the Varsity nine, which has unusually bright prospects of a successful season.

Bro. Wilson, '06, has been appointed to compete in the Alling Prize Debate, to be held during commencement and Bro. Napier, '07, is alternate on the Junior team. Bro. Walter has been elected Senior member of the University Council.

Although we regret that seven of our strongest brothers are going to leave us in June, yet we are looking forward to a strong incoming class for next year, for already in our active spring rushing we have pledged four of the best men in the High Schools here. Bro. Hunter, formerly of the class of '03 has re-entered college this term in the class of '08 to complete his course.

On April 21 and 22 we had the pleasure of entertaining three of our Tufts brothers, who were with the Tufts musical clubs on their annual western trip.

At this writing we are all centering our interests in the preparation of the annual chapter play, which is to be given on May 25. Also preparations for the anuual Alumni reception to be held June 18 are now under way.

THE Rutgers Chapter is upholding beyond all expectation the local motto: "Delta U. in everything; every Delta U. in something." The returns from the Senior Class Day elections showed Delta Upsilon represented by Kain, orator; Johnson, poet; Bevier, address to Undergraduates; Fales, presenter of memorial; and Devan, tree orator.

In the recent Athletic Association elections Gies, '07, was chosen Senior Member of the Board of Managers; Segoine, '08, assistant manager of the baseball team, Lufburrow, '08, assistant manager of the football team ;and Thompson, '08, assistant manager of the track team.

Bevier, '06, and Kain, '06, are on the debating team. Kain, '06, has written the Senior Class play in which the leading parts go to Kain, Johnson, Bevier and Fales.

Segoine, '08, is one of the pitchers on the baseball team, of which Green, '06, is captain. On the track team are Johnson, '06, quarter-mile; Gies, '07, and Devan, '06, pole vault; Thompson, '08, mile; Lufburrow, '08, broad jump; and Hunt, '09, high and low hurdles. '69—Dr. William Elliot Griffis is writing a supplementary chapter on the Russo-Japanese War for his well known book, "The Mikado's Empire." First published thirty years ago by the Harpers, the book has been kept up to date by the frequent addition of new material, as events have marched rapidly during that time in Nippon, until it has now been expanded to twice its original size, necessitating its publication in two volumes. The new (twelfth) edition, including the author's latest additions, will probably be issued in the summer or early fall. Dr. Griffis expects to complete his work and to sail for Europe in May, in order to make further researches into Dutch history and to attend the Rembrandt tricentenary on July 15.

UNIVERSITY work has ended for the year and the men of the chapter have scattered to their homes. Those of us who are left are either helping in the relief work in San Francisco or studying the geology of the earthquake under the direction of Professor Branner. The work of clearing up the debris at the University has begun and plans are being rapidly finished for the repairing of the damaged buildings. Within a few weeks the work of reconstruction will have begun and by the last of August everything will be ready for the resumption of work. Neither the Chapter as a whole nor any of the men individually have suffered from the earthquake. The Chapter House is practically uninjured.

AT the mid-year elections of the Senior Class, Bro. William C. Walker was unanimously elected class president, thereby receiving undoubtedly the highest honor which his classmates could confer. Bro. Cresson, '08, has been elected a member of the 1908 "Halcyon" staff, which will issue next season's yearbook.

The College Oratorical Contest, held on February 13, resulted in Bro. Peaslee, '07, winning second prize and Bro. A. W. Broomlee, '06, third honors. In the Extemporaneous Speaking Contest on February 25, Bro Heed, '07, won the second prize. Five other brothers qualified for the team of ten men to enter the contest.

Our sixth annual Chapter dance, held at the Roosevelt in Philadelphia on March 3, was probably the most successful we have ever held, over forty brothers having been present, and Bro. Booth, '07, is to be congratulated upon his management of the function.

Andrew Carnegie has recently made a gift of $50,000 to the College for the purpose of erecting a library building, providing that a like amount be raised by the college for its equipment. Friends of the institution have already raised the sum, and the much needed addition will be built during the coming summer.

We are very glad to hear of the initiation on March 24 of the local Algonquin Club into Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity. They have always been our good friends, and we welcome them into the Greek world.

The men of the Senior Class have lately been making a successful endeavor to blot out the inter-fraternity distinctions and bad feeling, which we regret to say have existed here for the past few years, by a series of informal smokers held at the different fraternity rooms. The gatherings are becoming more and more congenial and are much enjoyed by all, while the idea is certainly to be commended.

The basketball team completed a very successful season on March 10, having won ten games out of fourteen played.

Coach Frank Grimes has the lacrosse team in good shape; three games have been played and our only defeat was at the hands of the Crescent Athletic Club of New York. Bros. Walker, Lamb, Perkins, Eastwick, G. L. Broomell, Booth and Darlington are members of the team.

Bro. Henrie, '07, captain of the track team, and Bro. Heed, '07, are members of the one mile relay team which represented Swarthmore at the University of Pennsylvania Relay Races on April 28 at Franklin Field.

We regret to say that Bro. Reginald C. Price has left College to accept a position in Baltimore. With eight men in the Senior Class, the prospects are for a small chapter to start with next Fall, but as there is a number of desirable men in the entering class, we have bright hopes for the future.

WITH the approaching end of the college year, activities in the University and Chapter at Syracuse are at a high point. From our Chapter house windows we overlook the rapid construction of five new buildings, all being rushed to completion for occupancy in the near future.

Athletics take a prominent place just now. Our University basketball team finished a most successful season, leaving the collegiate championhip in doubt with Syracuse as a possible candidate for this honor. Track men have been busy a number of weeks and on March 9 won the A. A. U. indoor meet here. On May 9 we met Brown at Providence and on May 12 Amherst at Syracuse. Bros. Wells, '06, Freeman, '08, and Townsend, '09, have been working on track. The spirits of the crew men were raised recently by the announcement that a Junior crew would be sent to the American Henley at Philadelphia on May 26. Bros. Cummings, '07, and Butz, '08, will be strong candidates for this boat. Our baseball team has started off well, showing much strong Freshman material.

Two fraternities, Sigma Phi Epsilon and Sigma Nu have granted charters to petitioning bodies at Syracuse.

Senior Week was observed the week commencing February 19. On Monday evening occurred the Fraternity parties, Delta Upsilon entertaining at a dance at the Yacht Club House. On Tuesday evening was the Glee Club Concert in Crouse College and Wednesday evening the Senior Ball, given by Phi Kappa Alpha, the honorary Senior Society.

The Glee Clubs ended a very successful season by a concert at Weedsport on April 24, being tendered a reception after the concert by Bro. Hopkins, '81, and his son, F. D. Hopkins, '08, who sang on the Club.

On the evening of April 30 and May 1, Prof. and Mrs. Losey, with about sixty students, presented Macbeth at the Wieting Opera House. The performance was a success both from a financial and theatrical standpoint. Rice, '07, and Illman, '08, were in the cast.

On May 4 occurred the annual Moving-up Day.

On March 20 Mrs. Edwin Nottingham, Mrs. H. A. Peck and Mrs. Henry Phillips entertained the Chapter and its girl friends at an informan reception and dance.

Delta Upsilon starts the interfraternity baseball series this Spring in much the same spirit that carried us to victory last year.

At a recent class meeting, 1908 elected Illman, '08, to the office of editor-in-chief of the college annual for next year.

Lincoln, '09, was elected manager of his class baseball team and a number of our underclassmen are promising candidates for their class teams.

Holzwarth, '06, will teach German and English at the Summer School here .

Our annual reunion will occur Tuesday, June 12 at the Chapter House and we hope and expect to make it the best ever.

TECHNOLOGY.

THE most important event of the last quarter is "Junior Week," which is the one week in particular that the "Tech." man devotes to fussing and having a good time in general.

What with the Fraternity receptions, the Tech show, the Musical Club's concert and dance, the "Junior Prom" and the issue of the Junior book, "Technique," there is something doing about all of the time.

For the first time in four years the Tech Chapter of Delta U. gave a reception and it was certainly a great affair. The house was never in better condition for such an occasion and what with the flowers and music, the lunch and last, but not least, the large number of the fair sex present, it was an event which will long be remembered as a very happy one. The Musical Club's concert and dance was held on the following evening and has become quite a popular occasion with Tech men.

The show this year, entitled "The Freshman," was one of the most successful plays ever given by Tech men. Bro. Vonnegut, '08, was again one of the principals in the show. Bro. Foss, '09, was in the chorus.

The "Technique," the college annual, was edited by Bro. Donnewald, '07. Bro. Barnes, '08, and Bro. Vonnegut, '08, were elected to the new "Technique" Board. Bro. Brooks, '08, this year's manager of "The Tech" has been elected business manager of the '08 Technique." Bro. Mitchell, '09, is on the News Staff of "The Tech."

On the fifth of May a banquet was given to our Senior delegation at Hotel Westminster and a general good time was indulged in, the Seniors making their farewell addresses.

Bro. Bridgman, '08, and Bro. Sherman, '09, are both pitching on their respective class baseball teams and are expected to twirl rings about our neighbors, Chi Phi, in our annual game.

Since the last issue we have had visits from Bros. Zapf, '95; Sherman, '95; Hough, '00; Rogers and Parsons of Union; Roberts, California, Clift, Lehigh; Jacques, Columbia; Young, Syracuse; and Lanterman, Lafayette.

IN the last letter mention was made of the appointment of a Commission by the government to recommend advisable changes in the University management. This commission after visiting a number of American Universities and holding almost daily sessions for three months have brought in their report. They make three radical suggestions: 1, That a Board of Governors be created responsible for the whole management of the University; 2, That the president be given enlarged executive and advisory powers; 3, That a Feculty Committee of Arts be created to give the teaching body more direct control of the curriculum and educational policy of the University.

The Convocation Hall begun last fall is rapidly nearing completion and it is hoped that it will be finished for the Commencement exercises in June.

Our Hockey team, although stronger than for many years, was so hampered through lack of practice that they were unable to gain the championship of the Intercollegiate league. It was clearly shown, however, that their playing was much faster than that of the Provincial league. Three brothers played on the Toronto team as stated before. Bro. Herb Clarke, '08, has lately been elected captain for the coming year. Lacrosse and baseball, particularly the former, are the only games played here now. Last year the Lacrosse team won the University championship of America and hopes to again this year. We have two men on the team, P. L. Fraser, '08, and E. V. Graham, '07, captain. The cricket team will soon be practicing and Bros. McIntyre, '05, Tytler, '06, and Reade, '05, will probably make the team. Bro. Weir, '08, has been appointed manager for the Intermediate football team for next fall. Bro. Loudon, '05, who coached the Argonaut "eight" last summer at Baltimore when they took a substantial number of seconds off the world's record, will again coach the crew at Henley this summer.

Bro MacPherson, '07, has for the second time been returned at the head of the poll as a member of the athletic directorate, the body which has absolute control of athletics.

Everything around the University is dead owing to the presence or proximity of the annual examinations. Those in the School of Practical Science have already begun, while those in the Arts and Medicine start on the first of May. The last activities ceased with elections of officers for the various Faculty societies about the middle of March. The most interesting of these are the Literary and Scientific Society elections in University college, which are animated by the frenzied struggles of two strong parties. This year the "Old Set" Party went down after holding office for a number of years, before the assault of the "Unionists." Unlike most of the fraternities here our active members are almost equally divided in their party allegiance. Other elections have given a number of positions to Delta Upsilon. Bro. Coults, '07, is editor of "Varsity" the University journal for next year. Bro. Scully, '06, is chairman of the committee having the commencement program in hand. Bro. Kylie, '01, is President of the University of Toronto Union and is pushing energetically a scheme for securing a building as clubhouse, once owned by the "Toronto Athletic Club," but now occupied by the Technical School. If successful Toronto will have one of the finest clubhouses on the continent. Both our Juniors have been elected to the "Thirteen" Club, a social club of the most prominent Seniors. Bro. Anderson, '07, is secretary-treasurer for the club. All of the Fraternity who applied have been elected to membership in the Historical Club, an exclusive upperclass society.

By the end of May or the middle of June the brothers will be practically all out of the city and most of them will be working in one way or another; many of them will be in the bush, fire ranging or surveying.

We have lately enjoyed the visits of Bro. Keap of Harvard and Bro. Davidson of McGill.

AT the present writing we have just returned from the spring recess, to enter upon the final term of the college year. The chapter now numbers twenty-four active members, and we have also pledged C. T. Robinson, '09, who will be initiated in the near future. We lose by graduation this spring six brothers, all of whom are prominent in college life.

The most important event which has occurred recently at Tufts is the election of Dr. Frederick W. Hamilton, of the class of 1880, to the presidency of the college. Dr. Hamilton was chosen acting president shortly after the death of President Capen a year ago. He has been a member of the Board of Trustees since 1896, and has been for several years chairman of the executive committee of that body. He is therefore familiar with conditions at the College, financial and otherwise. He is a member of Theta Delta Chi, and of Phi Beta Kappa. For some years after his graduation he was engaged in railroad work, and then entered the ministry. We look forward to a sound and progressive policy under his administration.

The plan of Commons Dining which was put in operation this year has not proved successful and has been abandoned. Two managers have failed to give satisfaction, and the Trustees have removed the restriction placed on the fraternity dining rooms, but we have joined for the remainder of the year a cooperative club which uses the Commons Building. Next year we shall eat in our house again.

Work on the Carnegie Library is progressing rapidly and it promises to be an imposing and convenient structure.

The musical clubs have just returned from a two weeks' trip through Connecticut and New York. Bros. Dustin, '06, Masseck, '08, and Upham, '08, were the Delta Upsilon men who made the trip.

In athletics many of our men are active. Bro. Lamb, '06, is at second base on the Varsity nine for his fourth season. Bro. Lewis, '07, is on the second nine, and Bros. Boyd, '08, and Nason, '09, are candidates for their respective class teams. Brother-to-be Robinson is manager of the Freshman team. Bro. Hanscom, '08, is tennis champion of the College, and will be a member of the team which competes in the intercollegiate tournament at Longwood and in dual meets with other colleges. Bro. Sheehy, '09, is training for the track team, which is getting into shape for the spring season.

We held out annual smoker at the Chapter house on March 27. Many of the alumni were back, and a thoroughly good time was enjoyed. The speakers were Bros. Fuller, Tufts, '01; Gleason, Harvard, '86; Moxon, Syracuse, '94; Brewer, California, '03; and Moors, Tufts, '04. Delegates were present from the Technology Chapter.

Bro. Derry, '07, has been elected president of the newly organized Chess Club. Bro. Armstrong, '08, is second assistant manager of the baseball team.

We most cordially renew our standing invitation to all brothers coming to Boston, to visit us at the Chapter House.

THE baseball and track teams and the fast approaching commencement are the topics which occupy the most attention in college at present. With our new diamond completed the outlook for a winning baseball team is bright and Union should win the majority of the games on her schedule. Enthusiastic meetings are held every Friday night on the campus, and the songs and yells arouse a lot of good college spirit.

The track men are getting in good work in preparation for the coming meets. Bro. Reed, '06, and Bro. Closson are both reliable point winners, the former in the long distance runs, the latter in the weights. Bro. Weyrauch, '08, bids fair to win his "U" this spring on the track team, while Bros. Striebert, Roosa and McCormick, '09, are promising candidates for that honor.

The Seniors in the house are all busy with their thesis work and commencement plans. We lose the large delegation of seven men, which will make quite a gap to be filled.

Bo. Reed, '06, is in line for a Phi Beta Kappa Key, and three of the seniors will make the stage. Bro. Holleran is chairman of the committee for commencement invitations. Bro. Reed's class and banquet songs were both unanimously selected to be sung at commencement. Bro. Putnam was toastmaster at the recent senior class banquet.

The Senior ball is to be held in the new electrical laboratory which is now nearly finished.

The Glee club is in the best of shape. Bro. Reed, '06, is leader and Bro. Parsons, '07, manager of the clubs. Bros. Snow and Davies, '08, are among its members.

Tennis is to receive a boom at Union this spring and will be supported by the college. Bro. Snow, '08, played on last year's team, and is again a candidate. Bro. McCormick, '09, will also try for the team.

Basketball has just been recognized as a branch of college athletics at Union, and a manager and captain are soon to be elected. Bro. Snow, '08, has captained his class team for two years.

Our number has been swelled by the addition of three more men since last term. On March 13 we held a smoker, and initiated Arthur Edgar Davies of the class of 1908. Bro. Goff, '07, and Bro. Kitchen, '08, both returned to college this term after a year's absence.

Of the debating team which meets Rutgers in the annual debate three men are Delta U's: Bros. Reed and Putnam, '06, and Bro. Weyrauch, '08.

Bro. Daily, '06, has been elected to the Sigma Xi fraternity.

'48—At the opening of the Court of Claims April 9 a portrait of Chief Judge Charles C. Nott, retired, was unveiled. It was presented to the court by the bar. Judge Nott is pictured in the way that he will best be remembered by the practitioners before the court, being apparently very near the age at which he retired from the bench last fall.

Charles C. Nott was one of the judges of the Court of Claims from the creation of the court in 1865 until his resignation. From November 23, 1896, he had been chief justice. A remarkable testimonial dinner was given in his honor at the end of his fortieth year of service on the bench, in February, 1905, by lawyers practicing before the court. In one of the speeches made on that occasion it was said that Judge Nott was one of two living judges who were appointed by President Lincoln.

THE mother chapter of Delta U appears in "new clothes" this spring. Our chapter house, the oldest house in Williamstown, has just been repainted and the grounds and tennis court have been put in fine shape for the spring term and House Party week. Indoors, new rugs, new curtains and fresh paint vastly improve the rooms downstairs. We are now better fitted to receive and entertain our brothers than ever before. Williamstown is at its best in the early summer, the undergraduates are anxious to meet fraternity brothers—both old and young—and rain or shine, early or late the Delta U latchstring is always outside. Come and see us!

The work of constructing our new dormitory, Berkshire hall, is now well under way and rooms have been assigned for occupancy in the fall. Lasell Gymnasium, vastly improved by the installation of new shower baths and a good sized swimming pool, is now strictly up-to-date.

Bro. Nomer, '06, as president of the Williams Good Government Club, went to Washington in March and was with the Civic Government Club when the college men were received at the White House by President Roosevelt. Eight members of the local club made the trip, among whom was Bro. Pease, '07.

From our senior delegation we have two new "fratres minores in facultate." Bro. McGown, '06, has been appointed assistant instructor in biology, and Bro. Nomer, '06, is assistant instructor in oratory and public speaking.

Continued snow and cold weather made it impossible for the baseball team to get out on the diamond much before Easter. However, a big squad was at work daily in the new cage, which has been built on the old campus, and as soon as the frost was out of the ground they were in prime condtion to start the season. The boys are playing a sure game in the field, but are weak at the bat, as the season opens. The team has lost two seasoned pitchers by graduation, but Bro. Williams, '09, is a leading candidate for the box among the new material.

Bro. Pease, '07, has been elected manager of the varsity basketball team.

Bros. Conover, '07, Johnson, '08, Fenno, '08, and Fisher, '08, are the Delta U track candidates this season and are working hard to show up well in the tryouts for the track team.

Bro. McGown, '06, has recently been elected president of the Philotechnian debating society. Bro. Nomer, '06, is president of the other college debating society, the Philologian, and is an officer of the Adelphic Debating Union, an intercollegiate organization.

The college musical association is just concluding a most successful season. Concerts have been given recently at Pittsfield, Albany, Englewood and New York. Delta U is represented this year by Bro. Nomer, '06, on the Glee club. and Bro. Sayre, '07, on the Mandolin club.

Bro. Fischer, '08, is a member of the Sophomore Prom Committee.

Bro. Day, '09, has left college. Illness kept him from curriculum work for several weeks after midyear examinations and it was impossible for him to make up.

THE work on our new house has been going on for some weeks now and we are all intensely interested in it. The location is an ideal one, within three blocks of the University and with Lake Mendota for our frat yard. The house is to be a red brick building, 59 by 38 feet, and will accommodate twenty-two people. We hope to give a more detailed description in the next issue of the Quarterly. The alumni are also taking a great interest in the house and Bro. Joe Davies has offered us a billiard table. Bros. Judge E. R. Stevens and Ralph Jackman are devoting much of their time to the construction of the house and they tell us it will be as fine as we could want.

Just before the opening of this semester all Madison was gay with the annual Junior Promenade. We held a house party which we were all proud of and following the program prepared for us by Bro. Baltz we had a time which we will never forget. That the girls enjoyed themselves was shown by a beautiful silver punch bowl and ladle which arrived some days later, engraved, "From the Chaperone and Prom Girls."

Bro. Volkman was chairman of the Prom. Finance Committee.

In the annual indoor Interfraternity relay race held on March 10, Delta U. represented by Volkman, '07, Van Derzee, '08, Schranck, '07, and Byron, '08, was victorious and another large silver loving cup now rests upon our mantel.

During the first week of April Bro. David Starr Jordan visited the University and gave several very interesting talks to the students. We had an informal reception for him here at the house one evening during his visit, at which President Van Hise and most of our town alumni were present.

The baseball season has just opened and we are out with hopes for the interfraternity cup, having taken our first game from Rho Delta Phi. On the class teams Hetzel, '06, is pitching for the Junior Laws in whose team Cole, '06. is playing third base. Parker, '06, is shortstop for the Senior Engineers. He is also president of the interfraternity league.

The mandolin and glee clubs recently returned from a successful trip throughout the state. Parker, '06, leader of the Mandolin club and Byron, '08, on the glee club accompanied them.

In the near future there is to be held a combined class and interfraternity track meet and we are training hard for it. Smith, '09, took first in an indoor class meet held earlier in the season and will doubtless show up well in the coming meet.

Van Derzee, '08, is doing fine work in the broad jump and will go to Chicago next week with the track team.

Bros. Cole, '06, and Hetzel, '06, were recently elected to Phi Delta Phi. Bro. Hetzel has been chosen commencement orator.

Bros. Van Derzee and Simonds. '08, have been elected to the "Badger" board.

Bro. Hetzel has been elected president and Bro. Karrow secretary of the Edwin Booth Dramatic Club. Bro. Karrow will have an important part in the annual play.

Once more we wish to speak of our new chapter house. It is going to be fine and you must all come and see it.

MIDDLEBURY CONVENTION PROGRAM.

HEADQUARTERS: ADDISON HOUSE, MIDDLEBURY, VT.

ALL visitors will be met at the trains and conducted at once to the Addison House, where the rooming committee will be stationed and rooms in the hotel and nearby places will be assigned. Meals will be taken at the Sargent, Logan and Addison Houses, and the ticket system will be used. All business and social meetings are held near these hotels and within three minutes' walk of the depot. Rates are low at Middlebury and large delegations are expected. Chapters are requested to send the names of their delegates at least a week in advance to the secretary of the convention, Arthur E. Bestor, 5711 Kimbark Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Delegates to the convention should reach Middlebury not later than Thursday, October 25th, in time to present their credentials at the first business session at ten A. M., but come the night before for the smoker if you can. The convention, however, assumes but 48 hours' hotel expenses for each delegate.

RAILROAD RATES.

Arrangements have been made with most of the railroads for the usual convention rates of a fare and a third for the round trip. Every delegate and visitor traveling under this plan will pay full fare to Middlebury and should ask the ticket agent for a certificate, which will entitle him to a return ticket at one-third fare. Do not forget to ask for a certificate, as without this the reduced fare cannot be obtained, and the difference will not be included in the equalization of rates, except in the case of delegates traveling over roads not in the above arrangements. Make inquiries of your ticket agent well in advance, and if certificates are not issued write to S. S. Hall, Box 194, New York city, for information as to the nearest point at which they can be obtained.

Middlebury is situated on the Rutland Railroad, about four hours from Montreal, seven and one-half from Boston, four from Troy and eleven from New York. Through trains, with Pullmans, run from all these points over the Rutland, stopping at Middlebury. As Middlebury is a summer tourist center its hotels are better and larger than is usual in a small town.

"BACK TO THE WOODS."

On Saturday, October 27, those brothers who can remain over will be taken to Lake Dunmore by team and a cold lunch will be served on the rocks at the "Cascades," a beautiful spot where a mountain stream dashes down to the lake. Then those brothers who are strenuously inclined may walk over the mountains to Silver Lake, a little sheet of water nestled in the hills, and thence to Bread Loaf Inn, a hard nine miles' walk. Those who like their fun in milder doses will ride through the woods to the same point, where a game dinner will be served, and then there will come a wild twelve-mile ride down into the valley for the midnight trains. This trip will take the brothers into the heart of the Green Mountains, beside rushing brooks and through the forest, and it is thought that those who have never visited this region will find it a novel and enjoyable feature. The country is full of interest to the botanist and geologist, and the fishing is excellent; small game abound, and deer are seen, but the crowd will probably be too noisy to accomplish much with shy game.

THE BANQUET SPEAKERS.

The price of the banquet, which will be the convention climax, has been set low so that every visitor can attend. Things are cheap in Vermont, and the price does not indicate poor service. The toastmaster will be Rev. James L. Barton, Middlebury, '81, of Boston, Mass., and speakers who have already agreed to come are Hon. Fletcher D. Proctor, Amherst, '82; Hon. Frank C. Partridge, Amherst, '82, ex-minister to Venezuela and President of the Vermont Delta Upsilon Club; U. S. Senator Proctor;

Hon. Elijah Sherman, Middlebury, '60, honorary President of the fraternity, and Hon. William Travers Jerome, Amherst, '82.

MIDDLEBURY SEMI-CENTENNIAL.

The Middlebury Chapter entertains in honor of her fiftieth year. Founded in 1856, the chapter looks back upon half a century of life in the fraternity and invites all brothers in Delta Upsilon to come and celebrate with her the achievements of fifty years and clasp hands in fraternal good wishes for the years to be. On Thursday evening, October 25, short exercises will be held in celebration of the chapter's life and the orator of the evening will be Rev. Cortland R. Myers, Rochester, '87, of the Brooklyn Tabernacle. Hon E. B. Sherman, honorary President of the fraternity and a charter member of the Middlebury Chapter, will preside, and it is expected that many of the founders of the chapter will be present. A poem will be read by Prof. Prentiss C. Hoyt, Middlebury, '89, professor of English literature at Clark University. The exercises will be followed by a reception-ball, Doring's Military Band of Troy furnishing the music.

It is expected that music will be quite a feature at this convention; the new song-book will be out then, and strong-lunged choristers will be prepared to lead off at every opening. Literature with detailed information will be mailed to each chapter about October 1; the Middlebury Chapter wants a big attendance, and members of the committee will be glad to correspond with any of the brothers regarding rates or other matters of interest.

COMMITTEES.

SOME NEW DELTA UPSILON HOMES.

THE NEW HOME OF THE CALIFORNIA CHAPTER.

By RALPH L. LANGWORTHY. California, '05.

THE California Chapter is rejoicing in the fact that it is now housed in its own home. Four years of steadily directed effort on the part of both alumni and undergradutes have at last successfully culminated in the possession of a splendid house. And the most satisfactory feature of the four years' effort is that the money for the house has been raised almost without exception from the members of the California Chapter.

As early as the autumn of 1899, although the Chapter had then been in existence only a little over three years, a plan was adopted to create a fund for the acquirement of a chapter home. This plan was, in brief, that as each member left college he pledged himself to pay fifty dollars towards the fulfillment of this object, this sum to be paid within twenty years from the date of the pledge. In addition to the alumni subscriptions thus obtained the active chapter pledged itself to contribute a certain sum annually. In this way a start was made, but in the winter of 1902, on account of the rapidly increasing real estate values in Berkeley, and the decreasing number of desirable lots, it was realized that more active measures must be taken.

The result was the formation of the Delta Upsilon House Association, of which the original directors were Roland L. Oliver, '00; Hart H. North, '95; Ralph C. Daniels, '99; F. Herbert Dam, '96, and Norman F. Titus, '04. Too much credit cannot be given to the members of this original Board of Directors for the amount of time-taking, exacting work which they undertook and performed. And appreciation is due also to the provisional committee which preceded them.

On September 26, 1902, the Delta Upsilon House Association was incorporated under the laws of the State of California. The capital stock was authorized to consist of 1,000 shares of $50.00 each. An excellent lot at the corner of Channing Way and Bowditch street was purchased for $7,000.00, Brother Ralph C. Daniels loaning $700 to make up the required amount with the $6,300 the association had already on hand.

The financial scheme by means of which the house has become a reality is very simple. It consists of stock, bonds and loans. The idea has always been foremost that the association must be independent and self-supporting; in other words, it was not designed to be a charitable institution. Every dollar that has been contributed towards the acquirement of the chapter house the association expects some day to be able to return with interest. To this end, in order to lessen the original indebtedness, stock was sold, this comprising by far the larger portion of money subscribed. When the individual contributor required greater security than that represented by stock, bonds bearing 3 or 4 per cent interest were issued. The interest on these bonds was cumulative for the first five years, thus giving the association the opportunity to reduce quickly whatever mortgaged indebtedness it was found necessary to incur. In several cases outright gifts were made, and from several alumni of other chapters unexpected aid has been received. As a result of these various methods of obtaining funds the association is in a position to rapidly decrease the mortgage loan, which comprised the final addition to the funds.

With the rental which the active chapter pays for the house, and with the additional stock and bonds which individual members will acquire from time to time, the future of the association will take care of itself. The present Board of Directors, the board which built the house, consists of Roland L. Oliver, '00; A. C. Wyckoff, '97; E. R. Hallett, '05; R. L. Langworthy, '05, and J. B. Landfield, Cornell, '04.

The construction of the house was begun in April and completed in November, 1905. On February 2d, 1906, a formal house-warming was tendered the college public by the active chapter, and on March 3d the alumni did their share in a successful dedication.

The house occupies a corner lot 100 by 125 feet, and is within five minutes' walk of the University buildings. The effect of the house from the outside is one of massive simplicity. The design follows the architecture of the Italian renaissance, with the addition of a few mission details. The exterior is finished in stucco, and is painted a soft yellowish gray. The roof is tile, red.

The lines are severe and strong, and the proportions of the building, which are very carefully worked out, add a charm to the whole effect.

The interior is well adapted to the social and home features of a fraternity house. The main floor consists of the hall, lounging, dining and chapter rooms. These rooms are panelled and beamed with a mission effect in fumed oak, and are so arranged that they can be thrown into one long hall whose dimensions are approximately 30x60 feet.

The second and third floors contain apartments for twenty men, and are provided with the comforts and conveniences of a modern home. The tinting and staining and the rugs, curtains and hangings harmonize throughout the house. For this charming effect Brother Roland L. Oliver is responsible.

The house, lot and furnishings represent an investment of about $26,000. A number of highly prized individual gifts have been made by individuals and classes. Brother John A. Brewer, '03, presented the chapter with a splendid set of furniture for the dining room. The Delta U. mothers supplied the table linen, silverware and china service, and the Delta U. sisters contributed cushions. Classes and relatives have also been very generous with gifts. It is the hope of the members of the chapter that individuals and outgoing classes will continue to endeavor by further donations to make the chapter house a real home in every sense. The chapter desires its new house to be a home of Delta U's, a place in which they will rejoice to live, to return to in after years, and to welcome their brothers from other chapters.

THE BOWDOIN CHAPTER HOUSE.

By SAMUEL B. FURBISH, Amherst, '98.

THE Bowdoin Chapter of Delta Upsilon was forced to own a chapter house by conditions arising from the fact that six of the other fraternities had homes of their own. One of the first questions asked when rushing a man would be, "Where is your chapter house?" and our lack resulted in the loss of many men who were otherwise very favorably impressed with the chapter . In the fall of 1903 a corporation was planned, and seven alumni became the original charter members, incorporating under the laws of Maine in October, 1903, with $10,000 of capital stock, in shares of $25 each. The sum of $1,600 was promptly subscribed and a lot containing nearly two acres was purchased on the main street of the town, separated from the college campus by the lot of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity and within sight of three others of the college societies.

While discussing plans as to the advisability of building a new house at once, it happened that one of the rich men of the town died and his estate went on the market. As we found that his residence could be easily converted into a chapter house at comparatively small expense, it was purchased and moved to our lot during the summer. In the fall, when college opened, Delta Upsilon had a house that was second to none at Bowdoin. The picture does not do it justice, for in its new location the house is situated about one hundred feet back from the street, with a broad lawn running up to the sweeping driveway that swings in from both sides of the lot. As you look at the picture the fifty-foot ell and fifty-six-foot addition are not visible. As you go up the granite steps to the front door and enter you are confronted by a hallway fifteen feet in width, five feet of which is occupied by a flight of black walnut stairs that run up through the three stories.

The ground floor to the right is occupied by a large general room with a large fireplace. The dining room is directly at the rear of this, and has a seating capacity of forty men. Both of these rooms have patterned hardwood floors. The ceilings are hand decorated and in keeping with the rest of the rooms. On the other side of the hall are a parlor and two studies. On the second floor are three studies that are counterparts of the two studies and parlor below . The two rooms directly over the general room and dining room are used for studies, and are occupied by three men each. The third floor is divided in the same manner as the second and the rooms, five in all, are used as sleeping rooms. This floor has a toilet room at the end of the hall. The kitchen, laundry, store rooms and matron's rooms occupy the ground floor of the ell. Over these rooms are four rooms, two chambers, a study and a bath room.

The addition at the rear of the ell is perhaps one of the prizes of the house, for the ground floor is a sheathed dance hall fifty-six feet by thirty-two. This is also used for banquets and receptions. Above this hall are seven rooms and a bath for the help.

The expense of running this house is yet to be decided by experience, but it seems probable that the income from the rent of the rooms to the chapter as a chapter house and to the boys as suites will meet all requirements. The dining room expenses are met by charging $4 per week for board.

Summing it all up, we think that the house we have, heated throughout by steam, lighted with electricity, and with complete plumbing and costing about $12,000, is about the best chapter house at Bowdoin.

THE CHAPTER HOUSE AT BROWN.

By GEORGE HURLEY, Brown, '07.

OUR chapter house is a large-roomed, large-planned building, with a capacious suite on the first floor used as general fraternity rooms. The largest room, used as a reception hall on holidays and as an assembly room on work days, is finished in mahogany and attractively furnished with heavy leather and mahogany chairs. The smoking room, the real living room of the chapter, done in green oak paneling with red furnishings, is a warm, cosy and cheery room. The library is furnished in blue, and the dining room furnished in ebonized wood.

There are eighteen rooms in the house. On the upper floors are nine bedrooms and five bathrooms. The house is comfortably and conveniently furnished, and recently the alumni, under the direction of Brothers Pope and Wood, have given the house several fine original paintings.

THE UNION CHAPTER HOUSE.

By LEWIS STEWART PARSONS, '07.

WHEN the Union Chapter of Delta Upsilon secured a section of South College and fitted it up as a very cosy lodge, they little thought that within three years they would be living in one of the finest houses in Schenectady and even in the fraternity, but such is the case.

The house we have secured was erected in 1896. It was built for a private residence by one of the leading business men in Schenectady and occupied by him for a year. It was then sold to St. John's parish, to be used as a convent school. This plan did not go through, and the house, practically new, was finally leased for a term of years by the Union Chapter last spring, and on June first we quietly took possession, much to the surprise of our rivals on the hill.

The house is built of brick and brownstone, and is ideally equipped for fraternity use. There are five rooms and a large reception hall on the ground, finished in the natural wood, with inlaid floors, and with the exception of the dining room, which is wainscoted, are all tastefully papered. There are handsome tiled fireplaces in the dining room, reception room and parlor, and the ceilings in each room are attractively frescoed.

The second floor contains six study rooms, in three of which are open fireplaces, and all have hot and cold water and large closets.

The attic contains sleeping quarters for twenty men and room for the billiard table. There are baths on each floor. The cellar contains the laundry, furnace room, and two trunk rooms.

The plate glass windows are unusually large and are equipped with Venetian blinds. A veranda fifteen feet wide, extending forty feet across the front, and a conservatory, which has been converted into a smoking room, complete a home which we hope to call our own inside of a year. The original cost of the house was $25,000.

IMPROVEMENTS AT SYRACUSE.

THE Syracuse Chapter has added a large front porch to the chapter house, making it much more comfortable, and changing its appearance considerably. At the same time the house was repainted, the third floor was remodeled and plastered, a hardwood floor laid and a new dormitory put in. The main hall has a new hardwood floor, and most of the rooms were repapered and painted. The dormitory plan, for which the third floor has been arranged, is proving a great success.

DELTA UPSILON IN CHICAGO.

THROUGH the assistance of Brother Robert Catherwood, Northwestern, '96, we are able to make the Delta U.'s outside of Chicago acquainted with some of our Chicago brothers.

We are all familiar with Judge Elijah B. Sherman, Middlebury, '60, master in chancery for the Federal courts, and one of the old settlers of Chicago. He has been a prominent figure in Delta Upsilon as well as in the Western metropolis.

Charles Gates Dawes, Marietta, '84, president of the Central Trust & Savings Bank, president of one of the principal gas companies of Chicago, and former U. S. Comptroller of the Currency, is another who is already well known to the fraternity.

But there are others who are well known in Chicago in business, professional or educational circles who should be better known to our readers.

William H. French, Cornell, '73, whose genial manner endeared him to all who were at the Chicago convention, is now serving his third term as president of the Chicago Delta Upsilon Club. Brother French was a student in Leipsic University in 1872 and 1873. On his return he became assistant general manager of the Associated Press in New York. He is now secretary and director of the type foundry firm of Barnhart Brothers & Spindler, 183 Monroe street, Chicago.

Professor Ira Wilder Allen, Hamilton, '50, has led a busy life. He was a teacher in the public schools of New York State from 1843 to 1848. In 1850 he recived the degree of A. B. from Hamilton College, and for two years was principal of Manlius Academy. Two years more were spent as a student at Harvard University and the Universities of Gottingen and Berlin. From 1854 to 1860 he was a professor in Antioch College, which gave him the degree of A. M. in 1853. After a year as superintendent of schools, Sidney, Ohio, he became President of Union Christian College. In 1863 he received the LL. B. degree from Albany Law School. For five years he was principal and proprietor of Lafayette Collegiate Institute, and for the next five years principal and proprietor of Lake Forest Academy. In 1872 Union Christian College gave him the degree of LL. D. From 1874 to 1892 he was principal and proprietor of Allen Academy, Chicago. Since then he has been occupied in the management of his property in and near Chicago, with frequent intervals of travel in Europe. Professor Allen is the father of three Delta U.'s: Ira W. Allen, Jr., Williams, 84, A. B.; '87, A.M.; B. D., McCormick Seminary, '94, and now living at Pasadena, Cal.; Hamilton Ford Allen, Williams, '88 A. B.; Chicago, '05, Ph. D., and now a professor in Princeton University; and Phiiip

Schuyler Allen, Williams, '91, A B.; Chicago, '97, Ph. D., and now a professor in the University of Chicago.

Ossian C. Simonds, Michigan, '73, is a prominent landscape gardener of Chicago. Immediately after graduation, he entered the office of W. L. B. Jenney, architect, in Chicago, and three years later formed a partnership with William Holabird, the firm being Holabird & Simonds. From this firm he afterwards withdrew in order to devote his time to landscape gardening. His work, which includes private places, parks, cemeteries, sub-divisions, etc., has been carried on in more than twenty-six states and territories.

Frederick Whitton, Wisconsin, '89, is another Delta U. who was prominent at the Chicago Convention. He is agency manager of the New York Life Insurance Co. Brother Whitton was principal of the Detroit School for Boys, 1890-98; of Michigan Military Academy, 1898-99, and of Blees Military Academy, 1899-1902. He then became solicitor for the New York Life Insurance Co., and the following year became agency manager and director.

James Westfall Thompson, Rutgers, '92, was a graduate student at the University of Chicago for the two years following his graduation from Rutgers. In 1895 Chicago gave him the degree of Ph. D. (magnum cum laude), and made him associate in history. In 1897 he became instructor and since 1903 he has been assistant professor of European history. Brother Thompson has written "The Development of the French Monarchy under Louis VI." and "The Decline of the Missi Dominici in Frankish Gaul." He is a frequent contributor to various periodicals. At the Chicago convention he was the convention poet.

Charles Lincoln Keller, Lehigh, '93, first assistant engineer in charge of all the engineering forces of the Scherzer Rolling Lift Bridge Co. of Chicago, is busy with a number of important bridges, notably the eight-track railroad bridge over the Chicago drainage canal, a double-track railroad bridge over the Chicago river with a span of 275 feet between bearings, and a number of important lift bridges in Russia, Ireland, South America and other foreign countries. He is director and secretary of the National Regulator Co., Chicago, and a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers and of the Western Society of Engineers, as well as of various clubs. He is on the managing boards of several local associations and settlements, and has lectured before a number of engineering societies and university technical schools on the subject of modern bridge construction.

George Ellsworth Hooker, Amherst, '83, secretary of the City Club and one of the prominent municipal ownership men of Chicago, is a Vermont man by birth and education. Class day orator, prize debater and Phi Beta Kappa; graduate of Columbia Law School and of Yale Divinity school; admitted to the bar and practicing law in New York, and serving as a missionary and ordained to the ministry in Washington; traveling abroad and working in Andover House, Boston; in these varied ways he was splendidly prepared for his present work in Hull house, Chicago, and on the editorial staff of the Chicago Tribune—again a contrast. He is evidently a practical idealist.

Francis E. Broomell, Swarthmore, '93, entered the employ of C. J. Hambleton & Co., real estate, soon after graduation, as manager of their branch office. He continued there until 1900, when, on the death of both members of the firm, he became manager of the Hambleton Estate and engaged in independent business of his own . In 1904 he entered into partnership with his brother, Chester C. Broomell, under firm name of Broomell Brothers, real estate and loans. He is a member of the Chicago Real Estate Board, and served as appraiser of real estate for the West Park Board of Commissioners. Brother Broomell is much interested in the movement for more liberal religious thought, and is secretary of the Independent Religious Society of Chicago.

Robert K. S. Catherwood, Northwestern, '96, who procured the material for this article, failed to include either his picture or his "obituary." The former we had and the latter is given by the Decennial. His activity in chapter, club and general fraternity matters is strongly in evidence. He was admitted to the bar in 1899, since when he has practiced law, being at present a member of the firm of Parkinson & Catherwood, and he was one of the prime movers of the 1904 convention, held at Chicago, having been chairman of the committee.

Shelby M. Singleton, Northwestern, '91, as secretary and attorney for the Citizens' Association of Chicago, is much in the public eye, and has gained a national reputation for courage and efficiency in his work. He was valedictorian of his class in the law school from which he was graduated in 1892, being admitted to the bar the same year. He practiced law until 1894, when he took charge of the Chicago Law Institute until 1896, when he entered the newspaper field. He held editorial positions on the Inter-Ocean, the Milwaukee Sentinel and the Record-Herald, until he took up his present work in 1903. He was first vice-president of the Chicago convention.

Rev. William Pierson Merrill, Rutgers, '87, is from the East, having been born in Orange, N. J. First honor man at graduation, class day poet, valedictorian, Phi Beta Kappa, and winner of many prizes, he has proved a forceful, thoughtful preacher. For five years after graduation from Union Theological Seminary in 1890, he was pastor of Trinity Church, Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, and for the past few years has been pastor of the Sixth Presbyterian Church of Chicago. He was chaplain of the Chicago convention in 1904.

Edgar Grant Sisson, Northwestern, '98, wielded the pen as recording secretary and corresponding secretary of his chapter and reported for the Chicago Chronicle. On graduation he became dramatic editor of the Chicago Tribune, of which paper he is now managing editor.

James M. Gilchrist, Cornell, '00, is general manager of the Federal Electric Co. He has been in business in Chicago since graduation. He was for two years secretary of the Chicago Delta Upsilon Club and a member of the 1904 Convention Committee.

THE CONVENTION OF DISTRICT II.

The first annual District Convention of the Canadian and Central New York chapters was held at the Lodge of the Cornell Chapter on May 4th and 5th, 1906. Ralph C. Rodgers, Cornell, '05, was president and A. W. Rowley, Syracuse, '07, secretary. The Cornell Chapter proved most hospitable and cordial hosts.

The delegates met at the lodge on Friday, May 4, for dinner, which was followed by a reception in the chapter hall. The convention was then called to order for organization. The next day at the first session papers were presented as follows: Colgate, "Definite Aims in Chapter Work;" Cornell, "Upperclass Supervision;" Hamilton, "Benefits of General Convention; McGill, "Vital Factors in Rushing;" Rochester, "Chapter Visitation;" Syracuse, "Relations Between Fraternities;" Union, "Chapter Traditions."

A general discussion, which followed each paper proved a valuable feature.

At the close of the session the delegates were shown the University buildings and grounds, followed by luncheon at the Lodge. In the afternoon the Columbia-Cornell baseball game was attended, Cornell being the victors. In the evening a typical chapter meeting was held by the Cornell chapter, and was largely attended by local alumni. A banquet at the Lodge brought the convention to a close.

An account of the convention of District V in Evanston, Ill., letter will be found at the end of this issue.

TWENTY-ONE years, to be accurate, separate the two accompanying pictures of the installation committee of the Lafayette Chapter. The six members of this committee met again at the recent Jerome-Hughes dinner in New York, and the later photograph was taken at the home of Brother Charles E. Hughes. It is evident from the following brief records that interest and activity in undergraduate life generally result in a continuation of interest and activity in the fraternity in after years.

Signatures of the Lafayette Installation Committee

Otto M. Eidlitz, Cornell, '81, held the offices of chapter treasurer, corresponding secretary, vice-president and delegate to the '80 and '81 conventions. He was president of the Delta Upsilon camping associations, president of the Delta Upsilon Club of New York and a member of the executive council for four years. His college interest was continued as treasurer of the Cornell Club of New York and as one of the committee of five for alumni hall. He was appointed by Governor Roosevelt to be tenement house commissioner in 1900. A member of the building firm of Marc Eidlitz & Son, of New York, he has been president of the Mason Builders' Association and secretary of the United Building Trades of New York.

Charles E. Hughes, Brown, '81, is well known for his recent work in the insurance and gas investigations in New York City. He was class prophet and class orator, editor of the Brunonian, took the Carpenter and Dunn premiums and made Phi Beta Kappa. In the fraternity he was delegate to the '80 convention, toastmaster at the '86 and '01 conventions and president of the executive council '86-'87. He was prize fellow at the Columbia Law School, professor of law at Cornell University and special lecturer at Cornell and the New York Law School.

Marcus C. Allen, Colgate, '81, had the convention habit. He was a delegate to the '81, '82, '83, '84 and '85 conventions, and has attended others. He was recording secretary of his chapter and later trustee. In college he played baseball. He has been vice-president of the Sandy Hill, N. Y., board of education, and president of the sewer commission. He is a member of Allen Bros. Co., manufacturers, Sandy Hill, N. Y.

Edward M. Bassett, Amherst, '84, was initiated by the Hamilton chapter. Besides being class president and holding college records in the hurdles and jumps at Hamilton he held a commencement appointment and was class day orator and Phi Beta Kappa at Amherst. In his chapter he was vice-president and delegate to the '82 and '83 conventions. He was one of the editors of the first volume of the QUARTERLY, which was published by the Amherst chapter, and associate editor of the '84 Quinquennial. Graduating from the Columbia Law School he practiced law in Buffalo and New York City, and was a member of Congress from Brooklyn.

Frederick M. Crossett, New York, '84, hardly needs to have his fraternity activities recounted. Recording secretary, treasurer, chapter trustee, delegate to '81, '82, '83 and '90 conventions, delegate from the New York Club and from the executive council to five or six more, he has been in attendance upon twenty-five consecutive conventions, besides being chairman of the semi-centennial ('84) convention committee and a member of the '93 convention committee. Member of the executive council '83-'88, secretary of the council and fraternity treasurer; publisher of the annual; business manager and editor-in-chief of the QUARTERLY; associate editor of Our Record, and chapter editor of the '01 Decennial, these are a few of his services. Locally, he has been treasurer and member of the board of trustees and of the executive committee of the New York Club and always in active connection with his chapter. He was chairman of the committee to establish the Lafayette, Columbia, Lehigh, Tufts, DePauw and Pennsylvania chapters. In college he was class treasurer and held various athletic offices, playing baseball and lacrosse. His present business of publisher of several magazines seems to be subordinate to his fraternity interests.

Robert J. Eidlitz, Cornell, '85, is permanent secretary of his class. He was on the Junior ball committee and was elected editor of the Cornellian. His chapter made him recording secretary, vice-president and president. He was associate editor of the '84 Quinquennial, editor of Honorary members list in the '91 Quinquennial and '01 Decennial; delegate to the '84 convention; secretary of the alumni information bureau six years; associate editor of the QUARTERLY for eight years and for three years member of the executive council. Brother "Robe" Eidlitz has been one of the most interested and active alumni of the fraternity. He is a member of the firm of Marc Eidlitz & Son, one of the largest and best building firms in New York City.

HISTORICAL SKETCH OF DELTA UPSILON.

By Rev. Edward P. Powell, Hamilton, '53.

THE movement which crystalized ultimately into what is now known as the Delta Upsilon Fraternity, began at Williams College, in 1834. In 1838 there was organized a similar society at Hamilton. Among its members were Rev. Henry Kendall, Rev. Dr. Henry Nelson, and several others who afterward reached a national reputation. I do not know how long this society continued its existence, nor what was the history of its work. In 1837 there was another anti-secret society formed at Union; and neither this one nor that at Williams went out of existence until 1847. In this year there was a strong movement of the same character at Amherst, followed soon after by an organization in Hamilton.

All these movements were in the nature of a protest against secret associations—which it was claimed had introduced the spirit of injustice into college elections, and were breaking up natural associations into clanship. The protest included opposition to secrecy, mainly because at that time the country was in its fever heat of antagonism to Free Masonry —a contest which had entered politics, and even the church. The main point, however, was that the Greek letter societies were giving preference to their own members in college elections, rather than to merit and scholarship. Several of the most notable educators of the land openly expressed their sympathy with the protesting movement of the students—among the rest President Hopkins of Williams, President Nott of Union, and President Hitchcock of Amherst.

The indignation was keener because some of the colleges, Hamilton included, had abolished college honors. In this college the only honors to be secured were those granted by the two literary societies, the Union and the Phoenix; each of which annually elected a valedictorian. There were then four secret societies, the Sigma Phi, Alpha Delta Phi, Chi Psi and Psi Upsilon. Combinations of these societies were formed, generally two against two, to secure these valedictorianships. The Neutrals numbered about one-third of the college, and generally voted as they pleased. But if they could be corraled for a single candidate, the four secret societies would sometimes combine against them.

The literary societies met in rooms over the chapel, entering by the rear door, where the first floor was occupied by a laboratory; the second by a Philosophical Chamber; and the third was devoted to the Literary Society Halls. The debates were of a high order, and the annual Anniversaries were the literary as well as the social events of the college. The Union Library and Museum occupied the four middle rooms of Middle College, fourth floor; while the Phoenix occupied in like manner the fourth story middle rooms of North college. The contents of these libraries and museums constitute now no mean part of the present possessions of the college. Each Greek letter society was accustomed to divide its members between the two, in such a way as most decisively to influence the annual elections.

In 1847 there was a remarkably scholarly lot of Neutrals, some of them neutral by preference—perhaps nearly all of them. About a dozen of these were mustered at the room of A. M. Stowe on Commencement evening. This room was in the house of Mary Powell, now Dr. Stryker's. When this property was sold to the college, a part of it, containing this very room was wheeled about, and made to constitute a part of the mansion. This first meeting was held without lights, as it was surmised that the secret societies would cause disturbance. The movement was not acceptable to them, because it would solidify opposition, and if such organization succeeded it would pretty surely rule the elections. It must not be overlooked that the society started with a very positive and aggressive spirit. It was intended to break up Greek letter societies, and put an end to them in colleges. During the first ten years the battle was sharply drawn on both sides, and a history of the skirmishes would be extremely interesting, often amusing, and sometimes pathetic. It took more than ten years for us to discover that we had undertaken what could not be accomplished.

The result of the first gathering, at Mr. Stowe's room, was that nine agreed to form a Hamilton College anti-secret fraternity. The name taken was the Social Fraternity. This name was changed, I think in 1850, for the title Equitable Fraternity—a name originally used at Wesleyan University. The names of the original organizers were C. L. Adams, A. G. Gould, R. G. Keyes, M. Waldo, D. E. Blaine, J. Campbell, Yates Hickey, E. Robbins, and A. M. Stowe. All these boasted that they had been repeatedly invited to join secret societies. To their names must be added the following, to make out the sixteen charter members: S. Sheldon, H. E. Johnson, Guy K. Cleveland, Giles B. Cleveland, R. G. Martin, H. G. Kingsbury, W. W. Warner. Among the earliest to be added to this list were G. W. Newcomb, A. D. Williams, C. H. Meigs, L. H. Potter, L. H. Jenkins and Seth E. Hills. The first president of the Hamilton Chapter was Milton Waldo, who is still alive and here on the platform beside me.

From the very outset there was a moral tone to the movement. The sixteen founders were men of stout character, and unflinching purposeiveness. The constitution which they framed emphasized that membership was open only to those who practiced strict morality. No definition of morality was given however, and probably none could be given. It was understood that no member could use intoxicating liquors, and there was a very strong opposition to the use of tobacco. For many years nearly every member refused to give any countenance whatever to class rows, and bolting—which was then a popular custom. It was understood that the Social Fraternity intended to be an organization where parents could place their boys, with a certainty that they would be safe from the grosser temptations of college life. Nearly everyone of fair manhood could become a member. The three points insisted upon were moral character, intellectual effort, and social manliness. It was understood that while we respected scholarship and appreciated wealth, our aim and spirit was democratic and helpful.

A mere lad at the time, but preparing to enter college in 1850, as a sophomore, I confess that the movement had a tremendous power over my thinking and purposing. I look back today with a conviction that the Delta Upsilon society, or Equitable Fraternity, did for me more than all other influences combined, to establish moral courage in the critical period of my life. It was to this sort of influence that the State of New York is just now indebted for Prosecuting Attorney Jerome, of New York, and Charles E. Hughes, who is doing equally good work in the insurance investigation. It also begat David Starr Jordan, the ideal college president; and Garfield, the martyr for political rights.

The cost of membership was a bagatelle, as compared with the cost of other societies. There was no initiation fee, nor other charges except a slight term tax, and a few bills which were paid to cover the expenses of those who were sick. We always cared for the poor boys who fell into the hands of the doctors. We generally paid about ten dollars a year for books, repairs and a few incidentals. A few paid a little more than that, while the poorer boys were excused from nearly everything.

We almost at once took honorable rank and scholarship. Hamilton led his class in 1850. He was a giant in every way, in body and in mind. He became liberal in theology, before liberalism was popular, and died in his pulpit in Oakland, Cal., in the prime of his life, and before the world had learned to appreciate him. Pratt led the class of 1851; while in the class of 1853 and that of 1854 we secured the salutatorians. There were very few prizes in those days, but we always secured our share—as we have ever since. Our first member of the faculty was Blaine, who was elected Tutor in 1852. His election provoked an outburst of abuse on the part of the secret societies. Having been selected by the Faculty, he should have been sustained by them. As they did not do this, we did. After a sharp struggle, covering two terms, we came off triumphant. During this episode our society resolved at one period to withdraw from the college in a body, unless the Faculty would take certain action in the defense of Tutor Blaine. They took it. Our first Professor was, I think, Wilcox, who succeeded Upson in the rhetorical chair.

The first Convention was held in 1847, at the instigation of Williams, warmly seconded by Hamilton; and a Confederation was there formed. A second Convention, the first of the Confederation, was held in 1849, at Albany, when the Constitution was drafted.

It is somewhat important that this question of early organization shall be definitely settled. I find in the records of the Hamilton chapter for October 27th, 1847, the following minute: "A letter from Williams stated that delegates from other anti-secret societies would meet at Troy, on the 10th of November, for the purpose of getting up a union catalog, and to transact such other business as concerned the cause, and wished the Social Fraternity of Hamilton College to send a delegate. Whereupon a motion was made and carried that this Fraternity send a delegate to meet the others in Troy at the specified time." At a special meeting of the Social Fraternity, October 29th, I find on record that "M. Waldo was unanimously elected; that he was instructed to use his best endeavors to adopt a common name and badge."

In the records for April 3rd, 1848, is the following minute: "The Fraternity voted unanimously that the Confederation meet on the third day of May next, at the Delevan House, Albany. Voted that the Fraternity send two delegates to said Convention; whereupon Waldo and Converse were chosen." This seems to settle definitely the order in which the first Conventions were held; at which the Confederation was agreed upon, the title chosen and the badge selected.

In 1850 a third convention was held at Williamstown, and in 1851 a fourth at Union. In this way there gradually grew up a solidified moral and social force that was destined to influence the whole collegiate world.

Chapters were formed in rapid succession at Adelbert, Wesleyan, Colby, Rochester, Bowdoin, Rutgers, Brown, Colgate, New York, Miami, Cornell and Trinity. Syracuse, Michigan, Northwestern and Harvard were added a little later. Hamilton was recognized from the outset as a good leader. Its influence was felt throughout the Confederation, and mainly because it stood for moral principles rather than social position. At the outset it was very warmly attached to the chapter in Vermont University, known as Delta Psi. Our fifth Convention, fourth of the Confederation, was held with that chapter, and its members at that time included a large number who became famous—among the rest Governor Buckham and Rev. Dr. Goodale. The name Delta Psi was adopted by the Western Reserve, and it was proposed to adopt it at Hamilton. It would probably have become the name of the whole fraternity, had not this Vermont chapter unfortunately withdrawn from the Confederation in 1854. After trying one or two more titles, it was finally agreed in 1864 to accept Delta Upsilon.

Our Hamilton Equitable Society held its meetings for the first two years, most of the time, in the house of Mrs. Powell; and her house was for a long time known as the "Frat Hotel." Here they not only held their meetings, but had their board. The sympathy of their hostess for the society was very deep; but I think that it was slightly strained occasionally, when more than five or six visitors were brought in at the same time, to lunch, and more than two horses had to be stabled at the same time—without charge to the visitors. However I remember quite as distinctly, and find it recorded in the minutes of the society, that literary exercises were occasionally abbreviated, in order to do justice to loaves of cake, pumpkin pies, and huge bowls of fresh maple sugar, which were found spread in the adjacent dining room by this patroness. She was well compensated by appreciative resolutions. Most of these resolutions were worded by a dark-skinned youth, named Milton Waldo.

From this house the society moved to rooms granted them by the Faculty, in South college. The whole upper story of this dormitory constituted four lodge rooms. Our Fraternity was in possession of North hall, fourth story middle, both front and rear. Across the Hall was the lodge of the Alpha Delta Phi. Our assembly rooms were reached through the rooms of janitors, who occupied the front—rent free, for their care of the lodge. This assembly room we fitted with sofas, that were especially constructed to join together, clear round the room. We had a library built into the wall, and this was kept fairly well supplied with new books. In those days, instead of over five thousand volumes per year, sent out by the publishers, I doubt if there were five hundred—pamphlets and all. We could keep up with the book tide at a very small cost.

I regret to say that the records covering all this period are wretchedly meager. I do not find one word about our Anniversaries, which were decidedly the featue of the Fraternity. During Commencement Week, which occurred at that time late in July, the Fraternity Anniversary was a recognized event of the town. Our Hall, and the anterooms, were crowded with leading citizens, always including the families of two or three members of the Faculty. During most of this period we numbered about thirty members, and at one time reached nearly or quite forty. That the society had an exactly even tenor is not true. A few proved to be traitors to its principles; and one or two desired dismissal, and secured it. We had the sympathy of several of those who were inside rival societies, among the rest that of Edward Orton, afterward the eminent geologist, who wrote us a letter frankly wishing us success, and avowing his endorsement of our principles.

The next move was to a room in the Osborne block, in the village, just east of the canal. This occurred while I was living in St. Louis and Chicago, so that I never attended but one meeting in that place. The change was necessitated by the fact that the college Trustees found it necessary to refit South college, and use the whole of it as a dormitory. At the single meeting which I attended, I had the pleasure of suggesting the purchase of property and the building of a Lodge. This proposition was ably seconded by Prof. Burdick, your present presiding officer. Lawyer Williams was employed to purchase, if possible, the Stone property, at the foot of the hill. Failing in this, the project lingered on until the purchase of the present property, and the building of the existing Lodge, into which the Society entered in April, 1888. My visits to Clinton were rare at this time, and I knew very little of the minutiae of this effort. I only know that it cost a deal of labor on the part of a few brave enthusiasts. The construction of lodges led to a great social readjustment in this college as elsewhere. The system is still on trial, and has its strong opponents as well as its friends.

In 1881 it was decided that the Fraternity should no longer be termed "anti-secret," but should be held to be "non-secret." This position had been advocated by some of the chapters, for several years. The feud spirit died out gracefully and naturally. The antagonism gradually slipped into a friendly, co-operation for good purposes, and for the welfare of the college, a spirit which is steadily improving year by year. Yet I suspect that quite a number of us old fellows still look back to those days of battle with a chuckle, and with a conviction that your modern era of fraternal good will does not furnish so good a stimulus to strong character and steady moral purposing. The larger part of existing chapters have never known anything about the old era, and its struggles, from their own experience. During the first ten years the battle was very keen and sharp. A strong friendship growing up between my classmate, Breese Stevens, a Sigma Phi, and myself, we were both hauled up and disciplined by our societies, on the score that we possibly anticipated treason. There was very little friendship across the lines. We, the Frats, were decidedly too severe; and our opponents were vindictive. The college catalogs were published, leaving out our Fraternity. We were compelled to publish separate editions for our private use. In those days the societies appeared as such in the regular college catalog.

The Delta Upsilon change of frontage was a growth rather than a decision. It took place in connection with a very general revolution. Hamilton college accepted the inevitable, and, in place of exactly three recitations per day, of required studies, began to admit a modified elective system. The studious atmosphere of older days changed for a sort of university bustle. Probably more work is done; probably ten times as much work is wasted. Cargoes of facts are unloaded into the modern student, which I am sure we should not have been able to digest and assimilate—it will be generous to suppose that he does. For us to come back here and expect to find exactly the same Delta Upsilon that we were acquainted with fifty years ago would be absurd. We do, however, expect that the society will never lose its democratic spirit. On aristocratic lines of exclusion we are very liable to bar out boys who will, by and by, become the glory of the College. It is always easier for thirty members to co-operate than for ten. One thing of which we were especially proud in those days was that our expenses were so restricted that our fathers and mothers at home were not eating mush and milk while we lived on roast beef. This problem of college expenses is one that we Delta U's must have a hand and a heart in solving. It is our hope and our confident belief that the young men who inherit Delta Upsilon will understand that they inherit its obligations to honor, pure manhood, thorough scholarship, and self denial. Look well to your traditions, be faithful to your ideals. If you are, Delta Upsilon will remain as one of the noblest evolutions of the nineteenth century. Remember that the Fraternity does not consist of a few men who happen to be undergraduates; but of that great body of alumni who are carrying out Delta Upsilon principles, in the social and political affairs of the country. Keep yourselves in tally with them. One of the most important duties of your Conventions is to make sure that each chapter has an annual reunion of its alumni not in Commencement week, but at such a period as will be undisturbed by other exercises.

In 1897 we held our fiftieth Anniversary as a semi-centennial. At that time we had in the Faculty Melvin G. Dodge, Assistant Professor of Chemistry, and acting Librarian of the College; Wm. H. Squires, Professor of Psychology and Logic; Wm. P. Shepard, Professor of Romance Language and Literature—men of whom the Fraternity is justly proud. Of the charter members we had present Waldo, Hickey, H. E. Johnson, Keyes—the last three now deceased. We found other members of the Fraternity to be honored members of the Faculties of other colleges and universities; men of note in the business world, the literary world, and the political world. When your Centennial is reached in 1947, some more of us will be gone; but if the spirit of gentle manhood, true character and right scholarship control the Fraternity, Delta Upsilons on earth and Delta Upsilons in Heaven will constitute a loving and fraternal band of the sons of God.

And then pass on until they, too, are sage.

EDITORIAL.

THE seventy-second convention of Delta Upsilon will be held with the Middlebury Chapter October 25th and 26th, at which time the chapter will celebrate its semi-centennial. The Green Mountain boys are planning a good time for the double event, and doubtless a large number of Middlebury alumni will attend. With the chapters of New England, Canada, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania all but a short journey, comparatively, from Middlebury, many undergraduates besides the delegates should take advantage of this opportunity to attend a convention.

THE district convention idea has been proved a success for Delta Upsilon. Reports from the gatherings held in Cambridge, Ithaca and Chicago indicate that they are destined to become very valuable factors in inculcating the fraternity spirit. Only a combination of unusual circumstances prevented a convention in District III., where it will be welcomed the coming year. The Executive Council may find it desirable to submit to the coming general convention some regulations regarding district conventions. But these rules should be few and wide of scope, for the district conventions should be practically autonomous, each deciding for itself what programme it shall pursue and what themes it shall discuss. One subject alone should be put under the ban by general consent if not by actual fraternity enactment. That is the matter of extension. Any attempt to discuss the fraternity's policy in a district convention or to declare in favor of this or that petitioning body should be frowned upon. We have never had sectionalism brought into consideration of charter petitions, and we cannot afford to have it introduced now. As a matter of fact, the district conventions have more vital topics to interest them. The wide field of right management of chapters is before them. In cultivating this they will make themselves of most value to the fraternity.

IT would seem from the experience of recent conventions that the committee scheme needs revision. The list of committees usually adopted by conventions is one that has been in use several years. At least one committee of the half-dozen or more has almost nothing to do, as a rule, while another has all the very important work. For the sake of dividing up the labor and having as many undergraduates as possible participate in the convention's real duties we need an entirely new list of committees.

Moreover, it is a question whether it is wise to wait for convention to assemble to select the committee members. There would seem to be no good reason why, after an up-to-date set of standing committees has been made up, the acting president of the fraternity should not by lot assign chapters to committees and notify them in advance of convention. The delegates will gather, knowing exactly what duties are assigned them. It is probable that under this plan we should have a more general participation by the undergraduates in the active convention work, and this is highly desirable.

THE long-desired fraternity song-book is on the press, and we have no hesitation in saying that the fraternity is going to be mightily pleased with the result of Brother Miller's labors. This is a very mild phrase for expressing what we think of the book, but it may do for an advance notice. He has tapped springs of verse and music that the fraternity has always had but never found before. We hope the Executive Council will never let them run dry. Why should not the fraternity have every five years or so a round-up of new songs and verses, to be made a supplement to the old favorites.

ONE of the suggestions of the "Internal Improvement Committee" which reported to the Chicago Convention was for the formation of a "Pan-Hellenic Library." The plan having been authorized, the Librarian, William Oakley Raymond, 181 Claremont Avenue, New York City, was directed to send a communication to a number of fraternities explaining the proposed collection of fraternity material.

Official approval and agreement to co-operate having been received from most of the fraternities addressed, an open letter will now be sent out over the signatures of the librarians of these fraternities asking that all fraternities unite in forming a pan-Hellenic library.

Briefly the plan is to preserve in the reference department of one public library a complete file of the fraternity magazine of each fraternity, together with a catalogue and such other fraternity material as may be decided upon. The New York Public Library, of which Dr. Billings is Librarian, will supply shelf room and will bind and catalogue the material so that there shall be no expense to the fraternities other than to furnish the material. It will be subject to reference only and cannot be removed from the library.

It is doubtful if any fraternity has (or needs) a complete file of every fraternity magazine, and yet such a file would be a valuable collection for reference. It is hoped that every fraternity will authorize its librarian to aid in the development of this pan-Hellenic library.

A suggestion for some enthusiastic Delta U. comes from Brother H. W. Hulbert, Middlebury, '79, of Bangor, Maine. He writes: "I wish someone who has the time would take the last edition of "Who's Who in America" and find out how many Delta U's have a place there." Two undergraduates, working together, with a copy of "Who's Who" and the Decennial index, would find this an interesting and profitable study, and the QUARTERLY would be glad to publish the results of their research.

We wish to emphasize to the chapters that there is only one design for the fraternity pin. We have learned that some jewellers are making pins that differ from the officially adopted design in the shape of the letters forming the monogram. The chapters will do well to patronize only the jewellers whose advertisements appear in the QUARTERLY, in order to be certain of the correct design. There are enough to insure competitive prices.

Two of our Rhodes scholars, Ralph H. Bevan, Brown, '04, and William C. Crittenden, California, 05, have achieved the distinction of securing their degree in two years instead of three years allotted for scholarship.

Vermont has elected a Delta U. to the governor's chair, Brother Fletcher D. Proctor, Amherst, '82, son of U. S. Senator Redfield Proctor, one of our few honorary members. New York wants either Charles E. Hughes or District Attorney Jerome for governor.

Some of the alumni correspondents of the chapters are doing yeoman's service in supplying news, jogging the memory of the chapter editor and securing alumni subscriptions—and some are not.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the assassination of President James A. Garfield, Williams, '54, occurred September 19th, which was marked by commemorative exercises in various parts of the country. The memory of a loyal brother is honored by Delta U's everywhere.

SOME DELTA UPSILON SONG WRITERS

SEEING DELTA U. FROM THE TOP OF THE SONG WAGON.

A Personally Conducted Tour by William O. Miller, Pennsylvania, '04, Editor.

The Song Wagon's done; a spoke in the wheel from every Delta U. college; slicked up; greased; given a final coat of paint; and ready for its first jaunt among the chapters. The Wagon recently had a trial spin with the venerable Executive Council on board, and when they finally lit on prosaic ground again they were totally winded—played out in "whoopin' 'er up for Delta U."

Taking the songs as they come, from Brother Sheldon's stately "Ode," which, by common consent, has been decreed first place, right through to the baby chapter's own college song, that modestly takes the rear seat, every song in the book is packed with the best brand of fraternal and college sentiment.

Bre'r Joel B. Slocum, Colby, '93, now a perennial Baptist preacher out in Ohio, shakes his clerical togs long enough to hum over "Dixie" and build a corking song, beginning > "In Fresimen days I beheld a maiden,

> And my heart got heavy laden,
> Look away! Look away! Look away! Delta U!
> To Delta U. I made surrender;
> She's my love and I'll defend her—
> Look away! Look away! Look away! Delta U!"

And he's written several others just as good. By the way, Brother Slocum is the perpetrator of that unearthly "he dikaia" yell. He has generously provided a free translation of the yell to go with every song book.

Turning over a page, we find Phil B. Goetz, Harvard, '93, who, you remember, is slated to do the convention poet stunt this year. His "Hymn" has all the stateliness of rhythm for which his verse is justly getting famous.

Certainly, we couldn't get far afield before we'd run across one of Henry D. Gray's fragrant fraternal posies. Henry D. came out of Colgate in '97 and nowadays is sowing the seeds of literary wisdom among Delta U's at Stanford. His songs have a tone of lofty exultation about them that make you glad you're a Delta U. I'll bet my Sunday hat Gray's a man in whose life Delta U. ideals have been a real factor, his lines bristle so with all that is fraternally best.

Right here let me tell you to get acquainted with Edmund Hardy, of Toronto, '03. He carries a "Mus. Bac." about with him, but that needn't deter you. With him it means "Born a Musician." The inspiring melody that he has set to the ringing words of his fellow-Torontonian, McNairn,

'99, "Stand To-night at the Forge," make you want to roll up your sleeves and shout, "God Save Ireland!" or any other of the United States. Brother Hardy has joined hands across the sea with Ellis J. Thomas, Williams, '88, but more recently London, England, and between them the "Rushing Song" and "Halls of Delta U." have been evolved into rattling songs that you won't get over singing. This Delta U. song-microbe will start an epidemic in about a month.

With his other hand, Brother Thomas has written "Where You'll Find a Delta U.," that is filled full, pressed down, shaken together, and then running over with fraternal whoop hurrah! Brother Lewis M. Isaacs, New York, '97, broke away from his law books long enough to immortalize these words in melody. When the song was first played over for the Executive Council, every blessed member, even to President Hall and Brother Fairbanks, hit up the chorus like a lot of Princeton Freshmen. (And when the Council is able to articulate a song, you know the composer has delivered the goods.)

Archer B. Hulbert, Marietta, '95, writes a toast, "Beneath the Gold and Blue," dedicated to a pair of engaging blue eyes and locks of similarly engaging golden hair, possessed (so we are informed by reliable third parties) by a Kappa Kappa Gamma. Laudable! Anyway, Hulbert links his love for Delta U. and his—er—admiration for Kappa Kappa most happily. "By" Reed, '06, Union's John Philip Sousa, has done the rest. If Reed is the kind shaken by the wind, it has not been an ill-blow for Delta U. His "March," which is in the song book, fills the long-felt want on chapter dance programs. His namesake, Perry Reed, DePauw, '07, stands beside him, luring fair waltzers onto the floor with his seductive passages. These two dance pieces will be immensely popular.

Middlebury, the center of the stage this fall, also has a flock of songbirds. We landed Stone, '99, for two—"You see we couldn't help it, for he's a son of old Delta U.," as he says. C. Day Noble, who looks back to '64 as his realizing year at Middlebury, is represented by "Vive La Delta U.," a stayer for all time.

It's a long leap from '64 to '02, and a longer one from Middlebury to Stanford, but it's worth it. Have you ever heard the songster of the Western slope? We've got him, and you'll find him intrenched at the sign of "There's a Freshman." Fletcher B. Wagner has written many a song for the Pacific Coast boys, and it will be hard to beat his clever words to "Goodbye, Dolly Gray."

For originality and quaintness, John Stevens Briggs, who boasts Rochester, '90, will be in the running with anyone. Ever come across his "Mythology Made to Order"? It's 3-ply clever. Here are the first two stanzas (and they get better as you go along):

"Back in the mythologic days, at Jove's supreme command.
The gods convened in solemn state, a bright and glorious band.
The letters of the ancient Greeks were studied o'er with zest,
And 'Delta' fair and 'Upsilon' were counted in as best.

To find the noblest sentiment the Grecian language knew,
All the celestial lexicons were hunted thro' and thro'.
It soon was found, and Jove announced, as soon as all was still,
That 'Dikaia Upotheke' was the one that filled the bill.'

When you sing Brother Isaacs' music for it, you almost hear the rattling of the "deus ex machina" up near the temple roof. And Brother Briggs has written five others just as good. Everyone ought to know his "'Neath Our Old Fraternal Banner" by heart.

M. Casewell Heine, McGill, '98, establishes international brotherhood in his "Men of Delta U.," set to "America," or "God Save the King."

It seems a long time ago that Arthur C. Perry, New York, '92, wrote his bunch of clever paradies, but one of these, unearthed by the midnight-oil-consuming editor of the QUARTERLY, has been resuscitated, and promises to be a lively youngster for the rest of its days. Mr. Sydney Thomson, one of the host of sympathetic friends whom Delta U. is proud to claim, has dressed this "Rush, Rush, That's the Cue," in a musical garb of most exquisite and appealing fashion.

Rutgers shows up strong in Kilmer's gruesome-sounding "Down Among the Dead men," which prophesies a just fate for anyone remiss in granting Delta U. the bald-headed row in the theater of his affections. A song for Alumni comes from Haring, '81.

Well, well, here we aren't a quarter through the book, and Brother Goldsmith is ringing the bell on us for the last lap. And the wagon's good for many a clip more!

If we can't see all, this time, we can at least get a glimpse of what's left. There are the songs of Walter W. Drew, Michigan, '96, whose coals of inspiration were snatched from a red-hot altar. There's that quartette of Colgate minnesingers, who travel with Gray, —— Brownell, Fulton, Grove and Fosdick. Colgate crosses the wire first for numbers, having ten songs to her credit.

In all there are 26 chapters represented in the table of contents, while Technology has reason to be proud of the cover-design of Vonnegut, '06. The portion of the book given up to the one leading song of the Delta U. colleges is exceeding our fondest hopes. The college seal reproduced at the head of each song illuminates the song in a most attractive way, and has an independent interest. The drawn title-page, as well as several other art features, is full of interest and artistic merit. The fac-simile reproduction of the title-page of the first Delta U. song book, published just 40 years ago, links the present with the generations gone before.

And the half has not yet been told!

* * * * * * * *

Standing at a distance and looking at the Song Wagon, the first impression one gains is of its strength and the uniformity of its lines. The workmanship shows that Delta U. craftsmen of to-day, whether apprentices or graduated into the class of journeymen, have not diminished in skill, nor have their tools lost in edge or brightness. The standard, or ideal, of workmanship has not been departed from.

It has been of absorbing interest to the editor to watch whether present-day writers would be inspired by the old cry, or whether "Dikaia Upotheke" was a crumbled foundation, revered because a venerable ruin. There has been no defalcation. Truth, Justice and Honor still abide as the trinity on the throne. The fresh songs not only celebrate an honorable past, but invariably sound an exhilarating challenge to carry the battle into the future.

Songs of fellowship are not wanting; there are rollicking banquet songs, keeping time to the tinkling of glasses freshly drained; marching songs making rhythmic the tramp of noisy feet; songs for the great convention assemblages; songs for a quiet Sabbath hour or to soothe a breaking heart in the presence of death.

There is a song responsive to every emotion in the wide gamut of human experience. And when the book is closed it will be possible to say that within its boards some of the noblest and broadest expressions of fraternal sentiment have been voiced by earnest and loyal Delta U's.

The Delta U Song Book will be in circulation before the annual convention. It can be ordered from W. O. Miller, University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, or from Edson S. Harris, Secretary of the Executive Council. The cost will be $1.50 postpaid.

APPRECIATION THE BEST ENCOURAGEMENT.

WITHOUT the encouragement of appreciation the editor of a fraternity magazine would soon lose heart. But the efforts of the editor have not lacked appreciation. It is hardly correct, however, to say "editor" as the Executive Council constitutes the editorial board and their deputy is only a "near-editor," with the term "managing" prefixed to the more august title. This means that he manages the editorial board. After his graduation from the school of fraternity journalism he expects to receive the degree of "M. E.".

The alumni occasionally take the trouble to express an opinion of the QUARTERLY when paying their subscriptions, and some of these comments are now published for the encouragement of others as well as the editors and the M. E. (That stands for Money Extractor.)

"I am exceedingly proud of the magazine, especially in its splendid new cover. I am glad to see that you are progressing."—Robert Valentine Mathews, Columbia, '95.

"I had no idea that our fraternity had so thoroughly good a magazine as this; I tender my check for a year's subscription and my appreciation of your own good work on this line."—J. W. Van Doorn, Adelbert, '89.

"It is a fine QUARTERLY. You are doing a splendid work."—James Quayle Dealey, Brown, '90.

"Allow me to congratulate you upon the fine QUARTERLY you are getting out."—Wm. H. Turner, Michigan, '84.

"The Convention QUARTERLY has just arrived and I wish to compliment you on its appearance. The cover especially is very handsome."—Herbert G. Rich, Cornell, '94.

"The magazine is fine—except the cover—do not fancy the green. The fraternity colors were better."—Stacey R. Warburton, Brown, '98.

"I like its appearance both inside and out very much, and I congratulate you upon the issue of such a good looking number. I think the cover design is a very great improvement over the former one."—James M. Gilchrist, Cornell, '00.

"My compliments on your last issue; it is most interesting throughout and has raised the high standard of our editor another peg. The next time you change the color of the cover why not make it blue, and retaining the present gold lettering form the fraternity colors."—W. C. Klotz, Toronto, '02.

"The new green cover is a peach. You can't beat it. Don't attempt it by changing to blue. You'll spoil it. That's all."—John P. Broomell, Swarthmore, '99.

"The new cover is so far ahead of the old as to defy comparison. The whole thing is just about as good as the cover. Don't remember so much life and snap in any previous issue."—Earle C. Anderson, Northwestern, '04.

"The green cover is abominable. The old cover was far superior to it. The contents are usually good. Why not keep up the 'Greek Gossip' in better shape. A little less daily paper rot would be an improvement." —Mel. T. Cook, DePauw, '94.

"The QUARTERLY is O. K., newsy and no long articles. Plenty of Delta U. enthusiasm."—Mel T. Cook, DePauw, '94.

"It is a great pleasure to get the QUARTERLY. It keeps one in touch with college and fraternity events that we would never hear of otherwise." —Geo. R. Pirie, Toronto, '01.

"The QUARTERLY is all right as a record, but it is absolutely valueless as news. The first reform in making it effective must be to change it to a monthly. This would require an enormous amount of work on the part of the editor and his associates, but it is one of the things we will simply have to do. I believe it not only can be done but that if it is done we will immediately find more interest in the magazine, and that it can be put on a paying basis. In spite of the large amount of work now put on the QUARTERLY it has absolutely no value as a medium by which the members of the fraternity can be posted as to what the fraternity is doing. Of course I realize the difficulties in starting a monthly, but some of us must see that they are overcome. I personally will be glad to offer my service toward helping to accomplish this."—Wm. J. Norton, Cornell, '02.

"The QUARTERLY reads too much like the 'War Cry.' Green is all right to freshen up grass, an Irishman's heart and things like that, but I do not think that the analogy can be stretched to magazine covers."— Ralph E. Hemstreet, Cornell, '00.

"I have been intending for a long time to write you concerning the satisfaction you have been giving to us alumni in the QUARTERLY. It is certainly wonderfully improved. I look forward to receiving it with interest and wish to congratulate the fraternity and thank you for your part in giving us such a readable journal."—Wm. Seaman Bainbridge, M. D., Columbia, '93.

"Allow me to compliment you on its well sustained excellence and the enterprise with which you look after its interests."—Richard E. Day, Syracuse, '77.

"I like the QUARTERLY, every number of which is worth the dollar." —A. C. Heath, Colgate, '79.

"A continued change for the better has made our magazine a necessity instead of a luxury."—Albert Pfaus, New York, '93.

"It gives me pleasure to commend the improved appearance of the QUARTERLY, but the improvement of the inside is the best part of it."—J. C. Litzenberg, Minnesota, '94.

"December number is most excellent. It has grown beyond the dimensions of a trade catalogue and is worthy of a place with real magazines. I have not yet read all the good things in it."—Albert Warren Ferris, M. D., New York, '78.

"Here's my dollar for subscription beginning December, 1905. It's a fine number."—Ralph W. Brokaw, Rutgers, '74.

"You are certainly to be complimented upon the character of the QUARTERLY and all Delta U's to be congratulated upon possessing so excellent a journal."—Edw. B. Angell, Rochester, '77.

"I have enjoyed reading it through. No. 1, 1905, presents a handsome appearance and is extremely interesting."—Prof. Ira W. Allen, I.L. D., Hamilton, '50.

"Permit me to express my appreciation. Certainly you have put these last numbers out in especially attractive form."—Dean C. Mathews, Adelbert, '00.

"The QUARTERLY seems to me better than ever and you are to be congratulated. I realize that my point of view is different from that of the undergraduates and I wonder sometimes if in making it so good for us alumni, it is also getting better for the undergraduates."—Chas. E. Pattison, Rutgers, '84.

"We enclose check to your order for payment of subscriptions. You know what our opinion of the QUARTERLY is."—Patterson & Shaw, Columbia, '92 and '94. ...

"The December QUARTERLY just received. It is a fine number and interesting and readable as a novel."—Melvin G. Dodge, Hamilton, '90.

"Am much pleased with the appearance of the QUARTERLY, and its contents and prompt delivery show good management."—A. D. Phillips, New York, '90.

"I have been 'looking and longing' for the October number of the QUARTERLY, but in vain. Won't you please look up your mailing list and see that my name is put in red ink. I would rather miss any other magazine I take than the QUARTERLY. Please send me October number post haste."—F. M. Scheibley, Lafayette, '98.

"I think that you have made a great success of the magazine, and that it is certainly a vast improvement over what it used to be."—Henry H. Dawson, New York, '81.

"I have enjoyed the QUARTERLY greatly and congratulate you on its tone and contents."—Ellis J. Thomas, Williams, '88.

"The QUARTERLY is mighty good value for the money and I find myself looking forward to the next number as soon as I have finished the last one."—F. L. Lavertu, Bowdoin, '99.

"The special interest is due much to the special men you tell about—Jerome, Ridgway, Hughes."—R. H. Sweetser, Technology, '92.

"The QUARTERLY is O. K. I have no adverse criticism to make."—Melville E. Mead, Wesleyan, '52.

"I have been highly pleased with the QUARTERLY."—John G. Conner, Lafayette, '87.

"The first number of this volume is fine. I compliment you."—Carl W. Scovel, Hamilton, '88.

"The magazine is fine."—Charles Wayland Lisk, Brown, '90.

"The QUARTERLY is surely worth the price enclosed."—Lee Stow Devol, Marietta, '92.

"I congratulate you on the QUARTERLY. It is well edited and is a credit to the fraternity."—John W. Battin, Cornell, '90.

"I wish to congratulate you on the constant improvement of the QUARTERLY."—Owen Moon, Jr., Swarthmore, '94.

"The QUARTERLY is getting better with every issue and I only wish it came oftener."—S. D. Clinton, Nebraska, '02.

"The QUARTERLY is at high-water mark both inside and out."—W. H. Hillman, New York, '81.

"I wish to express my appreciation of the fine QUARTERLY that you are getting out. Its large volume of news, broad-gauge treatment of fraternity questions and handsome appearance make it a welcome guest in our household. By making it what it is you have made every D. U. your debtor."—Shelby M. Singleton, Northwestern, '91.

THE ALUMNI CLUBS.

MILWAUKEE.

THE Milwaukee Delta Upsilon Club held its annual banquet April 14, 1906, with the following attendance:

Rutgers—Cornelius I. Haring, '81. Middlebury—Richard O. Wooster, '95. Wisconsin—Warren D. Tarrant, '90; T. A. Boerner, '89; Willard G. Bleyer, '96; R. J. Willets, '98; G. S. Cassels, '80; W. R. Kremer, '01; P. M. Binzel, '02; W. B. Currie, '03; P. H. Kremer, '06; P. J. Watrous, '06; T. E. Schnitzler, '08; G. G. Blatz, '08; H. H. Karrow, '08.

The banquet was enlivened by many of the old songs, Brother Haring, as usual, acting as chorister and general, all-around interlocutor, and was followed by a social-business session.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Arthur C. Kletzsch, Columbia, '93; Vice-President, Richard O. Wooster, Middlebury, '95; Secretary and Treasurer, W. B. Currie, Wisconsin, '03. In order that the meetings of the club might be put on a more definite basis and at the same time take place at a time when the greatest possible attendance of brothers at the University might be expected, it was resolved that two regular meetings be held each year, to be known as the annual and the semi-annual respectively, the former to take place on the evening of the Thursday immediately preceding Easter, the latter on the evening of the Friday before the opening of the University of Wisconsin.

Brother Wooster spoke of the coming convention at Middlebury, Vt., expatiating upon the natural beauties of the place and surrounding country. It was promptly resolved that if possible the club be officially represented at that convention. To that end Brothers E. H. Bottum, '71, and R. O. Wooster, '95, both from Middlebury, were appointed the delegates of the club. Two "secundi" were authorized in case either or both of these should be unable to attend. As we have another meeting before the date for the convention the two who will actually attend will be definitely known later.

Brother P. M. Binzel, the retiring Secretary and Treasurer, was on the eve of departure for the far West. A resolution was passed expressive of the club's deep appreciation of his ardent interest in and untiring and unselfish efforts on behalf of the club, and of its deep regret at his leaving. Brother Binzel has since left for Goldfield, Nevada, meeting there Brother Lloyd W. Pullen, Wisconsin, '03, who left here several weeks earlier. Brother Haring had in a brilliant quarter of an hour reeled off at his stenographer a new Delta U. hymn, which, luckily, she had been able to catch and assemble, and sundry copies being by him passed around, we were instructed that it was built to go to "America," and we sang it to the edification, no doubt, of the inhabitants of the hotel, and certainly to the delight and approbation of ourselves.

W. B. CURRIE, Wisconsin, '03.

DELTA UPSILON ALUMNI SONG.

C. I. HARING, Rutgers, '81.

Hail Delta Upsilon,
Each faithful, loyal son,
Now sings thy praise;
We praise thy lofty name,
We glorify thy name,
We yield with souls aflame,
Our future days.

"Dikaia" leads our way,
"Dikaia" holds her sway,
"U-po-the-ka."
Thy sceptre guards thy might,
Controls our every fight,
Upholds us in the right,
None can betray.

In early college years
Thy bosom soothed our fears,
Thy honor bound;
Then by thy fost'ring care,
We learned to do and dare,
Courage and strength to spare
At last we found.

You taught us manly arts;
You helped us act our parts;
You were our guide;
Your virtues claim our voice,
We, in thy past rejoice,
The present crowns our choice,
And will abide.

Hail Delta Upsilon,
With all our armor on
We bow to thee.
We feel thy strength within,
To conquer wrong, and win
Our laurels over sin,
Hail, hail to Thee.

THE PENNSYLVANIA BANQUET.

By WILLIAM O. MILLER, Pennsylvania, '04.

THE 18th annual banquet of the Pennsylvania Chapter this year was an occasion that will long live in the memory of those fortunate enough to attend. Heretofore the banquets have been enjoyable affairs to the thirty-odd men who attended, and it was expected that this year's dinner, which was set for the anniversary of the founding of the chapter, would take its place with the rest. In this, however, we reckoned without our chairman, Abrams, '07, who, as a hustler has been a wonder.

The banquet was held at the University Club, and a half hour before the time appointed the faithful began dropping in. When the two anterooms became overcrowded and men gathered in groups in the hallways and more kept arriving hourly, the venerables who have been in the habit of talking about hey-dey of their undergraduate years, sat up and took notice. Here were gray hairs, men garbed in clerical dress, a professor from Princeton, grads from Rutgers, Tech. Swarthmore, New York, Brown, Lehigh, Rochester, Northwestern, many of them faces which had never been seen at a Pennsylvania function.

To cap it all, a half-dozen "early silvering heads" bobbed up and were announced as the charter members of Pennsylvania. Other old alumni, who had long ago seemingly been given passage to that bourne whence men seldom break away, also stole back for a night to live over the days of yore.

Fully eighty men turned up and a superficial inquiry quickly showed that they mostly came because one man had insistently called on them, urging them to attend, and that man was ——— Abrams, '07.

The banquet was a great success, the best Delta U. fellowship prevailed till the small hours, and the enthusiasm of the evening was an inspiration to the men of the active chapter. The most lasting effort of the whole celebration, however, is the realization that has come to the rest of us, of what one man can do for Delta U. who puts his heart into his work. As consistent and dogged a purpose on the part of twenty Pennsylvania Delta U's would build a house there within a year.

An enjoyable feature of the evening was the interchange of telegrams with the New York banquet at which Brothers Jerome and Hughes were being jollied, and the exhibition of the original petition for the Pennsylvania Chapter which one of our chapter men thoughtfully brought. The annual address is hereafter to be a permanent feature of the Philadelphia banquet, and none could have given a more eloquent or inspired talk than did Bro. B. L. Whitman, former president of Columbian University, who spoke on the "Significance of Civic Uprisings." The other toasts were as follows: Dr. Herman V. Ames, Professor of American History at the University; Edson S. Harris, secretary of the Executive Council; Henry Ashton Little, John C. Hinckley, William O. Miller and Frederick S. Foulkrod, after which several other men were called on by Bro. O. Lewis, toastmaster.

MIDDLEBURY.

On June 25 an enthusiastic meeting of Delta U. alumni of Middlebury Chapter was held in the fraternity rooms, and the Middlebury Delta Upsilon Alumni Association was formed, with E. B. Clift, '93, president, and G. W. Eddy, '04, secretary and treasurer.

On the same evening the Delta Upsilon Club of Vermont was formed. F. C. Partridge, Amherst, '82, was elected president and S. B. Botsford, Middlebury, '00, secretary-treasurer. The immediate purpose of these two organizations is to increase interest in the coming Middlebury convention.

A DELTA U. BASEBALL STAR.

JOHN W. Coombs, '06, of the Colby baseball team, of Waterville, Me., has signed as pitcher for the "Athletics," the Philadelphia team of the American League. Coombs is a young giant, weighing close to 200 pounds, and has made a great record as a baseball player and all around athlete among the New England colleges.

During the summer Coombs has been a member of the Montpelier team of the Vermont League. Three years ago Manager Mack offered to sign the Colby man, but he refused to play professional ball, preferring to finish his college course. Coombs is a right-handed pitcher, possesses great speed and is a hard hitter.

Coombs' track athletic work has proved as much value to Colby as his baseball playing. In the big intercollegiate games in Maine in May he won five first places, scoring enough points to win the meet. He ran the hundred yards in 10 1-5 seconds.

ABOUT THE RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS.

The Caduceus of Kappa Sigma, commenting on an article in the Alpha Tau Omega Palm, by a Rhodes scholar says:

Did Cecil Rhodes, when he provided so largely for the Oxford scholarships which bear his name, plan in ignorance of the differences between the systems of education in the various countries which he hoped to bring into closer relations, or in deliberate disregard of these differences? Did he foresee that many of the American scholarships would be held by graduate students? Did he surmise that these might be driven to flock by themselves, as an exchange reports they are doing? Did he know how little attention would be paid in practice to his suggested requirement of athletic ability? In any event, we can hardly doubt that he expected that many years would be required to bring forth the full fruit of his great designs. His spirit will have need of patience.

It is greatly to be regretted if any of the Americans are making the mistake of keeping to themselves. Fearing to make this very error the Delta Upsilon Rhodes Scholars refrained during their first term from forming an alumni club. This was kept in mind when they did organize and they provided only for an annual dinner and a business meeting once a term. It is interesting to note, also, that the twelve Delta Upsilon Rhodes Scholars now at Oxford are divided between eight different colleges.

In an article in The Phi Gamma Delta, "A Fiji Rhodes Scholar at Oxford," by a Tennessee Fiji the difference between the athletic life at Oxford and in the States, and the spirit that pervades it, receive this comment:

This is in the athletic life of the students, and more especially in the spirit that pervades it. The present day is the most critical period in the history of American athletics, and if those who are confronted with the solution of the problem could see the workings of the English system, their position would be much easier. In the first place, there are many more forms of athletics at Oxford than in an ordinary American university. A man has his choice of two kinds of football, rowing, hockey, lacrosse, cricket, tennis, and track work, besides several minor forms, so that every one's taste can be satisfied. Then it must be remembered that while Oxford has over 3,500 students, an attendance smaller than that of our own Harvard and Michigan, these students are scattered among more than twenty colleges, the largest of which has only 325 men. This being the case, every Oxford student can participate in some kind of sport, and there is no evidence of that unfortunate situation in our American universities, where nine-tenths of the students are merely spectators. Every Oxford college has a team in every sport, and among these different colleges there is as much rivalry as between any universities in America. The spirit, however, is essentially different. The American motto is "Win, by fair means or foul, but win." while the Englishman says, "Sport for sport's sake. * * * Above all, there is no professional coaching, and such a thing as "ringers" are undreamed of. What a different sight from the modern American 'varsity football team! * * * To a lover of pure athletics, the sport of Oxford and Cambrdge must seem incomparably superior to the college sport of the United States. * * *

The same article contains a strong appeal to college men that our Delta U. graduates will read with especial interest in view of the fact that we have nine of the seventy-eight Rhodes scholars from the United States, as well as four from Canada.

The next qualifying examinations will be held in January, 1907, and no Fiji of the Rhodes Scholar type should neglect this opportunity to win for himself one of the greatest prizes ever offered to ambitious young men. * * * At present only seventy-eight of the ninety-four scholarships assigned to the United States are filled. Nothing indicates more strikingly the all too prevalent lack of appreciation for the scholarships. The American college world has not yet awakened to its opportunities and responsibilities. I say responsibilities, because, after accepting the scholarships assigned to it, each state should recognize its duty to send its representative every year, and should take great care that he is "representative." Until this duty is discharged, the scholarships can not reap their fullest advantages, and our country must be the loser. So every man that is qualified should do his best to win a Rhodes Scholarship. Not that he will find at Oxford equipment and paraphernalia superior to that which exists in America, but because there is a subtle influence in the atmosphere of the quaint old university that not all the wealth of the multi-millionaires could communicate to a fledgling of their own creation.

It is interesting to note the geographical distribution of Delta Upsilon's Rhodes Scholars. Delta Upsilon has chapters in but fifteen States and two Canadian provinces. In Canada we have one Rhodes Scholar from the Province of Quebec, one from Nova Scotia and two from Ontario. In the United States there are seven states represented by nine scholars: Maine, 1; New Hampshire, 1; Vermont, 1; Massachusetts, 1; Rhode Island, 2; New York, 1; California, 2. New England seems to maintain her traditions, claiming even the Nova Scotia scholar, who is from Harvard. There is a wide gap between California and New York with nine states in which Delta Upsilon should be heard from at the next examinations.

Owing to the death of Mr. C. M. Zener The Phi Gamma Delta editorial pen is wielded by a new hand, Mr. W. A. Wood, whose first experience with his chapters brings out a slashing leader. He writes of:

 * *—the matter of chapter correspondents and the wonderful productions which reach this office from their pens. Evidently, somewhere in the remote past, before times were so busy, some one wrote the first chapter letter, and, bless our souls, it must have been "sui generis." From the outcroppings of rudimentary things which occur in the collection coming each month the first letter was surely written on both sides of the paper; they didn't use capitals in those days nor did they spell out any proper names carefully. Everything in that first letter was taken for granted. Of course, they did not have any such thing as a style then and it is not to be expected any correspondent could have brains enough to grasp what kind of a letter the editor of today would like. Then, too, the editor has plenty of time and nothing else to require any attention, so he can rewrite and respell most of the letters. One of our friends suggests we send out some one-sided paper. We knew of an editor who one time did editorially say, if things did not improve he would send out such paper, when some bright youth calmly wrote in for some. Some editors of fraternity magazines have tried to reform their correspondents. We know better—maybe in time they will evolute. Meanwhile the editor "is doing the best he knows how."

We felt that way, too, six or seven years ago, and we tried to reform the chapter editors. We may have reformed the office, for conditions are certainly different, but the chapter editors have changed often rather than much. Occasionally a new man fails to catch the spirit of his predecessor, but as a whole they are conscientious, loyal and efficient. It may be that the Fiji man, having nearly double the number of chapter editors has twice as much to worry him. But we have regained our optimism.

The cornerstone of the new Alpha Delta Phi Clubhouse that is being erected at 136-138 West Forty-fourth street, was laid yesterday morning in the presence of about 150 members of the fraternity.

The club building is being erected upon a lot, 35 by 100 feet, and will cost, including the land, about $265,000. It will be eight stories high, two stories of which will be used for club purposes and the remaning floors for apartments for members. There will be fifty-seven of these rooms and apartments. It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy in the fall.

The building, which is to be known as the Alpha Delta Phi House, is the first fraternity club building of its kind owned and erected in this country.—New York Times.

Representatives of eight universities met at Chicago April 13 and organized a new Greek letter fraternity, to be composed of those who have acquitted themselves creditably in oratory and debate at intercollegiate contests. Undergraduates as well as alumni will be eligible for membership. It is intended to make the society national in character and form chapters in all universities. The universities represented at the opening session of the conference were Nebraska, Wisconsin, Illinois, Chicago, Iowa, Michigan and Northwestern.

* * * *

The Sigma Chi endowment fund plan has secured to that fraternity in the six years of its working their Cornell, Stanford and Michigan chapter-houses, property aggregating over $60,000 in value, and each year adds to the fund $2,100.—The Rainbow of Delta Tau Delta.

GREEK LETTER MEN AT CHAUTAUQUA.

Delta U's of the Chicago chapter were instrumental in reviving the annual Pan-Hellenic banquet at Chautauqua this summer. Fifty Greek letter men from fourteen fraternities were present. Delta U. led with nine representatives, Bestor, '01, and Parry, '07, responding to toasts.

Parry won the individual championship gold medal of the Chautauqua Athletic Club, winning, at its annual track meet, five firsts: the hammer and discus throws, shot put, high jump, and 120-yard high hurdles. Parry was also one of the pitchers on the baseball team, leading the team in batting with an average of .500.

At the June Convocation it was announced that Fernald had been awarded the competitive scholarship of $300, offered by the Colonial Dames' Society of Illinois for excellence in United States history. This scholarship has been won five times by men; three of these, besides Fernald, have been Delta U's, Bestor, '01, and Nelson, '01, tying in 1900, and Starbird, '03, winning in 1902.

Lemon, '06, received, at graduation, honorable mention in the work of the senior colleges, as well as honored in the department of astronomy.

Judson, '08, has been elected to manage the comic opera for this year, given by the Blackfriars.

CHAPTER LETTERS AND ALUMNI NEWS

Chapter letters for each issue will be due not later than the first of the month preceding the date of issue. They must be typewritten, on one side of the paper only, on paper about 8 in. by 11 in., headed with the name of the chapter and signed by the chapter editor.

At the beginning of each letter state the number of active members in the chapter, and give a full list of all initiates since the previous issue, with full names, home addresses and class year.

Alumni news must be written on a separate sheet, arranged in order of class year, with "vital statistics" separate from news items. Follow the general arrangement of news items in this issue in preparing copy. Leave ample space between lines for clipping.

Alumni correspondents and chapter editors, as well as all alumni, are requested to send news regularly.

As an undergraduate at the college she was immensely popular. Brooks since he left college has been in business in Eureka. The wedding will take place during the Christmas holidays.

CALIFORNIA, '06.—Miss Grace E. Cochrane, of Eureka, Cal., has announced her engagement to L. E. Stern.

CALIFORNIA, '05.—The engagement of Eugene Hallett and Miss Gladys Meyer has been announced.

Miss Meyer is a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, and during her senior year at college just ended was prominently identified with various activities of the woman students, notably as editor of the women's edition of the Pelican, which, under her direction, was enabled to score the greatest hit ever achieved by an individual number of the Pelican.

Mr. Hallett had college honors heaped upon him, having been editor of the Blue and Gold, business manager of the Daily California, editor of the Pelican, president of the senior class, chairman of the rally committee, and other things constituting distinction among the students of the university. The board of regents at the university recently advanced his salary from $100 to $150 a month, after only five months' service in President Wheeler's office.

The engagement announcements of Miss Meyer and Mr. Hallett are printed on a dainty scroll, in the form of a marriage certificate, sealed with a joint seal embodying the letters of Kappa Kappa Gamma and Delta Upsilon, the sorority and fraternity each represents. Beneath the formal announcement is a suggestive quotation from the women's edition of the Pelican, which Miss Meyer edited, this being as follows:

MISCELLANEOUS NEWS.

OUR readers may be interested to know that four nephews of Ralph Voorhees of this town are given a place in the recent edition of "Who's Who in America." They are Edward B. Voorhees, professor of agriculture in Rutgers college; ex-Governor Foster M. Voorhees, of Elizabeth; President David Felmley, of the Illinois State Normal University, of Normal, Ill., and Rev. Oscar M. Voorhees, of High Bridge, secretary and treasurer of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa. They are sons, respectively, of John, Nathaniel, Ellen and Samuel Voorhees, and were all present at the Voorhees family reunion held at High Bridge, N. J., July 11, 1905."—Clinton (N. J.) Democrat, March 20, 1906.

The four men mentioned above are members of Delta Upsilon—ex-Governor Foster M. Voorhees, Rutgers, '76; Prof. Edward B. Voorhees, Rutgers, '81; President David Felmley, Michigan, '81, and Rev. Oscar M. Voorhees, Rutgers, '88. Ralph Voorhees, the uncle, is not a college man, but has been a munificent benefactor of colleges, having given the Voorhees Library to Rutgers, Voorhees Hall to Carroll College, Waukesha, Wis.; the chapel to Maryville College, Maryville, Tenn., and girls' dormitories to Huron, S. D., and Hope College, Holland, Mich. He has also endowed the Elizabeth Voorhees College at Vellore, India.

Participating in the twelfth annual meeting of the Lake Mohawk Conference on International Arbitration were Bartlett Tripp, Colby, '61, ex-minister to Austria; Frank C. Partridge, Amherst '82, ex-minister to Venezuela; W. H. P. Faunce, Brown, '80, of Brown University, and Prof. E. C. Moore, Marietta, '77, of Harvard University.

ADELBERT.

Active Membership, 19.

ADELBERT Chapter expects every man who was in school last year to be back this fall. This will give us an unusually good bunch to start our fall rushing with. Besides, we already have several good men pledged and the rushing season will not be so very burdensome.

As none of our men graduated last spring, we have little to say regarding commencement. The only man who participated was D. Handyside, who gained a prize in the Junior-Sophomore oratorical contest.

Two professors whom many a grad. will remember with varied feelings, will be missing from college when it opens this fall. Prof. Morley, well known in the scientific world, and Prof. Potwin, whose English courses have always been popular, have been pensioned by the Carnegie Pension Fund.

In athletics last spring the baseball team, on which there were four Delta U. men, made an excellent showing, as did also the track team. However, the most important affair in the athletics of the coming year will be the inauguration of the new Six Six rules. By barring all men holding degrees these rules deprive Reserve of many athletes among the Medics, Dents and Laws. The Freshman rule will also keep many good men out of athletics for a year at least. Besides, several of our athletes in the Senior class go to Case next year, so it is evident that old Reserve will be in pretty bad shape for the coming year at least. These new rules are, probably, a harder blow to Reserve than they are to any of the other Six Six schools, and they limit the number of men from which we can choose our teams to less than two hundred.

In general college affairs, all we have to mention is the election of Brother Handyside to the treasurership of the Y. M. C. A., an office which has been held by the treasurer of the university in the past.

Last year we enjoyed a visit from Brother Leavitt, the District President, who gave us a very interesting talk on general fraternity affairs. We would greatly appreciate a visit

Adelbert chapter extends a hearty good will to all the chapters.

AMHERST.

Active Membership, 20.

AMHERST has held its own this last year in athletics.

The college has grown in numbers, and in proportion to the numbers the scholarship of the college has also grown.

In the different college activities, Delta Upsilon has taken its part. On the football team we had Lewis, '06, asd Osborne, '07. Bridgman, '06, was manager of the track team and Thayer, '06, was on the team.

Delta U. was represented on the glee clubs by Howe, '06, Bridgman, '06, and H. L. Smith, '09. Lewis and Bridgman were on the Scarab, the Senior honorary society.

The college dramatics were fine this year. "The Rivals" was the play given. Bro. Howe was chairman of the committee. Bro. Hall was manager, and Hall, Lewis and Haller were in the cast.

Commencement caused a loss of nine strong men. Delta U. was represented by Bros. Hall and Glasgow for the Bond prize, which was won by Bro. Glasgow. Bro. Hall was also ivy orator. Bro. Carter was on the Hardy Eight and Hyde Six.

Among the class officers, Bro. Howe was on the Senior Promenade Committee and Committee of Committees. He was also chairman of the Class Book Committee. Bro. Hall was on the Class Day Committee, Bro. Pethybridge on the Programme Committee and Bro. Bridgman was Prophet of Prophets.

Among the new Seniors, Bro. Osborne made the Scarab, and Bro. Palmer made Phi Beta Kappa in junior year.

Bro. Haller represented 1908 on the Kellogg Prize Speaking Contest, which he won.

At the commencement the alumni of the Amherst chapter formed an association.

The chapter house has been repaired and is in fine shape.

We have two men pledged for our 1910 delegation and everything points towards a prosperous year for Delta Upsilon.

'82.—District Attorney William Travers Jerome is being pushed by conservative Democrats as candidate for the nomination for governor of New York. He announced his willingness to accept in these words:

"In the present shameful condition of our political life in this state I am willing to run for the office of Governor of the state if the Democratic convention shall nominate me without any understanding, other than that, if elected, I shall obey my oath of office as I understand it, in letter and spirit.

"'WILLIAM TRAVERS JEROME.'"

'82.—Fletcher D. Proctor, son of U. S. Senator Redfield Proctor, Middlebury, Hon., was nominated by acclamation for governor of Vermont at the Republican state convention at Montpelier, Vt., June 20. On September 4 he was elected by a large majority.

'82.—Edward C. Potter was one of five sculptors honored by election to active membership in the Amalgamated Societies of the National Academy of Design and the American Artists' Society, with the right to use the letters "N. A." after their names.

'83—Four hundred Americans celebrated the Fourth of July by an excursion on the River Spree to Grunau, where there were a baseball game and other sports. Dinner was served in a large grove, where the excursionists were addressed by Mr. A. D. Noyes, of New York. The celebration, which is an annual feature of American life in Berlin, had the largest attendance of any of the series.

'86—R. A. Woods is author of an article on Democracy in a volume of "Statistics in Philosophy and Psychology," published by thirteen of the former students of Prof. Charles E. Gorman, of Amherst.

'90—Trumbull White became editor of Appleton's Magazine in May, 1906. He had been editor of the "Red Book" of Chicago, which he brought to quick prosperity. Born in Iowa, educated at Amherst, he became city editor of the "Review" of Decatur, Ill., at the age of 21. The following year he became editor and publisher of the "Call" at Evansville, Ind. In 1891 he went to Chicago, joining the staff of the "News" and the "Times." From 1894 to 1901 he was editorial writer and foreign correspondent of the "Record" and traveled in Mexico, Hawaii, Samoa, New Zealand and Australia. He went through the campaigns of 1898 in Cuba and Puerto Rico as war correspondent. The following year he made a tour of the Russian Empire and Central Asia, crossed Siberia by railway and traveled in Manchuria, Korea and Japan.

BOWDOIN.

Active Membership, 24.

THE college year not commencing until the last of September does not allow much in the line of news, but the chapter has every reason to believe that the coming year will be most successful.

The head coach of football and the first assistant are both Delta U's from the Bowdoin chapter. Bro. Laferrier has had five years of successful coaching at Hebron Academy, and has had the satisfaction of developing a team that outside of being beaten by college teams has a clean record. Bro. Bean was captain of the Varsity during his Senior year, proving to be a natural leader. We expect great results from the hands of these two brothers. It should be said that the chapter has two members on the Varsity, Bros. Blair and Stacey, and has great hopes of adding two more. As fairness only will be used in selecting the Varsity of the year we know that Bowdoin is going to have the best team that is possible from the material at hand.

The chapter is about to begin its second year in the new chapter house. We feel that having a home to go to helps develop a man in a way that dormitory life never will. Much has been said lately in print of the evil that Greek letter societies do to a college, college spirit being interfered with and interest centered in the "frat." We are constantly hearing men from other colleges saying, "You Bowdoin men don't enthuse over your "frats" the way we do at ——." We don't want to get the name of it. President Hyde in his report to the trustees at commencement said that the fraternities and their houses were a benefit to Bowdoin. That is the strongest recommendation that any Bowdoin man wants for the system of fraternities in vogue here.

Petty jealousies are unknown. Constant intervisiting is going on. In fact, we think that we have a very fine system, aside from the fact that we pledge men sometimes two years ahead of their entering college. All of the fraternities would like to do away with this custom, but none dare to make the step. We hope that it will be taken in the near future.

BROWN.

ALL the excitement of the last days of college is over and the brothers are scattered far and wide. Some have been fortunate enough to be able to take long vacations, but many will work for the greater part of the summer. Bro. Whitenack, '06, is traveling with the Indian prince who is studying sociological conditions in this country. He is to help the prince in the composition of a book from the results of his studies. Bro. Tucker, '06, is the purser on one of the Narragansett Bay steamers, and Bro. Sinclair, '07, is at the Newport ticket office of the Bay line. Bro. Reynolds, '07, who is taking an engineering course, is working on the new terminal of the Pennsylvania road in New York.

May was the month of prize speaking contests and debates. The Gaston prize for excellence in oratory, open to members of the Senior class, was won by Bro. Barbour, '06, an honor which entitled him to deliver his oration on "Ideals in Toleration" at commencement, where it received marked attention. Bro. Sinclair, '07, won the second prize in the Carpenter prize speaking contest between the Junior and Sophomore classes.

Our track season in May was a little more exciting than usual, although we won but second place in the New England intercollegiate meet at Brookline. Bro. Tucker, '06, was responsible for ten points, winning first place on both the mile and two-mile runs. Bro. Gallup, '07, won third place in the two-mile.

Baseball, however, claimed the major part of our enthusiasm. We finished pretty well toward the top of the heap, beating Yale twice and splitting even with Harvard, Princeton and Pennsylvania. Losing a game with Dartmouth, 0-1, and coming off next time 4-4 in a ten-inning game, were great disappointments. A few weeks before college closed the Phi Beta Kappa elections were announced. Bro. Hurley, '07, was fortunate enough to win the coveted honor. About examination time Bro. Hurley received another honor in being elected to the presidency of the debating union. Bro. Dennett, '07, was made one of the Executive Committee. Bro. Dennett was a member of the team which defeated Dartmouth this winter in our triangular debating club with Dartmouth and Williams. Bro. Hurley was captain of the team which defeated Williams. Both of these brothers had the additional honor of being elected to the honorary Senior society, the Cammarian Club.

The Liber Bruneusis, the college annual, came out just before examinations and proved to be one of the best in years. Bro. Gurney, '07, is to be managing editor of next year's publication.

Altogether our next year's delegation is a good one, for beside the number of '07 men already mentioned, Bro. Reynolds of that class is to be basket ball captain for next year.

The usual stormy Monday greeted the class of 1906 on class day, the eighteenth, but the next day proved to be the right one. Delta U. entertained at the chapter house on Tuesday afternoon, and had a stand on the campus for the friends of the chapter during the evening illumination.

The Brown commencement was very interesting to us this year, for two alumni brothers and a prominent clergyman of this city, a brother from Harvard, received honorary degrees from the old college. Bro. Winslow Upton, '75, for some time our professor of astronomy here, was honored by the degree of doctor of science; Bro. Augustus M. Lord, Harvard, '83, received the red hood of doctor of divinity; Bro. Charles E. Hughes, '81, was made a doctor of laws. The old meeting house was crowded; for, beside the honorary degree conferred on the great insurance investigator, the New Jersey reformer, Everett Colby, received a master of arts.

The most important change which has affected the college was the ruling in regard to summer baseball playing. The faculty, finding they were unable to deal adequately with the question of eligibility, turned their authority over to a committee of representative students, none of them to be a member of any team. The faculty, before taking such radical action, raised the standard of scholarship necessary for eligibility and reduced the number of "cuts" to be taken by members of the various teams while away on trips, and, most important of all, made the requirement that all rules should be subject to the approval of the faculty, and that no new rule should go into effect until the beginning of the college year following its adoption. These rules materially reduce the power vested in the student body, which seems very large on first thought. After mature deliberation, the committee of undergraduates decided to co-operate with the faculty, so the new rules go into effect in September. We think it much better to openly countenance summer ball playing on any but National league teams than to be on the fence, paying the men in some underhanded fashion for coming to college purely for athletics. Moreover, since no Freshman or graduate student will be allowed to play, we think few men would come for a whole year before playing on a team unless they came to college for its own sake.

As regards football this fall, the candidates return early in September to get used to the new rules. Bro. Conklin, '08, expects to return, and we hope will fill center as creditably as he did last year. We meet Dartmouth, our old-time rival, in Boston this year, and we would give anything to turn the tables on her, for the series is tied.

The rushing season will begin as soon as college opens on September nineteenth. Bro. Swaffield's brother has pledged to us already, and others will join our ranks to make the usual quota of promising Freshmen.

'70—William Thane Peck, principal of the classical High school of Providence, R. I., is one of four new trustees of Brown University.

'75.—Prof. Winslow Upton, of Brown University, has received the degree of D. Sc. from Brown University.

'81—Charles E. Hughes received the degree of LL. D. from Brown University June 20. He has been selected by the Attorney General of New York to assist him in preparing the case for the people in the test of the bill providing for 80-cent gas in New York City. His speech on "Corporate Management," given at the banquet of the National Association of American Industries in May, was reported in full in "American Industries" for June 1. At a dinner given May 22 at which he was the guest of the Life Underwriters' Association of New York, he made a straight-from-the-shoulder speech on the necessity for the reform life insurance legislation. A complimentary dinner was given him at the University Club, Providence, R. I., on June 20.

Some of the trustees of the Mutual Life are eager to secure Charles E. Hughes for president of the company. He has been warmly endorsed for District Attorney for the Southern district of New York.

While Bro. Hughes was in Europe with his son, Charles E, Jr., Brown, '09, it was announced by State Chairman Odell that his candidate for Governor of New York was Charles E. Hughes. The latter, on his return, stated that the use of his name was not authorized. It is certain that he can have the Republican nomination and equally certain that he will not accept it from any faction of the party, but only as a unanimous call.

'86—Dr. D. H. Fuller, resident physician at Adams' Marine Asylum, Jamaica Plain, Mass., sailed in July on the Romanic for Gibraltar and Genoa. He will make a three months' trip through Italy and Switzerland.

From the study of the Rev. Henry W. Pinkham, Brown, '88, in Denver to the library of Joseph E. Chase of Holyoke, Mass., is quite a distance, but for more than a year now these two enthusiastic chess players have been waging a battle by correspondence. Sixty-two moves already have been made.

Mr. Pinkham is pastor of the Bethany Methodist Church, Denver. After more than a year of steady playing Mr. Pinkham confesses that he "can now see his finish." He believes that in one or two more moves he will be checkmated. The games are being recorded on pocket chessboards, about the size of one's hand.

Co., which operates and connects about 200 miles of city and suburban electric railroad west of Chicago. He is to have charge of unifying the power and light work of the company, with the title of illuminating electrical engineer.

'04—Ralph H. Bevan, Rhodes scholar, has secured his degree of bachelor of civic laws in two years instead of three. He rowed in the Worcester eight which won the Oxford races.

ALTHOUGH last semester was abruptly and dreadfully ended by the earthquake, most of us are back again and doing better than we have ever done before.

We opened our new chapter house a full week before the semester opened and immediately began a campaign of rushing which has landed us the pick of the college. Never before have we been so successful in our rushing and never before have our prospects been so good.

Along with our material prosperity, we are still keeping up our reputation in the line of "prominent men." Bros. Warner and Hartley are prominent Senior class men. Bro. Hartley is captain of the cadets and Bro. Warner has been manager of the college comic paper, the "Pelican." Bro. Wilcox is a fast 440 man. Bro. Phinney is prominent in class politics and dramatics, and Bro. Stern in boating.

But what counts for more than college honors is unity and good will among the fellows. Our new chapter house acts as a unit around which we all gather. It has bred into us congeniality and unity of ideals, which go towards making a fraternity, a real fraternity of brotherly love and community of interests.

Delta U. of California sends her best wishes to all the chapters, and any Delta U. straying as far West as Berkeley will find a warm welcome at Delta Upsilon Lodge.

'96—A. W. North, an attorney of Woodland, brother of Hart H. North, Commissioner of Immigration in San Francisco, recently returned from a long and arduous trip throughout the length and breadth of Lower California.

Having been advised by his physicians to take an extended outing for his health, North outfitted in the southern part of the state with pack mules, and crossing the boundary line on December 21st, traveled 1,800 miles before he reached Cape San Lucas, at the southern extremity of the peninsula.

He crossed the barren territory from ocean to gulf nine times on the trip, part of the time alone, sometimes accompanied by Mexican guides, and visiting on the way twenty-one old missions. Some of these were practically unknown, so remote and inaccessible were they.

For a stretch of six weeks, in the central part of the peninsula, North was unable to find anybody who could speak English. He was everywhere treated with the greatest hospitality by the Mexicans. DURING the summer, five of the Chicago chapter—Webb, '06, Davis, ex-'07, Moulds, George Fuller, and Ulrich—have been attending the summer session of the University, Webb graduating from the law school at the close of the quarter. Moulds was appointed by the President acting-head-marshal for the summer quarter. Webb also served as marshal.

Hughes, '06, Markham, ex-'06, engaged in business in Chicago, have been living at the house, and will be found there during the coming year.

At the Western Intercollegiate Conference meet at Evanston in June, Parry, Varisty track captain, won the hammer throw, and came second, by inches, to Garrels of Michigan in the discus throw. In the latter event he broke his own University record with a mark of 136 feet 6½ inches. In the dual meet with Wisconsin he also broke his own University record—as well as the western intercollegiate record—in the hammer throw, throwing the sixteen pound weight 161 feet 10½ inches.

Russell won his "C" for the first time in track this year, although he had won it in the fall as a member of the championship football team. He has been elected to captain the 1907 track team.

Taylor proved an individual star in the Junior Day track meet of the various colleges of the University.

Bowman and Coyne were also point-winners for their colleges.

At the June Convocation it was announced that Fernald had been awarded the competitive scholarship of $300, offered by the Colonial Dames Society of Illinois for excellence in United States history. This scholarship has been won five times by men; three of these, besides Fernald, have been Delta U's, Bestor, and Nelson, '01, tying in 1900, and Starbird, '03, winning in 1902.

Lemon, '06, received, at graduation, honorable mention in the work of the senior colleges, as well as honors in the department of astronomy.

Hebberd, who won his secondary "C" as a member of the intercollegiate golf team last spring, and is captain-elect of the golf team for next year, won his way into the semi-finals in the contest for the individual cup of the Homewood Club. He has also been playing as a member of the Weaton Club.

On the football team this fall the chapter is represented by two from the championship team of 1905, Parry and Russell. The new Conference ruling shuts out, for this fall, Taylor, who will, however, be eligible for track in the spring. Captain Russell, ex-captain Parry, and Taylor are expected to have a general monopoly on the weight events in winter and spring track. Bro.-to-be Blair will be the dash man of the freshman team, not being eligible, under the new ruling, for track until 1908. Bro.-to-be Weddell is also a dash man and broad jumper who will be ineligible, having competed at Denison last year, winning his "D".

Moulds is a member of the Owl and Serpent, the senior honor society; Harvey Fuller, of the Order of the Iron Mask, the junior society; Hebberd and Taylor, of Skull and Crescent, and Welling and Kennedy, of Score Club, the sophomore societies.

On student publications the chapter is well represented. Fernald is athletic editor of the Daily Maroon, and associate editor of the Monthly Maroon. Harvey Fuller is art editor of the Monthly and reporter on the Daily. George Fuller is business manager of the Daily.

Bro.-to-be Henderson won the gold medal of the Cook County Oratorical League in June, and was a member of the Englewood high school debating team which won the championship of Cook County shorty afterward. He also came second in the state contest at the University of Illinois.

Bruce, '06, goes to Harvard Law School. Talcott leaves college to go into business in Englewood.

By graduation or withdrawal the chapter loses seven members. In spite of this, the Chicago chapter is now as strong as it has ever been, and with the return of its underclassmen and the addition of strong freshman there is every reason to believe that it will hold and add to the prestige and honor of the past five years.

Alumni News.

'01—Arthur E. Bestor, secretary of the Alumni Association of the university, has just issued a book of alumni statistics that has startled the college authorities. Statistics which tend to show that the University of Chicago is producing old maids and dealing an indirect blow to the stork, and that the higher education is a stumblingblock to matrimony. His books shows that of the 1,060 girls who have been graduated from the university since 1893 only 171 have been married. The percentage of women graduates who have married is about 16½. The statistics of Mr. Bestor also show that about 50 per cent of the women who have been graduated have taken up teaching. The average age of the women graduates has been close to 28, while the age of the men has been below this.

Havana, Cuba.

AS we enter on the 22nd year of Delta Upsilon at Columbia, the same enthusiasm and success that attended the founding of the chapter are apparent. The chapter has come of age in its own house. By the efforts of the Alumni Association, the four-story building at No. 558 West 113th street, near Broadway, was purchased in June. What this means for future progress can only be appreciated by the alumni who have been with the chapter in all its changing locations. The transaction was the result of several years' agitation, especial credit being due to Bro. Leonard D. White, '87; Charles L. Eidlitz, '88; R. A. Matthews, '95; Joseph Van Vleck, '96; H. D. Brown, '95; Everett W. Gould, '96; Goldwin Goldsmith, '96, and John Patterson, '92, the chairman, who furnished or secured the necessary financial backing. Exceptional opportunities for rushing are presented by our beginning the year in a good house just a block from the campus. Phi Delta Theta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Phi Kappa Sigma, however, occupy houses right around us, while Alpha Delta Phi and Delta Kappa Epsilon are across Broadway.

A pleasant and successful commencement closed the 152nd year of the university. Every one of the various functions was well attended, and the enlargement of the usual commencement program gave much satisfaction. At the class day exercises Bro. Essex delivered the class history. By planting the class ivy at the Chapel, the class of 1906 linked a new custom with the most recently constructed building. Among the Delta U's receiving degrees were W. L. Essex, A. B.; C. M. Haight, E. M.; C. S. Fettretch, E. E.; G. J. Callahan, LL. B.; T. H. Allen and R. P. Huyck, M. D. The Seniors in the chapter gave a house-party during commencement week, and succeeded according to their wishes.

Special mention is deserved by '96's decennial kneipe held under the management of a committee including Bros. Gould, Goldsmith and Kent, Bro. Gould being chairman.

The appearance of the University Campus is taking on a more collegiate air, as the plan originally provided becomes apparent by additions to the buildings. With the recently erected dormitories is placed Hamilton, the new home of the college, marking the beginning of a purely undergraduate quadrangle. We also have a new chapel completed in June. An imposing effect is given this beautiful structure on the east side of the Library by fine stained glass and a lofty dome. Within its massive wall is one of the narrowest spiral staircases in existence, hardly more than three feet in diameter.

But with all these improvements to the campus, nothing to serve as ground for hope has been reached in the athletic situation. The committees were unable to present a joint report and nothing has been annouced as to where Columbia is to stand in her athletic relations with other colleges. Some fall sport must be found to take football's place. The rule against interclass activity is likely to be strictly enforced this year. To cap it all, there is much hard feeling against the President under the surface.

Though the spring athletic season was about as dull as it could be, several brothers were picked for the various teams. Temple, '06, was on the lacrosse team; Haight, '06, made a record for a green player at goal on the soccer team; Clarke, '07, and Pell, '09, were on the swimming teams, and E. and R. Swartwout, '08, worked with the baseball squad. The former pitched well for the sophomores in the interclass game. Our latest initiate, Bro. Suarez, was a member of the Freshman crew, rowing against the Yale Freshmen and in the Poughkeepsie regatta. We have also had fair success in undergraduate affairs. Bro. Pell was elected assistant swimming manager; Chapin is president of the Debating Union and a member of Spectator managing board; Jacques, '09, is assistant fencing manager; Clarke, '07, is president of the French Society, and R. Swartwout, '08, is on the Glee Club. Of our Freshmen, Bro. von Schrenk made the best scholastic record, standing almost at the head of his class.

This year's rushing, supported by seventeen active men in a new house, ought to be productive of results. The sub-freshman rushing is already helping us. With the steady assistance of the alumni we shall get the ten good men that we need this fall. The chapter is at home to all old brothers every night in the week. Come up, then every man of you, and we will show you in our new house what you have helped us secure, and how much more you can give to us.

AT the time of writing this letter, we all are actively engaged in preparing for the rushing season, and find that we will have to make strenuous efforts in all directions in order to meet with any degree of success.

The active campaign will not open until the 10th of this month and up till that time the most that we here are able to do is write numerous letters endeavoring to find the names of men who are coming. We find that the most serious difficulty with which we have had to contend is the lack of interest shown by the alumni, demonstrated by the few returns received from the slips sent out by the campaign department to the alumni the early part of last June. . .

We all feel that we will miss the class of 1906 in the Fraternity and in the University, for they were undoubtedly one of the strongest classes that we have had for a considerable number of years. But, however, there are still left a sufficient number of good men to prevent the chapter from falling into innocuous desuetude.

He occupied this position for several years until in 1900 the plant was absorbed to form the American Bridge Company, now one of the constituent companies of the United States Steel corporation.

In this company, which is easily the first in the world for bridge and structural engineering, Mr. Edwards commenced as structural engineer, in charge of one of its three main departments, and soon was made assistant chief engineer, a position which he still holds in a staff of about 1,200 members of the engineer corps, selected from the best trained specialists of the best engineering organizations of this country and including brilliant men from all the great engineering colleges. THE past year has seen a very gratifying increase in attendance at DePauw, the total enrollment being about 800. The graduating class consisted of 54 members.

The construction of the new Carnegie Library will be begun this fall.

Commencement was a time of unusual rejoicing in the Delta U. camp, as the active chapter gave a rousing banquet to the alumni at our chapter house during commencement week. We were also proud of the fact that four brothers received the A. B. degree, and the only two D. D's given were conferred upon two of our alumni, Bros. Guild and Dimmitt.

During the coming year Bro. Sallee, '06, will attend Boston University; Bro. Watson, '06, will teach mathematics and physics in the High school at Alton, Ill.; Bro. Renick, '06, is timekeeper with the Sims & Co. Construction Co.; Bro. Earle Smith, '07, is city editor of the Anderson (Ind.) Herald; Bro. Stanley Gibson, '07, will teach at Jacksonville, Ill., and Bro. Penland, '09, will attend the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

During the summer the boys have stayed in close touch with each other, and already have a line on a number of good men who expect to enter this fall.

All are planning to return early to get the chapter house in good shape, and lay plans for an aggressive campaign for new men.

Allen, '07; Massee, '07; White, '08, and Leavenworth, '09, were among the appointees on the McKinney prize speaking contest. Bros. Allen and White took first prizes for their respective classes, and Bro. Leavenworth took second for his class. Bro. Massee, '07, took first prize for an essay on "The Cartoon: Its Mission and Power," Bro. Allen receiving mention on the same.

'58—The Rev. Dr. Albert Erdman, pastor of the South Street Presbyterian Church of Morristown, N. J. resigned June 17, giving as his reason the need for a younger man to carry on the church work. No action on the resignation was taken.

Dr. Erdman has been pastor of the church for thirty-seven years. He is highly esteemed by members of the church, and his desire to retire from active work is deeply regretted. Dr. Erdman is considered one of the ablest ministers in the Morris and Orange Presbytery. For the last few months his health has been poor, and because of this more than anything else, it is said, he wants to give up his ministry.

The South Street Church is one of the oldest and wealthiest churches in Morristown.

'59—The retirement of the general custodian, Lieutenant George K. Kellogg, from the Metropolitan Museum, after twenty-four years of service, will be noted by those who frequently visit there. Appointed in 1882, he then required only two assistants. So great has been the expansion of the valuable contents that nearly one hundred have been needed this year. Of the trustees in office when he began his guardianship, only two are now in active service. The late Louis P. di Cesnola, director for so many years, held Lieutenant Kellogg in the highest esteem. That the priceless objects might be watched over with appropriate care, apartments were constructed for the lieutenant in the building; he thus became almost a part of the Museum itself.

Lieutenant Kellogg is a veteran of the Civil War. Throwing aside a profitable business in 1861 he enlisted as a private, serving in the 3d and 24th Independent batteries, New York Volunteers, for three years; in 1864 he re-enlisted, and was honorably discharged in January, 1865. He was in all the great battles in the East under General Grant, finally witnessing the surrender at Richmond.

Lieutenant Kellogg was born in Oneida county, N. Y., his grandfather being Amos Kellogg, one of the seven New Englanders who founded the village of Clinton in 1787. He is a graduate of Hamilton College, class of '59.

He is under the direction of the White Entertainment Bureau, Boston, Mass.

THE greatest artistic event of the year at Harvard was the presentation in June of the Agamemnon of Aeschylus in the Stadium. The play, which was given under the auspices of the classical department, had been in preparation for more than a year, and, as finally acted, received the highest encomiums of the critics. The stage and costumes were carefully designed from the ancient Greek models, and their gay colors, mingling with the green grass, formed a perfect picture against the gray Stadium and blue sky in the background. Everything was planned to carry out the classical illusion, even to the tauny Norwegian ponies which dragged the gilded chariots. The part of the high-priest was taken by Bro. Briggs, and other Delta U. men in the cast were Bros. Hurlin, Jones, Lord, Knauth, Haring, Eaton and Lyding.

This has certainly been a successful year for the chapter in dramatics, since, besides our own Elizabethan revival, Delta U's have taken part not only in the Greek play, but also in the plays given by the Cercle Francais, the Deutcher Verein, and the Sociedad Espanola. As the Hasty Pudding Club and the Pi Eta kept up their custom of presenting original comic operas, this year has seen all records broken for the production of plays at Harvard.

In 'varsity athletics, the chapter has been less fortunate than in dramatics. Bro. Gring's injury prevented him from repeating his victories of former seasons in the pole-vault, but Bro. Hanley won a place in the shot-put in the dual meet with Yale. The chapter baseball team had a successful season and demonstrated its usefulness as a source of fun. The first game was lost to the Tuft chapter by a score of 6 to 5, but the sting of defeat was forgotten in the pleasure of the dance arranged by our Tufts brothers for the evening. Later the team defeated the Tech chapter by a score of 19 to 12, and the Harvard chapter of Kappa Sigma, 16 to 8.

On the commencement program, Delta U. maintained its customary prominence. Five of the brothers received their degrees magna cum laude, and two, summa cum laude. Honors in special subjects were bestowed upon three of the brothers, and on the day after commencement Bro. Lord was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, making seven brothers in all from 1906 to be elected to that society. During the summer, ten of the fellows are traveling in Europe, but with the opening of college in the fall the chapter will welcome back all but four, who plan to continue their studies abroad. The chapter will have a larger membership than ever before at the beginning of the year, will be absolutely free from debt, and with the large sum already paid into the building fund can afford to take an optimistic view of the future.

ANOTHER year full of prosperity for Delta U. at Lafayette has passed by and in a few weeks we will be hard at it rushing for new men to fill up the gap left by our three departed brothers of 1906.

The college year just finished had been anxiously looked forward to by us because it marked the twenty-first anniversary of the Chapter's birth. Proud of the fact that we were now "of age" we celebrated by making our annual banquet a jolly affair. The feast was held at the Mount Vernon Hotel, and the forty Delta U's in attendance were full of spirit notwithstanding the heavy rain.

The chapter rooms were entirely refurnished last June and now present a very cosy and inviting appearance, which will be a big help in rushing new men.

On June 19 a mural tablet, given by his classmates, was unveiled in Brainerd Hall to the memory of the late Bro. John Rogers Peale, '02.

Delta U. is gradually growing stronger along literary lines, and is now represented on the "Lafayette" board by Bros. Bacon, '07, business manager; Hutchinson, '08, assistant business manager, and Ross, '09, associate editor. On the board of the "Touchstone" we have Bros. Bacon, '07, associate editor; Hutchison, '08, associate editor, and Craig, '08, assistant business manager.

Last spring Bro. Bacon, '07, received half the Bloomsburg prize in modern languages, and Bro. Hutchison, '08, won the Lounsbury prize in Chaucer.

Bros. Moore, '06, and Kinsey, '08, earned their baseball "L" this spring and Bro. Craig, '08, was elected assistant baseball manager.

Bros. Kinsey, '08, and Craig, '08, were elected to "Knights of the Round Table" and Bros. Dodge, '09, and McCaa, '09, made "Calumet."

The commencement exercises last June were greatly marred by heavy rains which continued throughout the entire week. Bro. Reeder, '06, was class prophet at the class-day exercises. Bro. Lerch, '07, performed in the chorus of the Sock and Buskin's Calculus play.

Our track team this year was the strongest ever put out at Lafayette, Delta U. being represented by Bros. Reese, '08, and McCaa, '08. Five records were broken, Bro. Reese breaking the high hurdles. Our captain scored third place in the quarter-mile at the intercollegiate at Harvard.

Lafayette's famous old scholar, Francis A. March, professor of English, has been retired from the faculty as professor "emeritus" after 51 years of faithful service. He is well known as being the prime factor in the spelling reform movement.

Delta Tau Delta, which became extinct at Lafayette in 1894, has reestablished a chapter.

Phi Kappa Psi expects to break ground for the erection of a new frat. house on their lot west of the dormitories.

The Lafayette chapter sends its best wishes to the other chapters.

Munro, '08, and Zollinger, '09, were members of their respective menu committees. Early in May, the Mustard and Cheese Dramatic Association presented their annual effort, a musical comedy, "The Brown and White," which was fully up to the standard of former productions. Bros. Stair, Speirs and Zollinger represented us in the cast. Bro. Stair has been elected president of the organization for the ensuing year.

Our third initiation of the year took place on May 18, when E. M. Spry was taken in, making a total of ten initiates for the year. Some of the alumni were on hand, and we spent an enjoyable evening.

Delta U. upheld its reputation at the elections for class officers, as Bro. Dunn, '07, is athletic representative of his class, and Bros. Spiers, Spry and Kuschke, '09, are respectively president, treasurer and historian of their class.

Our baseball team had a rather disastrous season, as we lost the entire series with our old rival, Lafayette, and a majority of the other contests. Bros. Root, Ahrens and Munro represented us on the squad.

On June 13th the annual commencement exercises were held at the chapel at which Dr. Drinker conferred his first degrees. Ninety-four were awarded in all, Bros. Root, Kendig, Tattershall, Denlinger, Smith, Mendoza and Marshall being among those who received degrees.

We have received recent visits from Bro. Firpo, '98, and Bros. Bricker, Hunter and A. B. Marshall, ex-'07.

Bros. Denlinger, Dunn and Earnshaw attended the banquet tendered to Bros. Jerome and Hughes. They reported a fine time.

WITH the annual banquet on June 13th ended a most successful fraternity and college year at Marietta. Fifty enthusiastic Delta U. men were present to enjoy the delights of renewed fellowship in Delta Upsilon. Bro. R. R. Dawes, '89, acted as toastmaster, and toasts were responded to by several of the visiting alumni. One of the most interesting talks of the evening was given by Rev. Howard Hawks Williams, '44, whose grandson, Bro. H. H. Mitchell, had that day graduated from Marietta. In introducing Bro. Hawks, Bro. Dawes took occasion to remark that only in such an organization as Delta Upsilon will grandfather and grandson be found seated at the same banquet table, and both equally enthusiastic for the best ideals of the fraternity.

On the following day the active chapter went into camp and for two weeks enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent.

The year 1906-1907 will undoubtedly be most successful both for the school and fraternity. We will give up the rooms occupied by the chapter for the last three years, and take rooms better located and more convenient in every way. We have seven men ready for initiation as soon as school starts, and expect to add to this number from the Freshman class which promises to be unusually large owing to the impetus given to the college by the erection of the new buildings. We are unfortunate in losing Bro. Krepo, '09, who has gone into business at Bartlesville, I. T.

The new dormitory will be ready for occupancy when college opens. On October 17 the new Library will be dedicated. This will also be the occasion of a general home-coming and the unveiling on the campus of a tablet which is the second of a series across the continent commemorating the work of the Ohio company.

Mrs. Labaree, widow of the murdered missionary, protested to the American minister to Persia against the exaction by the United States government of an indemnity of $50,000 for the murder of her husband, on the ground that if she accepted this indemnity it would be considered "blood-money" by the people of the district, and thus hurt the cause in which she and Dr. Labarre had labored.

THE one important college event since our last letter has been the graduation of medicine, '06, of which Bro. C. A. Lindsay, B. A., and Bro. Fraser B. Gurd, B. A., were members. Bro. Gurd was successful in attaining honors in the aggregate of all subjects, along with the first Senior Medical Society prize. During the summer months the brethren have been engaged in various ways, some taking full benefit of their vacation in canoe or sail boat, some in the shops or hospitals, and some, fortunately but few, working up their "sups."

The chapter starts its fall campaign under probably the most favorable circumstances of any year in its history. Sixteen men will be on the active roll and two more taking up other work at the University. A couple of men are already pledged and several good men are pretty plainly in view.

At the convocation in medicine Dr. Goddick publicly announced that beginning with the class of '01 the course in medicine would be increased from four to five years.

MICHIGAN.

Active Membership, 15.

THE Michigan chapter in June finished its thirty-first year, and the brothers feel that the record of the past season compares favorably with the records of preceding years. The year '05-'06 began with a great dearth of upperclassmen, but the chapter ranks were increased by the initiation of a strong class of Freshmen. Only three brothers left us during the year, a number smaller than in several previous years. In June we completed the third college year of our life in the new chapter house, and every brother felt himself to have been amply repaid for all his efforts expended in the chapter's behalf upon hearing the gratifying report of the corporation of the Michigan chapter.

We lost six brothers by graduation, while three more will transfer to other colleges, and two will leave college to go into business. We begin this fall with a chapter of fifteen men, all good, strong Delta U's, and as a nucleus for a promising '10 class we have five pledged men.

Bros. Parke, Gradle, Jackson, Hunt, Wilson and Payne took courses in the summer school, and for the first time the chapter house table was kept running during the summer sessions, Bro. Gradle acting as steward.

Every good Michigan man is anxiously awaiting the outcome of the football season. The changed rules and temporary entanglements occasioned by the heated discussions of the game the past year have wrought considerable havoc in the Wolverine camp. The chief changes are a delayed starting of the season and fewer games. But Coach Yost still remains and everyone believes that when November 7 brings on the struggle with Pennsy in Philadelphia Michigan will be represented by the best team allowable under the existing conditions.

We were represented on the track squad by Chandler, '08, and Hall, '05, '07 L. Brother Hull was made Varsity football manager, the most desirable political achievement of the year. Payne, '09, has been elected property man on the Comedy Club, which places him in line for the managership of that organization.

Our social efforts of the spring term were confined to a house party on May 18, 19 and 20, which proved to be one of the most successful functions of the kind ever given by the chapter. In attendance from our alumni were Bros. Alexander and Clark, '04.

Davis, '08, has been made a member of the Toastmasters' Club. Gray, '09, left us in June, having secured an appointment to West Point. Bro Dickey, who left the chapter in February, scored a most successful season on the vaudeville stage, playing at important "stands" from the Middle West to the Coast. This coming season he will appear with Robert Edson in "Strongheart." Bros. Greene, '95; Shaw, '03, and Cutting, '06, spent the summer in European travel.

Chandler and Davis, '08, had the fortune to be in attendance at the commencement festivities of the Harvard chapter.

Parke, '06, will return to resume his work in gas analysis in which he won a scholarship last spring. Gratle, '06, '08 Med., will pursue his medical studies at Northwestern the coming year. Frothingham took his forestry degree in June, and has entered the government forestry service.

The Michigan chapter was represented at the Western District convention, held with the Northwestern chapter in June, by Weeks, '07, who reported the business sessions as very successful. He brought back a number of new and helpful ideas.

Bro. Bacon, '99, paid the chapter a most welcome visit toward the close of the year.

"Certainly any teacher who can describe an economic situation and discuss its possibilities with the clearness and sagacity shown in the author's address on 'Education and Commerce: The Far East,' is a valuable man in any university in any country. It is a model as to matter and manner, and the careful study of it would 'shake out' many a pleasant and dangerous delusion prevailing among 'business men' and statesmen."

'81—Geo. N. Carman has had the degree of M. A. conferred upon him by the University of Michigan.

Wells was a Delta Upsilon.

MIDDLEBURY.

THE spring term of 1906 has passed and another year of college is about to open at "Midd" and with it Middlebury will become the center of Delta Upsilon when she celebrates most fittingly her 50th anniversay as a chapter with the 72nd convention.

The spring term at Middlebury was a successful one for Delta U. As a chapter we were not lacking in social spirit, yet perhaps the most engrossing business before us was the coming convention and our energies were bent toward making it a success. We wish everyone who visits us next month to feel that he is heartily welcome and that he may go away with pleasant memories of our Alma Mater. Let everyone come and endeavor to make the 72nd the high water mark in the tide of fraternity conventions.

The value of literary exercises in the fraternities to give poise and confidence to the man was well set forth by the results of prize speaking this year. Delta Upsilon forged to the front, Bro. Ricker, '09, taking first Parker prize against four competitors and Bro. Richmond, '08, and Bro. Holmes, '08, taking first and second respectively in the Merrit contest. Delta Upsilon won $65 as against $45 for D. K. E., and the rest of the field was distanced.

Holmes, '08, was captain of the nine and Coleman, '09, was considered one of the best players on the team.

The Glee club had a successful season under the management of Peach, '09. Haseltine, '07, and Barnum, '07, were also members, and Holmes, '08, sang with the club until baseball work took him off.

Commencement week came with its gaieties and Delta Upsilon celebrated as usual. The annual frat. ride took us 40 strong to the quaint old city of Vergennes where we took a steamer down the Otter and crossed Lake Champlain to Westport for dinner and spent the evening dancing or rowing in the bay.

Class Day saw us well represented, Bro. Ricker, '06, giving the President's address of welcome, Bird, the Oration and Cushman the "Will" and Presentation. Bros. Bird, Hooker and Ricker represented us with orations on Commencement Day, Hooker being elected to the Phi Beta Kappa, Graduation took five from our active membership, leaving twenty men for the opening of the fall term.

On Monday evening, June 20th, at the frat. rooms the Delta Upsilon Club of Vermont and the Middlebury Delta Upsilon Association had its beginning. Bro. Partridge, Amherst, '82, was chosen president of the club and Botsford, Middlebury, '00, secretary and treasurer. Of the association Bro. E. B. Clift '90, was chosen president and Eddy, '04, secretary and treasurer. The aim of the latter organization was especially to further the closeness of relations existing between the chapter and its alumni and to aid in arousing interest in the coming convention.

We have pledged three good men in 1910: Harold Hughes, Harold Leach and Clarence Eddy.

MINNESOTA.

AS college does not open at Minnesota until near the last of September the early date at which this letter has to be written found little activity around the campus. With the opening nearly a month away things seem rather dull except in the chapter house itself where there is considerable bustle just at present owing to the fact that we are to move this fall. The house we have rented for the past eight years has been sold to the local chapter of Sigma Nu. We were offered the house at the same price but declined and are now negotiating for a much better and more satisfactory house and hope to be permanently located in a house of our own by the time this Quarterly is issued.

Since the last chapter letter was written five of our brothers have graduated. Elmer Adams and Fred Weisner were graduated from the engineering department and are now working on construction work for the Great Northern. Claude Haney is a doctor at Duluth and Herbert Charles has swung his lawyer's shingle in St. Paul. Harvey Barnett is practicing dentistry in St. Paul.

While these brothers were busy graduating they remembered to keep Delta U. in the front rank. Adams played the part of the hero in the senior class play and Weisner was in one of the specialties. None of our brothers made the track team during the spring but we enjoyed visits from two of the Wisconsin brothers and two of the Chicago brothers when they were in the city with their respective track teams.

While the Chicago team was here Coach Stagg of Chicago, and Dr. H. L. Williams, Minnesota's coach, drew up an important agreement for football which has been approved by the faculties of the two schools and will allow the teams to play this fall. The last game between Minnesota and Chicago on the gridiron was in 1900 when the result was a tie at 6 to 6. We expect the new arrangement with Chicago to be especially good but are sorry to lose Wisconsin from our schedule.

Bro. Percy Brush, who has played right tackle on the Gopher team for the past two years will be in college this year but will be unable to play on account of the new conference rule prohibiting men with degrees from playing. Brush graduated from Macalaster college before entering the Minnesota law school and for that reason is forced out of the game. Bro. George Weisel, who played quarter back on the team last year, is not in college and unless some of our younger men develop we will not have a man on the first team although several will be on the squad.

The fall rushing has not commenced here but we have four high school men pledged who will enter college this fall. They are, Hugh Pye and Raleigh Parker, of Minneapolis, Arthur Mallory, of St. Paul, and Ward Stanley, of South Dakota.

THE past year was one of the most helpful and profitable our chapter has yet had. And, although we lost seven members by graduation, enough of the older men are coming back to insure another equally prosperous year.

All of our seven seniors last year distinguished themselves in their respective lines of work. Bros. Hershey and Day were elected to Sigma Xi honors. Bro. Day is now with the Tri-State Land Company, Scotts Bluff, Nebraska, in charge of ten miles of construction of their new irrigation ditch. At present there are four Delta U's with this company. Bro. Hershey is in contracting work on the Kearney Military Academy, Kearney, Nebraska. Bos. Hagensick is in the Electric Department of the Union Pacific Railroad, at Omaha. Bro. Davis and Lundin, Lead, South Dakota, finished their law courses with high honors, and expect to enter into partnership for the practice of law. Bros. Anderson and Tunison will be with us again this year, as they return to pursue their law studies.

In the management of athletics Nebraska has taken a decided step in advance. Coach Amos P. Foster, an athletic star and Phi Beta Kappa man of Dartmouth, has been elected Department Manager of Athletics. He will have charge of all branches of athletics, and serve as a regular member of the faculty. A Graduate Manager of Athletics has also been elected.

On the track team last season Delta Upsilon was well represented, and our contestants were very successful in all the events they entered. At the Annual Field Day Meet Bro. Hagensick, '06, won first in the pole vault, and Bro. Winters, '09, won first in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, and the broad jump. Bro. Moser, '07, won second in the discus throw. In the Kansas-Nebraska track meet, which was held the latter part of the season, we defeated Kansas by the score of 76 to 41. Bro. Hagensick won the pole vault, going 11 feet, 5¾ inches.

In basket ball this season we will be well represented. Bro. Moser, '07, who has played center on the Varsity team for the past two seasons, has been elected Captain of the team. Bro. Winters, '09, made the first team last season. Bro. Hagensick, '09, plays on the second team.

For a class play last year, the seniors selected "The Prisoner of Zenda," and presented it at the Oliver Theatre. Bro. Davis played the leading role, and exhibited great ability.

Bro. Lundin, '06, was our delegate to the Chicago District Convention, and reported a very profitable and pleasant meeting.

In the military department, Bro. Burr, '08, was apointed First Lieutenant of Company A, and Bro. Stephens, '08, received his appointment as First Sergeant of Company A.

Bro. Brookings, Law, '08, was elected to membership in Phi Delta Phi.

During the early part of the Summer we had a very enjoyable visit from Bro. Kenagy, '01, who has been in the Philippines for several years. Bro. Keays, Harvard, '07, who was making quite an extended western tour, paid us a short but pleasant visit between trains.

NEW YORK.

STANDING as we do upon the threshold of another collegiate term, the New York chapter feels assured of a prosperous and beneficial year. We graduated eight men in June. A strong nucleus still remains, however, and much ought to be accomplished by them.

There is one point we try to keep in mind: Concentration upon the work at hand. It is well to keep watch upon the new men and while they are freshmen to instil in them the principles of the fraternity.

Chamberlain, '07, as president of the Y. M. C. A., will endeavor to extend this branch of the College work. Football will be looked after by Captain John R. VanHorne, '07. Captain Thompson, '08, of the Gymnastic team will return to College. It is hoped that he may be able to duplicate last season's success and win another Intercollegiate Championship for New York University. Van Horne, '07, will manage the Musical Clubs, with Hill, '07, as Musical Director.

The Class of 1909, recognizing the ability of Bro. Macdonald, their freshman president, re-elected him as sophomore president.

We are well represented in the other College activities. The chapter sends greetings to the other chapters.

THE commencement of last June took from our ranks only one, Bro. Thomas Scott, who played an important part in the class-day exercises as "Presenter of the Gift" to the University. The gift of the class of '06 consists of a large stone and iron gateway to the campus. It is a gateway placed at the Emerson street entrance to the campus. It is a work of art, and adds wonderfully to the appearance of this entrance, which is now fully as beautiful as the one beside our "Old Oak."

During the past year Northwestern has had but a temporary president, the chair having been filled by Dean Holgate. The University has been exceedingly fortunate in securing the services of Dr. Abram W. Harris as its executive. President Harris came to Northwestern from the Jacob Tome Institute, and was installed during commencement week. Our Delta U. brothers will be glad to learn that Abram W. Harris, Jr., has been pledged by our chapter.

On June 1st a district convention of the central chapters was held with us. Representatives from eight chapters were present, as follows: Chicago, Ohio State, DePauw, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois, Nebraska and Michigan. After the afternoon session the delegates proceeded to the Chicago chapter house, where dinner was served. After dinner the delegates were entertained at a production of "Trelawney of the Wells," presented by the Chicago Dramatic Club.

During commencement week a great many of our alumni were in Evanston. The reunion was most enjoyably celebrated by a banquet at the Avenue House.

As far as we are able to know at present, all the brothers will return to college this fall. The chapter house has been renovated and redecorated, and everything will be in the best of shape before school opens.

Remember that Evanston is only twelve miles out of Chicago, and that we are glad to have you call whenever you can.

REGISTRATION Day has not yet called us all together, but we are now all waiting for the time to pass so we can again be back at work. By means of chain letters passing from one on to the next and of circular letters sent out from the house, we have kept in close touch with each other during the summer. We have never tried this idea before, but from its success we advise all to try it. The chain letters have become real "joke books," and the circular letters small newspapers filled with gossip and "business."

College and class enthusiasm at Ohio State is becoming more and more evident, as shown by the remarkable successes of the Carnival, and of a new attempt during commencement week—a class play or burlesque on recent college events, which was well received. Another innovation was the plan for a set of chimes to be located on the campus. The four classes have pledged themselves to carry the plan to completion. The funds will be kept at interest until the amount reaches four thousand dollars. The classes are very enthuiastic over this.

At first the Ohio State chapter will be weakened by the loss of so many active men. Eight of the chapter became alumni last spring, but we are glad that at least three will be back with us. Bro. Croy will take graduate work in mechanical engineering; Bro. Banker will continue the study of law, and Bro. Brooks will be fellow in the department of chemistry.

Bro. Simon has been made an assistant, and has been given several important classes in mining engineering.

We regret very much that Bro. Durr will not return owing to his intention of taking his degree from Purdue University.

Delta U. was represented during the commencement week exercises by Bro. Zeller as chairman of the Cap and Gown, and Bro. Brooks as chairman of the Social Committees.

At the annual election of Sigma Xi Bros. Brooks and Zeller were chosen.

We have not been backward in the spring athletics. Bro. Felger, playing his usual game at third, was captain of the team. Bro. Barrington did good work, especially at bat. It was a successful season considering the fact that but three old men were on the team.

Bros. Schory and Perry competed against each other in the hammer-throw. Ohio State is quite proud of this year's track team, last year's team being our first attempt at coached track work. Again we are not only champions of Ohio, but having beaten Purdue, gives us good Western standing.

Sixty-eight attended our annual rustic dance and picnic on June 2. This is probably our most enjoyed annual event, and we look forward to it with much anticipation, some of the boys "anticipating" six months ahead of time.

During the summer those remaining in town have had the pleasure of visits from the brothers from other chapters, among whom are just recently Bro. Welling, of Chicago, and Brother-to-be Shattuck of Colgate.

PENNSYLVANIA

Active Membership, 16.

BEFORE the publication of this letter the Pennsylvania chapter will have been installed in a new residence, which will undoubtedly be a great improvement over that which we have occupied for the past three years. It is our hope, however, that we shall not have to rent a house much longer, as a plan is now under way for the building of a house of our own. The movement is headed by Bro. William O. Miller, '04, the editor of the new Delta Upsilon song book, who will bring it to a successful issue, if anybody can.

Bro. Miller has recently been appointed Bursar of the University, thereby adding to our representation among the officers and faculty. The latter have been showing great interest in the chapter, and we are anticipating great assistance from them during the coming year.

We shall start out very much depleted in numbers. Six men graduated last June, while several others left college. But what we lack in quantity we hope to make up in strength, and with two men already pledged and several others in prospect, we are looking forward to a successful year.

Bro. Ivy, '05, who has been spending the last two years in China, will return for his final year. Bro. Bogardus, '05, will return for a post-graduate course. Bogardus rowed bow on the 1906 'Varsity eight, which made the best showing of any Pennsylvania crew since the famous Henley trip. With six of the eight men back, Pennsylvania is expecting a championship crew in 1907. Galey, '06, rowed bow on the 'Varsity four, and Atkin, '07, would have stroked the same boat had he not been compelled to withdraw on the eve of the race on account of the death of his father.

Bro. Ambler has had a successful year as captain of the track team, though he was greatly handicapped in his hurdling by a strained tendon.

Abrams, '07, was a member of the lacrosse team.

Bary, '06, has concluded his term as business manager of the "Red and Blue," and is succeeded on the board by Abrams, who was elected editor-in-chief. S. Martin, '08, and Abrams are on the staff of the "Pennsylvanian."

Atkin, '07, received the highest number of votes cast for a member of the Executive Committee of next year's Senior class.

Abrams won the George Allen Memorial Junior Latin prize, and has been elected editor-in-chief of the "Record," which is published by each graduating class.

Bro. Bennis, '08, will resume his position at halfback when the football team starts practice, and will be depended upon to gain most of the ground this season. Bro. Johnston, '08, is the probable successor of Stevenson at quarterback.

The Pennsylvania chapter wishes each chapter the most successful of rushing seasons.

THE beginning of the coming college year has been an auspicious one, not only for the chapter, but also for the college. Our new Eastman building has been opened and Anderson Hall has been greatly altered by means of enlarged recitation rooms and new stairways. We take pride in noting that the zeal of President Rhees in increasing the opportunities offered in the college curriculum has been effective, for the Freshman class this year is one of the largest in the history of the college.

Through graduation in June eight brothers have been removed from our midst, and we feel justly proud of the honors bestowed upon Delta Upsilon through their efforts during commencement week. Bro. Rathjen admirably performed the duties of master of ceremonies, and Bro. Wilson delivered the oration. In the Alling Prize Debate, which the Seniors won, Bro. Wilson competed while Bro. Napier, '07, was Junior Alternate. Delta U. was also represented among the commencement speakers by Bro. Brink.

On June 1, our usual spring party was held, and as a result of the untiring efforts of Bro. Rathjen, everyone had a most enjoyable time. The annual alumni reunion took place June 18, and once more we took pleasure in welcoming our beloved alumni into the chapter parlors. Following the custom instituted two years ago, the active chapter held its third annual midsummer reunion at the chapter house August 11. A goodly number were present, and after talking over matters of mutual interest a trip was made to the lake.

During the summer, Bro. Briggs, '90, and his wife, have been residing in the house. We regret that Bro. Munger, '08, is not with us again. He has has accepted a position with the Genesee Fruit Co., of Holley, N. Y. Shortly after college closed in June we were all deeply grieved to hear of the death of Bro. White, '07, whose obituary occurs elsewhere in this issue.

At the present writing, all the brothers are busily engaged in rushing, and preparations are already under way for the initiation banquet, which will be held, as usual, in the latter part of October.

RUTGERS

Active Membership, 13.

THE year promises to be one of prosperity for college and the chapter. Dr. Demarest, Rutgers' new president, has made a number of improvements in the college buildings. By a very generous gift, the campus has been tripled. Last commencement week, in June, was a time of great interest to Rutgers men, for in it occurred the inauguration of Dr. Demarest.

In the events of inauguration and commencement, Delta U. was well represented. Bro. Foster M. Voorhees, '76, ex-governor of New Jersey, spoke on behalf of the Alumni at the inauguration ceremony, and Bro. Raymond B. Johnson, '06, spoke on behalf of the undergraduates. A large number of our alumni were on hand.

At the commencement day exercises Bros. Bevier, Fales, J. Lain and Devan spoke. Bro. Bevier received second classical honor and rhetorical honor. Bro. Devan received second scientific honor. Bros. Bevier, Devan and Fales were elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

At the class day exercises, Bro. Kain was orator, Bro. Johnson was poet, and Bro. Vevier delivered the address to the undergraduates.

College has not yet opened at the time of writing, but we have three men pledged already, and look forward to a successful season.

STANFORD.

Active Membership, 14.

AT the outset we wish to remark that Stanford University in general and the Delta Upsilon house at Stanford in particular, are with apologies for the expression, "still in the ring." The damage to the house was, as was stated in the last QUARTERLY, comparatively slight, and the injury to the university has proved to be much less than was at first imagined. The buildings which were totally destroyed were not essential to the working efficiency of the university, and the work of repairing the quadrangle and the dormitory buildings, although delayed somewhat by strikes of the workingmen, is now almost completed.

The Stanford chapter wishes to thank all those who at the time of the great calamity sent us letters of sympathy, which were not answered at the time because of the confusion and rapid exodus which followed the earthquake.

As far as can be ascertained the number of Freshmen this year is as large as if not larger than it was last year and nearly all of the old students appear to have returned. Rushing season is now at its height, and although fraternity material does not seem to be as plentiful as it was last year, the class of men appears to be of a high order. Delta Upsilon hopes and expects to secure from the entering class such men as will do her credit.

Of the men who were in the house last year, twelve have returned already, and Bros. Edwards and Ray are expected within the next few days. We lost Bros. Jordan, Lane and Lachmund by graduation; Bro. Hornby, '07, is traveling in Europe and will return at Christmas, and Bro. Perkins, '08, also will return after the holidays.

It seems to be an assured fact that Rugby football will be played this fall both at Stanford and California, and the student body here has begun to submit itself to the inevitable with but indifferent grace. Coach Lanagan has been making a study of the English game this summer, and probably will issue the call for candidates within the next two weeks. Slusher, '07, who played fullback on the 'Varsity team last year, and Owen and Stolz, '09, will respond to the call. Nothing is known as yet as to what will be done about the final baseball game and the track meet with California, which were cancelled last year on account of the earthquake, but the indications are that these events will remain undecided until the end of time. We were well represented on the baseball team last year by Dudley, '06, right field; Owen, '09, center field, and Daily, '07, change catcher. In the ill-fated track meet we were to have been represented by Severy, '08, in the half; Owen, '09, in the hammer, and Stolz, '09, in the broad and high jumps.

The presentation of "Two Gentlemen of Verona," which was to have occurred April 20, under the auspices of "Sword and Sandals," the dramatic society, will probably take place some time during the coming semester. Bros. Ray, '07; Kellogg, '07, and Walker, '08, were included in the cast, and Bro. Edwards, '06, had charge of the management and coaching of the show.

The Stanford chapter expresses the hope that the coming year will be one full of achievement and progress for Delta Upsilon, wherever it may be.

SWARTHMORE.

Active Membership, 10.

THE approaching year presents prospects of much activity in the Swarthmore chapter, activity in the way of securing new men and in all of the many interests of the college. We feel especially the necessity of increased effort at this time for two reasons. In the first place, Delta Upsilon has a certain distinct prestige here, the maintenance of which we feel to be a responsibility, and secondly, we cannot but notice keenly the loss of our nine Seniors of last year, whose graduation leaves quite a vacancy in our numbers. We are glad to think, however, that they will add to our body of loyal alumni, which has always been the pride of the chapter.

The commencement season was a gala time for all of us. Bro. William Cooper Walker, president of the graduating class, fulfilled the duties of his position with much ease and ability, and his address to his classmates will long be remembered for its dignity and eloquence. Bro. Perkins, last year's chapter president also distinguished himself by carrying off the highest honor awarded by the Faculty, consisting of a gold medal, which is given annually to the best "all 'round" graduate. This is the third time out of a total of four awards that Delta Upsilon men have received this prize, Bro. Louis N. Robinson having captured it in 1905, and Bro. Elliot Richardson in 1903. It was also announced at this time that the Joshua Lippincott Fellowship had been awarded to Bro. Robinson, who will use it in further study for his doctor's degree in political economy among the German universities.

The summer has passed with much communication among the brothers, our system of having a chain letter go the rounds being very useful in keeping us in touch with each other and with news of Freshmen.

We will be represented this year with two of the four principal captaincies of the athletic teams of the college. Bro. Newlin T. Booth, '07, as a result of brilliant playing in the final game of the season, was elected captain of the lacrosse team by acclamation, and Bro. George Henrie, '07, was re-elected captain of the track team. Bro. Heed, '07, was a popular candidate for the basket ball captaincy, but was defeated at the election by the narrow margin of one vote.

As far as the internal organization of the chapter is concerned, Bro. Francis D'Olier, '07, will lead us this year as president. He has been a most popular man throughout his course, was president of the Junior class last year, and is well fitted for the position at the head of one of Delta U's chapters. Bros. Heed and Booth will represent us as delegates to the convention.

We are all glad to be able to announce that Bro. John S. Clement, '07, who left college a year and a half ago to take a position with a banking firm, will return to us this fall to complete his course.

Present indications are that the entering class at Syracuse this year will be larger than ever before. The new buildings on the campus, including a hall of natural history and a Carnegie library, which are now nearing completion, are planned to give ample accomodations for the increased enrolment.

During the past year the percentage of fraternity men at Syracuse has increased considerably. Among the national fraternities which have installed chapters are Alpha Chi Rho and Sigma Nu. Several local organizations have also been formed.

This summer about two hundred dollars has been spent in papering and redecorating our chapter house.

At the races on the Hudson last spring, our chapter was represented by Cummings, '07, who rowed in the 'varsity four, and Butz, '08, substitute on the 'varsity eight.

Just before college closed in the spring, Delta Upsilon won the deciding game of the Interfraternity Baseball League, thus winning the Interfraternity Baseball trophy donated by Dr. Holzwarth of the faculty.

Through the summer months four members of our last year's chapter—Stacey, '06; Wells, '06; Hopkins, '08, and Moore, '09, made an extensive bicycle tour of the British Isles and the Continent, which has been the cause of considerable comment in foreign as well as local papers.

At the present time football is the one topic for discussion among Syracuse students. The material for a strong team is at hand, and all are confident that it will be well developed under the supervision of Coaches Turner and O'Neil. The practical application of the new rules will be watched with keen interest.

The Syracuse chapter extends a cordial invitation to the alumni and to the brothers from other chapters to visit the chapter house during the year.

TECHNOLOGY.

Active Membership, 15.

TECHNOLOGY opens the year in suspense pending the settlement of two questions of vital importance to the Institute. Dr. Henry Smith Pritchett, who resigned the presidency during the past year, to take charge of the Carnegie Foundation, still remains at the head of the Institute, as his successor has not yet been chosen by the corporation. The five years of President Pritchett's administration have been most prosperous. Under his leadership the high standard of scholarship has been rigidly maintained, and the unparalleled facilities for the advancement of science greatly developed. But it is his constant efforts to promote social intercourse between the students and his solicitude for their general welfare, which make the loss in their eyes well-nigh irreparable, and the announcement of the choice of a new president is looked forward to anxiously.

The corporation has appointed a committee to investigate the problem of expansion with special reference to the purchase of land near the present site for the erection of buildings to supplement the present structure, or in some suburban district, anticipating an ultimate removal of the Institute from the heart of Boston. This means that the construction of the new Walker Memorial Gymnasium will be held in abeyance until the question is settled.

A new window has been placed in the general library in Rogers building in memory of Frederic Field Bullard, composer of the "Stein Song," presented to the Institute by his classmates of 1887, last commencement day. A hygienic drinking fountain in the corridor of the same building, the gift of the class of 1906, was also unveiled upon that occasion.

In the graduation last June of Bros. Seyms, Tompkins, Stewart, Winne and J. R. Williams, who received the degree of B. S., the chapter loses four members, Bro. Stewart having returned for post-graduate work. Bro. Tower, a graduate student, received the degree of S. M. Bro. E. T. Williams, '07, who last term was in the West engaged in professional work, is back again to complete his course. Bro. Tompkins, '06, is now vice-president of the William B. Hough Co., Inc., concrete construction engineers of Chicago, the president of which is Bro. W. B. Hough, Technology, '00.

The chapter opens the year with an active membership of fifteen. Bro. Brooks, '08, is assistant manager of "Technique, 1908," the annual published by the Junior class. Bro. Donnewald, '07, and Bro. Mitchell, '09, are on the editorial board of "The Tech," the college newspaper. Bro. Donnewald is a member of Osiris, the Senior honorary society. Bros Bingham, '07; Barnes, '08, and Clark, '08, are members of Hammer and Tongs, an upper classmen's club, and Bros. Sherman, Foss and Mitchell, '09, are members of the Round Table, an underclassmen's organization.

On returning this fall we found our neighbors, Chi Phi, had moved from their house directly opposite ours, to another on the Fenway. A local society, Alpha Epsilon, has taken the house beside ours.

Altogether, we have every reason to expect a successful year all around, and convey our best wishes for prosperity to all our brother chapters.

THIS letter coming so soon after the annual examinations—the most trying ordeal of the Canadian student—must be mainly a record of academic achievement. I may be pardoned, if I say that our chapter has maintained its record. The members of Delta Upsilon in the graduating class, though few numerically, have, in point of quality, in no respect proved inferior to their predecessors. R. W. Hart graduated at the head of the list in classics, and captured the McCaul gold medal, given to the head man. He intends now to take a course of post-graduate study at Chicago University. H. D. Scully, our retiring president, headed the list in political science, and captured the P. W. Ellis gold medal and the Mackenzie fellowship in that course. T. R. Loudon obtains his B. A. S. with honors, and has been appointed demonstrator in the Faculty of Applied Science. Thus, Delta U. has given two more members to the Faculty of the University. W. H. Tytler was second in the natural science list. In the undergraduate courses Delta Upsilon captured five class honors and one scholarship.

In the field of athletics, R. C. Reade, our recently elected Rhodes scholar, and W. H. Tytler, have been winning laurels for the chapter in cricket. P. L. Fraser and G. V. Graham accompanied the lacrosse team, of which Bro. Graham is captain, on its tour through the Eastern States. In the recent meet at the English Henley, T. R. Loudon was coxswain of the Argonaut eight, which competed, though unsuccessfully, for the Grand Challenge Cup.

The chapter can look forward with courage and confidence to the incoming year. Even if 'Varsity cannot hope to repeat her successes of last year on the football field, there is at least the hope of a team efficient enough to hold the intercollegiate championship. Plans and preparations for "rushing" are, as usual, being made. We are still handicapped by the lack of a chapter house of our own, but that is a goal we hope speedily to attain.

TUFTS.

Active Membership, 18.

AS this letter is written about a month before the opening of college, it is rather difficult to make predictions in regard to the future. The chapter will consist of eighteen old men, if all return to college.

It seems to be the general opinion of the undergraduates that Tufts will be well represented on the gridiron this fall. The absence of Bro. Hall at tackle and Bro. Smith at fullback will be felt keenly, but with seven of the old men, who are expected back, and a good supply of last year's subs and new material to fill the vacancies, the prospect seems bright. Coach Whalen will again have charge of the squad. Bros. Lewis, '07, and Sheehy, '09, are likely to make regular positions on the team.

Delta Upsilon took a prominent part in the commencement week activities. Bro. Lamb was marshal of the Senior class, and Bro. Hanscom class day historian. Moore, '04, divinity, '06, was the representative of the divinity platform. Hanscom, '06, also took a leading part in "The Pleasant Comedy of Old Fortunatus," an Elizabethan play presented by the English department.

On last season's baseball team Lamb, '06, played a reliable game at second base. He played on the team four years, being captain in his Junior year. The chapter organized a team last spring for the first time in several years. We won a game played against the Harvard chapter and one against the local chapter of Alpha Tau Omega, to whom we also lost a game.

In the spring elections of the Athletic Association we fared better than usual. Bro. Derry, '07, was elected baseball manager for the coming year and Armstrong '08, first assistant baseball manager. Brother Clark is President of the Publishing Association, Bro. Bean is President of the Capen Debating Society.

The past year saw the erection of one more building on College Hill, the new library, a gift of Andrew Carnegie, which will probably be ready for occupancy this fall.

This year we return to our dining room at the house, which is undergoing extensive repairs, and will be greatly improved by the time college opens.

Bros. Derry and Lewis made Tower Cross, the Senior honorary society. Bros. Lamb and Sheehy made the Sword and Shield, the Sophomore society.

The chapter will feel the loss of Bro. Hayden, '03, who is traveling abroad this year. Since his graduation he has lived at the college, and has been of great assistance to the chapter.

UNION.

Active Membership, 10.

THE 110th commencement of Old Union found the college entering upon a new era of prosperity. The Alumni dinner was held in the new electrical laboratory and was largely attended by the old grads. Among those who responded for their classes were Bro. Homer Green, '76, and Bro. Minkin, '01. The report of the college treasurer, Mr. Bailey, was very gratifying, showing that the college is on a strong financial basis. President Raymond reported that the fund to endow the new engineering laboratory given by Mr. Carnegie was nearly raised and that by the next commencement the laboratory would be an assured fact.

After the Alumni dinner the Board of Trustees of the chapter met at the chapter house and elected officers for the ensuing year.

There was also held an alumni meeting. Among those who attended this meeting were Bros. Buchanan, '73; Oppenheim, '75; Landreth, '76; Comstock, '76; Green, '76; White, '79; Furbeck, '87; Landon, '80; Orr, '92; Mallery, '96; Minkin, '01; Argersinger, '01; A. J. Braman, '95; Hunt, '03; Pearce, '03; Roy, '03, and Holmes, '05.

The alumni took occasion to congratulate the chapter upon their new quarters, and gave assurances that a new house was in sight.

As usual, Delta U. had its share of commencement honors. Bro. Reed, '06, was one of the commencement speakers, and won the Blatchford oratorical prize. Bro. Reed also made Phi Beta Kappa. Bro. Derby was elected into Sigma Xi. Bros. Putnam and Reed were elected into the Terrace Council, the Senior honorary society. Bro. Holleran was chairman of the invitation committee. Bro. Reed was class poet; he also composed the words and music of the class song. Under the management of Bro. Parsons, '07, and leadership of Bro. Reed, '06, the musical clubs gave a very successful commencement concert. Bro. Putnam was given special honors in history, and Bro. Reed in biology. Bro. Weyrauch, '08, was one of the extemporaneous prize debaters.

Bros. Reed and Putnam were on the team which represented Union in the debate with Rutgers. Bros. Closson, '06; Reed, '06; Weyrauch, '08; Roosa, '09, and Streibert, '09, were members of the track team. Bro. Closson broke the college hammer-throw record and Bro. Streibert the broad jump in the meet with Rochester. Bro. Reed, '06; Fuller, '06; Snow, '08, and Davies, '08, were members of the musical clubs.

We have been glad to welcome visitors from Middlebury, Rochester, Rutgers, New York and Nebraska during the spring term at the house. Never before has there been such competition for good fraternity men as now. Sigma Phi has moved in its new house during the past year. Psi U. has remodelled its house and Beta Theta Pi is about to begin a new house. Union may well be proud of the way in which she has maintained her reputation as the mother of the Greek Letter Fraternities.

ANOTHER commencement day has again visited us, and Bros. Nomer, Barlow and McGown have now gone out from our chapter. Bro. Nomer, '06, distinguished himself by capturing a prize at commencement, and by several noteworthy speeches, especially that at the Williams Alumni banquet.

Bro. Conover, '07, came in for a second prize at the Moonlight Orations.

Our Delta U. alumni banquet was a great success, about thirty-five being present to partake of the good things offered in the way of choice speeches and viands. An alumni association was organized, of which Judge Hazeltine, '56, was elected president.

The college baseball team enjoyed a highly successful season, and can well be reckoned among the best that has ever represented the Purple. Starting with a team containing but three veteran players, Coach Dowd developed a winning combination which won well-earned victories over Yale, Harvard, Syracuse, Dartmouth, Amherest, Wesleyan and others. The sixteen-inning victory over Dartmouth on Weston Field is one not soon to be forgotten.

The track team exceeded expectations by winning its dual meets with Wesleyan and M. I. T.

Prospects for the coming college year are unusually bright for our chapter, and with Bro. Pease, '07, as our new president, we look forward to another successful year.

Active Membership, 22.

THE opening of the 'Varsity this fall sees Delta U. in a new home. After several years of pleasant anticipation and a great deal of hard work on the part of the alumni and active members the chapter has at last a house of its own. Fronting on Lake Mendota and occupying a position that makes it even more prominent than the university gymnasium when viewed from Picnic Point, a mile and a quarter distant, this new home is one of which Delta U. may well be proud. With the growing tendency of the fraternities to own their own chapter houses several fine structures have been erected in the Greek quarter of Madison recently, but we can say with pardonable pride that our home surpasses them all.

For many years our loyal alumni have tried to hasten the acquisition of this permanent home, and we hope that they will be rewarded when they all come back this fall for the banquet and house-warming, and realize that their efforts have not been in vain.

It is earnestly hoped that this first banquet in the new house will be a record-breaker in enthusiasm and attendance of the "old boys." The occasion certainly warrants it.

With so many of the old men back, with several promising pledgings acquired during the past year, with the new men that the coming rushing season will bring us, and with a new home that cannot be surpassed, surely never has there been a fall when our prospects looked brighter.

We wish all the chapters as prosperous a year as we anticipate.

CONVENTION OF DISTRICT IV.

The first district convention of the middle-western chapters of Delta Upsilon was held at Evanston, Ill., June 1. The chapters were represented by delegates as follows: Michigan — Weeks; Wisconsin — Parker, Blotz; Northwestern—Scott, Smoot; Minnesota—Copelin; Adelbert — DeVenne; DePauw — Sallee, Hershey; Nebraska—Lundin; Chicago—Moulds, Judson; Ohio State—Critchfield; Illinois—Hall, Kirley. Marietta was the only chapter not represented.

The delegates met at the Northwestern Chapter House at 11 A. M. and the following program as arranged by the officers of the district, Brother Frank W. Leavitt, Minnesota, '92, president, and Brother John F. Moulds, Chicago, '07, secretary, was carried out:

11:00 A. M. Convention opened.
Election of convention officers.
Address of welcome — Brother Scott, Northwestern.
Response to address of welcome—Brother Critchfield, Ohio State.

12-2 P. M. Delegates entertained at luncheon by Northwestern Chapter.

2:00 P. M. Convention reassembled.
Papers, followed by general discussion, on "What the Chapter Should Accomplish,"—Brother Lundin, Nebraska.
"Business Methods in the Chapter,"—Brother Parker, Wisconsin.
"Rushing," — Brother Weeks, Michigan.
Miscellaneous business.

Brother Hershey, of DePauw, was elected president, and Brother Hall, of Illinois, secretary of the convention.

The papers at the afternoon session on subjects of practical interest to every chapter were each followed by a lively discussion and comparison of the plans and policies of each chapter. Not only were the papers carefully prepared and full of timely suggestions, but the discussions which followed gave each delegate many new ideas to carry back with him to his chapter.

In the evening the delegates were entertained at dinner by the Chicago Chapter, at the Chapter House, after which they were taken to see the annual performance of the University of Chicago Dramatic Club.

As the Western Intercollegiate Conference meet was held at Evanston the following day, many of the delegates remained for it and were entertained at the Northwestern and Chicago chapter houses.

Although this first convention was largely an experiment, it proved beyond a doubt the need of such gatherings. More intimate acquaintance and closer comparison of ideas were possible than at the National convention. The unanimous expression of the delegates was that the district convention should be made a permanent annual meeting.

An invitation was extended by the Ohio State Chapter, and accepted by the delegates assembled to hold next year's convention at Columbus, Ohio.
